HAD LIFE JACKETS

They travelled in a 14-foot RCMP-owned boat, powered by a 30 horsepower motor and equipped with orthodox life jackets. When the boat was discovered by Wilf Dejarlais of nearby Shelter Valley on Sunday morning, only the bow was above water. The forward searchlight was still on and two life jackets floated nearby.

Smart's body was found early Sunday in open water by Eric Hoole of Toronto. A diver and RCAF planes were to search the area until the other bodies were located. Air search was hampered Sunday by a low overcast. High winds and rough water were blamed for the accident. Fred Johnston, a boat rental operator of Point Traverse, said the water was of "ample size" for normal condition but would be risky in a storm.

Residents along the shore and weather officials reported gusts of up to 30 miles an hour and four-foot waves Saturday night. Harold Van Wyck, a lands and forests department official at Keswick, said there was a severe electrical storm on the lake at 10 p.m.

"The lake was choppy, but not dangerous for experienced men. In the night, but it could have become dangerous during the storm," he said.

SAW A BOAT

Clifford Big Canoe of Georgina Island, told Inspector W. G. Fraser of the RCMP criminal investigation bureau in Toronto he saw a boat with a searchlight travelling toward the island about 200 yards off-shore just before midnight Saturday.

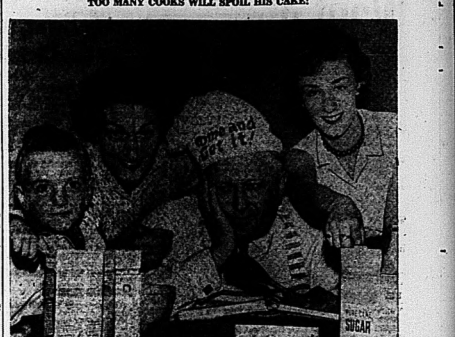
Cowell Everett, 17, of Consecon, Parry were both reported to be experienced boatsmen, although none of the men were members of the force's marine division. The boys men regularly took boats on patrols through northern lake in which they worked as Shipping Act.

Cpl. Smart, 33, a 15-year veteran of the force, was born in Fergus, Ont., and transferred to Toronto from Guysborough, N.S., last summer. Mrs. Smart, mother of two children, said she did not worry when her husband failed to come home Sunday morning because on other occasions he had frequently kept him out all night.

NEED PERSONNEL

HALIFAX (CP) — An American physician said Friday 80 per cent of the disabled could be rehabilitated if personnel were available for necessary training programs. Dr. Daniel J. Feldman of the New York Institute of Physical Re-habilitation said "the greatest problem is skilled, trained, professional personnel."

TOO MANY COOKS WILL SPOIL HIS CAKE!



Too many cooks will spoil his cake if Mike Lysecki of Aurora, Ont., isn't careful. Mike would like to win the Rotary Club's men's cake baking contest, but because he is in a quandry as to what cake mix to use, he has called his family—Ross, eight, wife Elizabeth, and Joanne, 16, to get into the act. Proceeds from the contest will go to Aurora swimming pool fund.

SHOCKING TOTAL

Two other Toronto men also were drowned near Orilla. Robert Andrew Raith, 27, and Patrick William Bertie, 40, of Toronto, died Saturday in Lake Dalrymple, 14 miles east.

Police said the two, with Eric Warren, 23, of Toronto, were taking part in a fishing derby. One man fell out and the other two jumped in after him. Warren was the only one to reach shore safely.

Police recovered two bodies Sunday.

FALLS INTO LAKE

Bruno Taillefer, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Taillefer of Alexandria, 20 miles north of Cornwall, was drowned Sunday night when he climbed a fence and fell into Island Park Lake.

Police said Bruno was playing in his yard with his two-year-old brother.

A nine-year-old girl, Billie Ann Countryman, was drowned Saturday in the Ottawa River at Pembroke, about 90 miles northwest of the city.

Police said Billie, who lived at the tourist camp with her father, was playing in a boat when it drifted off a bit and was swept downstream when she tried to jump from the boat to a pier. Her body was recovered at once.

Drowned Saturday in the Detroit River were Percy Janisse, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Janisse, of Windsor, who lost his footing while trying to jump to a spile a short distance from the breakwater. He tumbled into the river.

His cries drew the attention of fishermen who shouted to a passing boat. Kenneth Kilbreath, 21, and his father, Jack Kilbreath, 53, occupants of the board, heard the shouts and rushed to the spot where they saw an arm flail.

After they failed to catch the boy with their fishing lines, another youth, Fred Lesenke, 16, brought them a home - made grappling iron and they reached the boy.

Police and firemen were called but artificial respiration was unsuccessful.

DRAG IN LAKE

Heavy seas Sunday prevented the continuing of dragging operations for Duncan Black, 41, of Dorchester, Ont., who capsized in the top of the fishing tug Larry B. Sunday night in the waters of Lake Erie about a mile and three quarters from Port Bruce.

Black was among a party of 11 from Dorchester who had hired the boat for a fishing party. Skipper of the boat was Bruce Miller, who said the boat hung fire, and the party perch fishing at the mouth of the mishap.

Two 13-year-old boys, both on the same bicycle, were killed Saturday night when they were struck by a light pick-up truck at Delhi.

Dead are James Pieters, of Walsingham, a polio victim on his first outing since he had been removed from his iron lung, and Wayne Keeler, of Clear Creek.

John B. Saunders of Langton, driver of the truck, told police he was driving "with the lights on" when the boys suddenly appeared before him.

"Thump." He stopped, put the two unconscious boys into the back of his truck and drove them to a Langton doctor, who pronounced them dead on arrival.

Robert Todd, 23, of Highgate was killed early Sunday when a car he was driving collided head-on with a truck three miles east of Ridgetown.

The truck is owned by Law Construction Company of Toronto. The left side of the car was sheared off by the impact.

Driver of the truck, Albert Coppe, 34, of Shirley, received minor leg injuries.

William H. Nicholson Jr., 22, of Haliburton was killed Sunday when the car he was driving went out of control on a curve on Highway 35, 12 miles north of Minden, and skidded into the ditch.

He was thrown out of the car, his father's, and died of a fracture skull when his head hit a rock. Nicholson's wife, Beverly, and one child, live in Bridgeburg. Nicholson was a resident of Petrie's borough. Nicholson lived with his parents in Haliburton while working there.

COLLIDE HEAD-ON

One man was killed and four injured when two cars collided head-on early Sunday on Highway 11 near Orillia.

Police said Rai Orlando Torelli, 43, of Toronto, driver of one car, died in hospital about 19 hours after the collision.

Injured and in satisfactory condition in hospital were Gaetano Balocacci, Fernando Ando Bussotti and Brimo Ermanis, all of Toronto and all passengers in Torelli's car, and Reginald H. Masters of Toronto, driver and sole occupant of the other car.

Clifford Raymer, 33, of Stouffville was killed Sunday when he was struck by a car on Highway 7 near Unionville, 10 miles north east of Toronto. Lloyd Tetli of Whitevale, Ont., was later arrested and charged with failing to remain at the scene of a fatal accident.

Maureen Mary Sullivan, 21, died after being struck by a car near Kingston Saturday.

Five-month - old David Keith Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Martin of Toronto Township, was smothered Saturday when he sucked a plastic vegetable bag into his mouth.

He apparently fell asleep in his crib with the bag covering his face. Efforts to revive him failed.

An RCMP spokesman said the five had been regular companions on the weekend patrol of Lake Simcoe checking for violations of the Shipping Act and Indian Act.

It was not unusual for them to be on the lake at night, he said, "if they had any suspicions about anything."

The three Toronto officers usually drove to Orillia Saturday afternoon, picked up the other two officers and set out from there in the RCMP boat. The Toronto men often did not return to the barracks until 3 or 4 a.m. Sunday.

250 POISON CASES

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor has had roughly 250 cases of child poisoning in the last six months, Dr. Henry Breault, head of Hotel Dieu Hospital's poison control unit said Friday. He commented after Pauline Zakoor, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Zakoor was treated after swallowing 16 children's headache tablets. The child was in satisfactory condition.

INDIA SEEKS LOAN

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India is seeking a $600,000,000 loan from the United States to help meet a severe economic crisis, usually reliable sources said Sunday. The trouble is indicated by the fact that India's sterling balances sank to a record low of 2,400,000,000 rupees (about $540,000,000) on May 31. If the present drain continues, India will hit the danger point in four months and exhaust her entire sterling balance reserve in a year, the sources said.

ATLAS OFF ON EIGHTH TEST FLIGHT

Clouds of steam and smoke pour from the U.S. Air Force's Atlas Intercontinental ballistic missile as it roars off on its eighth test flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla. The steam is caused by pouring tons of water on the launching pad to cool it off as the rocket begins to build up thrust enough to lift the 100-ton missile. Designed to attack a target 6,325 miles away, the latest test was believed aimed at a target of approximately 600 to 700 miles from launching platform.

SAVED FROM GALLOWS

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet has commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on Roy Chudek of Bowman, Man., convicted of murder in the fatal shooting of his wife. Chudek, 26-year-old oil driller, was sentenced to be hanged June 17. The jury recommended mercy.

Peron's Ex-Girl Friend, Nelly Rivas, Not Waiting For the Dictator to Return

By SAM ADAMS

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—If Juan Peron returns in amnesty to Argentina, he won't find little Nelly Rivas waiting for him.

For one thing, little Nelly, his former school girl mistress, isn't little any more. For another, she has plans that don't include the exiled dictator.

Now a well rounded 19, Nelly recently announced her engagement to Carlos Ramil, 24, a clerk in the accounting department of the U.S. Embassy here.

"All I want is to be left alone," said Nelly in an interview. "I want to be like any other girl and lead a normal life. I've been dragged through the dirt and think I've paid my debt to society with all the unhappiness that has been heaped upon me.

"For me, the whole episode is over."

LOVE AND LUXURY

Nelly was only 13 when Peron turned Latin lover in the winter of his tottering career and picked her from among a group of school girls to be his mistress.

For two years, until his downfall in the 1955 revolution, the dictator showered her with love and luxury. The November-May romance shocked a nation that still revered the memory of the blonde Evita, Peron's late wife. When the end came with Peron's exile, Nelly was clapped into an orphanage by court decree and left with her memories. That plus $200,000 in cash and jewels.

After a few months, Nelly was released from the institution, only to find bitterness and social ostracism waiting on the outside. The scandal of her Peron-day activities continued to pursue her and her family. Her mother was attacked on the street by a group of women who sheared off her hair, the ancient female revenge against moral outrage.

CASHED IN

But Nelly made the best of a bad situation, cashing in on her notoriety by selling articles and photographs to newspapers and magazines.

Up until a year ago, she refused to think of marriage. Her standard answer to what became a standard question: "I'm too bitter to think of that for several years." Then along came Carlos, and Nelly began to yearn for the simple, unpublicized life of a housewife.

Keeping a campaign promise that brought him an estimated 1,500,000 Peronist votes, President Arturo Frondizi two weeks ago signed an amnesty law for all political offenders, including Peron and his followers. The law, however, still leaves it up to the courts to decide whether Peron can return from exile.

NO BITTERNESS

Whether Peron returns or not, Nelly has no bitterness against him. She denies having been victimized by the dictator and has built up a wall of resistance against the lingering scandal.

The years spent as a spicy item of curiosity, as a torrid subject of news and magazine articles and a top target of anti-Peron wrath are all behind her—or almost behind her.

Her father managed to harken back to the gay old days when her engagement was announced. He had a little announcement of his own: Further details of the wedding had been peddled to a magazine for $5,000.

BILLY RELEASES FIGURES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham's office released figures today comparing his San Francisco Crusade with the 1957 New York series. Through 34 meetings in each city, attendance was 592,000 in Madison Square Garden and 545,300 in the San Francisco cow palace. "Decisions for Christ" were 19,710 and 19,551 respectively.

Macmillan Urges Building Peace Little By Little

Mum But Far From Glum After White House Talk

BALTIMORE (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan climbed today for a climb toward building world peace through a "little by little" approach to discarding all big weapons—atomic and others.

Macmillan addressed commencement exercises at Johns Hopkins University where he and President Eisenhower were given honorary degrees by the school.

A text of his remarks were released to the press before delivery.

The British prime minister said the Western world alliance has served its purpose well and must be continued as a shield against Communist aggression.

"But I am not without hope," he said, "that we may succeed little by little, if not all at once, in making some progress toward the relaxation of tensions in the world."

MUST BE WILLING

Macmillan said it would be foolish to expect a continuous meeting to bridge the gap between East and West.

He added, however, that "if conditions are favorable and if the will is there they might make, first, a little progress here, and then a little there and so bring us out of a condition of stalemate into one of negotiation."

But he said it can be done "only if the leaders of the world on our side certainly are willing."

Macmillan said both the United States and Britain have rightly held that a beginning can be made in controlled disarmament of both nuclear and conventional weapons.

"Control is really the essence," he said.

As he did in an address Sunday at De Pauw University, Greencastle, Indiana, Macmillan urged lowering of trade barriers which restrict the flow of goods between countries.

He also called for aid to underdeveloped countries both in developing their own resources and in assuring them a high and stable demand at reasonable prices for their products.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan switched today from cold war problems to the ceremonials of a college graduation.

The switch was arranged in the modern tradition—by helicopter from the lawn of the White House to John Hopkins University at Baltimore.

Macmillan will receive an honorary degree and make a speech after being introduced by the president.

The highly public ceremonies were a far cry from the closely guarded private session the two held Monday.

NUMEROUS SUBJECTS

It lasted 2½ hours and ranged widely — disarmament, nuclear testing, atomic power for peace, missile-launching sites in Britain, the Soviet economic offensive, the Atlantic Pact, the Berlin crisis and discord sounded in France.

Macmillan also conferred with Eisenhower at a White House dinner tonight, following an afternoon conference with Secretary Dulles.

He returns to Ottawa Wednesday for talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Dulles and other leading U.S. figures, among them chairman L. Strauss of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and chairman Radford of the joint chiefs of staff, sat in on Monday's talks. Also present were such Britishers as Ambassador Sir Edwin Plowden, chief of Britain's atomic development, and Sir Norman Brook, secretary of the British cabinet.

Macmillan was in gay spirits after the talks, chatting happily with Eisenhower when the two posed for pictures in the White House rose garden. But he steadfastly refused to discuss with reporters what he and the president talked about privately.

"We had a very nice talk about every subject under the sun," Eisenhower commented.

Macmillan was reported partially responsible for congressional approval of a bill to permit greater sharing of U.S. atomic secrets with Britain.

Another subject was reported to be the case of U.S. Army Sergeant 60 intermediate - range Thor missile units to four bases on England's east coast.

Eisenhower and Macmillan agreed to a new Bermuda meeting. Target time for complete installation is December.

Huge Deficit Is Predicted In Tuesday Budget

Six Hundred Million Largest in History

OTTAWA (CP) — A huge deficit, perhaps the biggest in Canada's budgetary history, may be the feature of Finance Minister Fleming's first budget to be presented to the Commons next Tuesday night.

No major tax reductions are expected to be announced in Mr. Fleming's budget speech, to be delivered at 8 p.m. EDT, June 17.

However, there is some speculation that a few excise tax items will be reduced and that some sales tax will be revised upwards slightly.

Whatever the changes, Mr. Fleming is expected to stress spending to fight the current recession, with the result that a deficit of perhaps $600,000,000 or more may be forecast for the 1958-59 fiscal year that started April 1.

WILL CONTINUE PROGRAM

Prime Minister Diefenbaker promised during election days that the government will move ahead, regardless of cost, to fight unemployment and recession.

Expenditures already forecast range in the neighborhood of the $10,000,000,000 or more, including outlays for roads within provincial payments towards a national hospital insurance plan that goes into effect in most provinces next year.

Revenues are not expected to keep up with these higher expenditures, due to possible decline in government revenue from falling corporation profits and personal income declining amounts of reports.

This would mean more government borrowing, adding to the national debt which now is about $18,000,000,000.

AID FOR OIL INDUSTRY?

No major cuts are expected in personal and corporation income taxes mainly due to the fact industry may be changed to cut taxes in the hope of new development of new deposits.

Tariff changes may affect the oil industry, however, and the pipe and tube manufacturers but may be increased to encourage the the tariff on wool imports from Britain, as suggested recently by the Canadian Wool Council.

The last federal budget was presented by former Liberal finance minister Walter Harris March 14, 1957. The following June 10 the Progressive Conservatives were elected to power, and after a subsequent election in a new election, March 31, and a new fiscal year before introducing a new budget and financial accounting.

Full Production Order for Arrow Seems Probable

Dog Met Bus for Fourteen Years In Hope of Meeting Dead Master

LUCO DI MUGELLO, Italy (AP)—Fido, the old dog who was a gold medal for remaining faithful to his dead master, died Monday.

Fido, white mongrel with brown ears fell over dead as he was running to meet the bus from nearby Borgo San Lorenzo. He has done every day for the last 14 years, hoping his master would return home on it.

Fido's exact age was not known. His master, Carlo Sorianl, fished him wet and shivering from a river during the war and gave him a home. The name Soriani gave to the puppy means loyalty in Italian.

Soriani used to ride the bus every morning to work at a factory at nearby Borgo San Lorenzo. For two years Fido followed him to the bus stop in the square and waited there until Soriani returned in the evening. Fido's last trip was Monday and death destroyed the Borgo factory and Soriani.

Each night since the Fido met the bus expecting to meet his master, he would go to sleep under it, since the bus remained his master's only connection.

Last November Giuseppe Grazzini, mayor of Borgo, honored Fido by tying a gold medal around his neck. A couple of months later the people of Borgo and Luco erected, a marble monument to him.

The mayor of Borgo ordered that Fido be buried under the gallery of the town cemetery where Soriani has lain since December, 1943, unknown to Fido.

Boys at Play Start Plane, Propeller Cuts One in Half

VICTORIA (CP) — Two boys accidentally started the engine of a moored float-equipped plane Monday night, the craft cut in two by the whirling propeller and its companion spent a nightmare-ish 10 minutes in the water dodging the lurching aircraft.

Navy divers spent all day to search today for part of the body of John Marrison, 15.

Robert Turnbull, 16, who was chased to shore by the plane and found huddled in the underbrush almost numb with shock, later told investigators what happened.

The boys rowed a small boat out to the single-engined Aeronca Sedan tied to a mooring buoy on nearby Elk Lake, a favorite swimming and boating spot for Victoria residents.

They climbed into the cabin of the unoccupied plane, owned by Victor Dawson, president of the Victoria Floatplane Owners Association, and became intrigued with the instruments.

Turnbull said he and Marrison took turns playing with the collection of switches and levers when the engine roared into life and the plane lurched forward.

Marrison climbed from the cabin first, apparently trying to get back into the boat. He either walked or fell into the propeller. The lower part of his body fell into the boat.

Turnbull said he didn't know what had happened to Marrison. Young Turnbull then fell into the water and looked back to see the plane turn and roar towards him.

The boy twice swam in different directions but each time, he said, the uncontrolled plane came at him. When he reached shore he hid himself into the underbush and the plane slammed into a tree.

Government Moves on Vast Program of Road Building

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is moving ahead with plans for new roads to tap isolated natural resources.

It proposes to pay the full cost of routes in the Arctic and Yukon Territories and to enter into cost-sharing agreements with the provinces for roads within their boundaries.

Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton said Thursday seven provinces are at various stages of negotiation and federal agreement has been reached in all but one. Further details and road projects already are under way, he said in a progress report to a Commons committee on mines, forests and waters.

Discussions are proceeding with Alberta, Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

The government has offered to pay 50 per cent of the cost of the proposed development roads, with a maximum of $1,500,000 a year for each participating province.

As first announced, the proposal was aimed at the development of inaccessible resources in the northern parts of the western provinces and Ontario. Subsequently, at the request of the provinces, the federal-provincial government extended the offer to roads to develop the Maritimes and Quebec.

One project already under way is the 250-mile stewart-cassiar road in north-central B.C. It was announced last fall the federal government would put up $7,500,000 over five years towards the $15,000,000 road. This would use up B.C.'s $1,500,000 annual quota.

Mr. Hamilton said Monday federal engineers have laid five roads in the Yukon and Northwest Territories to open up their more vast resources and link with the federal-provincial program.

He cited as an example the 370-mile road from Dawson City, in the Yukon to Fort McPherson on the Mackenzie River in the North West Territories.

The road will cost the central government up to $8,000,000.

"If this road opened up the mineral and oil wealth the corporation taxes many thousands of times the cost of the road in building the roads," Mr. Hamilton said.

Private oil companies already had taken out permits to explore 2,000,000 acres in the Yukon. He estimated they might spend $100,000,000 in operations in the area.

The minister warned of what he termed an "irrational mentality" that Canada control its natural resources.

"The United States, already in a "deficit position" in regard to resources, is admitting more and more and more, Canada needed specific knowledge of its resources wealth in the light of its future needs and world demands, particularly those of the U.S.

Propose Nuclear Tests Parley Meet in Geneva

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today proposed to Soviet Premier Khrushchev that technical talks begin July 1 in Geneva on methods of policing any possible future ban on nuclear tests.

The White House made public a letter from the president stating that the government has agreed to the Geneva site, which Eisenhower said is more preferable to Moscow from the U.S. viewpoint.

Eisenhower in agreeing 'o such talks had suggested they be held in new york.

Eisenhower told the Russian premier the U.S. would not object to the inclusion of experts from Czechoslovakia and Poland on Britain's side.

The Western powers participating, he said, would be the United Kingdom, France, U.S., and Canada.

Eisenhower told Khrushchev has indicated Russia would not object to the inclusion of additional Western countries as experts in the field of nuclear detection.

NO OBJECTION TO NEUTRALS

With respect to neutrals, Eisenhower told the Russian premier that "the U.S. government has no principle to their joining later in the discussions if agreed to by the course of the talks that this is necessary or useful."

The additional countries as India into the talk.

Eisenhower's letter said:

"These talks would be undertaken without commitment as to the final decision on the relationship of nuclear test suspension to other more important agreement measures I have proposed."

Prime Minister Macmillan, here to confer with Eisenhower, had been informed of the contents of the reply.

Man Given Year For Possessing Smuggled Car

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Lewis Kenneth Tow, 36, ex-operator of Hilltop Auto Wreckers in London, was sentenced Monday to one year in jail for being in possession of a smuggled 1956 Chevrolet, knowing it to be "hot."

Three other similar charges were withdrawn.

Toth's account of his sale of a car was "self-contradictory and unbelievable," Magistrate D. A. McAllister said. The Crown had charged developed Aero Aircraft Limited, Malton, Ont., is designed as a bomber interceptor. Mr. Pearkes said it is believed that the Russians now have 1,500 to 1,700 bombers of various types, some of them capable of attacking any target in North America and returning to the Soviet Union.

Toth, 30, a carpenter, with receiving the car, knowing it was stolen.

The car was stolen from a London car lot for $675.

The American car was sold by Toth's wife, acting as Lamont's agent, for $1,600. This was after Toth had made extensive repairs at $900 below the normal selling price for a 1956 Chev in good condition.

Toth's conviction brings to an end the case of car smuggling cases which have been heard since January.

Also convicted were Pasquale Zoccano, sentenced to 19 months in jail, and Frank Fiorentino, fined on two charges and assessed costs totalling $500. George Dingman of St. Thomas and Raymond Lang of London won dismissal of charges against them. Harold Lawrence Snyder, who elected trial by jury, failed, was sentenced to one year.

House Meanders Through Water Pollution Issue

CCF Motion Draws Liberal Support

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons debate meandered through the flotsam and jetsam of water pollution bes agreed on the problem's urgency.

Day-long debate Monday found all-party agreement with the motives behind a resolution introduced by Eric Stefanson (PC-Selkirk) to have the government consider making pollution offences punishable under criminal law.

But while there were unofficial hints that the government may have some anti-pollution legislation up its sleeve, the resolution was the final one. Most speakers said they felt the measure needed more study between protect health, game and natural beauty.

Paul Martin, former Liberal health minister, twitted talkative Progressive Conservatives for not allowing a vote on the resolution as the adjournment was moved.

"What we want is action, not speeches!" he said.

CCF FORCES VOTE EARLIER

The Commons also ran into a formal division Monday as the CCF forced a vote on a Liberal amendment spoon a seemingly-routine bill by J. W. Murphy (PC-Lambton-Kent,) chairman of the committee on mines, forests and waters.

The opposition objected to the motion that the committee meet coincidentally with Commons sessions, necessitating

Liberal and CCF speakers indicated they thought this might be "dangerous" by the precedent which would strain the ranks of the opposition—49 Liberals and eight CCF—to the detriment of their Commons duties.

The government House leader, Works Minister Green, said this was not true. There was no intention of abusing a practice which in any case had gained general acceptance on the Commerals.

The Progressive Conservatives crushed the opposition objection by 129 votes to 30.

'Public Safety' Group Opposes De Gaulle's Plan

ALGIERS (AP)—The insurgent Committee of Public Safety rebelled today against Premier Charles de Gaulle's orders to get out of government.

The committee issued a communique opposing De Gaulle's plans for local elections in Algeria within one month and declared that the Fourth Republic system of political parties in France.

The communique was issued with the notation that it had been approved by Gen. Raoul Salan, who was given full civil and military powers in Algeria by de Gaulle.

DEMAND REFORMS

The committee seized control in this Algerian capital on May 13 and demanded de Gaulle be given power to form a cabinet. Some committee members soured on de Gaulle, however, when he refused to name Salan premier of a cabinet.

Instead de Gaulle called in many of the leaders of the political factions dividing France. The committee has called for a house cleaning in Paris, and today's communique repeated the call.

Boiler Blamed As Toronto Blast Takes One Life

Seven Missing Persons Are Later Found Safe

TORONTO (CP)—A violent explosion hurled upwards from a basement boiler room and blew out the side of a four-storey brick apartment building on northend Bathurst Street Monday night.

One torn body was recovered from the rubble today after an all-night search by workers who feared at one time that eight persons were trapped in the massive tangle of bricks, mortar and shattered furnishings.

John Armstrong, superintendent of the 30-year-old building at 1600 Bathurst Street, near St. Clair Avenue, was found dead under a pile of rubble in his basement dwelling.

Just before the body was removed by police locator Mrs. H. McGee and student Len Bartlett, the last of seven persons earlier believed to be in the ruins.

STILL DIGGING

Firemen and steel-helmeted construction workers continued to dig out the wreckage in case victims to the building had been caught by the blast. Mrs. McGee's lapsed sections of all four floors.

Fire Chief Jack Graham, director, in charge of the search, said diggers uncovered a ripped-open basement wall where they feared to have been the origin of the terrific explosion.

Owner William Ishitzer, who valued the building at $220,000, was not living there at the time.

Despite the heavy damage there were few injuries to occupants. Mrs. Vicary, Mrs. Ella Aldridge, 72, and Robert Veitch, 71, were treated at hospital for shock, cuts and bruises.

Six persons were killed and more than 90 injured during the three days' fightings. All but two of the dead and three of the injured were Greek Cypriots.

APPEAL TO NATO

Greece vows to ask the NATO council to discuss the new outbreaks at 11 a.m. regular weekly meeting in Paris today. There were indications Greece would ask NATO to call on Turkey, also a NATO member—to use her influence on Turkish Cypriots to refrain from violence.

Britain has already done so in a note delivered to the Turkish government Sunday. Turkey has rebuffed all such efforts.

There were indications, however, that Turkey is not ready to issue any public appeal to Turkish Cypriots. Informed sources in Ankara indicated the government reaction is that the Turks on the island acted in self defence against EOKA, the underground movement of the union - with-Greece movement.

A bomb was thrown at a British army patrol in the Turkish quarter of Nicosia Monday, the first time since the start of the island's troubles in 1955. Turks have used terrorist methods against British troops.

The latest fighting was touched off Saturday after a bomb was thrown at a Turkish consulate.

Turkish Cypriots Loot Stores in Nicosia Market

NICOSIA (CP) — Thousands of Turkish Cypriots broke into Nicosia municipal market early today and looted Greek Cypriot provision stores, grocery and fruit stalls.

The looting occurred during a one-hour curfew break specifically designed to allow citizens to do their shopping. Greek and Turkish Cypriots were allowed the last of seven periods that they would not come in contact.

It was reported the Turkish Cypriots broke into the vast market place serving Nicosia's 50,000 population because British authorities were late in opening it. When the curfew break ended the Turkish Cypriots returned to their homes and order was restored.

Meanwhile 18,000 British troops were used throughout the night to enforce an island-wide curfew. Monday's fighting

This is the largest number of troops used in the Mediterranean island colony since trouble started more than three years ago.

The curfew was enforced by armed troops after the worst outbreak during the night. Governor Hugh Foot ordered that it be continued today in the old city of Nicosia, site of some of the worst fighting during the Greek and Turkish forces.

Six persons were killed and more than 90 injured during the three days' fightings. All but two of the dead and three of the injured were Greek Cypriots.

Despite the heavy damage there were few injuries to occupants. Mrs. Vicary, Mrs. Ella Aldridge, 72, and Robert Veitch, 71, were treated at hospital for shock, cuts and bruises.

Police said 39 of the building's 48 occupants were in their apartments when the blast roared through the floors, peeling off most of the south wall and barring a dozen apartments to the street.

Neighbors, staring awestruck at the 60-foot mountain of debris almost silently in the building at 9:40 p.m., feared casualties when the survival of most of the residents in the 34 apartments.

Watching rescuers sort through their blast - shattered windows, tenants sat in parked cars that could see several apartments bared to the street, their pictures still on the walls, and their clothes hung neatly in closets that had been opened.

In the wreckage, piled more than a storey high at the foot of the building, beds, parts of metal parked cars, bath tubs, mattresses and pieces of broken furniture poked through a welter of broken brick and splintered wood.

Heavy excavator 'machinery was called in to clear away the rubble after the sagging building was shored up. With electricity cut off to the area to avoid risk of fire, workmen soaked by a fine rain toiled by the light of a huge military searchlight powered by a mobile generator.

Police questioned the owner, a nearby road, however, testing a buried gas main.

Fire officials said tenants told them Armstrong was working on the boiler Monday night with only a plumber. Discovery of the body of Armstrong in the street by nearly half-inch thickness peeled open, indicated it blew up.

The main target of an attempt may have been made to test the boiler without water in the heating system. Opening a valve to put water in the system could have resulted in cold water entering the hot boiler—the recipe for a giant explosion.

5000 Orthodox Doukhobors in B.C. May Buy Back Land Held by Govt.

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Leaders of British Columbia's 15,000 orthodox Doukhobors have cleared the way for possible settlement of their problems.

Representatives of the Union of Spiritual Doukhobors to avoid foreclosure by trust companies, but the Doukhobors have continued to pay taxes on the property.

The land was the subject of a survey by Mr. Justice A. E. Lord of the B.C. Supreme Court. He decided that it should be sold to qualified Doukhobors at 60 per cent of appraised value.

The union said that although there is "much interest" in the proposal, it was not ready to relinquish exemption from military service.

The union's chief spokesman Jon Verigin, said the possibility of returning to Russia means no reflection on Canada or the Canadian people.

"We have nothing to do with the much-publicized migration of the Sons of Freedom to Russia. As long as the so-called Sons of Freedom keep up their radical fanaticism, we will have no common ground with them," Verigin said.

Retiring Supervisor Honored

Harold J. Armstrong (centre), CNR supervisor and welsh bill clerk, with over 40 years' service, and former city alderman, is offered congratulations on his retirement at the local yard office Monday afternoon. Biding Mr. Armstrong goodbye is Wilfred 'Wicky' Ross, general yard master, who presented him with a purse on behalf of the yard office staff and trainmen. Looking on is Herbert Poitner, who presented Mr. Armstrong with a cheque from the railway brotherhood.

Ex-Ald. H. J. Armstrong Ends 45 Years of Service

Service with the Canadian National Railways dating back 45 years was officially ended yesterday for Harold J. Armstrong, 26 Lloyd Street, supervisor and welsh bill clerk, and one time member of Belleville city council.

Monday, at the conclusion of the day shift, railway officials and fellow workers of Mr. Armstrong paid tribute to their retiring colleague.

At the railway yard office Mr. Armstrong was presented with a purse of money by Wilfred "Wicky" Ross, on behalf of the staff and trainmen, while Herbert Poitner presented him with a cheque from the railway brotherhood. Mrs. Armstrong was presented with a bouquet of roses.

It was just 45 years ago that Mr. Armstrong started his railway career in the local freight office. During World War I he worked for the British Chemical Co. at Trenton, and then in 1918 returned to the railway job he left.

Twenty years ago he was transferred to the local yard office where he remained until retirement.

Twice an unsuccessful candidate for the mayoralty, Mr. Armstrong served a total of 17 years on Belleville city council. During that time he served as chairman of waterworks before the formation of the local utilities commission, as chairman of light, of public works and of housing. It was during his chairmanship of housing that the veterans' housing units in Churchill and Bayview Heights were constructed.

He was first elected to council in 1920, then was defeated in a bid for the mayor's office by ex-Mayor George Tice, and later in a three-cornered contest with the late Jamieson Bone and William Harvey.

He returned to council again in 1940 and during succeeding years chaired the public works, light and housing committees.

Although his association with the CNR is now ended, Mr. Armstrong has no intention of going into retirement.

"I don't want anything that will tie me down, but neither do I want to be quiet," he says. He intimated he may go into real estate or some other activity.

He has two daughters, Mrs. Norah Armstrong and Mrs. J. W. (Dorothy) Anderson, both of Belleville.

To Eliminate Discussion on Committee Recommendations At Regular Council Sessions

Belleville city council will streamline its regular sessions of council to the extent that unless amendments are introduced, recommendations from the previous committees of the committee meeting will be ratified without discussion.

The idea behind the move, according to Mayor Gerald Hyde, Jr., is to shorten council. One reason for the move will be an effort to boost attendance at committee of the whole meetings which are held on alternate Mondays to the council meeting, and the second is to speed up procedure at the regular council meeting through elimination of reading of recommendations already threshed out in committee.

To an objection raised by Alderman Robert Temple that the move in effect will limit debate in council business, Mayor Hyde declared there was no thought of "rubber-stamping" anything, but that agreements in committee recommendations each motions could still be discussed in council.

He noted that if there was no opposition from the floor no point is going through the recommendations a second time.

Mayor Hyde said that the press and radio would be invited to attend committee meetings so that the public would be informed of committee of the whole proceedings.

Councillor Temple, however, maintained it was the duty of council to keep the people informed.

NOT CONCEALING ANYTHING

"We are not trying to conceal anything, but does the public know about it? I think they must not lose the confidence of the public."

Mayor Hyde stressed further that if any alderman was not in agreement with a committee recommendation he would have a perfect right to bring in an amendment at the regular council meeting.

He said there was no danger in any form of anything being "put over". It would mean only that the whole council meeting would be the "business" meeting of council when matters would be threshed out.

Alderman Les Digby agreed with the adoption of the idea but doubted if the objective of saving time would actually ue accomplished. Mr. Doug Hall, also said council should not try to save money too much on time spent on city business.

The recommendation for the new procedure was carried 9-6 on a recorded vote, those voting for the change were Mayor Gerald Hyde and Aldermen Forrester, Graham, Grandianne, Ireland, McCabe, Mills, Whalen and Wishart. Opposing were Alderman Argue, Collins, Digby, Monroe, Ivan Temple and Tonkin.

On the by-law covering the recommendation, the vote was closer 8 to 7, with one alderman changing his mind at the opposition.

GIVEN NEW ROLE

City Engineer Charles Mott, with the city since 1919, was appointed to the role of planning engineer and as consultant to the engineering department with Norman M. Turnbull, commissioner of works, to take over the duties of city engineer along with his present position. The change is effective as of June 16th.

Mayor Hyde noted that with the advent of annexation, Mr. Mott, with his overall knowledge of the city and area could put to use all of his talents in the field of planning. He assured there was no thought or suggestion of demotion.

The request of the C.P.R. for permission to replace the present manually operated gates at crossings on Front and Pinnacle Streets with flashing lights was denied. Alderman Temple as chairman of the traffic committee, said it was the feeling of his committee that the move would not be conducive to safety. People in Belleville had become accustomed to gates and the flashing lights may not have the required safety factor.

Council agreed to request the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to increase their grant in lieu of taxes on veterans' housing to an amount equalling regular taxes.

There was token opposition from Ald. Les Digby who urged that the city's original agreement with Central Mortgage be honored. The agreement called for payments in lieu of taxes to be made to the city until 50 per cent of the units had been sold, it noted that at the present time

Space Needed To Accommodate Nursing Class

The school of nursing at the Belleville General Hospital is limited each year to an incoming class of but 32 new students because of limited classroom accommodation.

This was told to city council last night by Alderman Effie McCabe when she moved in a hospital board request to council for funds to provide for more student nurses accommodation and class room space.

Alderman McCabe, who is a council representative on the hospital board of governors pointed out that classroom space for student nurses was in the basement of the Ritchie wing and that had been enlarged since when only eight or ten girls comprised the student nursing class.

This year over 40 applications had been received for admission to the hospital nursing class and because of lack of space half of these would have to be turned down. The alternative would be to stagger classes until the necessary extension could be secured.

"The Belleville General Hospital is a $4,000,000 asset to the city but a nurse shortage could close hospital rooms," he said.

Mayor Hyde noted that most council members agreed that the classroom space was needed at the hospital. The question was whether costs should be borne in relation to the ratio of local and district patients in the hospital.

Of total patients 47 per cent come from the city, 40 per cent from Hastings and the balance from outside communities.

Suspend Sentence After Assault On Policeman

Donald L. Dalrymple, 41, of 31 Cedar Street, was placed on two years suspended sentence today after Magistrate T. Y. Wills found him guilty of assaulting a police officer. Dalrymple was also fined $50 with costs of 25 after being convicted of drunkenness in a public place.

Constable Ian McColl of the city police force arrested the man on the evening of June 7. When the officer attempted to put Dalrymple in the police cruiser with his present co-worker, Dalrymple struck out and hit McColl in the face, knocking out one tooth and loosening another.

McColl testified today that he had just had $700 worth of dental work done in Peterborough.

Industrials were up a few decimal points and base metals were higher about a half. Golds and western oils eased, but less than a quarter.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 375,000 shares, down from Monday's 664,000 at the same hour.

Industrials moved in a one-point range. Ford A was the leader, gaining ¼ at 21¾.

Golds showed little action. The base metal index continued strong with seven issues in the leaders. Geco added ¼ at 13⅜ as coppers gathered strength on reports of firmer prices for copper in London. Western oils ran into profit-taking but price changes were small.

Farmers Must Be Masters Of All Trades Rotarians Told

"Farming is becoming one of the most specialized of professions, and the farmer must be a master of all trades", James H. Gardiner, agricultural secretary-manager of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs, told local Rotarians Monday.

Mr. Moore addressed the Rotary club on the many major aspects and developments "of the 4-H movement in conjunction with Belleville Collegiate "4-H Club Day." Guests included agricultural representatives and 12 members of the Rotary sponsored 4-H Poultry Club.

The guest speaker, who has been on the Council for the past 10 years, explained today's farmers must also be mechanics, veterinarians and business managers in order to run their farms efficiently and progressively.

"Farming is different today than what it was 10 years ago . . . and 10 years from now it will be different still," Mr. Moore stated, noting that mechanization and introduction of new, specialized fields have played an influential role in bringing about this change.

The farmer of today is "promising yet challenging," the speaker said.

In outlining the developments of the 4-H Club movement, Mr. Moore traced the development of a common parent-child interest in farming, as the greatest. This usually culminates in the forming of father-son partnerships after the setting up of separate farm units, he said.

Other developments include the personal development of boys and girls, specialization, scientific and mechanical, and the introduction of modern conveniences in the home and new machinery, scientific equipment and progressive farming methods to farms.

The Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs, which includes representatives of farm organizations, service clubs, provincial agricultural organizations, business and industry, as well as local 4-H representatives, directs the 4-H program on a national level, Mr. Moore explained.

One of the most urgent challenges facing this council is the need for more voluntary local club leaders, he said.

Without local 4-H club leaders, he said, there are some 10,000 across Canada, our program would not have progressed as far as it has", he stated.

Other challenges include the financing of local projects to meet current trends in farming, and the selection of secretary, support at local, provincial, and national levels, the speaker said.

Before closing, Mr. Moore congratulated members of the Rotary Poultry Club, and commended Belleville Rotary Club for sponsoring this project.

The speaker also announced the appointment of Rotarian Mr. McArthur, as vice-president of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs.

Mr. Moore was introduced by Court Miller who informed Rotarians the speaker is a graduate of Kemptville Agricultural School and the Ontario Agricultural Collefe. He has served on the Council since 1948, starting in the public relations department.

The speaker was thanked by Art Francis and presenting with a memento on behalf of the club by Ross Garnett, Mr. Garnett substituted for president Joe Demeza who had to leave early to present the Rotary plaque and cash award at Albert College graduation ceremonies. This is awarded to the student who did the most to foster international understanding during the past year.

Bob Phillips, BCIVS agriculture teacher and leader of the Rotary-sponsored Poultry Club project, gave a brief address on the club's activities. Members of the farming each club member will show two birds at the Government Day for poultry at this year's Belleville Fair The project, the brainchild of Dr. H. Burns, is expected to be completed next fall.

Head table guests were introduced by Dr. Harry Burns, and included: Don Spencer of the Hillier and Ameliesburg Calf Club; Phil Flagler, CJBQ farm commentator; Charles McKenzie of Belleville; Bob Phillips, 4-H Poultry Club leader; Don Taylor, agricultural representative of Prince Edward County; Clinton Nesbitt, assistant agricultural representative of Hastings County; Gordon Millier, agricultural representative of Prince Edward County.

President Demeza announced speaker next week. The meeting will be held June 23 at Hotel Quinte. At this dinner-meeting Mr. Moore will be the guest and over to the new executive which will be installed and be given the new officers.

Belleville president elect Fred Wilson, Belleville Rotary's representative to the Dalizs Convention held June 1 to 5, was welcomed back by president Demeza.

Ald. J. Ireland Heads Drive For Macs Fund

Alderman Jack Ireland, speaking at many service and men's meetings in Belleville in recent years, will head up the city council's drive to "Step up the Overseas Fund," organized to help Belleville Minor Hockey Cup winners to Prague next winter in quest of world championship honors.

Announcement that Ald Ireland would head up the drive in raising committee along with other members of the McFarland-Hooter Club, was made last night at city council by Mayor Gerald B. Hyde.

In announcing formation of the fund raising committee, Mayor Hyde said the fund was "in a good state of commencement, although not finally made but still to be worked out."

Already a number of contributions ranging from $1 to $100 had been left at Belleville banks, while one anonymous contributor has pledged a donation of $1,000 to the fund, sending the Macs on their way.

Objective of the Belleville Memorials Overseas Fund will be $15,000, this to include all incidental costs arising connected with the exception of direct canvassing.

The members of the committee are Booster Club president Dick Beare, Harry Rollins, Jim Ward, Ed Lewis and Jim Matthews.

Already a central bank account has been established for the fund and Mayor Hyde expressed the hope that arrangements could be made to have contributions exempt from income tax purposes.

Detroit Tigers Fire Manager Jack Tighe

DETROIT (AP) — Jack Tighe today was fired as manager of the Detroit Tigers. Bill Norman was named to succeed him.

Tighe was dismissed on the recommendation of general manager John McHale. The board of directors approved the move immediately.

Tighe was offered if job in the Detroit baseball club's new baseball manager delayed a decision and said he will return to the game in Spring Lake, Mich.

The Tigers are in last place. They finished fourth under Tighe last season.

Norman, 47, who at one time led Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League, has been manager of the Tigers' Charleston farm club in the triple-A American Association for the last 1½ years.

12½ GAMES BEHIND

The Tigers are 12½ games behind the league - leading New York Yankees.

Norman coached the old St. Louis Browns in 1952-53. His Charleston club currently is in second place in the league association.

Larry Sullivan McGill's Football Coach, Resigns

MONTREAL (CP)—Larry Sullivan, head football coach at McGill University for the last four years and one-time Notre Dame lineman, resigned today.

Sullivan's letter of resignation said his action was due to "circumstances beyond my control." He told newspaper men the decision was largely because he didn't want to "let down" his family.

Sullivan, 40 and father of four children, has an ailing elderly mother in his home town near Brockton, Mass. He may go into business in Massachusetts.

Athletic director Harry Griffiths said Sullivan's resignation came as a "stunning surprise" and that "We have no idea where we might find a successor."

CAME FROM HAMILTON

Sullivan came to McGill after a coaching job with Cathedral High School in Hamilton. He inherited a weak McGill team.

McGill has been criticized by officials of schools in the senior intercollegiate league for tight admittance requirements for players. Sullivan said there had no bearing on his resignation.

Herb Trestrail, a former member of the football coaching staff of last year, Assistant coach Rocky Gotta and Jim Ottawa Fisher High School. Line coach Ray Filion has joined the club. Montreal Alouettes' staff. Intermediate head coach Shorty Fairhead left Saturday for the Lacrosse and his assistant, Johnny Chuma, has taken a school board position.

Mystery Surrounds Case Of Burning German Auto

TRENTON—A small German car was completely gutted by flames on First Army Hill Road last night about midnight. The entire incident is shrouded in mystery.

Who owns the vehicle or where it came from was unknown this morning.

When police arrived the car had almost finished burning and on investigating the wreckage, after it had cooled off some, they found the licence plates were missing as was the small tub which bears the serial number of the vehicle. The spare tire, which is carried under the hood, was also gone, and the lid for the gas tank was lying alongside the burnt car, but the hood was down in place but not fastened.

The tracks where the car had been driven, on gravel, off the main road were plainly visible, but there were no signs of skid marks which would indicate the vehicle had gone out of control.

It appeared as though the rear of the car had burnt more than the front but the gas tank had not exploded and the rear tire, curiously, escaped the fire. It was completely burnt. On the inside of the car, the intense heat had melted the bumper, steel melted the windows and leaving nothing under the car, destroying the dash of the car. Nothing was found inside the vehicle.

The color of the car was identified by the tire tracks where the heat had not burnt it off. It was a beige and the left front fender, which was also under had been damaged before the fire.

FOUND IN WOODS

The car was about 50 feet off the road in a wood. There is no ditch at that point on either side of the traffic line.

The car had been proceeding in a northerly direction between St. George's Cemetery and the railway which crosses under the C.P.R. railway and had gone off the left hand side of the road.

The burning car was seen by Frank Amodeo, 102 Spring Street. When he arrived in Trenton he reported it to Constable Jack Martin, on duty at the police sation at the time.

The constable immediately informed the fire department and Constable Jack Graham in Carlton and they proceeded to the scene, after informing Constable Jack Martin of the Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, who will investigate the case.

Conservatives Take Credit for Hospital Plan

TORONTO (CP) — The hospital insurance plan to come into effect in Ontario next July 1 is the "direct result" of initiatives taken by the province's Progressive Conservative government, Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender said Monday night.

In a CBC Provincial Affairs television broadcast, he attributed the successful organization of the plan to the policy of building up hospital resources and formation of the hospital services commission two years ago "to provide a unified and efficient administration which would guarantee the best possible service at the lowest possible cost."

As a result, he said, the province would be able to provide hospital treatment with all the normal services of staff, drugs, operating room and other services with absolutely no time limit. Formerly, it was for medical need of the patients."

Outlining the province's social welfare program, Mr. Warrender said its cost had increased from $120,000,000 in 1943 to $43,000,000 for the current year.

On education, he said provincial school grants were increased by $19,000,000 last year "and this year there is provision for an increase of $33,000,000. It represented total grants of $133,000,000, or an increase of 64 per cent in two years.

Man May Be Treated as Spies

BERLIN (AP)—An East German newspaper hinted today that the United States Army recently arrested after their helicopter made a forced landing behind the Iron Curtain might be treated as spies.

The East German army newspaper Die Volksarmee said the nine "have learned we . . . will not tolerate that our borders be overflown boldly to carry espionage."

"But the space over our territory is our air space and flying spies will be treated as such, the paper said.

American officials say the helicopter, belonging to the U.S. 3rd Armored Division in West Germany, got lost in a thunderstorm Saturday, strayed over the East German frontier and ran out of fuel.

AUTOMATION AND THE RECESSION

The London Conference of the United Church has urged the federal government to consider the effects of automation on displaced workers.

This is advice worth heeding.

Alarmist statements about the coming impact of automation were commonplace a couple of years ago, at the height of our boom. Before the high tide of prosperity receded, though, the more realistic and progressive labor leaders had made it plain that they shared with management the opinion that automation would eventually improve the lot of workers and provide more, rather than fewer, jobs. They were worried, though, about the transition period.

It is rather strange that, when the recession came, there were few comments about the role which automation had played. It is pleasing to realize that there has been little effort to confuse the issue.

Still, this very realism conceals a danger -- and it is that in recognizing that automation certainly has not been a primary cause of the growth of unemployment, we may overlook the possibility that it may prove an important factor in retarding the return of jobless workers to their former tasks.

An industry with a full staff, with a good production record, might hesitate to install expensive labor-saving machinery. But, it seems to us, any industry which suddenly found itself in the happy position of having to expand its productive facilities might be more likely to consider the advisability of doing this through the installation of automatic machines instead of hiring new, untried and untrained workers.

It would at least appear advisable to keep this possibility in sight and the London Conference of the United Church deserves thanks for its reminder.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

The May newsletter of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, under the heading "Times Have Changed," carried an item supplied by Mr. Ed. Logan, well-known local jeweller, dealing with instructions to employees of a department store, a number of years ago. (The Newsletter said that these were employment conditions prevailing in 1956, but this was obviously a misprint for 1856). How would you like to abide by these rules:

"Store must be open from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. the year round. Store must be swept; counters, bases, shelves and showcases dusted; lamps trimmed, filled and chimneys cleaned; pens made; doors and windows opened; a pail of water, also a bucket of coal brought in before breakfast (if there is time to do so). Store must not be opened on the Sabbath unless necessary and then only for a few minutes. The employee who is in the habit of smoking cigars, being absent at the Sabbath day's going to dances and other places of amusement will surely give his employer reason to be suspicious of his integrity and honesty. Each employee must not pay less than $5.00 per year to the church and must attend Sunday school regularly. Men employees are given one evening a week for courting and two if they go to a prayer meeting."

Seems to us if a male employee had a yen to court anything it must have been death and if he prayed, it must have been for deliverance.

CERTAINLY EAGER TO WORK

Bill Clearsley, district forester at Sudbury, thinks the recession is responsible for a number of bush fires in that district.

There have been fires deliberately set this year and Clearsley believes those responsible were looking for work.

Fire fighters, he says, receive 65c to $1 an hour "and taking into consideration that they work from 12 to 14 hours a day, it can amount to $14 a shift." That, he adds, "is pretty good money for an unemployed person."

If he is right, these jobless people are certainly menaces. But one thing we will have to grant: It disposes of the argument that the unemployed really do not want to work. Anybody who would risk jail for an opportunity to work 12 to 14 hours at a stretch at 65 cents to a $1 an hour certainly cannot be classed as lazy.

Political incompatibility has been advanced as a grounds for divorce in an action taken in Turkey. The wife of eight weeks said her husband had deserted her because of her support for a party other than his own. Wait until Hollywood hears of this. (Ottawa Journal.)

THE BIG FISH

The big fish often gets away—
The fact is trite,
Because the big fish has the strength
To make a fight.

The little fish are quickly caught
The fill the pan,

But taking a big one oft requires
A skillful man.

Wait not your luck when fish escape,
As many do.
The big fish may have better fought
His fight than you.

Toothpicks And Riches

By Stephen Spackleton

The time was, in the late Victorian and Edwardian eras, when every affluent business executive ate with a quill toothpick. In use, it was conceived obviously by a rich man. Affixed to him, at rest, it was tucked away in a vest pocket, possibly at the other end of the gold watch chain which decorated a prosperous paunch.

Lesser men used wood toothpicks, and while some still do, we think that toothpicks cannot be picked as rather than pickling probably has resulted in any conception of oral hygiene sponsored by the toothpaste and allied industries. A few words, picks still hold sandwiches together, are about in demand. Judiciously simmered in Martinis, or cosey shrimps to tomato juice cocktails, they are mouths of gourmets.

But the day of the toothpick, as a pick, is past — and that's why we found intriguing the comment made by Mr. Speaker in Commons the other day by Mr. Donald Fleming, MP, Eglinton, Toronto-Aberdeen, B.C. Urging more trade with Communist China, he pointed out what would be the economic quotation of the current swing.

"If we could get only one toothpick a day into the mouths of the Chinese," he declared, "the forest industry in British Columbia would be busy."

That's quite a thought, we thought. But we imagine an aggression advertising campaign would be needed to "get" a toothpick into anybody's mouth; the prying open of jaws or vital forcible feeding would be necessary. Such methods obtain in the People's Republic. The Chinese, of course, would have to persuade 600,000,000 thrifty Chinese to throw away toothpicks after the end of each day, so that the B.C. forest industry would remain healthy and wealthy.

We think Mr. McQuillan might have more success with other forest products — chopsticks for instance. Why not a campaign to "get" a pair of wooden chopsticks between the thumb and forefinger of every world food eater? They would not be thrown away every day, of course, but they're bigger than toothpicks and much fewer, of them would make a tree. But as for trying to get daily toothpicks into the mouths of all those Chinese, we think the B.C. MP is barking up the wrong one.

Eaton's Views Healthy Sign

New York Herald Tribune

In this capitalist nation, few capitalists can equal Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland, if the extent of the domain he dominates.

It is rather comical to learn that Mr. Eaton has now been subpoenaed to appear before the Un-American Activities Committee. Its chairman, Rep. Francis Walter, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, declared: "I challenge at some recent comments of Eaton's which I urged an accommodation with the Soviets, (2) criticized the public admiration of the F. B. I. as a dangerous tendency, in a free society, to glorify the police. Both points of view are defensible, and even if they were not, he has a constitutional right to them.

We haven't agreed with many of Eaton's positions, but we think it is a very healthy thing, and a heartening affirmation of the pluralistic nature of our society, to have so wealthy a man taking such outspokenly non-conformist positions.

Missing Child Was on Trip

Montreal Gazette

Late on Saturday afternoon, Fred Ariano and his wife were preparing for an overnight trip to Plattsburg. It was a family affair: they were taking their two daughters, aged three and four, with them. Left alone, little Claire Lapointe, the child of a neighbor, was visiting the Ariano home. She would be delighted to come too.

Claire was told, very definitely, that she must have her parents' permission before she could go. She was sent home to get permission, and to get overnight clothes.

After two tries, the Ariano evidently persuaded her that they meant it. Claire returned to the third time, with overnight kit including a doll, a sweater, pyjamas, and extra shoes, and said she had the permission needed.

So the happy weekend party left town. Unknown to the party there was one little thing wrong: Claire hadn't got the permission she was going!

Within the next 24 hours, several hundred police, Boy Scouts and volunteers scoured the district for the child. The City of St. Michel posted a $500 reward for her return. Lines of instruction firms contributed searchlights for the search through fields, culverts, sewers were checked.

At least once in every part-ularly like those terrible hours ity life tragedy comes to when the child is suddenly found. In most cases, there is no real need for worry. The child is quietly asleep in some private home-phone at home—or visiting a friend.

Children, happy in their own surroundings, do not run away. Mother is worrying about them. It is the neighborly thing to let Mother know where her child is.

Little Claire Lapointe proved that it isn't good enough to leave the message to the child to deliver. A thoughtful neighbor might distract the child from delivering the message. It is necessary for the parents of the child to be told, directly.

Strength for The Day

FACING A NEW AGE

Centuries ago men started from the eastern shores of the Mediterranean Sea and sailed to the Pillars of Hercules, which we today call Gibraltar. What a stupendous achievement! Surely, it would never be surpassed. Then a seafaring man named Columbus crossed the Atlantic and discovered a new land. Then another sailed around the world. Men went into uncharted waters and formed conceptions of the earth which were not even indicated on maps. And now men's eyes are turned heavenward.

One necessarily writes at this time in a transitional period. These articles are written a little in advance of publication, but may the situation be when the world I am writing find their way into print? By the time we — or holy I may have encircled the moon. We may have landed on some planet, known or unknown. It might just be that some race from a distant spot in the universe may visit this time have landed on our planet. Merciful heaven! What next? May one of our great generals be the man to surmise that the next war may be interplanetary. Shall we be running weekend excursions to the moon for sightseers out within a decade?

Even the smallest invention or scientific discovery changes the way of life slightly. What will take place in every age and existence if we begin cruising through the heavens?

We had better get our lives on firm foundations of faith, clear our minds of confusion, for acts of prejudice and selfishness if we expect to be adequate to the coming new age.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is a superb calm about a railway ticket office. Amid the steadily changing scene of our lives in this headlong era, a railway ticket office is like a cave beneath the waves. It has the curious peace of a concrete bunker in an air raid.

Out of the clatter, clank a n d bang of the city you step into a stillness that — only by a sad shuffling. That's your feet, as you walk, slightly abashed, over to one of the clerks at the wicket.

You are, say, fourth. That's in the shortest queue. You peer over the shoulders ahead of you. There are a few muttered words.

The ticket agent has the telephone receiver cocked between his shoulder and his ear. Nothing moves. At the heads of the adjoining queues, customers, half elbowed into the wickets, are muttering to other clerks.

The clerks move slowly. They reach back to racks and pick out pink or beige slips of paper, and somberly pick up telephones to cock between shoulder and ear. Then they start to write. Five clerks, with telephones cocked between shoulder and ear. They do not speak.

Nobody moves. Nobody speaks. You are beginning to sweat. Your blood starting to slow. Your pulse slackens. The tremors of the workaday outside. You sag.

And there the five clerks stand, motionless, the telephones cocked between shoulder and ear, hearing nothing.

SURVIVORS OF HEART AT YACK HAVE GOOD CHANCE OF LONG LIFE

"Dear. Dr. Molner: Will you help my relative feel that his life is not over just because he had an acute coronary occlusion? He has a good doctor but needs assistance to give him reason to hope. — Mrs. M. K."

I'll certainly try. Three quarters of the people who have had a heart attack will easily survive but go back to work.

Dr. Arthur Master states that 75 to 85 per cent of patients surviving an acute coronary are able to resume gainful occupation. He further says it is important that they work. Their work performance is good, and the life span is not affected.

True, some victims die within hours after heart attacks — but it is just as true that some of us do not survive pneumonia, or being shot, or hit by a car, or whatever.

When a heart attack strikes, it is indeed a time of danger. The patient must be kept utterly quiet, and as calm as possible. The doctor needs a large, well-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover postage.

Dr. Molner welcomes all readers' mail, but finds, because of the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individually. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Girl Cyclist In New York

Meyer Berger in the New York Times

Every workday morning since last September a comely girl has pedaled up Madison Avenue from Twenty-third to Fifty-sixth street in New York City on a slender English bicycle. She makes the trip in about twelve minutes, hitches the machine to a parking rest in one of the walls around the Metropolitan Parking Machines Corporation parking lot, proceeds to the I.B.M. Building at Fifty-seventh street, at early evening, she pushes south to her home in Greenwich Village over Third avenue.

Traffic cops have come to know the lone woman pedaler. They smilingly wave her on her way. Cab drivers, who usually clash for her passing, and men and women afoot on Gray Flannel Boulevard stare from doorways and windows. Most of them seem to think she is eccentric, and she knows it, but she doesn't mind. For her there's nothing eccentric about a fallen arch. It's because of a fallen arch I prefer to ride a bicycle to work, standing in a crowded bus."

The girl is Phyllis Shaw. She works as editorial associate on Field-Wild News, an I.B.M. house organ. She started bicycling to work when she was in the American Embassy in Paris, five years ago. Girl cyclists are not unusual at there, but she finds New York-bound cyclists rare. Most people sports-car buckos who like to lean out and suggest dates, but few go to Madison avenue bus drivers. They seem to love to run interference for her. Sometimes. Some have thrust their bulk across a street to give her more free of competition.

Miss Shaw owns Bacchus, a 10-speed Continental cycle. Bacchus, she explains, has a lot of extra gear that since his mistress can't walk any great distance with him, she flings him from her bedroom, but, takes him out to the park and when she gets him down and pats him until his tongue sweats the gravel. One hot day last summer she turned loose in Central Park Plaza and he went wading in Miss Shaw's fountain pool. The fourth was just right for him — about four inches.

Another time Bacchus rode to the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of Sabbath where he and his kindly monsignor there suggested she was not to make a habit of it, and she doesn't.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HAVE FAITH. GO-FORWARD

Edison, which proved to be a brilliant public message to his fellow men, should be read by every American during these troublesome and even terrifying times. They should be framed and hung in a place that can be seen several times a day. Edison's message to you is: "Be courageous. Have faith in yourself. Go forward!"

I would like to see those brave words boxed in easily read type and have them published in every newspaper in America. Edison lived his words, and during a remarkably long life he gave advice and counsel to millions — and people read and listened when he had something to say. Edison will live forever as one of the world's great men.

"Have faith! Go forward!" Well that was what Edison applied to himself. At one time I lived a few miles from his workshop laboratory. One night there was a big fire that burned to the ground his big building in New Jersey, but before the night was over he had men working on the ruins and plans for a new building. That is the way things went with him. He had vision. He was a great inventor. He could have been worth billions, but many means nothing to him that couldn't be turned into immediate cash. He was always further experiments to benefit mankind. His lights burn brighter than ever.

Winning Students Get Awards

Award winning students admire the Howard Award given by Jean Elizabeth Mitchell of Granby, Quebec, following Monday's convocation at Albert College. The Howard Award, donated by Dr. Bert Howard, former college principal, is presented to the finest representative lady student. proud to admit you attended Albert College. This history of success and Albert have points of similarity. They have both had hardships and lean years in the past but also they had friends who stood behind them when they all most had to close their doors. There is a fine tradition behind them and you have received good academic training.

"Some of you I know are going on to other schools, but to those who do not I want to say this, education should not end when you leave Albert College. Some of the most celebrated graduates of Queen's are people who went to work before they had completed Senior Matriculation and then decided to get more education. For these people Extension courses are provided.

NO BETTER EQUIPMENT

"In this school you have 22 students from overseas, and from them you have learned an understanding of other races. I do not know of any better equipment for taking your place in the world than the understanding of the virtues and complishments of other peoples.

"Another reason I am convinced you will be proud you came here is the spiritual motivation that is stressed in this college. This gives you an armament that is very necessary.

Mr. Edmison quoted a speech of Dr. MacNeill called "Have You Anything Better?" The question was, what have you in your heart or mind to admit you to the abundant life? No normal youth wills to be nameless and lone, but it takes faith to live easy. The equipment needed is character and the ability to do something extremely well. Man is a skill-hungry animal, but the price must be paid.

"How lucky you are to be living now," the speaker continued. "Tremendous things are happening, and you are going to have a share in them. There are exciting things ahead and it is up to you to grasp them. This is an exciting life awaiting you in Canada, the most promising nation on earth.

College Grounds at Sparkling Best as Convocation Day Is Observed at Albert

Picture taking has become an important part of Convocation Day, and on Monday afternoon at Albert College almost everyone was equipped with a camera. Events were recorded on movie film, colored slides, photographer's plates, and just plain black and white film. Two ones with color had the advantage for the green grass and lawn, lay walks and shrubbery, gay flowerbeds, girl students in long white dresses carrying nosegays of sweetpeas, the young men in navy jackets, gray flannels and ties striped with the gold and black of the Albert colors, the faculty members in gowns with the various colors of the hoods and the guests in summer clothes.

That was the picture outside, and inside the colors were echoed in a bouquet of bronze and yellow 'mums with potted ferns around the rostrum, as the academic procession filed in to the strains of Mendelssohn's March of the Priests played by Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Boyce at the organ and piano.

Following the Invocation by the Rev. James C. Eastcott of Tabernacle Church, Dean Principal of the school, the Rev. Dr. A. E. MacKenzie welcomed the parents and guests. In welcoming the year Dr. MacKenzie noted that it had been a satisfactory one with the largest registration in the history of Albert College, 302 students. Mr. Irwin had been appointed House Master of Graham Hall following the resignation of Mr. N. A. Beach, who had left to become executive secretary of S.P.S.S.A.

In May Judge J. C. Anderson was unanimously elected chairman of the Board of Governors and it was felt that he would give interested and competent leadership in this position.

The principal mentioned the sense of loss in the death of Fred Deacon, who with his brother John, had given the organ in the chapel in memory of their father, the chairman of the building committee for the new Albert.

Newly-elected members to the Board are Mrs. Keefer, Mrs. Hay, Mr. Punchard, Mr. Baxter, Mrs. Drysdale, Magistrate Phillips of Peterborough and Judge Smith of Manotee. Members-at-large are J. D. H. Hutchinson, Toronto; Aubrey Oldham, Ottawa; and Messrs. J. D. Demers, Bryson Leslie and Stuart Robb of Belleville.

RAISE STANDARDS

The Senate has decided that a student who has two or more failures in the final examination will not be admitted as a student. It is hoped this will greatly strengthen and raise the academic standard. Registrations are at a high level and the prospects for next year are bright.

Dr. MacKenzie indicated his sense of indebtedness to the Women's Guild, to his colleagues on the staff, the Board members, Alumni, and parents. Some of the parents had come from as far as Peru and Bermuda to be present on this occasion.

The Rev. Dr. Bert Howard represented Albert College at the funeral of the late Dr. Charles Bishop in Toronto on Monday afternoon and one minute of silence was observed in memory of the former principal.

Valedictorian Carolyn Franklin spoke for the graduating sisters saying, "This is the day to which we have looked forward for weeks, months, even years. But now we feel it has arrived too soon, and while there is sadness in our hearts there is every confidence in the future because of the training we have received here. Today is the time we look back in friendly retrospect. We recall the football games, the Hallowe'en party, the drama club's presentation, the many birthday parties at the Manor, the relition and life weekend, all will live in our memories for years to come.

"We have benefited in many ways, by mastering the problem of study, we have learned tolerance and how to get along with others. We have been taught sportsmanship and new skills, we have learned leadership by taking part in the chapel services and the building of Christian character. We have been shown patience and tolerance by the faculty, and what-ever success we may have they have helped and we will share any triumph with them. To our parents may I say I hope you will always be as proud of us as you are today.

"Each of us will encounter problems in the future but the knowledge, courage and skill acquired here will help us meet them. Distances may separate us but will not dim our memories of staff and friends towards which our loyalties will never wane."

The presentation of a year book was made to Mr. J. Geneja of the maintenance department by Carolyn Franklin. Dr. MacKenzie commenced that it was the opinion of all that this year's "Alibi" of which Carolyn was editor, was the best issue to date.

"There are many things we should not borrow,' she said, 'such as other people's ills and tomorrow's troubles, which may never come. Teachers have a wonderful opportunity and wonderful opportunity in passing on to their pupils the ideals they received from their teachers. They have the privilege of inspiring in them a love of nature, the love of beauty and the desire to build a new world."

After an executive meeting, they all enjoyed refreshments prepared by members of Women's Aid, and served by Sunday School girls of a younger Auxiliary in St. Andrew's.

In opening the meeting in the afternoon, Mrs. C. A. Smart, Presbyterial president, spoke on the theme "Neglect Not the Gift That Is In You." The Rev. M. C. Young, minister of St. Andrew's Church, held a short, fitting service, and Mrs. Fred Sankey, president of the Gananoque Auxiliary, happily welcomed the visitors.

An unusual and most interesting event took place; the president presented Mrs. M. B. What is our vision, future mission work in Canada and overseas?" she described the work among Indians in Canada, discouraging for a time, but becoming more and more important, particularly in education and in medical services. She also spoke of the work among the Chinese in Canada, which Chinese Christians themselves are now helping to carry on; of meeting immigrants, and of systematic hospital visiting. She spoke of Agnes Gollan in Nigeria and her remarkable progress in learning the language; of Miss Bulmer, who is going out to help her, of a physiotherapist who will work among the lepers, and of a Nigerian student now at Knox College; of Margaret Mackenzie, who has gone back to Formosa to teach both children and theological students; Miss Betty Walker will visit Auxiliaries in this Presbyterial in the autumn.

Mrs. Weir, Belleville, vice-president of the Presbyterial, heartily thanked Mrs. Curr.

'Well Tressed' Hair Will Be Summer Order

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — French designers have come up with a plan to keep the hair "well tressed" this summer, despite the ravages of salt water, sun and sand. Pierre Cardin's charming caps and turbans are among the best protective ideas in Paris.

Carita, the hairdresser, sponsors little wigs made of real hair. They are becoming more and more in evidence.

The trend is to adopt some manner of headcovering at all times. If it is not a wig or whimsical beach-hat, it can be one of the milliner's bathing caps, made of such newsworthy media as rubber or plastic, and styled with all the allure of an Easter bonnet.

Swimming caps for functional purposes no longer have to make the look something like a hardboiled egg. They are draped, pleated, folded and trimmed by actual millinery techniques, and are as frankly becoming as the clothes they cover.

Another new accessory idea is "headache" bands of terry cloth, the hairline, with locks fluffed out like a souffle behind.

Fashion is going to play a leading role in holiday wardrobes this year. An example is the rivals Carita's wigs has been devised by another Parisian hairdresser, Nino. The effect of a loose and casual, shoulder-length bobbed hair, composed of silk squares and matched exactly to the client's own hair color and texture by a sample lock which she provides. The price to order from Nino runs about $70. They take about 10 days to make.

The Lanvin - Castillo boutique has turned big silk scarves into sport shirts and overblouses made of two large squares forming the front and back, with border designs of leaves and vines forming the shoulders. Styles are bold brush stroke patterns of leaves, birds and flowers.

Wife of PM Given Honor

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. John G. Diefenbaker, wife of the prime minister, has been made "Canadian patron of Youth Aliyah" at a meeting of Hadassah Organization of Toronto Monday.

The award, the highest Canadian honor Hadassah gives, was made by national President Mrs. W. Bloves at a luncheon to compliment the Toronto group on giving $91,296 to Youth Aliyah, an organization founded with resettling Jewish children in Israel.

Mrs. Diefenbaker told the group: "The future of a nation lies with its children, and the people of Israel and people like yourselves who assist them, are doing a great work. I admire your kindness, generosity and efficiency and I wish you continued success."

Aussie Immigration Policy Suffers From Lack of Girls

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)— Since the war Australia has taken in more than a million migrants. Now it's trying to correct a little slip in the proceedings—a lack of girls.

Australia has received about 180,000 more men than women in the key group aged 20-29, officially described as the "marrying group," there are some 50,000 lonely male hearts. Most of them are Italians and all the hearts.

Church circles favor proxy marriages to help the lonely males get brides from their own homelands, because such marriages cut a lot of red tape and get the girls out here faster.

Government Immigration authorities, however, say it is better-if women come here on careful consideration rather than following an impulse. Authorities fear that hasty proxy arrangements often lead to broken marriages and unhappiness.

The government therefore is trying to step up its female migrate a little more, especially from Greece and Italy.

BOISTEROUS WELCOME

The big liners that bring up to 2,000 migrants a month from Britain and Europe carry scores of girls, and a few weeks after the liner docks, Australia is packed with some 200 brides-to-be.

Twenty-seven were proxy wives and the rest were to be married in Sydney. All had left their fortune hunted in Greece.

But not only their future husbands were at the wharf to welcome them. Each of the eager Greeks had brought about 10 friends and relatives along.

When the proxy brides appeared at the wharf for identification, many men tried to scale the gates.

Another time hundreds of screaming and gesticulating Greek and Italian husbands-to-be pelted police and customs officials in a wild whirlwide demonstration, trying to crash through the barriers to join their young brides.

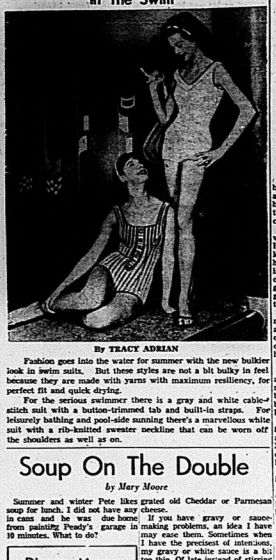
In The Swim



By TRACY ADRIAN

Fashion goes into the water for summer with the new bulkier look in swim suits. But these styles are not a bit bulky in feel because they are made with yarns with maximum resiliency, for perfect fit and quick drying.

For the serious swimmer there is a gray and white cable-stitch suit with a button-trimmed tab and built-in straps. For leisurely bathing and pool-side sunning there's a sun-yellow white suit with a rib-knitted sweater neckline that can be worn off the shoulders as well as on.

So far as I know, what follows is original, but I suppose I'll hear from lots of you saying you have been making potato soup from instant potato powder since the Year One.

EMEM'S QUICK POTATO SOUP:

The white part of 2 green onions, 2 large branches of parsley, 1½ tablespoons butter, 1 chicken bouillon cube, ¼ cup each water and instant potato powder, 2½ cups milk. Chop the onions and parsley finely and saute gently in the butter in a large saucepan until limp but not one bit brown. Add water and bouillon cube and bring to boil for 2 minutes then add milk and bring to scalding, and gradually stir in potato powder. Bring to boiling and serve. If you have time, sprinkle top with finely chopped parsley. If you want to make it fancier and more nourishing, sprinkle sparingly with grated old Cheddar or Parmesan cheese.

If you have gravy or sauce-making problems, an idea I have may ease them. Sometimes when I have the prettiest of intentions, my gravy or white sauce is a bit too thin. Or late instead of stirring up an additional dab of flour paste, I slowly sprinkle packaged potato powder over, while I stir until it is exactly the right thickness. This never lumps if you sprinkle slowly and stir constantly, and is a boon to a harassed cook 2 or 3 minutes in advance of serving time.

More potato powder tips: Mary J., who as you know is one of my cooking buddies, uses it every time she wants mashed potatoes. Since the boys are married, she and Cliff are alone and enjoying their garden and she takes advantage of all the cooking shortcuts.

Instant potato powder made up into mashed potatoes as a high speed topping for a Shepherd's Pie cannot be excelled. Swirl your fork around to peak it up when applied over the meat filling, then brush it with beaten egg yolk. When it is baked it has that finish characteristic of professionals.

You will remember that one of our readers, expecting guests any minute, found that her devilled egg filling was too sloppy, in desperation she reached for the potato powder and timidly sprinkled a little in then tasted — then tasted. It was good! She wrote: "Best ever — my devilled egg filling will always contain a little . . ." end of quote.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Cell F. — Harriet shouldn't break up her marriage.

Harriet S. — Anything would be better than this.

Cell F. — My sister is about to break up a marriage of ten years and I feel she is making a big mistake, especially in view of the fact that she has four small children.

I know Harriet's husband is a very hard man to get along with. He gives her a terribly small allowance every week and makes them account for every penny. He is sometimes harsh with the children and is very stubborn in general. Nevertheless, he is a good man and sincerely devoted to his family.

If she leaves him, I know Harriet can't go around looking for another husband with four children on her hands. If either children will grow up and leave her and she'll be left alone.

Harriet S. — I've thought about this thing. Cell brings up and realize how hard it's going to be, but I feel almost anything would be better than enduring what I am now going through.

I haven't had a new dress in four years. Every week there is a big battle over the allowance. My husband checks the prices of every item of food in the house. He becomes furious if I slip up on some bargain that is offered or if anything goes to waste.

I don't want to bring up the children without a father in the home, but I think no father would be better for them than to have to witness these weekly scenes. The children are gradually getting to hate their father.

The Council: The life Harriet describes is indeed almost unendurable, yet she would be making a mistake to break up her marriage without a strenuous effort to change things.

For one thing: does she really believe she will be any better off financially when she has to collect an allowance from this same husband while he is supporting two households?

She will have certain legal rights, it is true, but the actual amount of money available under those rights may be much less than she supposes — and she may have her troubles collecting.

For another thing, does she believe her children will love their father more when they are deprived of whatever good they can gain from his company? Like most children in this situation they will probably feel their father has deserted them.

There must be good reason for Cell to say this man is basically good and sincerely devoted to his family. His children must in some way be aware of this devotion.

Harriet should recognize her husband's behavior is the result of some personality disturbance. She must try to make him recognize this too.

Money in itself does not cause anyone to behave in any specific way. It is a powerful symbol, representing power and the ability to offer or withhold good.

Harriet's husband is probably in need of some psychiatric help, but he will have to be led in easy stages.

Possibly Harriet can first lead him to the office of a community agency dealing with family problems or to a clergyman with the object of discussing their marital difficulties.

TOMATO JUICE SERVED IN LIVING-ROOM BEFORE DINNER CAN ADD "PARTY-TOUCH"

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

My husband and I and my sister and her husband are teetotalers. She and I like to give informal little dinners (usually for six), and we each serve tomato juice first. But I serve this as the first course, at the dining-room table, and she serves it in their living-room, the filled glasses teach on a small glass plate, with a little napkin, while paper napkin folded on the side of the plate): with this drink she always offers two kinds of simple crackers, heated, one salted, one bland. She and I differ about this service. I think this should be regarded as a first course, therefore served at the table, while she says she thinks her way of doing is more interesting, adds a "party-touch." Do you approve of her service or of mine? — E. E.

I approve of her service, agree with her that her service "is more interesting, adds a "party-touch." I admire very much the hostess who makes an act of this gracious procedure with these simple and perfectly served items. It can be a cozy prologue to dinner (or luncheon), pleasant companionship, leisurely talk. Some hostesses also makes a feature of serving very small and very special canapes, hot as well as cold, with the tomato juice.

Practical Hardwood

Hardwood flooring has been a favorite of American homeowners since the rough hewn oak plan of colonial times, to today's scientific kiln-dried hardwoods.

Hardwood flooring is famed for its durability . . . often outlasting the life of a home. Also hardwood flooring is still the accepted standard of quality in home construction. Today the manufacturing ingenuity of the hardwood industry has reduced costs, so that hardwood flooring can be used in even the most modest priced homes.

Oak is the most widely used hardwood. Hard maple, beech, birch and pecan rank next.

NEW WEAPONS FOR SOVIET ARMY

De Gaulle Banking Heavily On His Personal Prestige

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If Charles de Gaulle's Algerian speeches had been made by anyone but his despised predecessors in office, the probable response would have been cynical derision, harshly tinged with violence. The general's half-promise to integrate the French- and Moslem inhabitants of France's curdled North African province, his qualified praise and qualified rebuke of the insurgent movement that put him into power and his hedged proposal to enfranchise the Arabs for elections to a representative body indicate a flair for walking on eggs with the same gentle tread as predecessor Fourth Republic.

He is banking heavily on his personal prestige, both with the army and with the disparate elements of the civilian population on both sides of the Mediterranean. For the moment most Frenchmen appear willing to give him his chance. But there are disturbing signs that his luck hardly may soon be challenged.

OUTSPOKEN CRITIC

Most outspoken of the rightists who engineered the Algerian coup is Leon Delbecque, vice-president of the Algerian committee of public safety, who warned openly late last week that he was busy "continuing the revolution" and that there were further strongholds to be taken" before victory was won.

Delbecque's frankness is reported to have been deplored by his colleagues, but they are understandably uneasy at the continuing presence of such left-wing adversaries as former premiers Guy Mollet and Pierre Pflimlin in the de Gaulle cabinet. As enigmatic as the general himself is the performance of the French Communist party throughout the period of his accession to power.

Despite the fiery eloquence of the party's deputies in the assembly, the threatened revolt of the Communist - dominated trade unions failed to materialize. Apart from joining in a peaceful protest demonstration with non-Communist workers in Paris, they have submitted tamely to de Gaulle's investiture.

REDS BIDING TIME

Two explanations have been offered for the Communists' mysterious quiescence: That they were unprepared and hardly organized to cope with the emergency and that they are biding their time against the anticipated failure of the general to reestablish his authority.

The refusal of Mollet, the Socialist leader, to make common cause with the Communists in the Popular Front—deplored by many left - wing commentators abroad—has left them a powerful but isolated minority, incapable or unwilling to stir up trouble on their own.

It has also given de Gaulle a little more breathing space. For the present, he is distrusted by the left for the circumstances under which he gained the premiership and by the right for failure to take up the politics of the men who called him to power. But he has not yet alienated either faction.

ARMY UNITED

For the moment, the army is united behind him. Its lack of sympathy with politicians appears to extend to their temporary allies in Algiers as much as to the parliamentarians in Paris.

The next move remains up to de Gaulle. Eventually he must either risk displeasing some of those who have rallied to his banner or face the accusation of yielding to the same indecision and compromise that has paralyzed French governments for a generation.

His prestige remains high. And he must count upon it heavily in the difficult months ahead.

HOUSE MEANDERS

The anti-pollution resolution was along the same lines as a measure sponsored by Prime Minister Diefenbaker when an opposition member. Mr. Stefanson quoted from his speeches on the subject.

One hint of possible government thinking came when Richard A. Bell (PC-Carleton) called the problem a "decently" decisive, yes, drastic action."

R. P. Vivian (PC-Durham), a former Ontario health minister, said industrial and domestic pollution of lakes and rivers was considered an urgent problem in 1913. It could be imagined how much greater the need is today considering Canada's expanded industry and population.

Mr. Bell, parliamentary assistant for finance in the last parliament, said Mr. Stefanson's resolution was not a final answer but a basic element of Mr. Diefenbaker's resources development policy.

NEED CO-OPERATION

The country could not afford pollution and it should be solved by "research, dominion-provincial-municipal, and industrial co-operation and by appropriate penalties . . ."

Mr. Bell complained that the Ottawa River in the Ottawa area is a prime offender and "incredibly contaminated." Atomic energy was a factor that must be reckoned with in future Canadian sewage problems.

Dr. Vivian and Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) agreed that the Ontario Water Resources Commission could cover the Ontario situation.

Rodolphe Leduc (L-Gatineau) said the Ottawa River is an "open sewer" but any solution must await a conference among the federal and Ontario and Quebec governments. Quebec would first have to acknowledge its responsibility in that field.

TYPHOID POSSIBLE

P. B. Rynard (PC-Simcoe East), a medical doctor, said pollution is of real concern and of even a temporary breakdown in purification plants would pose a typhoid threat.

Margaret Aitken (PC-York-Humber) called sewage dumping in rivers "downright barbarous."

Murdo Martin (CCF Timmins) said the longer a solution is put off, the more difficult and expensive it will be.

C. Milligan (PC-Prince Edward-Lennox) suggested more federal assistance to municipal conservation projects.

One of Five Pregnancies End In Abortions

LONDON (Reuters) — A pathologist said during a television discussion Monday night that one of every five pregnancies in Britain ends in abortion.

The inquiry into abortion was televised late in the evening preceded by several warnings against allowing children to watch the program.

Five medical spokesmen, a gynaecologist, an obstetrician and two family doctors presented their views with the pathologist.

The pathologist said at one illegal operating centre in London ruburb the volume of business was so great that an auto pickup was run from the nearest subway station.

The aborted women were returned to the station after their operations, which cost £100. The pathologist said many of them became ill later because proper precautions against infection were not taken.

Abortion is allowed in Britain only when it is considered essential to save the life or health of the mother.

The obstetrician said abortion should be legal in special cases such as a strong danger the child would be badly deformed.

Massu Declares Algeria Will Remain French

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Gen. Jacques Massu told a crowd of Europeans and Moslems on Sunday that "Algeria will remain French."

Speaking at nearby Menerville as co-chairman of the all-Algeria public safety committee, Massu declared: "The movement of decadence has been halted and we know that Algeria will remain French."

He said "you civilians should remain hand-in-hand with the army, which permitted the demonstrations on May 13 to find their patriotic significance."

"The first stage is over," Massu said. "We have received Gen. de Gaulle officially in Algeria and he has given us specific directions."

De Gaulle was reported to have instructed the public safety movement not to infringe on the authority of legal government officials, but urged them to work for friendship between the races at odds for the last 3½ years while Moslem insurgents have been fighting French troops for Algerian independence.

He announced Moslems and French would vote equally in Algerian municipal elections in about three months and Algeria would participate with France in a referendum on a new French constitution.

Runaway Car Plunges Two Boys to Death

CAMERON, Ariz. (AP) — A runaway automobile plunged the two small sons of a vacationing family to their death in the gorge of the Little Colorado River Monday.

Coroner James Brierly said the parking brake apparently had not been engaged when Mr. and Mrs. Frank Qualls of Hereford, Tex., stepped out of the car to look at the scenery.

While the parents watched helplessly a short distance away, the car rolled about 15 feet, dropped off the table-like edge of the cliff and plummeted 500 to 600 feet to the bottom of the gorge.

The victims were James Qualls 5, and Harold, 15 months.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

This department, along with McFarland's manager, Drury Denyes, expects to attend the senior "A" confab tabbed for Hitchener this weekend. It is the first time in history that all senior "A" clubs and arena representatives have gathered around one discussion table — and much is expected to come out of the session.

Actually, as far as we can gather, the meeting has been called by the arena people, who through various spokesmen glumly predict the demise of senior "A" hockey unless something is done about it. It seems the arena blokes are of the opinion teams are player-pricing themselves clean out of contention. And since senior hockey is the main source of revenue to the arena boys, it is no wonder they have wrinkles on their collective brows.

It would seem from here that the only actually healthy organization, one with any prospects of an immediate future, is the Eastern Ontario League, spawned of one world champion, two national title-holders in a brief span of two years' existence. It must be healthy since a lot of other clubs are trying to climb aboard the eastern band wagon.

The latest to eye the eastern circuit with ideas of entry is the North Bay Trappers. Joe Dempsey of North Bay, quoted in the Pembroke Observer, is alleged to have said: "We had a good club last year, but the breaks killed us. In spite of what some newspaper people say, we'll prove we'll be back next year and they'll be tough. The new executive is already on the hunt for talent."

But Joe goes on, according to the Observer: "I think we might end up in your league next year. We are CANADIENS was OK for our league but there was too much travelling involved." (It's only 270 miles from Belleville to the Bay, as Don McNevin 'flies' it, via Algonquin Park. and brother we should know all about that.)

"The Eastern League has proved it is the best in the country" the man is quoted as saying, "so don't be surprised if the Trappers make application to join the loop for next season."

What a whale of a difference a couple of seasons make. A little over two years ago the Whitby Dunlops made application to the western division of the OHA for entry and were told the travelling distances were too great for teams like Windsor, Chatham, Stratford, etc. We'd like to have you Dunlops, just so soon. Now the shoe is on the other foot. The map of Ontario has shrunk to the point where distance does not mean a single solitary thing. "Let's get into the swim with the gritty gang."

Ron Craig, Observer sports editor, feels a North Bay entry in the league would add a little color to the circuit and from a North Bay standpoint, he says, the Eastern League could be just what the banker ordered to change the red ink to black. For the past couple of years, (ever since the championship club) the Trappers have taken a financial beating at the turnstiles, Master Craig points out.

Two years ago the lack of attendance was accepted with a shrug of the shoulders, North Bay officials seemed to think the formation of the OHL-NOHA would keep the wolf from the door. They were wrong. The big, bad wolf huffed and puffed, Craig says, and the walls of the Trappers' money bins came tumbling down. Last week the team met to reorganize and go all out for a winner and a crowd pleaser.

Eastern League officials say they have had no application from North Bay as yet and they would not know at the moment what to do with it. The only thing they can do is pass-the-hole it until their own meeting when possibly other entries like Ottawa-Hull Canadiens, on a full time basis, and the new Hull Volants will likely be presented, and rightly so, for consideration.

Something about this situation will likely be learned at the meeting this weekend when the arena boys will attempt to tell the clubs what they should do or should not do. Rumors have it the arenas will go all out questing a minimum salary range for senior "A" players. Whether it could be a good idea but team officials would have to be put on their honor.

Eight now eastern senior circuit clubs already are shopping, as is North Bay. Kingston is going all out in an effort to get an Allan Cup winner (more power to their elbows) next season, and have already laid the foundation of what appears to be the nucleus of a strong club. Pembroke and Cornwall will be in the swim ere long, regardless of what arena managers think or contrive to do.

Booster clubs are springing up all over the eastern area. These clubs will raise money to help the teams purchase players and other financial needs. Kingston has a big booster outfit in the making and the story has it that Pembroke and Cornwall will follow suit.

It seems to us the arena boys are going to have their work cut out telling hockey officials what to do. After all, if senior "A" hockey folds what will the arenas do then, poor things, for winter revenue. Wrestling is not that good a drawing card.

Willie Slumps With Club Now Only Half Game Ahead; Red Sox in Tie for Second

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four days ago nobody could get Willie Mays out. He was 7-for-7 and 16-for-19, gaining 28 points and taking the National League batting lead at .433.

He hasn't had a hit since, going 0-for-12, losing 25 points and tumbling back to .408, almost where he was when the spurt started.

At .408 average is terrific, but Willie didn't do San Francisco Giants much good Monday, going 0-for-4 in a 3-0 defeat as once-beaten Bob Purkey won his eighth for Cincinnati Redlegs in the only game scheduled.

LEAD BY HALF-GAME

The defeat, their ninth in 13 games, relegated the Giants' first-place edge over Milwaukee Braves to a half-game and .003 percentage points, while the Redlegs took full charge of third place, 3½ games back.

Purkey, a righthander who never has had a winning season in the majors, won his fifth in a row with a six-hitter. He walked none and struck out three.

A two - run homer by Steve Bilko, his fourth, accounted for all the Redlegs in the fourth inning against southpaw Johnny Antonelli, who fell to 5-1. Reds, who have won seven of their last nine in a jump from seventh place, also had six hits.

Mays, once again second to St. Louis Cardinals' Stan Musial, who is .418—in the batting race, left four runners stranded. He flied out in the first inning after rookie Felipe Alou singled, tapped back to the mound after Alou had doubled in the sixth and hit into a force - out after pinch singles by Whitey Lockman and Ray Jablonski put runners on third and first in the eighth.

Boston Red Sox are on a tear, what with Ted Kluszewski hitting home runs and a six-game winning streak. The trouble is, they've done it all at home.

When the Red Sox hit the road, they hit the skids. They take off again a week from today.

Monday night's 9-4 victory over Detroit Tigers, which plunked the Tigers back into the American League cellar, put the Red Sox in a virtual tie for second place. They are .003 percentage points behind Kansas City Athletics. Both are 7½ games behind New York Yankees.

Baltimore Orioles defeated Cleveland Indians 5-2 and a 7-1, fourth - inning lead by Chicago White Sox was wiped out by rain at Washington in the only other games scheduled.

BIG THIRD INNING

The Red Sox, 18-10 in Boston's Fenway Park and 9-14 on the road, won with a six-run third inning triggered by Jensen's three-run homer.

It was Jim Piersall's 11th in seventh games and 14th of the year, one behind league-leader Bob Cerv of Kansas City. He also trails Cerv's leading runs-batted-in total of 45 by one. Piersall, in four Monday night while adding a double and single to the homer.

Frank Sullivan won his third against a lone defeat, giving up nine hits. Detroit Jack Crump fave up seven runs on seven hits in his 2 2-3 innings for the Tigers, who have lost five of their last seven games.

Gus Triandos hit his 12th homer with two on in the first inning for the Orioles, who rode in on the four - hit pitching of Billy O'Dell.

In the last 8 1-3 innings, the 25-year-old southpaw faced only 26 men, one over the minimum. Cal McLish (2-3) was the loser for the Indians.

Case Thinks Bean Ball Rule Nothing But a Huge Joke

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel doesn't think much of the new bean ball rule which would result in a $50 fine to a pitcher warned by an umpire for throwing at a batter.

"I not only think it won't work," said the manager of New York Yankees, "but I think it's all one huge joke."

Stengel said he was officially notified of the new rule before New York's game with Cleveland Indians Saturday when he and Indians general manager Bobby Bragan were briefed by four umpires. When they were through, umpire John Stevens asked if Stengel understood.

"I said 'no and I don't think you do either'," Stengel said Monday.

The umpires said that if they even suspected any pitcher of intentionally throwing at a hitter they would give him an official warning. This was to be reported to the league president, who would then notify the pitcher he had been fined $50.

"A LITTLE WILD"

"The game begins," continued Stengel, "and eventually a kid named Bell comes in to pitch for the other side. He's a little wild, you see, and he digs it in there a little too much. He knows enough to duck eight balls at my third baseman's head and twice he makes Mickey Mantle skin rope.

"Every time he does this, my guys holler, "Hey, Stevens, what about that one?"

"This here Stevens, he don't even turn around. He just pays no attention to anyone and never even says a word to the kid pitcher. Not that I expected him to.

"After all, how much is the Cleveland club paying this kid anyway? If he gets fined $50, he probably has to give the league all his salary. They wouldn't want to do that. The boy shouldn't play for nothing you know."

Maple Leafs Win Over All-Stars

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — After a stiff seven-inning struggle, Toronto Maple Leafs edged Frank Colman's Intercounty All-Stars 7-6 Monday night in the annual Shrine-Knights of Columbus charity baseball game.

Despite a downpour which threatened to wash out the activities, the estimated crowd of 4,500 saw a well played contest with the All-Stars making most of four base hits, a wild spell on part of pitcher Paul Langlois and a pair of Mike Gulat miscues to keep the struggle close.

Leaf regulars Hector Rodriguez and Rocky Nelson were among the missing as manager Dick Walker gave them a rest. Nelson appeared once and doubled.

Langlois, a Windsor right-hander who toiled with St. Thomas in the Intercounty last year and was recently out by Leafs' Orlando farm club, held the All-Stars to four hits including homers by Don Mayes and Don McLennan.

Archie Wilson and Gollat paced the Leaf attack with three singles apiece while Sam Jethroe homered and singled and Milt Smith singled and doubled.

Tokyo Will Have Indoor Ball Park

TOKYO (AP) — A television company said today it plans to build an 80,000-seat indoor baseball stadium in Tokyo by 1960.

Yoshichiro Shimizu, president of the company, said at a press conference the stadium, covered by a 210 - foot stainless steel dome, will cost about $11,500,000.

Baseball is a craze in Japan. Professional leagues, with six teams in each, operate in or around Tokyo. Games attract an average of about 25,000 fans but because of a long summer rainy season about one out of three games is called off.

Billy Loes Rejoins Orioles As Unpredictable as Ever

BALTIMORE (AP) — Problem pitcher Billy Loes, as unpredictable as ever, has rejoined Baltimore Orioles and says he is ready to pitch again for manager Paul Richards. But he would rather pitch for someone else.

The outspoken 28 - year - old righthander left no doubt about why he reconsidered an earlier announcement that he would never play for Richards again.

"I'll pitch because that's the way I make my living, not because I think Richards is the greatest man in the world," Loes said. "Sure I guess I could quit, but I'd be crazy to do that."

While Loes was sitting out a dual suspension—six days by the American League and three days by Richards — he repeated his wish to be traded to another club. He said the same thing even before the suspension.

"DON'T NEED ME"

Loes said Monday night he will do his "best and try to win" for Baltimore. But he indicated he wouldn't mind donning another uniform.

"They have plenty of good pitchers here," he said. "They don't need me."

Richards had a brief conference with Loes before Billy pitched batting practice. Richard said as far as he was concerned "it's a closed incident. We'll reveal the cards and wipe the slate clean."

Both the league and Richards fined Loes $100 in addition to the suspension without pay after Loes shoved umpire Larry Napp during an argument over a play at the plate here June 1.

Napp called Washington's Ken Aspromonte safe as Loes tried to tag a runner in a rundown play. Loes slammed the ball to the ground, allowing another run to score, and was ejected by Napp. Richards was irked by the play, "which took us out of a ball game."

Lopata on Way To Recovery

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan Lopata was well on the road to recovery Monday from the blow he took on the head from a wild pitch in the first game of a doubleheader between Philadelphia and St. Louis Sunday.

The Phillie catcher was resting easy and his physician said he would be out of the hospital in a couple of days.

Government Celebrates First Anniversary in Ottawa Office

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — One year ago today the Progressive Conservative party won its first federal victory in an election since 1930. Last March it was returned to office with a record-breaking number of seats.

It tackled many problems during its first year in office.

In the course of that 12 months —a year during which it became increasingly evident that a second election would take place — money poured out of federal coffers as one election pledge after another was met.

The old age pension was boosted to $55 a month from $46. Similar pension increases went to veterans, the blind and the disabled.

Taxes were reduced by some $178,000,000 a year. Under revised tax-sharing arrangements, the provinces were given an additional $37,000,000 a year.

PAY INTEREST

The government agreed to pay the interest on advance payments to Prairie farmers on farmstored grain. A program of price supports and deficiency payments was extended over a range of farm products.

More than $600,000,000 was released in new housing loans through the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Finance Minister Fleming stated it was the government's intention to reverse the previous Liberal administration's "tight - money" policy, to make more money available for housing and other loans.

Negotiations were initiated to provide federal aid to build the long-discussed south Saskatchewan irrigation and power project in northern Alberta. The first branch to Pine Point on the south shore of Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories.

As steps were taken to implement these and other election promises, there was growing concern in federal quarters as to how the increasing cost could be met. Official estimates of expenditures indicated government outlays in the current year would run to more than $5,000,000,000. The Conservatives' guideline deficit was in prospect.

ELECTION ISSUE

Winter unemployment increased and became an issue in the March 31 election, the one Prime Minister Diefenbaker called nine months after he first took office with a minority government. The election boosted his party's seats in the 265 - seat Commons from 113 to 208—an all-time, all-party record.

Now, at the anniversary of his first victory June 10, Mr. Diefenbaker is the only one of the four party leaders in that fight who remains on Parliament Hill.

Lester B. Pearson, after a brief tenure as opposition leader, resigned last January under before the March 31 election, which saw CCF leader M. J. Coldwell and Social Credit chief Solon Low both personally defeated. They have since announced they are giving up their party leaderships.

Amid rising unemployment during the Diefenbaker government's first year in office, there also came increases in living costs. With increasing concern of inflation amid recession, Mr. Diefenbaker urged Canadians to hold the line on production costs for fear Canada would be priced out of world markets.

EXTENDS TRADE TENTACLES

One of his first act when the new Parliament was convened May 12 was to extend by six weeks the payment period for special winter unemployment insurance benefits.

Conservative actions during the first year extended Ottawa's many other fields.

A special 50-man trade mission was sent to Britain to find ways of increasing Canadian purchases of British goods. Mr. Diefenbaker helped revive an interest in Commonwealth trade. Action was taken on Canada's initiative to hold a full-scale Commonwealth trade and economic conference at Montreal next fall.

Mr. Diefenbaker initiated a number of first, including appointment of the first woman to a federal cabinet post, Mrs. Ellen G. Fairclough, now immigration minister, the first minister of Ukrainian descent, Labor Minister Michael Starr; the first senator of Icelandic origin, Senator G. S. Thorvaldson of Winnipeg; and the first Indian senator, Jim Gladstone of Alberta's Blood reserve.

STATUE OF CHRIST CAUSES CONTROVERSY IN B.C.

A 12-foot statue of Christ shows the work of England's artist Jacob Epstein, has stirred up such a controversy in Vancouver that one critic suggested it be thrown to the bottom of Howe Sound — "if the fishes don't object." It all began when local architect Desmond Muirhead returned from London with the information that the sculptor would love to set his work for $15,000 (plus $5,000 transportation) to Vancouver for he felt only Canada's wide open spaces would be appropriate for this sculpture. In no time a committee of local artists and sculptors was set up by the Vancouver Arts council to raise the cash. But when Joe Public saw photographs of the opus they was in grace Stanley park or some other local site the bubble burst. The committee is still looking for the $30,000.

Company Fined For Violation Sunday Act

SUDBURY (CP) — Magistrate P. J. McAndrew fined the Tank-Truck Transport Company $50 and costs Monday for violating the Lord's Day Alliance Act.

Three of the company's trucks on Sunday, March 23, hauled sulphuric acid from the Canadian Industries Limited plant at Copper Cliff to Byerott Uranium Mines at Agnew Lake, east of Peterborough.

Sulphuric acid is needed to separate uranium from the uranium ore.

Reason given by Cyril Henry, Sudbury branch manager of the transport company, for the Sunday shipment was that the sulphuric acid in the mine's storage tank had reached a dangerously low level. There was a chance of damage to the pipes by corrosion.

Defence counsel claimed the case fell under the category "work of necessity" and as such should be exempt from the act. Magistrate McAndrew declared, however, the shipment was a matter of convenience for the company rather than necessity for the mine.

Host of 'Breakfast Club' Recalls Many Famous Guests

By DON McNEILL

NEW YORK (AP) — Suddenly it's 1958. You shake off the feeling that you're a fossil and take a tender look back through the years. Was it 1933 that a new breezy depression battered young America's nose? — yourself — started a program called Breakfast Club?

Those early years were marvelous but trying.

For six years we couldn't get a sponsor. We always bless the ABC radio network for staying with us through that period. It was the American housewife who discovered us and now several millions of them join us each morning.

On June 23, Breakfast Club celebrates its 25th anniversary on the air. Through the 1930s and 40s, radio broadcast some impressionable events. That same period brought some very entertaining people to our program. Fibber McGee and Molly, Alice Cooper, with the Lawrence Welk Show, Johnny Desmond — who is currently featured on Broadway in Say, Darling, Johnny Johnston and many others all started on the show.

MANY FINE ARTISTS

So many fine artists have visited with us at the Breakfast Club through the years. Jane Cowl, Ginger Rogers, Jerry Lewis, James Savoca, Bob Hope, Lucy and Desi are a few of the many personalities who enlivened mornings on our morning broadcasts.

Hollywood Publicity System Baffling to European Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Many European stars are baffled by the Hollywood publicity system, and Maria Schell is no exception.

"The relationship of actors and the public via the screen is the same," she said, "but the communication of actors and public via publicity seems decadent. There are many names who are stars in the newspapers, but I haven't seen them in movies for years."

The blonde German beauty is back in Hollywood for her second film here, The Hanging Tree, with Gary Cooper. Her first exposure to the local publicity mill was last year when she made The Brothers Karamazov.

She admitted she rebelled inside the system. She found reporters asking her questions which angered her. She said if the questions had come from non-press strangers, she would have felt no indignity. "I don't pay your pardon?"

"I don't believe a star's publicity should be all sweetness," she reasoned. "That is very dull. But I don't think people should go too far in the other direction.

NOT TOO EAGER

"My big fault has been intensity. I was so eager to do a good job that I thought too hard and said things that I shouldn't have. But I have realized that fault, I have tried to cure it by compromising. I don't like to do it, but I have to."

Maria is refreshingly frank. When asked for her opinion of The Brothers Karamazov, she replied once:

"The script was wonderful—a faithful adaptation of the book. But something happened between what was in the script and what came out on the screen. I was disappointed."

He was assigned to the Fox City Foxes of the class B Three-I League.

Elizabeth Gal Wins $248,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's all-time quiz show champion, Elfrida von Nardroff, easily pushed her total winnings to $248,000 Monday night.

Miss von Nardroff, 32, said she plans to continue on the NBC program, Twenty-one, as long as her "spirit holds out." She has quit her job as a New York personnel consultant to devote full time to the show.

Miss Nardroff's total winnings passed 11-year-old Robert Strom's last week. Strom was the previous high money winner on TV quiz shows with $224,000.

Khrushchev's Chief Rival, Mikhail Suslov, on Way Out

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Signs from Moscow indicate Nikita Khrushchev may have pulled the rug out from under his chief Kremlin rival, Mikhail Suslov. If so, it could mean the beginning of a move to purge Suslov.

Suslov is a secretary of the Soviet Communist party's central committee, outranked only by first secretary Khrushchev himself. He also is a member of the presidium of the central committee, the group of leading committee members which wields the real power.

Until at least recently he headed all the propaganda and cultural work of the Kremlin, was a leading party theoretician and had charge of the Kremlin's relations with foreign Communist parties.

STRONG INDICATIONS

The signs that Suslov may be on the way out are too clear to be mistaken.

1. He has been absent from public appearances of the Kremlin line leaders since May 16.

2. Particularly important was Suslov's absence from the recent Communist summit meeting, indicating that he has been removed from his former task of conducting relations with foreign Communist parties.

3. On May 17 it became known that the head of the central committee's section of propaganda and agitation, F. V. Konstantinov, had been replaced by D. T. Shepilov. Since this was the key central committee section under party leadership which young men haven't achieved.

In other matters, the assembly approved a recommendation from the ministerial superannuation board that maximum annuities be increased to $800 from $650.

The report said: "The board feels that $800 is not sufficient superannuation for our ministers but this increase is in keeping with the recommendation submitted to the committee in 1955."

Elected to the ministerial superannuation board were: Rev. Roy C. Cook, Chatham; Fred W. Hill, Toronto; Robert Mitchell, Dundas; Elgin Smith, Brantford.

May Streamline Church Actions Baptists Told

HAMILTON (CP) — The Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec is considering a proposal to streamline the Church's administration.

The suggestion was made Monday at the 70th annual assembly by Rev. S. R. McClung of Sarnia, convention president.

Mr. McClung said the present organization of 11 boards and a host of committees is out of date and inefficient. He suggested four departments — overseas missions, home missions, education, and business administration, including stewardship.

A report of the churches' and pastors' advisory committee indicated there are 30 men ready to make pastoral changes and only 12 self-supporting churches vacant, several of which are already negotiating with individuals.

WANT YOUNGER MEN

The report added, however: "It is also a fact almost without exception vacant churches, in seeking help, stipulate the man they want must be in his 30s or early 40s."

The committee felt churches should bear in mind that men between 40 and 55 are usually in their prime and can bring to a church a seasoned experience of pastoral leadership which young men haven't achieved.

In other matters, the assembly approved a recommendation from the ministerial superannuation board that maximum annuities be increased to $800 from $650.

The report said: "The board feels that $800 is not sufficient superannuation for our ministers but this increase is in keeping with the recommendation submitted to the committee in 1955."

Elected to the ministerial superannuation board were: Rev. Roy C. Cook, Chatham; Fred W. Hill, Toronto; Robert Mitchell, Dundas; Elgin Smith, Brantford.

Presbyterians Told They Face Big Deficit

TORONTO (CP) — Less than a week after voting major cutbacks, the Presbyterian Church in Canada was told it faces a growing financial deficit which may reach $700,000 within months.

James Dutton of Peterborough, chairman of the board of administration, told the general assembly Monday the Church had a $145,000 deficit for the fiscal year ending Jan. 31.

The Church is receiving extended bank credit expected to reach $700,000 by September, he said, but money is needed more than can be obtained from the banks.

"Our credit is good and there is willingness on the part of the bank to loan us money. However we are carrying on using other people's money."

DELAY BUILDING

Last week the assembly decided to postpone construction of a $1,250,000 administration building in Toronto because of "an extremely precarious financial crisis." A motion was also presented at that time to delay appointments to vacant official Church positions, including the editorship of the Presbyterian Record, the Church's monthly magazine, and two professorships and Church colleges. It was not passed.

The board of missions, the board of Christian education and the board of deacons' training school have also taken reductions.

The board of missions, the most important of our church, has been faced by over $600,000 with every available dollar going to it," Mr. Dutton said.

Rev. DeCourcy H. Rayner of Montreal was elected editor of the Record. He defeated Rev. D. H. Fowler of Harriston on a ballot vote.

The new editor of the Record, with a circulation of more than 60,000, is general secretary of the British and foreign bible society in Montreal for 13 years. He succeeds the general assembly's moderator, Rt. Rev. John McNaught, who retires as editor in September.

Napoleonic Style Session Told De Gaulle's Decisions

PARIS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle held a cabinet meeting in the royal style of a military conference Monday. He told the ministers of his decisions and saw them out in less than an hour. A minister described the atmosphere as Napoleonic.

Aides said it was the shortest full dress session in the history of the Fourth Republic and apparently set a pattern that will be followed.

De Gaulle told his ministers the names of a group of non-controversial politicians and technicians he picked to fill out the cabinet ranks. The ministers approved his action and the session broke up.

"There was no discussion, no debate," said Information Minister Andre Malraux. "It was a session similar to those known in Napoleon's time as 'meeting on formalities'."

CIVILIAN TO ALGERIA

De Gaulle turned to the French diplomatic mission to the Vatican to find a civilian aide to Gen. Raoul Salan, chief civilian and military commander in Algeria. The post went to Rene Brouillet, minister-counselor at the Holy See.

Guy Lamassoure, a career civil servant, was appointed prefect (governor) of Corsica. That Mediterranean island has been under insurgent control for weeks. Lamassoure's appointment is expected to restore the Paris government's authority there.

Other ministers named by de Gaulle and approved by the cabinet:

Socialist Eugene Thomas, communications; Independent Rozer Houdet, agriculture; Gaullist Edmond Michelet, veterans affairs; Robert Buron, a member of the Popular Republican Movement, public works, and Pierre Sudreau as civil servant, construction.

Jacques Soustelle, civilian friend of the Algerian insurrection against the old Paris government, still was not named for any government post. Nor was Leon Delbecque, another leading insurgent politician.

Delbecque, meanwhile, French authorities reported 531 nationalist rebels were killed during a week de Gaulle toured the North African area. They said 122 rebels were captured. No French casualty list was made public.

Rebel Leaders Order Offensive Against French

CAIRO (Reuters) — Algerian insurgent leaders have appealed for "an all-out offensive against French forces in Algeria."

A statement Monday night said: "Attack the enemy everywhere you find him. Overtake him with sudden, swift blows whenever the time is ripe, without pity or mercy, for France now is on the verge of a great disaster."

Members of the Committee for Co-ordination and Action, which commands most of the rebel forces in Algeria, have been meeting here for nearly a week.

The committee contends France is on the verge of disaster because of the struggle waged by insurgent forces.

"Nothing can save France now except the unconditional recognition of Algeria's independence, which we are determined to secure, whatever the price."

London Butchers Using Airlift To Beat Strike

LONDON (Reuters) — London meat dealers are operating an airlift between Rotterdam and Southend airports to beat a big meat strike now paralyzing London docks, it was announced today.

About 100 tons of meat are being flown into Britain each night by about 20 privately-chartered freight planes.

About 300 tons of meat so far have been flown to nearby Southend to ease the impact of unofficial strikes by London's meat and dock workers.

London's docks faced a complete shutdown today as two-thirds of its 30,000 dock laborers remained on strike in sympathy with the meat men and in protest of the use of non-registered labor.

Only 28 of 147 ships in the docks still were being worked.

Port health inspectors, meanwhile, were expected to decide today whether to order the dumping of thousands of tons of rotting butter, fruit, potatoes and other perishable goods, some of which has been held up for several weeks by the port strike.

Continue Search For Bodies of Four Mounties

JACKSON'S POINT, Ont. (CP) The search was to continue today by plane and boat for the bodies of four of the five RCMP officers drowned during the weekend when a small patrol boat capsized on wind-tossed Lake Simcoe.

Inspector W. G. Fraser of the RCMP's criminal investigation branch in Toronto said it was the worst single tragedy ever to hit the Mounties. "Not even in the Riel rebellion did we lose five men at one time."

Attorney-general Roberts promised a thorough investigation.

He said an inquest will be held as soon as possible to assure "not only the fullest possible information concerning this tragedy but also in the general interests of water safety, particularly with regard to the use of small craft."

TWO QUESTIONS

While scores scoured the big lake, 40 miles north of Toronto, two controversies were going on among lakeshore residents:

1. What were the five officers doing on the stormy lake in the black of night?

2. Was the 14-foot boat, equipped with a 35-horsepower outboard motor, capable of carrying five men safely in rough water?

The body of Cpl. Herbert Smart, 33, of Orillia, father of two young daughters and the only married man in the group, was recovered Sunday. Still missing are Constables George Ransom, 26, of Melville, Sask.; Glen Farnouth, 22, of Stockton, Man.; Maurice Melnychuk, 22, of Prince George, B.C. and David Perry, 20, of Vancouver.

NEW TECHNIQUE

A new underwater technique was added to the search Monday. A skin diver, equipped to stay under for more than an hour, was strapped to an underwater sled towed from a Mountie motorboat. Searchers estimated the diver could cover 10 times a normal area using this method.

Some residents at Sutton, near the south shore, said they believed the officers were planning to raid a community hall dance on Georgian Island, an Indian reservation in the southeastern corner of the lake.

There were reports the Mounties had been tipped off to the presence of liquor on the island, a violation of Indian Act, when they arrested three Indians in Sutton on drunk charges Saturday night.

RCMP divisional headquarters in Toronto said a raid was planned. A spokesman said the five officers were in uniform on a routine patrol and he noted that normally liquor raids are carried out in plain clothes.

Quit Interfering In Govt. Algeria Insurgents Told

May Invite Dulles To Meet De Gaulle

PARIS (AP)—Premier Charles de Gaulle bluntly told defiant insurgents in Algeria today to quit interfering in government and reprimanded his military commander there.

De Gaulle sent off a sharp note to the military commander, Gen. Raoul Salan, after a cabinet meeting devoted mainly to foreign affairs.

The cabinet spokesman said one decision was to invite U.S. State Secretary Dulles to Paris to confer with de Gaulle next month.

RAPS SALAN

De Gaulle replied sharply to a resolution by the all-Algeria committee of public safety there opposing his plan for local elections in Algeria and condemning parliamentary government in France.

De Gaulle criticized Salan for letting his name be used as approving the committee action even though Salan later disowned the resolution. De Gaulle messaged Salan:

"Concerning the regrettable and indirect intervention of which by the peremptory motion of the committee of public safety in Algeria, I remind you that that committee has no other rights and duties than to exercise under your control the opinion of its members.

"Regular authority, and first of all yourself, could not associate itself with the action of the committee or any other political organization can express or advance opinions."

RUMORS OF RIFT

Reports from Algiers said there were signs of a rift in the 29-man committee. Some want to stick with the original purpose, which is to back the cabinet of Premier de Gaulle. Others want to continue their campaign against the French parliamentary system.

De Gaulle's cabinet went ahead with plans for local elections in Algeria in tre face of the committee's opposition.

Eight members of the Algiers public safety committee flew to Paris to tell de Gaulle to get back with the junta manifesto.

The delegation is headed by former paratroop officer Pierre Lagaillarde, who played a prominent part in the Algiers uprising which led to de Gaulle becoming premier.

The delegation's arrival followed the declaration issued Tuesday by the all-Algeria committee that it would "support with all its strength the campaign of national renovation which the committees of public safety undertaken in metropolitan France."

De Gaulle called a cabinet meeting to examine procedures for the voting which he promised during a tour of Algeria last week.

New Violence Flares in Cyprus As Curfew Ends

NICOSIA (Reuters)—Greek and Turkish Cypriots attacked each other with knives, iron bars, bottles and sticks today at Limassol in a fresh outbreak of inter-community fighting.

First reports from the south coast port mentioned "many" casualties.

Earlier in Nicosia, a Greek-Cypriot garbageman was shot to death this morning and three other Greek stoning were set ablaze after authorities lifted a day-and-night curfew.

DEATH TOLL NOW 7

Today's Nicosia slaying boosted the death toll to seven — five Greeks and two Turks — since Saturday night. More than 100 Greeks have been hurt.

The Limassol outbreak started after reports of Turkish attacks on Greeks and their houses.

The stone throw in Nicosia broke out after communal clashes in the market area in which Greek stores and stalls were looted for the second day running.

As news of the renewed violence spread, pedestrians and cars rushed to get out of the area and British security troops rushed in.

TROOPS ARREST 100

During the night British troops made more than 100 arrests in breaking up communal clashes.

Today's victim, Gas shot Greek behind as he pushed his garbage cart through the Turkish sector of the city.

Five Greek-Cypriots from Nicosia and its suburbs today helped the job entrusted to them at a secret meeting here Tuesday night — to organize self-defence for the Greeks against further attacks by Turks.

Nicosia's nationalist mayor, Dr. Themistocles Dervis, is the chairman of the five-member committee.

London Dockers Vote to Return To Work Monday

LONDON (Reuters) — The majority of London's 20,000 striking dock workers voted today to return to work by Monday—regardless of whether the meat strike that brought them out is settled by then.

At meetings today rank-and-file dockers endorsed Friday night's decision of their leaders to go back an end the month-old stoppage that has crippled the Port of London and held up thousands of tons of imported food.

The dock strike began with a walkout in sympathy with 6,000 striking workers at Smithfield, London's vast wholesale meat market.

The market men struck when 600 of their co-workers were laid off because there was no work for them following a strike by meat truck drivers.

The drivers themselves struck for more pay when the truck speed limit was raised from 20 to 30 miles an hour and the drivers contended it would mean more work.

Officials said work was at a standstill on 119 ships but 84 were being worked.

Meanwhile, London's other big strike by its 50,000 bus workers ran into its 30th day.

Findlay Clark New Chief of General Staff

Graham Retiring On August 31st

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj. - Gen. Samuel Findlay Clark is regarded in the army as brainy, firm, and human.

The sharp - featured, serious looking officer, known through the ranks as Fin Clark, becomes chief of the army general staff Aug. 31.

His appointment to succeed Lt.-Gen. Howard D. Graham and his promotion Aug. 31 to lieutenant - general, were announced Tuesday.

Gen. Graham, 30, is retiring after 40 years' active service. A successor to Gen. Clark as officer commanding Central Command at Oakville, Ont., is to be chosen later.

A fellow signals officer described Gen. Clark as sober in appearance but far more human than men who do not know him suspect. He said the general is approachable, friendly; a man who will go out of his way to do somebody a favor, and go out of his way not to offend a man.

Gen. Clark, hadsome in uniform, wears his hair trimmed moustache and looks younger than his 49 years.

He is said to get along well with fellow officers, his closest friends in the army. He is an electrical engineering graduate of the University of Manitoba and a graduate of the staff engineering of the University of Saskatchewan.

IN COMMAND

One officer described him as a "well-oiled technical officer, well up on intricacies of communications, physics and electronics, always far enough ahead of his class to be fully in command of the situation."

"Whatever he does he goes into it tremendous detail and excels at it, or else doesn't bother with it," the officer added. "He leans towards science, but is brainy in all government everyday sort of way."

His private life is quiet. He had his first wife killed by marriage in 1937 to Leona Seagram of Waterloo, Ont. He once played a good game of golf, but now his main sporting interest is fishing. He has a cottage at Parry Sound summer leave. His favorite spots are in Algonquin Park, where he enjoys camping out.

Gen. Clark's appointment climaxes a series of quick promotions beginning with the Second World War.

He was born in Winnipeg and received his early education there. At 20 he began his military career as a lieutenant with the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

Want Western Aid to Needy Lands Expanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan are in support agreement that steps must be taken to expand Western financial resources available to underdeveloped countries.

Diplomacy said Eisenhower and Macmillan, winding up three days of talks today, would leave it to experts of the United States, Britain and other Western countries to figure out exactly what should be done.

They are reported to have considered enlarging the operations and capital of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund and possibly forming a new $1,000,000,000 lending agency.

Skin Divers to Stage Massive Hunt for Lost Ships in River

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Skin divers will swarm all over the St. Lawrence river from Gananoque to Brockville during the weekend of June 27-29 in a massive hunt for lost ships, it was announced here today.

Chief target of the underwater archeologists will be the Sir Robert Peel, a British gunboat captured and burned by privateers in 1838 and the "lost" American fleet of the War of 1812.

Co-operating in such a mission for the first time, the Royal Canadian Navy, the American Navy and the U.S. Coast Guard Service will assist the skin-diving project which is sponsored by POHSAV (Protection of Historical Sites Against Vandals), under the direction of its founder, Jackson Kenda of Brockville, and Dr. Alan Smithsonian Institute expert Howard I. Chapelle.

The first phase of the search will be concentrated on Saturday morning, June 27, in the waters surrounding the Thousand Islands international bridge. It is believed that the Sir Robert Peel went down in these waters under attack of the Thousand Islands pirate "Wild Bill" Johnson in 1838. Old timbers have been spotted from the bridge, lying in the waters of the St. Lawrence in that vicinity.

DE GAULLE ORGANIZES CABINET LIKE MILITARY STAFF

In one of the reception halls at Orly airport in Paris, French Premier Charles de Gaulle, still wearing his uniform of general, chats with his cabinet members and Guy Mollet (on his right, with glasses), on his arrival at Orly after De Gaulle's three-day visit to Algeria. De Gaulle met with his cabinet to discuss plans for municipal elections in Algeria next month. His cabinet meetings are held with De Gaulle issuing instructions like a general to his staff.

Plan Loans, Combine Probes To Assist Small Businesses

VANCOUVER (CP) — Federal election campaign plans to help small businessmen solve their problems have been outlined by Justice Minister Fulton.

He also indicated the government is considering changes in the present law against lottery, lender selling and discrimination among businesses in the supply of goods.

Mr. Fulton, in an address to the Canadian Bar Association here, said Tuesday night the government is proceeding "at once" to set up a small business section in government.

It also was taking steps to remove "artificial" obstacles to small businesses.

These steps were combining branch investigations into possible violations of the anti-combines act and the hard-liquor and jewelry trades, and into whether these types of operations stores receive unfair price preferences from suppliers.

The Progressive Conservatives promised a small-business section during the 1957 and 1958 general election campaign. It was included in the speech from the throne at the opening of the current session of Parliament.

Mr. Fulton said the law against lender-selling forbids selling goods at unreasonably low prices with the aim of eliminating or substantially lessening competition.

He said he hopes the investigations will show whether the present law is an effective weapon or whether other remedies should be sought.

"In the latter event, I may say we have one or two alternatives under study," he added.

Mr. Fulton said the government's new section will provide for study of small business and business and recommend measures to help small businesses including the terms of a loan fund.

He urged his audience to present their case, bolstered with an abundance of facts. "One of the problems is the insufficiency of accurate information at the moment on which to base policies."

UN Expects Russia to Veto 'Watchdog Team' in Lebanon

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The Western powers pressed for urgent action today to send a United Nations watchdog team to strife-torn Lebanon. But they feared a Soviet veto.

Amid growing concern, the 11-nation Security Council prepared to meet to vote on the plan put forward by secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to send the United Arab Republic with aiding rebels fighting to overthrow pro-Western President Camille Chamoun.

Western diplomats felt the situation was so grave they already were consulting on what to do if the Russians used the veto to halt the Swedish proposal. They said they definitely would not drop the issue.

Informed quarters said as a last resort they might call for an emergency meeting of the veto-free General Assembly.

The council met for more than seven hours Tuesday and Tuesday night. It adjourned until today when it became apparent it still was a long way from a vote.

SUPPORT LEBANON

In the stormy session, the United States charged that France threw their support solidly behind Lebanon. Britain declared its belief that the UAR had violated the integrity of Lebanon by promoting civil strife.

The Soviet Union as usual stood firmly with President Nasser's UAR and denounced the Western powers as the real cause of Lebanon's trouble. There was no specific threat of a veto, but the Western delegates saw a threat in the hostile attitude of Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev.

Lebanese Foreign Minister Charles Malik repeated his government's charges the UAR had stirred up the revolt by inflammatory broadcasts and press propaganda from Egypt and Syria and that arms and men had been sent across Lebanon's borders to help the rebels. Malik said his government had informed him the situation in the country was growing worse daily.

American delegate Henry Cabot Lodge told the council that reports reaching him show that the situation is becoming increasingly critical. Said major battles were in progress and that infiltrations from Syria were growing.

Govt. of Indies May Fall Over Site of Capital

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — The seven-week-old government of Prime Minister Sir Grantley Adams was in danger of falling today over the dispute over the site of a capital city.

The West Indies Federation Parliament met to debate the controversial issue involving the site.

Chaguaramas, the site the government wants, is leased to the United States as a naval base. A tripartite commission refused to recommend its release for use as the site of the new federation's capital.

Adams has opposed the commission's report and has called for a further conference on the matter, but opposition parties have supported the ruling.

NORAD HAS NO CANADIAN FORCES HOUSE IS TOLD

Cannot Start Wars Says Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons today resumes debate on the Canada-United States agreement establishing the North American Air Defence Command (NORAD)—which Defence Minister Pearkes says has, as yet, no Canadian forces to command.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Opposition Leader Pearson joined in Tuesday's opening round on the matter which has been causing contention since last summer.

But the topper came at the end of the sitting. With minutes to go, Mr. Pearkes disclosed that no RCAF squadrons have yet been allocated to the command at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The RCAF has nine jet interceptor squadrons in Canada and under terms of the agreement, NORAD includes only "such combat units as are specifically allocated to it by the two governments."

Earlier the prime minister, in the House explained parts of the agreement, said NORAD "will not and cannot start wars."

RAISES NEW QUESTIONS

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Diefenbaker had cleared up some questions, "but has raised some new ones too.

"We have not asked for this discussion in order to show our opposition to the proposed agreement as a matter of preference, not at all," said Mr. Pearson.

But the Liberals had wanted to see cleared up the government's "comedy of confusion and contradiction" and "ineptness" in its handling of the agreement.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that because air defence operations would be continuous under the agreement, signed May 12, "are purely defensive and will be over our territory, no war can be started by anyone connected with the North American Defence."

Mr. Pearson said the Liberals don't doubt for a moment the need and desirability of collective defence.

But there was contention between Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker on the membership of NORAD to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

PART OF CONCERT

Mr. Diefenbaker said "NORAD is part of the NATO concept" and Canada and the U.S. are "partners under this agreement in North America because we are NATO countries because of our geographical position."

Kansas Tornado Kills 12, Injures 57 At El Dorado

150 Homes Destroyed Or Damaged in Storm

EL DORADO, Kan. (AP) — A Tornado hurtled in fury on El Dorado late Tuesday, killing 12 persons and injuring 57.

The twister, described by a witness as resembling a big gray elephant with a long trunk, cut a swath 14 blocks long and one quarter of a mile wide along the southwest edge of this city of 12,000. It destroyed or damaged 150 homes.

The tornado swept away four main electric power lines, plunging the city into darkness. Telephone lines were severed and the municipal water mains were broken in several places.

While doctors worked feverishly by the feeble light of cars and flashlights at El Dorado's only hospital, state militia helped police patrol the streets.

Looters swarmed into the stricken area as soon as darkness fell. At least three persons were arrested for rifling damaged homes.

LIKE A SHROUD

As the tornado passed on its way, a reporter approaching the city of Augusta said: "It's a heavy black cloud clung to the eastern horizon. It looks like a shroud."

El Dorado's hospital quickly was jammed with casualties. Hampered by lack of lights, doctors sent critical cases and the seriously injured to other hospitals in nearby Wichita.

The Red Cross arranged shelter for the homeless.

Seven of the 12 bodies were found in the yard at a public school, which was demolished.

SAW THE TORNADO

Richard Tarrant and three other construction workers were working out with about 30 jeeps on two hours before the storm struck the tornado. Said Tarrant:

"It was the biggest one I ever saw — and I've seen quite a few. We rounded up all the boys. The last thing I told the people was to get on 'em and get out of there—go home. Then we got in our cars and ran and took them home."

Fifteen minutes later Tarrant went back to the school, where they could have been shelter, and found it in ruins.

Judge Rules Pilots' Group Is Labor Union

CHICAGO (AP) — The Masters, Mates and Pilots of America, whose strike tied up the Great Lakes shipping for a week this spring was defined by a judge as a labor organization subject to the National Labor Relations Board.

Judge Philip L. Sullivan so ruled Tuesday in denying a request by the Lake Carriers' Association of an injunction suit brought by the MMP. The association charged they were a supervisory group and thus outside NLRB jurisdiction.

The NLRB sued for an order to make the MMP bargain collectively and to direct the leaders of the longshoremen's union to rescind the ban on their members not to pass through pilot lines. The MMP and picketing, under court order, ended the tie-up of shipping.

The pilot union and ship owners have not conducted an agreement. But a spokesman for the union said they anticipate signing a new agreement soon.

Ideal Woman Living in Glass House Should Not Throw Things, But Did

BONN, West Germany (Reuters) — The ideal woman in the glass home turned out to be anything but ideal in the manner of her exhibition at Dortmund.

Watched by hundreds of people, she had a fit of tempers in her glass-walled home and smashed everything she could lay her hands on.

An exhibition spokesman said the woman, Klaere Roth 28, was hired to play the part of a housewife for 10 hours a day in the glass-enclosed home furnished with modern furniture and the latest domestic appliances.

After several days in the public eye she asked for more money, threatened that the strain of being constantly watched was greater than expected. Her request was refused.

There were more differences and then she was fired.

"Then the ideal woman had a tremendous fit of temper," the spokesman said. "She started flinging furniture about, broke all the china and smashed just about everything she could lay her hands on. Hundreds of people were watching all the time, of course."

The ideal home closed down.

East Germany Promises Quick Release of Nine

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany today promised quick release of nine U.S. Army men and their helicopter if the United States acts in a "normal and reasonable manner."

The statement, an editorial in the East German Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland, did not specify what the Communists would consider "normal and reasonable."

The conciliatory editorial, which carries the weight of an official pronouncement, appeared after State Secretary Dulles told a press conference the United States would negotiate if necessary with East Germany for release of the eight army officers and one sergeant whose helicopter strayed into East Germany last Saturday.

Heinz Deutschland reported Dulles' statement in an 80-word dispatch including its contention that such negotiations would not imply diplomatic recognition of the Communist regime.

The newspaper conceded that the Americans had flown deep over East Germany accidentally and said the men and helicopter had been sent correctly after landing.

"But violation of the air space of the (East) German Democratic Republic remains," the editorial continued.

"Therefore the matter must be treated as is customary between civilized states. The ministry of foreign affairs of the German Democratic Republic is ready to negotiate over the further settlement of this matter.

"It has informed the United States accordingly. The United States government only has to act in a normal and reasonable manner and the incident will be cleared up quickly."

reation centre.

These are the two talented students who will enter Gallaudet College for the Deaf in Washington D.C. this year as a result of bursaries totalling $4,800 from The Atkinson Charitable Foundation.

The award winners' names — Donna Hoult, 18, and Edward Wick, 19, — were released today by David Peikoff, chairman of the Canadian Deaf Scholarship Fund which made the selections.

While the scholastic records of both students have drawn the highest praise from J. G. Demeza, school superintendent of the Belleville School For The Deaf, their versatility and good citizenship have also been commented on by officials of the deaf society.

An all-round student at the Ontario School For The Deaf which she has attended for 14 years, Donna is one of the first two students to enter high school classes there. As yet in Ontario, there are no deaf teachers. Donna hopes to be one of the first. Her family moved to Uxbridge from Pickering four years ago.

An all-round student at Whitby high school, Edward Wick has not only led his classes through most of the year but has used his off-time to help his brother in a printing press he played a leading part in the establishment of a youth recreation centre in Whitby.

Gallaudet college, referred to by its undergrads as "Gully U.," is after 'an illness.'"

Donna and Edward are the fifth and sixth students to enter the college with assistance from the Atkinson Foundation. The first, in 1951, was Murray Archer, a Toronto lad, who earned his degree in architecture.

Gallaudet received high marks from the college registrar is hopeful they will qualify them to skip preparatory classes and go direct into the freshman year. This will mean four-year courses. However superintendent of the Belleville official decision must wait until actual tests are taken at Gallaudet college in September.

Evangelist Billy Graham's latest motion picture — "Mr. Hearst is a Rebel" — will be premiered as a forthcoming significant event in the religious life of this city. The new feature-length color production stars Ethel Waters, George Lee and John Milford and is scheduled for its local premiere in the Collegiate Institute on Saturday and Sunday evenings and Sunday afternoon.

The story is based on a conflict in the life of a modern young couple when the husband, an advertising executive, can't find a place in his scheme-of-things for his wife's sudden acceptance of the Christian faith. In a completely "down to earth" setting the situation provides a dimension of reality seldom afforded a religious motion picture.

Ethel Waters adds lustre to her past career in the role of the practical nurse who exerts a profound influence on the young couple through her day-by-day faith in God. A film highlight is Miss Waters' inspiring rendition of "His eye is on the Sparrow" and the spiritual, "Motherless Child." Georgia Lee and John Milford give stirring portrayals as the young married couple.

"The Heart is a Rebel" provides "front row perspective" of the Graham team in the crusade setting of Madison Garden, New York City. The dynamic preaching of the evangelist is augmented by the singing of George Beverly Shea and the music of a 1,500-voice crusade choir under the direction of Cliff Barrows.

Mr. Graham is currently conducting a crusade in San Francisco.

Toronto Leafs in Major Loop In Possibly Three Years Manager Tells Kiwanians

The Toronto Maple Leafs baseball team will be playing in the major leagues in one, two, or possibly three years, general Kiwanians were informed at a regular meeting Tuesday night.

"It's definitely in the cards," stated guest speaker Rudie Schaffer, general manager of the Toronto ball club, during a question and answer period following his entertaining address.

Mr. Schaffer, who has spent some 22 years in baseball, gave a humorous account of the many misadventures he experienced during his baseball career.

Starting his fourth year as general manager of the pennant winning Maple Leafs' ball club, the quiet-spoken former Mitchiwaukian said he feels he has a "real good ball club this year," particularly now that the club has signed on Angel Scull, Pat Scantlebury, Bill Hunter, Joe Minarcin, and Bobby Johnson.

"We had a slow start this spring but usually we always have what it takes to win another pennant before the end," stated, "We are now only one game behind Montreal, which is leading the league pack," he added. The Leafs won the International League last year.

To play major league ball Mr. Schaffer feels the team will require some new blood in the pitching department.

"We have several players of major league calibre on the team now," he asserted.

Mr. Schaffer said Maple Leaf stadium is another condition which must be improved before they can up their standard to major league. Of the two Amateur baseball leagues in Toronto general manager prefers to entertain the Senior Baseball League.

NO CANADIANS ON TEAM

Mr. Schaffer also informed Kiwanians that there was much talk of expanding the American and National leagues to 10 teams each. The major leagues now have eight teams apiece. He felt however, there would need to be distinct changes in the league players to provide more competition.

When queried as to whether any of the Maple Leaf players were Canadian, he informed there were no Canadian players on the team, because Canada has no ball players of International league calibre.

He added, however, measures have been taken to rectify this situation. A farm system has been instituted to develop Canadian ball players of big league calibre.

"In a few years we will have Canadian players on the team," he said.

Farm leagues, subsidized by the Maple Leafs ball club, have been set up in Orlando, Fla., Duluth, Wis., Dubuque, Iowa, and Pittsburgh.

Commenting on the model of a Little League baseball Park, constructed by Bob Brain and on display at the Kiwanis Centre, Mr. Schaffer said he was "pleased with the Kiwanis Club's latest project."

In closing the popular speaker extended an invitation to the club to visit the team, and stated until they enter the National his club will do their best to give spectators the best possible in minor league ball.

Mr. Schaffer was introduced by Bill Slade and thanked by George Hume. He was presented with a memento on behalf of the club by president Charles Lusk.

Special guests of the club included CJBQ sportscaster Jack Devine and recreation director Red Doran.

Rocket to Moon In August Just 'Planning Date'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief of Air Force space planning says he was speaking only of planning dates in saying the air force will attempt to fire its first rocket toward the moon in August.

Lt.-Gen. S. E. Anderson, director of Air Force research and development, told a press conference in Milwaukee Tuesday that three moon shots will be attempted this year — in August, September and October.

He was promptly challenged by Roy W. Johnson, director of the defence department's advanced research projects agency, who said "no final decision has been made" on the firing dates.

Anderson declined, through his aide, to comment on Johnson's statement. But on return to Washington, he said he had explained in Milwaukee he was speaking only of a planning date.

175,000 Tons Of N.S. Coal For Belleville

OTTAWA (CP) — Shipment of 175,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal from Sydney to Belleville, has been made possible by a special federal transport subsidy amounting to 55 cents a ton, it was learned Tuesday night.

The 175,000 tons will consist of two shipments, one of 100,000 tons to the Canada Cement Company and a second of 75,000 tons to the CNR for use in locomotives.

An official of the Dominion coal board said the subsidy covering the 100,000 tons is provided for in a special order-in-council. The 75,000 ton order is covered through a change in Dominion coal board regulations making the 55-cent subvention available for coal orders to Belleville for railway use.

The shipments to Belleville will replace United States coal moving into that area across Lake Ontario. The Nova Scotia coal will be shipped by the Dominion Coal Company to Montreal by water and from Montreal to Belleville by rail.

The subvention is in addition to a new scale of subsidies on the movement of coal from the Maritimes announced two months ago. They are designed to encourage consumption of Nova Scotia coal. Under the new scale, the province now has a stockpile of about 1,400,000 tons.

Council Wants Local Firms To Bid on Disposal Plant

TRENTON — A special meeting of the town council yesterday afternoon assured local contractors they will be given every opportunity possible to bid on the $2,000,000 project of installing a sewage disposal plant and the necessary chasserver in sewer lines.

All councillors were present for the meeting with the exception of Councillor Worrall, who was unable to attend due to business, Mayor Ross Burtt chaired the meeting. Also present were two representatives of Gore and Storrie, Consulting Engineers. They will oversee the entire project as well as to issue the call for tenders. The two engineers present were Geo. B. Crawford and John R. Argo. Town engineer Bill Mulcahey was also at the meeting.

In opening the meeting Mayor Burtt asked Councillor Lange to explain the reason for the special meeting. Mr. Lange had been acting mayor at the time the arrangements for the meeting were made.

Councillor Lange told the visiting engineers that it was the understanding of the council that they were nearly ready to call for tenders on the first stage of the building of the sewage plant. He said it was the wish of the council that the operation be broken down into small jobs and this would enable the local contractors to bid for the work.

Councillor Charles Hilton said he understood the first stage of the operation would cost slightly over $500,000 and that there was no contractor in Trenton who could bid on anything this large. He said he would like to see it broken down into smaller parcels and have the call for tenders issued for the separate steps. He felt then the local firms would then at least have a chance to bid.

The mayor said he felt Trenton contractor could do it as cheaper than outside firms because they have their equipment right in town and firms from other places would have to move in.

Councillor Lange said he was also of the opinion that local contractors could give a lower bid than outside firms and because over the years the project will be over $2,000,000 he would like to see most of it go to local firms and workers.

He said if the plan was put out for tenders on an overall basis no one here would be able to compete with the bigger firms from outside cities and they, in turn, would bring in their own men and quite likely give sub-contractors in the firms who work with them.

The councillor said he would like to see one tender called for the overall plan and another one called with the entire project broken down into separated jobs. In this way they could determine if the local contractors could do it cheaper than outsiders and if they could they should by all means have the job.

Mr. Argo of the consulting engineer firm said there was no reason this could not be done and they would go ahead with it as the council requested. He explained that the building of the sewage plant would be started first with its one main building and various cement work and pipe installing. The building of a pumping station on the southwest corner of Onion and Dundas Street East will also get underway. Then would come the laying of the pipe across the river to hook up with the west side. Finally would be the laying and separating of storm and steel sewers.

The council voted to leave the purchase of the land for the pumping station in the hands of the Water Resources Commission and the town will send them a letter asking them to go ahead in this matter.

The meeting lasted for nearly two hours.

Parks Board Decides to Act On Proposal Now

TRENTON — Members of the Trenton Parks Board decided to get their proposed plan for Gilmour Hill underway as soon as possible at their regular meeting in the municipal building last night.

Bill Bateman, who will be in charge of the project, was instructed to go ahead and to work with town clerk O. M. Larry and town engineer Eric Sherrey over the legal aspects.

The board is planning to put a retaining wall along the edge of its property at the base of Gilmour Hill on the south side of Dundas Street East. It will then be filled and planted. At present it is being used for a parking area and a right-of-way to the rear of some homes there.

Park Board member Claude Smith had plans drawn up for the area. They were presented at the meeting. The wall will be of cement and placed four feet deep in the ground. It will run from the sidewalk to the south line of the Park Board property and will be from eight to 15 feet high, depending on the contour of the land.

The right-of-way will be left for the use of the public and will also be improved by the parks board.

It was moved by Miss Marion Baker and seconded by Mrs. Bert Strong that the town solicitor be retained to draw up a letter, outlining the intentions of the board, along with a survey of it, to be sent to the railland bordering the property.

train had stopped at the station.

He immediately reported it to the local police, who sent a description broadcast to the Provincial Police in Belleville. The car was a 1954 light green Ford with a "bad" muffler. It was also equipped with two colored fog lights.

The police cruiser made several trips around the area and patrolmen on the streets were told to watch for the car. However the car could be seen that night or visibility down in the industrial areas of town.

This morning a resident of Byron street called police and complained of an unidentified car parked in his driveway. The police immediately investigated and found it to be the missing car. When they examined the car the keys were not in it. The car was not damaged and will be returned to the owner today.

Will Remove Wooden Band Shell at Park

TRENTON — The old wooden band shell at the Hanna Park will be removed it was decided at last night's meeting of the Trenton Parks Board.

It has been brought to the attention of the board that it will take considerable money to put it in shape, and it is gradually being kicked apart. The roof will also have to be replaced and the board decided that because it was not being used it would be best to tear it down and remove it.

In recalling the history of the band stand Mayor Ross Burtt said it had been built of the same cedar posts shortly after the First World War and since that time it has been used for band concerts, political speeches and many other things, when picnics and outdoor events were held at the park.

The board also decided to replace the broken wooden teeter-totters in the Hanna Park playground with steel ones. They felt this was desirable because each year the wooden ones are broken.

Town gardener, Bart Boers, told the board someone had been stealing compost from their pile at the park and about five pick-up loads of soil have been taken. He said the matter has been reported to the town police but as yet nothing has been done about it.

He also reported that most of the grass has been cut at Hanna Par and they will continue to cut it as far back into the wooded area as possible. He told the board he proposed to have them down and will cost about $45 to repair, and that all planting of flower beds has been completed.

The mayor suggested that the old fence between the Legion hall and the ball diamond be torn down and that the hedge which is there act in its place. The fence is part of what is left of one which went around the ball diamond and had been torn down when the rest had been removed.

He said it is just an eyesore now and covered with signs.

Miss Marion Baker suggested a by-law should be proposed to eliminate all signs on park property.

Chairman of the board Ted Parker, agreed that the fence should be removed but wanted to contact the Recreation Commission first.

While in Algeria the FLN sought to re-establish government control over the area. He died in the military-civilian junta which seized power there May 18 that he personally would direct Algerian affairs and the junta should confine itself to working for integration of the Algerian and European populations.

These orders and the promise of elections were doffed Tuesday by the all-Algeria committee of public safety. This combination of French colonists and army leaders insisted in a resolution that de Gaulle should not carry out the elections.

ASK PARTY ABOLITION

The resolution also called for elimination of French political parties of which de Gaulle has based his cabinet and substitution of a government of public salvation—which usually means in effect a right-wing dictatorship permitting no opposition.

Political circles in Paris felt the resolution presented a most serious challenge to de Gaulle since he became premier June 1 as a result of the military-civilian seizure of power in Algeria and Corsica.

The resolution was sent to de Gaulle directly by Gen. Raoul Salan, Gen. Jacques Massu, paratrooper leader of the Algiers junta.

Ike's Right Hand Man Named in Investigations

WASHINGTON (AP) — House of Representatives investigators have produced evidence that a Boston industrialist paid almost $2,000 in hotel bills during the last four years for Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's right hand man.

And the investigators' counsel said Tuesday the industrialist, Bernard Goldfine, was said to have received special treatment from two federal agencies.

Hotel records read at a House commerce subcommittee hearing listed Adams and his wife as frequent guests in suits costing from $27 to $65 a day at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel in Boston. Testimony was the hotel had a ledger notation to charge Adams' bill to Goldfine.

There was no immediate comment from Adams.

HUNTING WILL ALWAYS INVOLVE SUFFERING

Not long ago Wilbur Kennedy of Cleveland shot an arrow into the chest of a black bear near North Bay. He later reported that the animal "screamed, wailed and cried in such a way" that he got a gun and shot it in the head.

That bear's howls have re-echoed throughout the province. Many citizens have urged that hunting with bow and arrow be prohibited. Several papers have printed editorials endorsing this demand.

We do not question the spirit which motivated these appeals, but we do question the knowledge of those who voice them.

Banning the bow and arrow will not eliminate the cruelty from killing. As long as hunters kill animals, many of these animals will die painful deaths.

There is, of course, the question of whether suffering involved in death by an arrow is greater than in death by a bullet. The arrow-head is designed to cut, in the right, spot had greater penetrating power than a bullet and killed instantly. The Stratford Beacon-Herald says that in the North Bay incident the arrow was deflected by the bear's breast bone and argues that this answers the claim that an arrow has greater penetrative power. It does not answer it. Only one incident does not provide conclusive proof. There are many factors to be considered - - the "pull" of the bow, the location of the hit, the calibre of a rifle bullet, the velocity, and the range. In any case, we would wager that for every animal which has died a painful, lingering death as the result of an arrow wound, there are dozens that were killed slowly from a rifle bullet, or buckshot or birdshot.

As long as men hunt, animals and birds will suffer. That may sound like a statement by a man who wants to see hunting banned. It is not. The writer loves hunting. He also loves fishing. But the hunter and the fisherman should recognize that what gives him pleasure gives other living creatures pain. He should be obliged to face this fact, to realize that he is the kind of creature who will not forego his pleasures because they involve suffering for other living creatures. Because he uses a rifle or a shotgun, he should not be permitted to shove all the burden for cruelty on the man who uses a bow and arrow, or the man who traps, or the man who hunts foxes with horse and hounds. The cry of a wounded bear with an arrow in his chest should not echo louder than the scream of a jackrabbit racing away with three sound legs and a fourth flopping like a second tail.

There are four kinds of men. There are those to whom the scream of a wounded bear would be music and for these the average hunter can do no more than apologize. There are the hunters who manage to close their ears and their eyes and to believe that death for the quarry is always quick and merciful. Then there are those who recognize the truth that hunting is cruel and either refrain from hunting, trying to remake life into a better pattern, or continue hunting but accept the fact that Nature is bloody in tooth and claw and that they are a part of Nature and, though they seek to kill quickly and cleanly, they still like the thrill of the chase too well to abandon it because it involves cruelty.

OBSERVE SAFETY RULES

Five Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers drowned in Lake Simcoe over the weekend. The circumstances surrounding the mishap are clear. The policemen were on routine lake patrol in a 14-foot runabout with sufficient life-saving equipment. However, a 30-horsepower motor on the back of such a small boat may make speed overcome its manners. One thing seems certain, the boat was overloaded.

It is sad news to hear of anyone drowning, let alone members of a police force. Is it not ironic that the five men should have drowned because they did not heed the water safety regulations they themselves were engaged to enforce?

Summer is just around the corner. Already boating and sailing enthusiasts are on the Bay of Quinte. Let us hope that they are well versed in the rules of water safety and know how to handle their craft safely. When summer arrives, people will be boating very often, and they will be at nearby beaches. Safety rules are as important on the water as on the highway.

A POOR MAN TALKS

If I could have my way, my dear,
I'd dress you up in silks and laces,
And you should journey every year
To all those foreign summer places;
A motor car, your very own,
With your initials on the door
Would make you glad you'd married me...
But then I am so very poor.

If I could have my way, my dear,
I'd see that all your days were sunny,
And you would never have to ask
If I could spare a little money.

And every summer you and I
Would take a European tour;
Oh, you'd not look at me and sigh
Because I am so very poor.

If I could have my way, my dear,
I wonder would you like me more?
Then would you, as you do today,
Still run to meet me at the door?
And would you kiss me as you do?
What's that? You couldn't love me more?
Then I have reason to rejoice
Although I am so very poor.

Letter To The Letter

Funeral Directors Protest Article

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

It was with considerable concern that we read an article from the front page of your paper, dated May 22nd, 1958. It would appear that this article was such a report as Canadian Press news release and the heading read "Weekend Deaths Is Said Expensive Level. Embalmers get Overtime Pay."

We, as owners of three funeral homes in this district, that are affected by such adverse and unjust criticism, we wish to register protest against this statement. May we also state emphatically, on our own behalf, that funeral costs are maintained at the same level, regardless of the time of day we are called upon to serve a family subjected to a bereavement. We would also point out that week schedules, of embalmers and other employees, are arranged in such a manner that when said employees are on duty on weekends, they are in turn given equivalent time off during the preceding week to compensate for such duty. Further to this, we have checked with several large funeral homes in Toronto, and have been assured that this arrangement also is the majority of funeral homes throughout Ontario.

The writers feel that this article was not justified and is the statement of an individual, not giving a discussion, and based on incorrect information. Before making such a statement, we respectfully submit two letters or rebuttal to the article, which are taken from the editorial page of a provincial newspaper, dateline May 23rd, 1958, and suggest that you publish same, along with our letter, for the public's information.

We have been prompted to make this brief statement, due to the fact that we have had several inquiries, which have been caused by the publication of this article.

Yours truly,
Ralph W. Weaver,

FOR SIMPLER FUNERALS

Sir: The Toronto Memorial Society is grateful that you were interested enough in our first annual meeting to have a reporter attend ("More Expensive Rites Urged on Viewers," Is Claim," May 23. However, the prominence given to one person's remarks, made at random from the floor, gives a mistaken impression of the society's aims, and we are anxious that our position be clarified. The purpose of the society is to encourage dignity, simplicity and moderate expense in funeral arrangements, and, throughout the annual meeting the recurring note was one of satisfaction that so much progress has been made in one short year. One of the society's objectives is to enlist the co-operation of the understanding of funeral directors, and the annual report emphasized our pleasure that real progress had been made in this regard. Most important, was the statement in the report that in addition to these funeral directors already co-operating with us, there is a real spirit of understanding among funeral directors as a group.

LAUDS FUNERAL MEN

Sir: With regard to the report of the annual meeting of the Toronto Memorial Society, may I point out that the Rev. Lorne Greene speaks entirely for himself and has no authority whatever to speak for the Anglican clergy of Canada. I am one Anglican cleric who grants that the Memorial Society is sincere but believes that it is wee behind the facts. As regards the matter of justice to many first funeral directors is naive in the extreme if it fines that rests of funerals have risen with other costs. Let us look at some figures. By the public gets what it asks for no really decent funeral director, a non-Anglican, has to my certain knowledge expected to perform a decent funerals at a cost of $250. During 22 years as a priest, I have had to officiate at many funerals with a funeral director. Most have conducted native in the extreme service which involved very expensive premises and a fully equipped chapel and a host of vocations.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At the Press Club the other day I met a man who has been one of the newspapermen who have left Canada to live, or as they are called, to Switzerland. Belgium, the Scandinavian and other less attractive countries of Europe. And one of the overall impressions that this man was expressed by a pretty cagey old reporter who said:

"There is Canada have a higher standard of living than most of the countries. But have we a higher standard of life?"

This is one of those trick questions that has to be looked at for a little while to realize its full pattern.

The thing that haunts these recent travellers abroad is the degree of contentment, satisfaction, interest and engagement in life that they saw expressed by the widest range of people at all levels of society in the European countries. Compared with our standards of living, there appeared to be many features extremely limited. But the visitor to Europe did not encounter the uneasy feeling that the European found more in life than living. There is being. And the art of living seems larger, deeper, than the art of living. In the art of being, everybody participates, regardless of the equipment and background necessary to be a real art of living. As the cagey old reporter said:

"In Switzerland, Norway, Denmark, nobody seems to have read the ads."

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THEY MAKE EVERY DAY BETTER

Above me, as I write, is a gallery of photographs.

The very top row begins with the young friend who had the best influence upon me fifty years ago. Next to him is a business man who early taught me to face reality whether I wanted to or not. Then there is the physician who saved my life and health for a large number of years. Next to him is a friend who gave much good advice and steered me clear of many mistakes early in my career. Then comes my lawyer. He often calls me by phone and in per-emptory tones says, "You can't do this. Now I'm telling you." Below him on the next row is the gentle face of a former writing colleague. Next comes a publishing a book every year and whose chief joy is making life better for many of his younger friends.

I call them my rogues gallery. What a crowd of fine, personable people, true friends and as full of human nature as you and me and kindly impulses. Yes, and on another wall is a dear friend of my youth who was a real minister, a friend who worked too hard and too long in early environments, an experienced publisher who helped me greatly in the early days of my writing, a social officer who has held some of the highest positions the country has to offer, a close buddy who died tragically twenty years ago, a young minister who died in the prime of his church.

My "rogues." God bless them.

To Your Good Health

YOUNG CHILDREN SHOULDN'T FEAR TRIP TO DOCTOR'S OFFICE

"Dear, Dr. Molner: My little girl, who is four years old, has a nose bleed two or three times a month, usually at night while asleep. She is frail, and a poor eater, and would rather watch TV than anything else. I seldom let her outdoors in winter because she has had flu twice.

"I've been wanting to take her to a doctor but she practically gets hysterical at the sight of his office. I am very much worried about this nose bleed. Can you tell me if it is serious?" — Mrs. P. A. L.

Without examining a child I'm most certainly couldn't venture a good guess as to whether or not nose bleeds are "serious." They could be, and again they may be the result of some minor infection or the like.

But we're both wasting our time guessing what it might be. Certainly, if the child were mine, I would remain concerned until I found out what the trouble was.

The problem, then, is for us to find out why the youngster is so afraid of the doctor's office. There is no reason. At the age of four, she can't explain it all to you, but you have some clue? Has someone used the doctor as a threat? Has she been told that if she's not a good girl, "Eat this or that or you'll go to the doctor," or something like that?

Really more than the nose bleed is involved here. A child who grows up afraid of the doctor is obviously growing up with a handicap.

Here's another question. Is it fair that the doctor's office that frightens her or is she afraid of other places? The answer to that question would give us a further notion as to what needs to be done.

PARENTAL ATTITUDE IMPORTANT

Remember this. Children often age up to the level of the attitudes ideas or impressions from their parents. If parents are afraid of something the children scent it. But if parents take something in stride and do it well by letter or telephone. And the child is taught to be alert, fluently she'll begin to get the idea that there's nothing to be afraid of.

And for Pete's sake, don't make the doctor's office sound like a threat. A child, told again and again that "there's nothing to be afraid of," is smart enough to figure that there probably is — or you wouldn't make such a fuss about it. Kids are smart.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please send me your booklet on ways to stop bed-wetting. Enclosed find 20 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope. Do you have a booklet on finger-sucking? — Mrs. W."

After you've read the booklet you requested, I'm sure you'll see that the two things most generally stem from a similar cause — nervousness, restless childhood worries. It's also common to find that a child who is with bed-wetting is also a thumb-sucker.

Note to M.A.: Readiness comes from various causes, and many of them can be corrected. Many of them you prevent the like by me.chanism from transmitting the sound impulses properly. Hundreds of these cases are being corrected surgically. But when the nerve itself is destroyed, then there is no "telegraph line" to carry the sound even if the ear itself is perfect. We don't know how to transplant a nerve with the present skills, we can remove a cataract, or can transplant a tiny bit of nerve to replace one that has become cloudy, but if the optic nerve itself has failed, then we are helpless.

Beset by blinding, painful headaches? If so, write me in care of this newspaper for a copy of my booklet, "How to Tame Headaches," enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

First Woman Bank Manager

St. Thomas Times-Journal

"I wish to see the manager, please."

"Yes. Step this way."

And when you stepped that way you would probably have been surprised to find a nice-looking woman behind the massive managerial desk.

That situation will obtain soon at Talbot street branch of Barclay's Bank in London. Barclay's is one of the biggest chartered banks in the United Kingdom, and Hanover street is the only office of that where banking practice would be on a par.

The new manager who will shortly take up the appointment is Miss Hilda M. Harding, and she is the first woman bank manager in the British Isles. She started as a pound a week stenographer, which would be about $4.80 at that time. She moved up step by step in the head office, and 12 years ago she was to the bank's training school at Wimbledon, then joined the administrative staff at Henley. The general manager of Barclay's says the appointment is based on merit, and Miss Harding will receive the same salary as any other manager.

Womanlike, she plans to have plenty of flowers around her bank inside, and hopes to have a say in the re-decoration of the premises. She dislikes steel deep carpets. She thinks most offices are too dingy, and would be that is how they appear to people who don't get the loan they wanted.

There is no woman bank manager in Canada, but quite a few accountants, and there are women managers of small private banks in the United States. Up to a point girls are excellent bank employees just as good, if not better, than the young men. But as for being in the managerial echelons of a tough job, one calling for decisions involving large amounts of money — and Canadian executives just feel it is a strain that should not be imposed upon a woman.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BELIEF, THAT'S ALL!

Whenever a certain thing in life is needed to me happiness, I adopt and cling to it and I can do so without embarrassment, that fifth and simple belief are possessions that can contribute to the health and happiness of all who will put them to the hands of the Creator. Who gave life to them and everything wonderful, in this world.

We feel ourselves in a quieter atmosphere when we come to realize that our everyday life journey is a gift from our Heavenly Father. He has furnished guide posts to everyone human soul searching for truth and inward happiness, and for courage to stretch their days and nights with confidence and hope.

Nothing is as simple as to believe and to have faith as a guide whatever the circumstances. If you feel sceptical, increased faith will wipe it all out. As William James has said, "Faith is the first factor" It is well to live that life is worth the living. Such a belief will help reveals the fact.

We need the trust and faith of a child, no matter how old a years we may be. No one can be a child without a heart for kindness and gentleness will radiate in all directions. They will save doctor bills also! It is really amazing how the human body reacts to sympathetic treatment. It is also possible, every organ in the body would rise and bless every other organ. This be of ours is actually one of the finest examples of a pure democracy!

Totalitarianism Reaches Peak Says Kerensky

TORONTO (CP)— Alexander Fedorovitch Kerensky, 77, onetime premier of Russia, says Soviet totalitarianism has reached a peak and is slowly receding.

Mr. Kerensky served as minister in the government formed by Prince Georg Ivov after the 1917 February revolution and then as prime minister until the Bolsheviks assumed power in November. Now living in Stanford, Calif., he was here to appear on a television program.

He said in an interview: "It has always been a fundamental law of Communist policy to be elastic in tactics but stubborn in aim. We are seeing a new period of elastic tactics to develop the production of consumer goods."

As the people obtain more goods, expand education and enjoy more freedom, they will consider these fundamental rights, he said. A new future would be created as the people accepted these things as basic freedoms.

r. Kerensky said he hopes for "some kind of decent regime" in the Soviet Union to end the cold war between East and West.

He said he does not think a third world war will occur because the Soviet "cannot attempt a voluntary suicidal conflagration in which they may lose all their ideals and objectives."

Psychiatrist Was Himself Mental Patient

NEW YORK (AP) — City correction Commissioner Anna M. Kross says Dr. George Wolf, who resigned as a city psychiatrist a week ago, is a former mental patient.

Wolf held a part-time job at a city jail for about a month and then quit.

A routine inquiry into a traffic violation led to the disclosure of Wolf's past.

Mrs. Kross said Wolf was committed to a mental hospital under his real name of Dr. Joseph Unti. When he later was discharged, she added, he changed his name to Wolf to cover his background so he could get a job.

Plan to Salvage Copper Cargoes

HALIFAX (CP) — A 1,000-ton ship sailed from here Tuesday to mine one of the world's few remaining Klondikes — the ocean floor.

Owned by Risdon Beazley Limited of England, world's largest deep-sea salvage firm, the Dronford and her 32-man crew will spend the summer anchored 17 miles off Gaspe in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

An informal source said she will work three derelicts, all victims of German torpedoes in the Second World War. The sunken ships carrying cargoes of copper ingots and one-ton copper bars.

Last summer, working from the Twyford, the same crew salvaged a cargo of copper from the sunken Greek freighter Mount Pindos in the same area. The crew spent the winter in the Mediterranean where they found a ship, but not the one they were seeking.

Attach No Blame in Deaths of 12 Indian Children

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C. (CP) — A coroner's jury Tuesday attached no blame in the deaths by fire of 12 Indian children after a man testified she poured an inflammable liquid into a stove which started the fatal explosion and blaze.

Sister Mary of the Cross, heavily bandaged on her hands and body, gave her testimony from her hospital room. She was severely burned in an attempt to rescue the children.

The May 24 fire levelled the two-storey frame building that housed the Anahim reserve hospital and school about 70 miles west of here.

Sister Mary, a member of the Roman Catholic Order of Missionary Sisters of Christ the King, told the jury she was the only nurse on duty. The other sisters were in the convent, 25 yards away.

She was preparing bottles for the young children when she noticed a liquid which she believed was oil into the stove. The 70-year-old nun said the stove exploded.

The jury ruled the fire and deaths an accident.

BASHALL — McAVOY

The Church of St. James the Minor, Stirling, was the setting on Saturday, May, 17, at 10:00 a.m. for a very pretty wedding when the Reverend J. P. O'Neill, united in marriage, Stella Anastatia McAvoy, of Ivanhoe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip McAvoy, to Richard Donald Bashall, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bashall, Tall, white standards of reg and white tullpe, and white carnations and ferns formed a pretty setting for the ceremony.

Mr. John Murphy, guest organist from Gilmour, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Gene Healey, of Oshawa, in his rendition of "Mother, at Thy Feet is Kneeling, "Veni Jeu Amor Mi," "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," and "Jesus, Jesus Come to Me."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Philip McAvoy, was radiant in her white nylon chiffon floor length gown featuring a fitted bodice having a nylon yoke outlined at the back with nylon chiffon roses, long, sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands, and floor-length skirt of nylon chiffon over taffeta. She wore a sequin-studded headpiece in crown effect and finger-tip veil of nylon tulle, and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, white stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Miss Helen McAvoy, of Ajax, Ontario, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor, gowned in ballerina-length pale green silk organza over taffeta with fitted bodice having short sleeves, round neckline, with bouffant skirt. She wore a matching green picture hat, mitts and white shoes. They carried nosegays of yellow and white mums with adiantum fern.

Little flower-girl Sandra LaChappelle, of Stirling, niece of the bride, as flower girl was gowned in white nylon floor length frock of shlmp-colored silk organza with matching headdress and matching gloves. She carried a basket of white mums and white gypsophila.

The wedding reception was held in Stirling community hall, where a turkey dinner was served at high noon to 80 guests.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with two miniature brides, and flanked by white candles in crystal holders, and the bridal bouquets.

The bride's mother, for her daughter's wedding chose a gown of brown crepe with beige accessories, beige picture hat, and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother who wore a navy-figured gown with navy duster coat, white picture hat and gloves, and corsage of red roses.

For travelling to the eastern United States, South Carolina, New York City, and Virginia, the bride wore a navy and white linen ensemble with white collar and navy bow, white hat and gloves and white shoes, accessorized with corsage of red roses.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bashall will reside at 19 Donald Street.

Guests attended from Oshawa; Kingston; Belleville; Toronto; Madoc; Coe Hill, and Tweed.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the Bell Telephone Company by Miss Nancy Day and Miss Jean Barry, also at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Patrick Callaghan and at a presentation from Miss Harris and the staff of the Bell Telephone, and a community presentation at Ivanhoe Hall.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

First of shopping this week will be devoted to "something for Dad" on Father's Day. That will be the most worrisome part of shopping, too, no doubt. For men always complain that women are hard to buy for, the same holds true in the other direction.

But whoever placed the Father's Day in June was either very brilliant, or made a lucky guess, or was a father. Think of the many vistas opening up at this time of year for the man of the house.

First and foremost, of course, he has not nearly enough clothes for various occasions during the summer time. And nowadays each activity has its special accoutrements. Does he sail? Fish? Golf? Even leisure and summer loafing have their own special casual clothes. You will want to take into consideration Dad's own taste — does he like plain or splashy sports clothes? But the choices are infinite. Luckily there are some bargains to be had in plain fine shirts at the present time. There is something on which you can not go wrong.

If Dad has a hobby, don't be embarrassed at giving him something that will keep him busy. Nobody with a hobby ever has enough things to work with. We must admit that tools for the hobbyist have been glamorized to such an extent that most of them are true gift items. The avid gardener will never have enough of tools, sprays, clippers, pruners, and so on. The do-it-yourself man dreams of having complete kits for all his ideas. There should be no trouble shopping for a gift in that line.

We are reliably informed that the true fisherman wears the oldest, most disreputable clothes and concentrates on equipment. Pictures of fishermen in the great outdoors always show them smoking pipes. There is the safest idea yet, for a pipe smoker never has enough pipes. This may lead to jars of choice tobacco and humidors.

The above have been a few leads to get your own ideas going. There is always the thought that a receipted bill for something you had left for Dad to look after might be just as acceptable as anything. On the other hand, men, just as much as women, like to receive those extras they would not buy for themselves.

The UNESCO Courier for May is devoted to the record of the World Health Organization of the United Nations. It is an amazing record and one which will be referred to periodically in T. & T. We want to share some of the information that is contained in each monthly edition of The Courier. A brief article on the increase of mental illness and its relation to faster living starts with the irrefutable statement of fact; "The problem of mental illness is one which affects particularly the economically well - developed countries. It has been estimated that in these countries of Europe the number of mental patients has increased from one to four per thousand of population. In the better-off countries, moreover, there is also a rate of cures — defined at the level of partially-disabling illness—of about 10 per cent.

"It is generally reported that of the men processed by the U.S. Selective Service for the armed forces pre-introduction examination, 29 per cent are classified as unavailable because of psychiatric disorder."

This is a startling but nevertheless effectual report on the negative side of the argument for all our hurry and bustle to get nowhere too fast, too often. However, on the positive side is there are encouraging results to report as well. Health authorities hope to reduce the incidence of certain forms of ill-health through the protection of persons at periods of stress, and they can, through existing medical services, make earlier treatment available.

Then, such incontrovertible facts are presented for our reflection, we are reminded of the statement that for every action in life there exists an opposite. Our modern complex and inconveniences cannot be taken for granted. There are black and white, hot and cold; high and low; good and bad, and on and on, when we are faced with any imbalance in nature or society, it is wise to be on guard lest that always we must count our blessings rather than take too much for granted. Another grim fact reported is that the humanitarian work of health is increasing rapidly the life expectancy in countries that a hundred years ago the milestone have never known hope. This too brings about the challenge of how are we going to feed the increasing millions? And so the pros and cons of all life continue to face man's ingenuity.

Chicken - - - Picnic or Barbeque Style

by Mary Moore

When we were gay and I was twenty-one and newly married my most memorable party on our wedding trip was at a tank pond in northern Missouri when we had fried chicken. I can still remember its juicy tenderness mingled through the crisp golden crust. Margie was the cook and wife of Hoyt the town dentist. Hoyt raised the fowl for fun and food and this one's name was Henrietta. Nursing pets in a farmyard is fatal, for when they have to run the gamut of chopping block and frying pan the meaning of their transient lives gives one abrupt pause.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Quick Potato Soup (see Tuesday); Omelette with Bacon Whits, Sauce; Cauliflower; Spinach; Rosy Red Rhubarb; Washboard Cookies; Coffee.

Anyway I'm a cook and Henrietta's drumstick was delicious and Canadian chicken is comparatively cheap in 1958, and this summer, out in the garden mostly, I intend to cook and eat and relish them by the flock.

Did you notice the spiced plum sauce recipe I gave on Monday for you to try on roast chicken?

CHICKEN BAKED IN CREAM

Note: To transport this to a picnic spot wrap the whole casserole in heavy newspapers as soon as it comes from the oven. One 4-lb. frying chicken, 1-2 cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon black pepper, 1 teaspoon oregano (or marjoram), 1-4 teaspoon monosodium glutamate, 1-2 cup butter or margarine, 2 cups 10 per cent cream, an additional 1-2 teaspoon oregano. Cut chicken into serving pieces. Roll each piece in flour which has been mixed with monosodium glutamate, oregano, salt and pepper. Saute chicken in butter until golden. Place browned chicken in casserole, add the cream, sprinkle with more salt and pepper and 1-2 teaspoon oregano. Cover. Bake at 325 deg. about 2 1-2 hours. Slow baking is the secret of its lovely flavor and tenderness.

CHICKEN BARBECUED OUTDOORS

To serve four cut 2 broiling chickens in halves. Build fire well in advance to insure bed of glowing coals. Grease grill bar, put chickens skin side up on grill 4 inches from fire. Baste with Barbecue Sauce: One-half cup margarine, 1 teaspoon each salt, sugar and onion salt, 2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce, 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Put all ingredients and 1-2 cup water on to boil for 1 minute. Some will drip from chicken into fire, so baste sparingly twice during the 1-2 hour broiling required. Serve with remaining sauce.

Note: Heavy duty aluminum foil may be used for barbecuing chicken or chops or steaks for a crowd. Turn edges of foil up about 1 inch all around and miter corners. As chicken pieces brown on grill, transfer to foil "pan." When all chicken is brown slide the foil pan into position over fire. Cook chicken 45 minutes longer, basting with barbecue sauce. If desired an extra piece of foil may be used as a cover to enclose some steam to ensure tender chicken, if there seems to be larger than broilers. Transfer the whole chicken and foil pan to table to serve to conserve the lovely sauce. This method makes the chicken most tender and tasty and just about ready to fall from the bones.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Stanley J. — I want to settle down in civil service.

Vivian J. — It would mean defeat to him.

Stanley J. — I am a man of 38 and seem to be unable to get my bearings in life. I have a college education and I am considered quite presentable from the point of view of appearance and personality, yet I cannot get established in anything worthwhile.

I have held a variety of jobs, while seemed promising at first, but which petered out on me as others much less equipped and able than I were promoted ahead of me. In a couple of places I was told I was not cut out for the work I was doing.

I have finally decided to try to settle down into a civil service job. I am good at passing exams but apparently not so good at handling my wages, as I depended upon making an impression on other people. My sister, who is somewhat biased about me, objects.

Vivian J. — Stan was a brilliant student at school, yet he always managed to get himself messed up in some silly way. His research papers were always late, his exam papers sloppy. Sometimes he would get his classes mixed up and go to the wrong place at the wrong time. Yet everyone agreed that he was brilliant.

The same thing has happened in the jobs he has held. Even when he tries very hard to do everything just right, some small thing will happen to trip him up or he will strike the wrong note with a key person.

I feel Stan must find the work he is really cut out for and then he will soar ahead. But the civil service for him would be to accept defeat. He wants to take something far under his abilities.

The Council: It is difficult for family and friends to watch a man like Stanley flounder, yet it is doubtful whether there is any other way for him to find himself.

Vivian, like most well-meaning individuals on the side lines, can give negative advice, but can do little of positive value. She does not know what field of endeavor or what particular job will bring out her brother's real capabilities.

She is sure civil service would stifle them, yet she cannot tell. Only Stanley will be able to tell once he has tried it.

It is possible a job 'way beneath his capabilities will be just the thing to make Stan snap into a realization of what he wants to do. Vivian is probably right in her feeling that once her brother clicks in the right job he will move ahead quickly.

However, Stanley should recognize he is not fixed. He apparently has some personality disturbance which is creating trouble for him. He may find it worthwhile to talk over his problems with a psychiatrist.

As for his immediate vocational plans, we think he ought to follow his own instincts and do it best. He should not look upon his civil service job as a defeat, but as a possible opening to a fuller, more secure life. If he views it in this spirit, he may very well be successful and happy in the work as thousands of others.

HAVE RECEIVING-LINE WHERE RECEPTION IS TO BE HELD

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Our daughter is to be married in our church, with a reception following in the church parlor on the floor below. Should the receiving-line be at the rear of the main floor or downstairs?

— Mother

I advise you have the receiving-line where the reception is to be, in the church parlor. There would, I imagine, be more space (an important factor) to form the line there . . . those to be in the line would go at once after the recessional to the church parlor and the receiving-line would be in position in good time to receive the guests arriving from the ceremony. With this procedure there would be no awkward time-lapse or place-break between the end of the recessional and the beginning of the reception.

WEE WOMEN

...est assured, you'd have filled this up long ago if it were in our backyard, dear!

Clothes Compliments

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The crop of attractive accessories is especially rich this season. First we suggest a little summer hat that should appeal even to those who usually go hatless. It is of white pique with an open crown and has slits through which any scarf can be slipped.

The handbag is of beige basket-weave straw cloth garnished with white leather binding and handle. With it is a matching pump with three rows of white grosgrain across the vamp.

Deaf and Blind Woman Runs Efficient Home

VANCOUVER (CP) — Being blind and deaf doesn't stop Mrs. Marjorie McGuffin from running an efficient home and helping others.

The spunky little 55 - year - old grandmother is a national consultant for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Her qualifications for this task have all been earned since she was 45, when she decided to train herself to overcome the handicaps.

From the age of 20, when she became blind, until she was 43 she had not been able to read. Her three children were growing up, and she was not over-active around the house.

SUCCESSFUL WRITER

She decided to learn Braille in order to read the Bible. Now she is a successful fre-lance writer, president and founder of the Deaf-Blind League of Canada and editor of a Braille magazine she started herself—Dots and Taps.

Mrs. McGubbin had been totally deaf since she was seven. Married at 18, she has always done her household tasks.

Her gearbell is a vibrator under the floor. She has an automatic washer, an electric stove with timers in Braille, and a wall clock with a vibrator to tell the time.

Since the children left the house, there is no telephone or radio. Her husband, Albert, is deaf, too.

At 14 she had to quit school because of fading eyesight. She had a habit of roaming the North Vancouver woods as a youngster, and once was nearly drowned when a log she was riding began floating out to sea.

Donations and money Mrs. McGubbin has earned with her various articles have purchased 30 Braille machines for Canadians who are both deaf and blind.

Mother's Helper

YOUR young daughter will feel grown up when she is really helpful with your grocery shopping. Give her a few simple items to make up a list which she writes herself. At the market, let her take a cart and go around the aisles independently. Most her at the checkout counter when you've finished with your own purchases.

Childhood Charm

By ALICE ALDEN

A frothy sweetness, attuned to fashion, marks some of the clothes designed for little girls. The best designers never sacrifice the fresh charm and appeal of childhood in the interest of fashion. Celeste does a sheer organdy dress that expresses this idea neatly. It is sleeveless, with a square neckline. Exquisite panels of imported eyelet embroidery and Val lace rim the neckline and arms, and encircle the bodice above the waist. Under the persimmon red organdy is an underdress of white cotton broadcloth with a nylon tulle frill, pretty enough to fare forth on its own.

STONE CHURCH W.M.S.

4th SIDNEY—The May meeting of the Stone Church Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. George Tucker. There was a good attendance and several ladies from the Neighborhood of Thurlow were guests.

Mrs. R. McMullen, the president, opened the meeting by reading a few verses from The Scriptures and prayer that all be hear- and obey God's call service.

Mrs. J. Detlor read a few verses from Romans 13:11-14 to watch and be sober and put on the helmet of salvation. The helmet stands for hope and peace, that evil be resisted thereby.

A discussion "Christians of Japan" followed. It was pointed out there are 222 Protestant schools in Japan with 131,600 students; there are 31 junior colleges with 6,200 persons teaching and all are Christians. Six universities have opened since World War II.

There are 90 million people in Japan compared with 17 million in Canada. There is a great need for missionary work.

Mrs. J. Detlor, temperance superintendent, gave a talk on the effects of alcohol and what the Liquor Control Board is striving to do. The Alcoholics Anonymous are doing wonderwork; 30 per cent of drinkers become alcoholics.

The Salvation Army gave shelter last year for some 3000. Even some college professors and teachers were among them.

The Women's Association meeting was led by Mrs. C. Versnilyes, group leader for this quarter.

The secretary's report was read by Mrs. G. Tucker and a few items were discussed re the finishing of the church floor and some work to be done at the parsonage.

A "Silent Auction" was held at the close of the meeting and refreshments served by the committee in charge.

'Prejudice' Topic at WMS Meet

The June meeting of the Canniffton Women's Missionary Society was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jack Williams, in Belleville, with a good attendance.

Mrs. Dora Brenton, president, conducted the meeting.

During the business period Mrs. Wilfred Hall, supply secretary, reported that two boxes of used clothing had been packed and sent overseas. Several boxes of used cards have been sent to Korea and Mrs. Gerald Brenton read letters of appreciation from hospitals where they are used by children for scrap books and many other ways.

For the devotional service, Mrs. Roy Pound read the Scripture, taken from St. John 13:1.

The president called on Mr. McCrea, who spoke on "Prejudice." It was noted as one of the greatest problems of today and originates through fear and selfishness. Children seldom have prejudice in their hearts, but soon learn from adults.

As a Christian point of view there should be no prejudice against anyone, regardless of color or denomination, for all are one Lord. One should hold no spite toward anyone but bring them to the throne of grace through prayer.

There was much food for thought in this worthwhile discussion.

Mrs. Brenton extended thanks on behalf of all present and to Mrs. Williams for opening her home to the Canniffton W.M.S.

A social hour followed the close of the meeting.

Canada Lucky To Be Neighbor Of United States

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some Canadians in high places "are trying to get smart by plucking feathers from the American eagle," says Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia.

He appealed for a more friendly Canadian attitude towards the United States.

"We are very lucky to be neighbors of the great United States," Mr. Bennett said Thursday night. "Anyone who takes the opposite view is a small Canadian and should not have the respect of the wise people of this country."

Mr. Bennett, addressing the annual luncheon of the National Council of Women, said British Columbia needs foreign capital to develop its immense resources.

The convention accepted reports from its committee chairmen and was told by a Vancouver delegate that equality of opportunity in promotion and training is still being denied a large number of Canadian women.

Eleanor Morley, chairman of the trades and professions committee, said employers should hire, train and promote employees on the basis of their personal qualifications, regardless of sex.

"Our society's needs for capable, highly-trained persons are so great that we do ourselves a disservice by neglecting any reservoir of undeveloped talent and ability," she said.

Mrs. F. E. Underhill of London, Ont., chairman of the economics committee, said Canadian women now realize there is a relationship between their power as purchasers and the country's economic problems.

Country Estates Become Scarce Among Nobility

VANCOUVER (CP) — Divergent opinions regarding aristocracy's role in the world today were expressed in an interview here by Viscount and Viscountess Monckton. Lord Monckton is touring Canada as chairman of Britain's Midland Bank.

Lady Monckton: "Real aristocracy involves a sense of responsibility for others. I can be called into whatever work an aristocrat does."

Lord Monckton: "There isn't an effective role for aristocracy as such in England. The sense of responsibility has a great to others — you've got to be more than just a lord to be any good nowadays."

Answering a reporter's question during the friendly exchange, Lady Monckton, born 10th Baroness Rathven of Freeland said:

"Chauffeurs, nannies, cooks and country estates are all becoming scarce among us. Debutantes become stenographers, models and nurses after the season is over.

"But the spirit is still there in what we call aristocracy may do."

Then she called her husband, "a commoner and man of peer for services that included serving as Conservative minister of labor and minister of defence.

He disagreed: "Many old families will remain because they combine position with special ability. For others well opportunities for aristocrats are decreasing constantly."

Is England losing something as the aristocracy fades?

Lady Monckton replied: "It's sad to see a whole family unable to keep up its estates and people, and to look after those people as they always have."

Lord Monckton was less sure. "I suppose there is some loss. But there is far more equality of opportunity. You don't have to depend on birth and position. And the old families with merit will remain."

He added: "I can say all this because I am not an aristocrat—but she is," waving at his wife.

Both agreed that titles symbolic of special merit are a good thing.

"Aristocracy is no full time job," said Lady Monckton. "It never was." But her own work is full time. She was controller of the Auxiliary Territorial Service in England and India during the Second World War.

Now she helps administer government hospital funds for southeast London, Kent and Sussex, a five-day-week unpaid job.

Belleville, District H-S Council Hears Reports, Elects Officers

The annual meeting of the Belleville and District Home and School Council was held Monday evening. Preceding the meeting's dinner for council members, executive and representatives, was enjoyed at Lattimer's Town Room.

This was a happy occasion marred only by the announcement that the guest of honour, and speaker, Mrs. Lloyd Jones, was extra vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, could not be present owing to unforeseen circumstances.

After the dinner and a short recess, the meeting was called to order at the Carlton Public Library where the president, Mrs. C. Powell, welcomed both the executive who had attended the dinner and those who came in later.

Mrs. Powell thanked all members of the 1957-58 executive for their assistance during the year.

ANNUAL REPORTS

This year the annual reports were mimeographed and a copy handed to each member. The secretary's report told of the growth of the Council. There are now 12 associations with a paid-up membership, and four who anticipate joining in September. These cover most of the associations in the area.

Some of the highlights included sponsoring a Student Accident Insurance Plan for a second year; also with the co-operation of the Belleville Board of Education, a spelling competition for public school children, with the school boards supplying shields which were hung in the school of the winning girl and boy, and the Home and School Council, leather book binders.

The Council, through publicity, has supported the Ontario Homes for Mentally Retarded Infants, Plainfield, and the newly organized Association for the Education of Retarded Children. A co-ordinated program of safety has been put in operation by all public schools in the city through the efforts of the Traffic Safety Committee of the city council, a committee from Home and School Council, and the Kiwanis Club, which has also given financial support.

Reference was made to the annual leadership training program, which this year provided presidents, Mrs. E. Risto, Mrs. W. Paradis, Mrs. W. A. Ironside; recording secretary, Mrs. B. Stenson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. J. Fort; treasurer, Mrs. J. Winstanley; executive members: Mrs. G. Ling, Mrs. A. Burley, Mr. Gordon Hutchinson, Mrs. J. Gordon, Mr. K. Parks and Mrs. M. A. Gariepy.

Due to the unavoidable absence of Mrs. Courtice, the immediate past president, Mrs. Powell, took charge of the installation ceremony, at the conclusion of which she shook hands with the president and with each officer in turn and extended best wishes for the success of their work during the coming year.

Mrs. R. Jones, the newly-elected president, expressed pleasure at having such an efficient group of officers to assist her with the work of the Council during the coming year. As the three vice-presidents, Mrs. Courtice, had recently expressed the desire that the annual regional conference be held in Belleville in October, an informal discussion on this topic took place. It was announced that an executive meeting will be held in the near future.

PRESENTATIONS

Mrs. Powell was presented by Mrs. Jones with the Ontario Federation past president's pin, and the Ontario Pin.

Mrs. N. O'Neil, the retiring corresponding secretary, gave a short resume of the highlights of Mrs. Powell's work in Home and School during the time he became a charter member of Queen Victoria Home and School Association in 1949, and on behalf of the Belleville and District Home and School Council presented her with a beautiful copper tray engraved with Mrs. Powell's name and the office of president which she held from 1956 to 1958.

Mrs. O'Neil expressed the wish of those present by saying that she hoped Mrs. Powell's interest in Home and School would continue, and asked her to accept the sincere thanks of all members for what she had accomplished as Council president.

In reply, Mrs. Powell said how much she had enjoyed meeting people, and what it had meant to her to gain so many friends through Home and School contacts.

HONORARY SURGEON

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Joseph A. Sullivan of Toronto has been appointed an honorary surgeon to the Queen, it was learned Monday. The 55-year-old retired, appointed to the Senate by the Progressive Conservative government fall, is a specialist in ear diseases. In 1938 he was a member of the Olympic championship Varsity Grads hockey team.

St. Joseph's S-D Concludes Meetings

The final meeting of St. Joseph's sub-division for the summer months was held Monday.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, after which the executive reports were read.

Mrs. McQuaide reported that a mother and daughter banquet will be held for the Brownies next week, she also will be convener of the draw on the luggage in the fall.

Mrs. T. Kelly will assume the position of receptionist at all C. W. I. functions.

The president briefed the members on the Diocesan convention in Kingston. The sub-division is honored to have Mrs. F. F. Ralston chosen as chairman of the 'Civic Action Committee.'

Members were reminded this meeting would be the last until September 30th.

Mrs. T. Kelly adjourned the meeting, followed by refreshments served by Mrs. B. LaBelle, Mrs. H. Boos, and helpers.

FINDLAY CLARK

He was promoted to captain in 1938 and became associate professor of electrical and mechanical engineering at Royal Military College, Kingston.

At the outbreak of war he was appointed adjutant of the 1st Canadian Corps of Signals. In 1940 he was made a major and sent to the United Kingdom.

BECAME STAFF OFFICER

He became a lieutenant-colonel in February, 1941, and took command of the 5th Armored Division Signals Regiment. In August, 1942, he was appointed a general staff officer at Canadian headquarters in London.

He was promoted to colonel in January, 1943, and in May became chief signals officer, headquarters, 2nd Canadian Corps. He was made a brigadier in November, 1943.

On his return to Canada in 1945 Gen. Clark was appointed deputy chief of the general staff. When next promoted in 1949 he was, at 40, the youngest major-general in the army.

In that year he returned to London as military representative with NATO. In 1951 he was back at army headquarters here as quarter-master general.

He assumed his present appointment at Oakville in 1955.

He is one of the youngest men to become chief of the general staff. General Charles Foulkes, new chairman of the chiefs of staffs and only active army man with senior rank to him, was army chief at the age of 44.

NEARLY THREE YEARS

Gen. Granam is retiring after having been chief of staff since Sept. 1, 1955. He was a member of the Canadian Expeditionary Force of the First World War in 1916 at the age of 17 with the 113th Battalion and served in France and Germany as a non-commissioned officer.

Commissioned in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment militia in 1923, he was second in command of that unit when it was mobilized in 1939, and took command of it overseas a year later.

He was promoted to command the 7th Brigade of the 3rd Division in 1942, which he took command of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade, leading it during the Sicilian and part of the Italian campaigns.

In 1943 he was named deputy chief of the general staff in charge of training. From 1943 until becoming army chief he was successively vice-chief of the general staff and officer commanding Central Command.

NORAD HAS NO

Mr. Pearson said undoubtedly NORAD has a connection with NATO. But the government had tried to create the impression NORAD was part of NATO.

It had done so "perhaps because they were a little bit sensitive about the reaction in the country to the placing of part of the RCAF under a U.S. commander."

Mr. Pearson said NORAD has no organic connection with NATO. NORAD has no authority from, nor responsibility to, NATO. He suggested the government take up in the NATO Council the possibility of making NORAD a NATO command.

Later, Mr. Pearkes said the air defence plan drawn up for NORAD is not the final one that will be agreed to by the two governments.

Referring to consultation with Colorado Springs in event of an emergency, the defence minister said he can get in touch with the NORAD commander there in 40 seconds by a telephone call from his office.

Replying at another point to Mr. Pearson, Mr. Pearkes said American interceptor planes armed with nuclear weapons cannot fly over Canada except in event of grave emergency. This had been the policy under the former Liberal government.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) proposed a motion that the agreement be referred to the Commons external affairs committee for further discussion. Speaker Roland Michener ruled the motion out of order.

Mr. Herridge said NORAD is a bilateral agreement constituting surrender of sovereignty to a foreign power. While Canada might not be able to avoid its increasing economic dependence on the U.S., it should avoid political dependence.

The CCF view was that NORAD was a retrograde step. The CCF believed in collective security and in NATO and that defence of the Canadian Arctic should be brought under NATO.

THE "HIGH POINT"

Mr. Pearson said the high point of the government's "ambiguities and confusions" in handling the NORAD agreement was perhaps the failure at one point of the government leader in the Senate to realize that the agreement had been tabled.

The Senate leader, Senator Walter Aseltine, was in the galleries as Mr. Pearson spoke.

Mr. Pearson said there had been no emergency last summer to justify "the kind of haste, the kind of sloppy procedure, that was adopted . . . ."

He suggested that the new strategic situation created by intercontinental ballistic missiles might have been reason for delaying the agreement.

The opposition leader also flatly denied what he said was a suggestion by Mr. Diefenbaker that the former Liberal government had been on the point of approving the agreement before the election last June 10 in which the Liberals were defeated.

The matter had never been considered by the Liberal cabinet "in any way, shape or form."

Mr. Diefenbaker interjected to ask whether it wasn't considered by the Liberal cabinet's defence committee — an inner committee of the cabinet. He added that Mr. Pearson—then external affairs minister — had been invited as being present at such a meeting.

Mr. Pearson replied that the matter was on the agenda of the cabinet's defence committee but it was not discussed because an election was in the offing. With cabinet ministers scattered around the country in connection with the election campaign, it would have been wrong for the small quorum of ministers remaining in Ottawa to have decided on such an important matter.

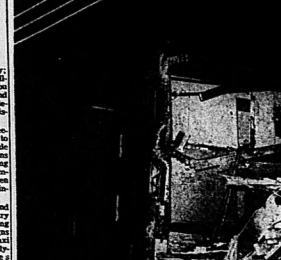
BOILER BLAST MAKES RUBBLE OF APARTMENT HOUSE



Tons of brick and mortar were dislodged in this Toronto apartment building by an explosion in a basement boiler.' Buried under the debris of the collapsing walls and ceilings was the body of a 53-year-old janitor, John Armstrong, who died in his bed. Police and firemen said it was a miracle that no one else was killed as dazed apartment dwellers stumbled out of the building or were carried out by firemen. Three were hospitalized.

Canadian Visitor to London Struck With One Glaring Fault, Coffee Is Terrible

LONDON (CP) — In this history-filled city of tradition, pageantry and time-established perfection one glaring fault strikes a Canadian newcomer. The coffee is terrible.

It's not that coffee is all that important, but after hiking the endless streets for hours the suggestion of a coffee break should be treated with reverent respect. This is shattered when the waiter asks you — and they always do—whether you want the stuff "black or white." By placing the emphasis on the "white" they can drum up a remarkable business for tea.

This is not simply a case of different coffee tastes; even many Londoners agree that restaurant coffee is usually not up to par. But most have their favorite haunts where, quite often, there is a sign advertising "American coffee."

This coffee business is included in a long list of first impressions the Canadian newcomer gathers during his first few days in London. Most are good, some are strange; a few, like the coffee business, are unfavorable.

So far as the weather is concerned you can get all three reactions in a one-hour period.

The good impression is plentiful, even apart from all the publicized attractions of London. The newcomer is surprised at the relatively slow pace of such a large city's rush hour; there just never shove or push. Courtesy is as firmly established as the bowler hat and umbrella.

Policemen appear genuinely anxious to help strangers get around, the transportation system is smooth and fast, restaurant service is expensive but although you don't get a glass of water without asking for one and run shows are cheaper than movies in Canada.

Parks are within walking distance of every spot in the city; nearly every home has a well-developed flower garden; you can get anything in hotel rooms and you get ice cream and coffee delivered to your seat at intermission.

Strange impressions: Seeing long lines of cars stopping to let a motorist out from a side street—there are few stop signs here; watching shoppers specially outside a store instead of scrambling inside; seeing garbage men lugging cans from back yards instead of the curb.

Seeing middle - aged men and women roaring out to the country on motor scooters; watching Londoners air their secret signs at race tracks; admiring taxi drivers who shun publicity—the built-in discreet - power vehicles through narrow streets with amazing precision; standing rain-soaked as a guide explains that "it rains a lot here but you never really get wet."

Other impressions: While rents are soaring to new heights, the cost of living is generally below Canada's. The tipping practice appears more widespread here. If you tell a taxi driver that the change you're owed is a penny, he'll show his knowledge of the currency. He'll take a penny and set her fish it out. She took two pounds, seven shillings and four pence."

Incidentally, the unsuspecting Canadian who thinks his money problems will end after learning all about pounds, shillings and pence is in for a surprise. The newcomer walked into a clothing store, made a purchase and gave the waiter a five-pound note. The waiter proceeded to show his knowledge of the currency. He took a penny, dropped it by singing out "two quid. seven bob, four." He emptied his change into the waiter and let her fish it out. She took two pounds, seven shillings and four pence."

Deny Suggestion Stock Influenced Kingston Council

KINGSTON (CP) — The chairman of the Kingston Public Utilities Commission has denied a suggestion by Ontario CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald that distribution of stock had anything to do with council's decision to favor Lakeland Natural Gas Company Limited for franchise rights over Consumers' Gas.

The council voted that Lakeland, distributing company operating in eastern Ontario, be allowed to place on the ballot pages at the municipal election which the franchise to distribute natural gas might be given.

Chairman J. B. Carter said Tuesday night that city council decided in favor of Lakeland because it issued a 2½%-per-cent saving to consumers.

Mr. MacDonald said in a speech to a CCF riding association meeting in Niagara Falls Monday night that Premier Frost should assure the public that stock distribution did not play a role in the recent switch of opinion in the Kingston city council.

Mr. Carter said that to his knowledge no commissioner in Kingston holds "any stock in any gas company."

Federation and Curriculum Two of Hottest Issues at Toronto Session of Teachers

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The two hottest issues in Ontario education today, lashes of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation and the curriculum, have drawn much attention at sessions of the Ontario Urban Rural School Trustees' Association.

While there were no OSSTF speakers on the panel Tuesday, their views were expressed by Robert Boulton, president of the Ontario Teachers' Federation and Gower Markle, education and welfare director of the United Steelworkers of America.

"There are not two sides to a salary dispute between teachers and boards of trustees," Mr. Boulton said. "At least part of the job of trustees is to see that teachers' salaries are proper. Therefore you should not be on the same side of the fence.

He said the department of education has outlined definite practices to be followed in salary disputes and wage negotiations. "If those procedures are followed then nothing drastic, like picketing, is going to happen.

BITS PRACTICE

P. M. Muir, executive director of the Ontario School Trustees' Council said, "Pink listing is a devastating weapon." He added that it indicates a complete lack of conduct for people who are paid as professionals and should be treated as professionals."

Mr. Markle suggested that if the formula for preventing pink listing does not work, "it's time you had a new formula."

Pink listing is the process of the OSSTF enjoining teachers not to accept a position on a board which has not settled a salary dispute.

During the session the trustees backed a resolution asking for a meeting between the education department of education and university heads to discuss establishing university courses for teacher training.

The association thus stood behind Dr. G. E. Hall, University of Western, Ontario president, who called for institution of such courses in colleges of education as feasible to train teachers.

ASKS SHORTER COURSE

A school career shortened from 13 to 12 years is advocated by Dr. Percy Love, Kingston education trustee, who suggested a curriculum based on fundamentals which would challenge the ability of the average student rather than the slow.

He paced the importance of English, maths, science, history and geography as "most important" in the curriculum and said that students need not spend more time on the subjects.

Instead, if wasted time was "squeezed out" of teaching and the curriculum, graduation from the Ontario course of education could be shortened a year.

Dr. Love's suggestion of some subjects, guidance and health, and expressed concern at time on others, art, music and physical training, might be given more time in the curriculum.

Prof. H. E. Jenkin, professor of Romance languages at University of Western Ontario, said that he looks forward to the day when both English and French will be spoken equally across Canada.

He was with the birth, growth and present success of the summer school at Trois Pistoles in Quebec, founded in 1944 as a director, where English and French-speaking Canadians spend seven weeks each year learning the other tongue.

Presbyterians Troubled by Money Problems

TORONTO (CP) — "Our people are not loyal to the Church," James Dutton of Peterborough Tuesday told the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

"We have multitudes of people who make no contribution to the work of our church," said Mr. Dutton, chairman of the board of administration. "If they were to do so, we would have no money problems whatever."

Mr. Dutton was explaining the cut in the churchs' minimum salaries.

Rev. Douglas L. Crocker of Edmonton charged that the board of missions is wasting money. He asked if the board could defend an expenditure of $800,000 annually in relation to its program.

"We've got to use a business approach," he said.

MINISTERS CONTRIBUTING

The 250 ministers on minimum stipends are in reality contributing $1,100 each as an extra to the church's fund because their salary is $3,300, much below the ideal of $3,900 set by the 1957 general assembly, he said.

Rev. Dr. D. Johnston of Brantford, chairman of the missions board, suggested that $1,500 level of salaries could be maintained if his board had an extra $50,000 and was allowed to draw $48,000 from reserves.

He said more than 80 per cent of the missionary money is for allowances and salaries and the other 20 per cent comprised fixed grants to institutions.

"We can reduce only by cutting down staff or cutting back salaries. We are anxious to maintain the ministers' stipend at as high a level as possible."

Nuclear Fission Is Evil Only in Hands of Evil Men

HAMILTON (CP) — The Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec has been told that the automobile, the atom and the hydrogen bomb are sources of modern-day temptation.

Dr. P. P. W. Ziemann told the annual assembly of the convention nuclear fission need not be devoted to destruction and is evil only in the hands of evil men.

control of man was the instrument.

People were concerned over man's fate of a little dog hurled into outer space but were seemingly callous in spite of the constant and needless slaughter of persons, not the highways.

Dr. Ziemann, in his report, said 3,000 persons were killed last year by automobiles and 73,000 injured.

"We live in a world whose technological progress is unmatched in the history of man. Tragically, many of these discoveries and accomplishments are being turned toward destruction —some of the curse of the century but of civilization itself."

NO NEW CAUSES

A report on the church extension board said local churches are often so engrossed in their own undertakings they have little time, strength or desire to help new causes.

The report also said convention budgeting is inadequate to meet needs best cared for by local churches and reaffirmed the principle "that our associations and boards are responsible for assuming local responsibility, not weakened by centralization."

Baptists in the work of the church during 1957 contributed $4,059,361, some $50,000 more than the previous year, the amount did not include bequests, he said.

The purchasing of the living God cannot go very far on a gallon of gasoline, Dr. Ziemann said, and themselves to the Lord, the budget will take care of itself."

Dr. Ziemann said that 1957 was a good year in every way. New buildings were built, and others were under way. Sunday school enrolment increased by 3,000.

Questions Put To Government By Paul Martin

OTTAWA (CP) — Paul Martin, former Liberal health minister, has put a series of detailed questions to the government on the NORAD arrangements.

Would NORAD lessen Canada's contribution to NATO in Europe? Mr. Martin asked Gen. Charle Partridge, commander of NORAD, has been quoted as saying he could "push the button" without consulting the U.S. government.

However, the Canadian government had said he would have to consult Canada before ordering Canadian planes into action.

Then, referring to Air Marshal Roy Slemon of Canada, deputy commander of NORAD, Mr. Martin asked whether in Gen. Partridge's absence he could order American planes into action on the same basis.

Navy Will Get Six New Destroyers to Bring Total To 20 Pearkes Tells Members

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Pearkes has informed the Commons estimates committee that the Royal Canadian Navy will get six new destroyers.

This will bring the total program of new destroyers, started in 1950, to 29 instead of the 18 announced last year by Mr. Pearkes.

He said the hull for the first of the six will be laid down in the fall and hulls for the next three in the succeeding three to four months.

No decision has been reached on which shipyard will get the first order.

The minister said the present concept is that a major war would start with a short period of "intense nuclear activity" including nuclear attacks on North America.

Russia now had ocean - going submarines capable of firing missiles and bombers that could reach North American targets and return to Russia. The deterrent force of the West must be kept overwhelmingly strong.

Other points made by the minister in his two-hour defence review before the committee:

1. The army's three brigades in Canada have been "downgraded" to a strategic reserve but would be maintained to rotate the brigade in Europe every three years. Reason for this was the unlikelihood that it would be possible to reinforce the brigade in Europe from Canada in the early days of a nuclear war involving submarines.

2. A new system for control of jet interceptor operations will have to be introduced because of the necessity for more speed in air defence processes. A ground control radar station now could carry out only five interceptions at one time.

3. Russia had 1,500 to 1,700 bombers, most of them capable of reaching any target in North America and returning to the Soviet Union. It had prototypes of an intercontinental ballistic missile but there is no reason to believe they were in operational use.

4. Russia now had a fleet of 500 ocean going submarines, some capable of launching missiles and a few which now or in the near future would be nuclear powered. Thus the Canadian navy's role had changed from convoy protection to preventing Soviet subs approaching within missile range of North America.

3. Research was under way to determine whether the DEW radar line in the Canadian Arctic could be modified to track missiles as well as bombers. The U.S. had not asked for permission to build any missile warning stations in Canada.

Maria Callas Brilliant in "I Puritani"

LONDON (Reuters) — Opera singer Maria Callas brought down the house at Covent Garden Tuesday night during a glittering 100th anniversary performance of Bellini's "I Puritani."

The Brooklyn-born soprano took eight curtain calls amid tremendous applause after she had sung "mad scene" from the last act of Bellini's I Puritani.

It was the first time she had sung before Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

The performances by leading figures in the musical world marked the 100th anniversary of the famous opera house which was twice burned down and twice closed by fire.

Also appearing was Canadian tenor Cesare Valletti as Lord Prince Albert, Sask.

The first Covent-Garden theatre was built in 1732 and the present market next door, was built in 1732 and destroyed by fire in 1808, a second house, opened in 1809, met a similar fate in 1856.

The present Victorian building was completed two years later. With its auditorium capable about 2,200, it is regarded as one of the finest opera houses in Europe.

The gala performance last May 15 but this was tre official celebration.

Whitby Woman Delays Work On Highway 12

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Ethel Hall of Whitby, 37, is single-handedly holding up widening of Highway 12 between Oshawa, three miles west of Oshawa, and Brooklin, six miles north.

She is the only person compensation for expropriation of her five-room home, a two-storey brick dwelling, a swimming pool and about four acres of land. The Ontario highways department has offered $15,000.

County Judge J. E. Pritchard has adjourned to Friday an application from the department to stop Mrs. Hall from interfering with the widening. She has lived in the house since 1942.

Try to Find Out Why Humans So Attractive to Mosquitoes

OTTAWA (CP) — Why is the human race so attractive to mosquitoes?

The Defence Research Board now is in the second year of a five-year program to try to find an answer to this lucky problem.

It hopes it research, being carried out at Canadian universities with DRB grants, will lead to discovery of a long-lasting mosquito repellent.

"It's too early to say whether we'll have any luck," says entomologist Ian Lindsay, chief of DRB's environmental protection section. "We're starting a program at the end of three years and again at the end of five years."

The problem is more than just as nuisance to the armed forces, especially the army and RCAF.

Biting mosquitoes can reduce a serviceman's efficiency in the sub-Arctic and bites at the rate of 60 or more a minute can make him devote his whole time to swatting.

It has been shown, for instance, that an aircraft maintenance job in the open can take twice as long as normal when swarms of mosquitoes or black, horse - or deer flies are present.

Mr. Lindsay says that during his experiments he has buried his forearm for one minute and received at least 100 mosquito bites. In the sub-Arctic, a man walking in the bush may be enveloped by a cloud of mosquitoes.

Mr. Lindsay says the armed forces have been a precedent of some four hours' duration. It will come on the commercial market this year.

But the services are looking for a repellent of much longer duration and, Mr. Lindsay says, a major scientific breakthrough will be needed before this can be accomplished.

"Even with all the new chemicals and equipment to apply them, the problem is still tremendous."

Mosquitoes appear to be attracted to humans by body odors. But they seem to prefer whites to darker-skinned humans. Eskimos and Indians, for instance, are largely immune to the mosquito.

Mr. Lindsay says there is less reaction to a mosquito bite if you let the blood ooze on your blood and then fly away. But the pest still leaves poison in behind which sets up an allergy.

Light-coloured clothing is better than dark, but it must be very or loose enough to prevent the mosquito biting through it.

The armed forces have tried ground- and air - spraying at northern defence installations. But this provides relief for only a week at the most even if a 100-square-mile area is covered with insecticide. Some species of mosquitoes are probably 100 or so—can travel 35 miles with a tail wind.

Soviet Economic Warfare Dominant Theme of Talks

By GOERGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The cooling threat of Soviet economic warfare has provided the dominant theme for the informal Washington talks between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan.

The British prime minister is firmly convinced that the struggle between East and West is shifting rapidly from the military to the economic front. He sees the international front created by private bankers, skilled in the intricacies of international finance, floated loans and extended credits without government interference or assistance.

Since then, the balance of monetary power has shifted from the sterling to the dollar. Money supply now is controlled by British economic theories-roll rule as the world's No. 1 banker.

International financing now must be handled through international agencies and institutions. Macmillan recognizes this and for that reason would like to see the International Monetary Fund and similar international bodies strengthened in buttress the free world's economic defences against the Soviet threat.

FLAMES WERE TOO CLOSE FOR COMFORT

A blow of flame comes uncomfortably close to James Avolio, 65, as he awaits rescue on the roof of a Paterson, N.J., apartment. Police tried to help him off his scorching perch, but found they could not do so and had to await the arrival of a hook and ladder company. Before Avolio was rescued he was singed on the back and head.

Slip of Tongue

TORONTO (CP) — In welcoming the mayor of Toronto to the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada Tuesday, the Moderator, Rt. Rev. John McNab, made a slip of the tongue and said: "Mayor Phillips, it is our pleasure to worship you."

Mayor Phillips, who began his greetings in the Gaelic tongue, explained that his mother was born in Glengarry County, and added that at least in form of address, a mayor is honored in the United States and worshipped in Canada.

Bumper Crop Faces Ruin by Grasshoppers

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Eastern Colorado's $130,000,000 bumper wheat crop faces ruin by the state's worst grasshopper invasion in 10 years.

Nearly 9,000,000 acres of range land and cropland in 16 counties are already infested. The blight extends into western Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Wyoming and Montana.

The crisis is nearing rapidly in Colorado's eastern plains where hungry hoppers already have gorged on 10 per cent of the land's wheat.

"A horde of full-grown hoppers could clear an acre of wheat in 36 minutes," state agriculture commissioner Paul Swither said today. "The insects have been working on some of the fields for a week.

"When you figure seven grasshoppers a square yard will eat as much as a cow you can imagine the situation that faces us when we have as many as 400 to the square yard."

WILL MIGRATE SOON

Young grasshoppers now number from 50 to 400 to the square yard in Colorado. Soon they will develop wings and begin to migrate.

Officials of the state affected are pressing for swift action, both by the federal government and landowners.

Farmers have been urged to go ahead with spraying programs and not wait for government disaster help.

Experts as that if the hoppers aren't exterminated by mid-June it may be too late to save the crops.

Size of the insects in Colorado ranges from one-quarter inch to two inches. Maturity is expected in two weeks.

British Paper Sued for Libel

LONDON (Reuters) — Lord Silkin, acting Opposition Labor party leader in the House of Lords, Monday sued the owner and editor of the right-wing Sunday Express for libel.

The defendants, Beaverbrook Newspapers Limited and editor John Junor, denied that an article published in December, 1956 was defamatory and pleaded that it was fair comment upon a matter of public interest.

Counsel for Silkin said the article "was one that he was an insincere humbug" prepared to sacrifice his principles for personal profit and was unfit to take part in House of Lords debates.

The article stated that although Silkin had campaigned against German rearmament he had become chairman of a company marketing the German Heinkel Mini-car in Britain.

Silkin said that he had never had any objections to trading with the Germans but "I still feel there is a time of crisis they might not be trustworthy."

Khrushchev Ready to Accept Geneva Site

LONDON (Reuters) — Russian Premier Khrushchev told a British delegation he "does not reject" President Eisenhower's proposal to hold a conference of disarmament experts in Geneva, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

The chairman of a visiting British peace council delegation, William Simpson, said at a press conference that Khrushchev told him Tuesday that Russia did not object to the Geneva site, though he would have preferred the meeting to be held in Moscow.

President Eisenhower proposed in a letter to Khrushchev published Tuesday that technical talks begin July 1 in Geneva on methods of policing any possible future ban on nuclear tests.

Concentrated Milk Industry Award Delayed

TORONTO (CP) — A price award in Ontario's concentrated milk industry has been delayed because of the departure of an arbitration board member.

C. E. Lackner of the Ontario Milk Industry Board said today the board, headed by Judge Colin Bennett of Owen Sound, will have to meet again after a new member is appointed by the Concentrated Milk Manufacturers Association, which is asking for a price cut.

John Anstis of Brockville, who has represented manufacturers in deliberations so far, has a business appointment in London, England. George Lowry of Almonte is the spokesman for the 13,000-member Concentrated Milk Producers Association.

Price paid to producers now averages 29 cents a pound. The federal government in April announced a two-cent reduction in the floor price, bringing it to 12 and 15 cents a pound for two types of processing.

Say Production At Any Cost Mines' Policy

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. — (CP) — A union delegation says uranium mines in the Elliot Lake area concentrate on production regardless of the cost in human lives.

The delegation represented local unions of the United Steelworkers of America and the Elliot Lake Miners Union, which together hold bargaining rights for all but one of the mines in the region.

Jim Kidd, Canadian Labor Congress representative, read a 10-page brief submitted Tuesday by the delegations to an Ontario Federation of Labor commission hearing here.

The brief stated: "The tremendous rate of increase in fatalities in the Elliot Lake mines emphasizes the fact that management policy is production first, instead of safety first."

Statistics were cited showing that the accident rate in Elliot Lake mines climbed sharply during the last two years, while in other mines the rate decreased.

"This serves to underline our contention that management is pursuing a policy of production at a steadily rising cost of men killed and injured."

The Ontario department of mines also was blamed for the rising accident rate. The delegation charged that "even basic rules" contained in the present Mining Act are ni enforced.

SKIN DIVERS

Saturday afternoon, the divers will split into parties and start searches elsewhere. One party will go to Gananoque, one to Brockville, and the others to American ports.

The Brockville party will explore the St. Lawrence River bottom from Block House Island to a point a mile below the town.

The hunt is being supported by RCN historian Edward C. Russell of Ottawa and Admiral William Poland of the U.S. Navy.

In addition to the hunt for the Sir Robert Peel, Mr. Jenks and his men want to locate remains of the American fleet which was sunk in this area after the War of 1812. By the Treaty of Ghent in 1814, the fleet was to be scrapped. It was sunk in and around the islands but so far, only one vessel of the nine involved, the Jefferson, has come to light. Mr. Jenks located this wreck off Sackets Harbor, Ny, last year.

When a wreck is located and raised, efforts are made to turn the hulk into a museum or historical site for the community nearest to the site.

Hundreds of skin divers from Toronto, Montreal, the Brockville district, Gananoque, Kingston and Ottawa as well as many American divers are expected to take part in the search.

Russ Beaten In British Net Tourney

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union's bid for a place in the world tennis run was dampened Tuesday, literally and figuratively, in the Kent championships on the suburban Beckenham courts.

Andrei Potanin, 17-year - old from Leningrad, was trailing Narenda Nath, 35-year-old former captain of India's Davis Cup team, 0-6, 1-3, when torrential rain forced postponement of the play.

A half hour after play was stopped the remainder of the day's program was called off.

Nearly 1,000 fans were grouped around the court watching Potanin and Nath. Soviet athletic authorities several times have said their aim is to in the Davis Cup.

Nath left the Russian youth flatfooted with his fast passing shots. Potanin's best stroke was a cross-court forehand. His backhand appeared weak.

Leafs' Armstrong Stars at Ball

SUDBURY (CP) — George Armstrong of Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League is proving again he's just as capable a performer in baseball.

Armstrong, with two doubles and three runs batted in, led Garson Greyhounds to a 6-1 win over Frood Tigers Tuesday night in a Nickel Belt Senior Baseball League game at nearby Garson.

The game was called in the sixth because of rain.

Left hander Mel Petrait allowed seven hits, only two after the second inning, and fanned 12. Maurice St. Amour was charged with the loss, his second in as many nights.

Casters Give Golfers Trouble In Odd Match

TORONTO (CP) — Two expert casters gave a pair of golfers a rough time Monday in an unusual competition at the Tam O'Shanter Golf Club in suburban Scarborough.

The match, believed to be the first in Canada, was over 18 holes with the casters firing artificial plugs down the fairways and the golfers using the normal techniques.

Golfer Irv Lightstone, assistant professional at Maple Downs Club, made it in 73 strokes. His companion, amateur Wally Crozier, scored an 81 on the par-70 course.

The casters — Gord Doyal of Toronto and Bob Hawthorne of Burlington, Ont. — finished in a collective 76 "strokes" of the casting rods, one better than the golfers' average of 77.

Doyal handled the "drives" using a bait-casting rod. Hawthorne took over with a spin-casting outfit for the approaches to the greens and "putts." Instead of the usual cup the casters aimed for a 30-inch circular target.

Yvon Durelle Considers Offer Moore Fight

MONCTON (CP) — Chris Shaban, manager of Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight king Yvon Durelle, says he is considering an offer by Montreal wrestling sports promoter Karl Kalani for a world championship, bout with Archie Moore.

Shaban said Tuesday night he has been in touch with Kalani about Durelle taking a crack at the world champion but "we have agreed to nothing yet."

He added "Kalani says he has Moore's $100,000 guarantee and all he needs now is an okay from me regarding Durelle."

Shaban said Kalani has offered him 12½ per cent of radio, television and gate receipts while Moore's terms are $100,000 and an option on 45 per cent of everything.

A contract would also call for a return bout within 90 days should Durelle win. Each fighter would receive 30 per cent of receipts in a return match.

Shaban said no contract has been signed for an Empire title fight between Durelle and South African champion Mike Holt. A Pretoria report said the two would meet in Montreal for the title next month.

In Montreal, boxing promoter Eddie Quinn said he is negotiating for an Empire title match in the Montreal baseball park July 16 between Holt and Durelle. He said negotiations may be completed shortly.

Brampton Dumps Hamilton 15-4

BRAMPTON (CP) — Brampton Excelsiors dumped Hamilton Locolts 15-4 Tuesday night in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior contest.

Bill Wasdesa and Jack Madgett led the victors with three goals apiece. Clark Pulford, John Hillsdon and Ted Cameron each scored twice. Bill Castator, Bill McLaughlin and Joe Caruso got one each.

The Hamilton scorers were Jack Bossberry with two goals and Tony DiAmico and Bill Ridgewell with one each.

PRIEDEBOW DO PRAHY

Nejlepsi amaterska muzstva ledniho hokeje najdete v Kanade hlavne v malych mestech. Toronto, Montreal, Quebec—to jsou strediska profesionalniho hokeje, ktery ziskivo nejlepsi brace. Ale mala mesta jako Kitchenere, Whitby, Belleville dala zemi nejedno narodni muzstvo.

The above in case you cannot understand it is not a hurried repeat of a city council debate or the speech from the Lower Slobbovian throne. It is a tribute in Czechoslovakian from the Czech national sports magazine "Stadion" which also carries the team picture of the McFarlands. The clipping was sent to this department through the courtesy of Len Taylor, sports editor Kitchener Record, Canadian representative for "Stadion."

The tribute goes on: (This will be a good chance for you guys and gals who intend going to Prague with the Macs next year, to brush up on your Czech. If you're stuck there are some good Czech buddies out Batawa way who will help you, providing they can understand this department's interpretation via typewriter.)

Here it is:—V posledni dobe je to prave Belleville mesteckou o 23,000 obyvatelich, ve state Ontario, Jeho McFarlands muzstvo vyhralo v letosni sezone nejvyssiamaterskou soutez Kanady—Allan Cup a ke alifikovalo se tim—podle loucnosti nasich federacnich zastupcu—reprezentovat muzstvo Belleville McFarlands v jedne skupine a Whitby Dunlops a Penticton Vees, mistrem sveta 1955.

Ve finale mistrovstvi state Ontario vyhrali hraci McFarlands nad Whitby Dunlops Thistchmen 4-1. Jakmile bylo osnameno, se federace rozhodla vylaisi Belleville McFarlanda v prisitim race do Evropy, zalozili obcane mesta vybor, ktery ma ziskat 50,000 dolaru ke krytí vylah zalezi.

The heading means in English "They are coming to Prague." The rest of it is Czech as far as we are concerned. It appeared as cutlines under a two column picture of the McFarlands, which also carried the team identification in English.

However, our guess is that the above is a review of what and who the Macs are, what they did to win the Allan Cup and that they expect to be in Prague for the world hockey tournament next year.

WHIPPER HERE FRIDAY

That dashing debonair gent of the wrestling ring, and in this department's opinion, a champion in a dozen or more ways, will main-bout the card at Memorial Arena come Friday night. His opponent will be a member of that strange trio of pachyderms, the Miller Brothers. one Danmul by name, and self-styled champion by nature.

"We are not the colossal Miller brothers, we are the Magnificent Millers," bragged the trio into Maxie Jackson's delicate ear one night on television, "but we do not want anybody outside the world to know it. We are the world's best trio for trio, duo for duo and man for man," murmured the shrinking violets, while Maxie fidgeted as though he didn't believe 'em. Then one of the big lugs picked Maxie up, flung him across a shoulder and trotted out of camera view. We never did hear where he dumped Der Maxie.

But Mr. Miller, who will likely have his mountain size frerers with him as a bodyguard, had better be on his toes or he'll be flat on his back. The Whipper has "trained" such loud-talking upstarts before. That's partly the reason he is a champion. Marse Danmul had better do his talking outside the ring. He won't have any time for selfloquies after the gong rings.

Then there is the popular Bobo Brazil and his unpopular Koko Bonk, which lulls opponents into by-bye or thereabouts. He meets the "Leer" Lee Henning, a rough-dyed villain who knows a lot of the unorthodox answers, but nevertheless outside the ring as nice a guy as you'd want to meet. Starting the show will be the Krusher Korman tangling with handsome Toni Baillargeon.

SOFTBALL

The Trenton Legion Juniors' softball squad will be out to avenge that 19-6 defeat they suffered at the hands of Bob Temple's Bobcats the other night when the teams clash this evening, starting at seven o'clock, at the CNRA Park. The Cats, fresh from their 14-5 victory over the Frankford Merchants are a trifle cocky and will go all out to make it two in a row.

Speaking of Frankford, the Merchants tangle with their namesakes from Cobourg tonight under the lights in Frankford, starting at 8.15. The lakeshore squad took a 6-2 decision in their last time the clubs met, while the village crew will be out to snap a four-game losing streak. Thursday night Frankford treks to Point Anne to take on the league-leading Ox Pointers.

Pirates Plank-Walk Giants As Braves Lose Five in Row; Tribe's Bell Clangs Birds

By The Associated Press

The National League pennant race has become a mystery of reluctant leaders.

San Francisco Giants still hold the lead, although a 5-4 defeat by Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday night was the Giants' 10th in 14 games.

Milwaukee Braves, second by a half game, stayed put, blowing a 5-1 lead in a 9-6 defeat by the persistent Chicago Cubs. The Braves have lost five straight games.

Philadelphia Phillies kept Los Angeles Dodgers in last spot with a 3-2 victory in the only other engagement.

Righthander Boo Friend became the first league pitcher to win nine games this season, getting home run help from Ed Stevens, Bob Skinner and Frank Thomas while handing Cincinnati Reds their 13th consecutive defeat with a seven-hitter. Friend, who has lost four, also is the first man to beat every team in the league. He walked none, struck out eight.

17th HOMER

The Pirates also had seven hits. They scored two runs in the last six innings. One was Thomas' clinching 17th homer in the sixth inning off reliefer Don Worthington.

Ray Mostowski was the loser (4-5), giving up two-run homers by Stevens and Skinner in three innings. Rookie Orlando Cepeda's 14th homer counted two runs for the Giants. Willie Mays was 1-for-4, getting an infield single ahead of Cepeda's shot in the fourth for his first hit in 11 trips.

The Cubs, tied with St. Louis for fourth, 5½ games behind, hammered southpaw Warren Spahn (6-2) for five home runs, one shy of the major league record off one pitcher.

Ernie Banks, who leads the league in runs batted in and home runs, hit his 18th homer with two on. Bobby Thomson had a pair and Dale Long and Carl Neeman each got one, with Neeman's the clincher in the sixth. Hank Aaron belted his 10th for the Braves. Glen Hobbie won his fourth in relief of Dick Drott.

The Phillies ended the Dodger's winning string at three, breaking a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning on Del Ennis' double. Don Newcombe his fifth defeat. An error, Richie Ashburn's triple and a single by Solly Hemus got the job done as rookie Ray Semproch won his ninth. Newcombe had relieved in both Dodger runs, one with his 10th homer.

It was the first complete game in 10 starts for Newk since Aug. 21. He went the route for 11 hits, walked one and fanned four.

You can tick off a number of reasons to explain why Chicago White Sox, who finished second last season, are barely free of the American League cellar. But the No. 1 answer is the fellow playing left field for Cleveland Indians.

Without Minnie Minoso, who led Chicago with 103 runs batted in last season, the White Sox have been sick with the bat with men on base. They've left 389 runners stranded (an average of eight a game) while scoring only 187.

A year ago, when they led the league by four games, the White Sox had scored 399 runs, with 348 men left on base and Minoso batting in 36.

Minoso hasn't been a ball of fire since going to Cleveland in the winter deal, but he's leading the club with 29 runs batted in.

He added a pair Tuesday night, one with his eighth homer, as Cleveland beat Baltimore Orioles 10-3 and moved into fourth place. The White Sox left 10 men on base in a twilight doubleheader split at Washington, winning 2-4 before a 5-2 defeat, that left them a half-game back of the Indians.

Cleveland rookie Gary Bell had a two-hit shutout for five innings as he gave up only a pair of hits in six-inning performance for his first win against four defeats. Rocky Colavito's 11th homer, cracked a 1-1 tie with four in the eighth-cap sixth against Jim Wilson (5-5). Julio Becquer's pinch single drove in one, Minoso and Hal Naragon (3-2) brought in another on a sacrifice fly and Herbie Plews counted for the fifth on a double. Landis and Earl Battey homered for the White Sox.

The Sox bagged the opener with four in the seventh on Billy Goodman's two-out, bad-hop single, Nellie Fox's RBI single and Smith's two-run shot.

Ray Moore (3-1) gave up only three hits in his six innings, but spiced up the game with his wild hustle in as the third White Sox reliefer to end a threat in the ninth. Truman Clevenger lost it in relief of Camilo Pascual, who gave up seven hits in seven innings before swapped solo homers in the second inning.

Golf Contest Off Between Ike, Macmillan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Golf fans, won't be able to find out, after all, whether President Eisenhower or Prime Minister Macmillan is the better golfer.

Eisenhower played 18 holes at Burning Tree Club during the afternoon but Macmillan said he won't be able to play during this trip.

"Alas, I haven't time," he told reporters.

Before the prime minister arrived Saturday, there had been talk of a contest. And there was a report in Britain that Macmillan had a 3-to-5 stroke edge over Eisenhower.

Tuesday, James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said in reply to questions:

"The president and the prime minister have no plans to play golf before Mr. Macmillan leaves Washington tomorrow for Ottawa."

Kid Howard Wins Over John Juliano

HALIFAX (CP) — Canadian (Kid) Howard of Halifax scored an impressive, seventh - round technical knockout over Johnny Juliano of Hartford, Conn., in the main event of an exhibition card Tuesday night.

Howard weighed 136 pounds, Juliano 135.

The 5,000 fans booed several times then Juliano seemed reluctant to mix it with the Canadian champ in the scheduled 10-rounder.

Hoard's TKO punch at 2:21 of the seventh was a right uppercut. The tall, lanky Juliano, after suffering a bleeding nose in the second round, had shied away from the 25-year - old Halifax fighter.

Biltmores May Not Operate Baby Habs Will Not Compete

TORONTO (CP) — Guelph Biltmores, Ontario Hockey Association Junior A champions two seasons ago, may not operate in the 1958-59 season, it was announced Tuesday night.

Arnold Somerville, representing Biltmores, told the OHA Junior A council the team hasn't been able to close a deal with its sponsor, New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

The OHA council granted a 20-day extension to Biltmores to see whether they can find a backer to post a $1,500 bond for the coming season. Biltmores finished in the cellar last season and their losses passed $20,000.

The council adopted a 54-game schedule for next season, two more than last campaign. The season will open Oct. 16 and will end Feb. 25. Each team last year played four games against Ottawa Junior Canadiens, who will not compete in the league this year.

Toronto's St. Michael's College objected to the longer schedule. Members of the St. Michael's Majors could not afford that much time from school. The council is considering a schedule which would allow the Irish to play a 40 - game schedule, six games counting for four points.

Barrie's Hap Emms and Hamilton's Ken Soble proposed raising the age of junior players to 21 as a means of improving the calibre of play, but other council members were against it.

Staff Smythe of Toronto Marlboros said:

"Junior hockey is teen - age hockey. If you take it out of the teen-age class, I'm not interested. If we want to improve our hockey let's propose to the CAHA (Canadian Amateur Hockey Association) that we be allowed four imports from anywhere in the country as we were before."

Smythe's proposal that Junior teams adopt a reserve list similar to professional hockey practice met unanimous approval of the meeting.

Smythe, Emms and Soble were named a committee to study the number of players who would be on each team's list.

POSTPONE FIGHT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Gil Turner-Garnet (Sugar) Hart 10-round bout scheduled for Convention Hall Tuesday night was postponed until Thursday because of rain.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — One of the most thrilling finishes of the season was provided in Tuesday's featured event at Greenwood race track as Woodbine when Ginger C., Paul less Maid and Turn Me Loose clustered past the inning post with only inches separating the extended noses.

When the placing judges examined the photo of the finish, the gave the race to Ginger C. by short nose. Faultless Maid was second while Turn Me Loose was third.

Ginger C., winner of three races in Florida during the winter, had been unsuccessful in her first three starts on Canada tracks this year.

Middleweights Go High Hat Is Soup-and-Fish Setting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tommy Ryan would have howled. Stanley Ketchel would have scowled. Harry Greb may have wept.

None of the famous middleweight boxers of a bygone day would have believed it if you told them what two middleweights of this age are doing tonight.

Joey Giardello of Philadelphia and Franz Suzina of Germany will fight in a most uncommon setting — the swank Shoreham Terrace.

A high society audience will watch from tables placed amid umbrella trees, petunias and geraniums as Giardello and Suzina pummel each other.

The hoity-toity enterprise of promoter Goldie Ahearn and the International Boxing Club ill benefit Big Brothers of America, an organization which aids wayward boys. Ladies in evening gowns and men in formal dress will pay $25 each to dine on the terrace—an outdoor nightclub—and watch the battle.

COULD MOVE INSIDE

Should it rain, festivities will shift into the hotel's main ballroom. The fight will be televised by the CBC starting at 10 p.m. EDT.

TV viewers probably will spot such unlikely ringsiders as Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark, Sir Harold Caccia, British Ambassador to the United States, rival Washington hostesses Perle Mesta and Gwen Cafritz, several senators and a contingent from the diplomatic set.

Giardello, the favorite who outpointed Suzina earlier this year, is gunning for Sugar Ray Robinson's world crown. He ranks second to Carmen Basilio among the challengers

Not Known How Many Beat Champions

TORONTO (CP) — Thousands of duffers played champion golf=rs Stan Leonard and Betty Stancope last weekend — but how many of them won is still anybody's guest.

Royal Canadian Golf Association officials said Tuesday that inconclusive returns have come in from courses across Canada where players paid $1 towards development of junior golfers to enter the tournament. If their net score was less than the champion's score, they will receive an 'I beat the champion' card.

RCGA officials expect to be processing winners' scorecards for another two or three weeks.

Leonard, Canadian Professional Golfers' Association champion of Vancouver, toured Edmonton's Mayfair course Saturday in 70 to match the men's par. Miss Stanhope, Edmonton who holds the Canadian women's open and closed titles, shot a 76, two under ladies' par.

Lowest net so far reported was by North Bay's Ron Hamilton who carded a 77-15-62. His brother Dave, a former member of Ontario's Willingdon Cup team, shot a 63 to beat Leonard without handicap.

Another North Bay player, Bob Wyatt, used a maximum 36 handicap to score a 102-36-66.

Harness Racing

HAMBURG, N.Y. (CP)—Jack Chips, eight-year - old gelding owned by Margaret Maclennan of Simcoe, Ont., posted his second win in six starts at Buffalo Raceway Tuesday night with a photo-finish triumph in one of the class B pace events on the card.

The crowd made Jack Chips the 6 to 5 choice in the race and the Canadian pacer never was worse than third. Longshot Hal Dean set the pace into the three quarters and around the turn Phil Grattan B pulled around on the outside. Saving Jack Chips' speed for the stretch, driver Bud Gilmour got going in the straight-away and zipped Flash Grattan-B at the wire in 2:07 4-5.

Might Better Steal Purses Than Bases

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — City council banned baseball — playing by boys over 14 in two playgrounds after residents complained too many home runs soared into their gardens.

Wrote F. L. Chadwick to the Niagara Falls Review Tuesday:

"The parents of these boys should be severely criticized for allowing their children to play such games when they might better be hanging around some poolroom here they could play games which would not bother the neighbors.

"Or perhaps sticking up gas stations and helping to add a few dollars to the family income.

"I do not think it would be any use erecting a higher fence as no doubt these boys would immediately grow longer arms."

Head Loses Pro Tourney To Gonzales

NEW YORK (AP) — Where would you think a fellow should be who must keep in constant touch with his physician, take hot baths, gulp vitamin tablets, undergo diathermy treatments and sleep with hot towels around his neck?

Not on a tennis court.

But Lew Head, former Australian Davis Cup ace who was lured into Jack Kramer's professional group last year, has been playing against Pancho Gonzales. He joins other pros in a tournament at Forest Hills starting Saturday.

"I'll be all right," Head said today. He lost his 180-match tour to Gonzales, but he's not yet second-hand goods.

"I don't know if I would have been Pancho if I had been in better physical condition," said Head. "I'm sure it would have been closer."

GONZALES AHEAD

Gonzales won No. 51 the other night. Head has won 36 matches.

"All this is a result of my old back trouble," Head said. "It has settled in my right leg. It does hamper me when I'm going to my right for a shot."

The only thing that will get rid of the trouble is complete rest. With a big tournament coming up, Head can't afford such luxuries. He also wants to get another shot at Gonzales.

Kramer, who guaranteed Head $125,000 for leaving the amateur ranks, said Lew already has collected $115,000. He added: "Before this is all over, I should have earned more than $200,000."

GLASGOW (Reuters) — The British post office cableship Iris sailed Monday to survey the route of the proposed new trans-atlantic telephone cable from Oban, Scotland, to Newfoundland.

Detroit Tigers' New Manager Will 'Look-See' for a While

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Norman, promoted to a major league manager's berth in his 29th year in organized baseball, plans to use Detroit Tigers on a "look-see basis" for a week or so.

Norman, 47, said Tuesday he has no immediate plans after being summoned from Detroit's Charleston farm in the American Association to replace Jack Tighe.

"I live in hopes and surprises," Norman said. "We have good hands. There's a job to be done and let's see what happens."

Norman's debut as manager of the last-place Tigers was delayed when rain postponed Tuesday night's American League game with Boston Red Sox. A double-header was scheduled for today.

Tighe, a member of the "no guy school," was awakened from a sound sleep and told he was fired by general manager John McHale. Norman arrived by plane about three hours later as Tighe headed for his home in Spring Lake, Mich.

"We wanted a man with experience as a manager—a man who knows how to run a baseball club," McHale said in explaining the choice of his new manager. "Norman has scouted the major leagues for us, he has scouted the minor leagues and he knows the Tigers and other American League clubs."

McHale said that Tighe "gave it everything he had, but it just didn't work out."

Tighe, who lasted less than two seasons as Detroit manager but probably will remain with the organization in another capacity, said he couldn't blame the Tigers and a change probably was in order.

"Apparently my method of managing isn't the kind the club needs. I guess I was prone to overlook more things than I should have."

All the coaches — Billy Hitchcock, Tommy Henrich, Willie Wells and Don Lenhardt — were retained.

The Tigers finished fourth in the league race last year and baseball followers predicted a stronger showing this season. However, the club has not been able to get rolling and is 12½ games behind the league-leading New York Yankees.

Dragnet's Future Is Mystery Even to It's Star Jack Webb

By JACK WEBB

NEW YORK (AP)—Seville had many barbers, but only one of them became the theme for the opera.

This is a truism which somebody uttered on Broadway a generation ago. But it's as sharp as a honed razor today and it will still fit many a situation—including a very pressing one with me: Dragnet. We have had many stories, themes and ideas passs across the story desk in the last decade. But there has been only one Dragnet.

Now people are asking if this is the moment of truth for Dragnet. It has another—its seventh—year to play on NBC-TV. But we have filmed the last segment of our current contract. Is this the end?

TIME FOR A CHANGE

"But when I look at Joe Friday, and as he must look to me, there is a note of fatigue in the air. I don't know how Joe feels, but I'm beginning to feel the wear a little. The way we set up Dragnet, it requires my being in touch with the production every minute. Perhaps that can be changed.

Perhaps this is the time to change it.

Television is a ravenous medium. All it requires is material. creative material. It is a business which never stands still and in which no one is allowed to stand still, at the risk of his professional skin. Changing this, we have continued to pour our energies and time into Dragnet. Now, other things call. Right now, we have completed a pilot film on our proposed new series, Pete Kelly's Blues, which did well in radio and motion pictures. Still other projects are ahead.

Of course, this doesn't necessarily foredoom Dragnet. Luckily, Dragnet is still showing its heels to a lot of opposition, after seven years on television. Its relationship with both the public and the advertisers, who back it remains strong.

But the future of Dragnet is as much a mystery to me as to anyone.

NEW KIND OF HORROR SHOW ON McCARTHY THEATRE STAGE THURSDAY NIGHT AT 8.15

A scene from a sensationally new kind of horror show, Dr. Satan's SHRIEKS IN THE NIGHT, playing the stage of the McCarthy Theatre Thursday evening at 8.15.

The public is warned that this is not the same old type of horror show which has been seen so many times before. It's a new kind of show unlike anything that has ever been here.

A major portion of the action takes place right in the audience! You are actually surrounded by 101 nightmarish creatures, so gruesome they could strike fear into the devil himself!

You'll see fiendish vampire women, living corpses and werewolves. You'll see maidens at the mercy of half human beasts, and many other horrifying scenes to make your blood run cold.

You will never forget the scene in which the dead painter, Van Gogh, materializes the ethereal forms of Marilyn Munroe, Elvis Presley, all right before your eyes, on the stage!

Ed Johnson of the N.Y. News wrote: "At long last I have seen a horror show even scarier than advertised. If you think it's going to be the usual old thing, you're in for a big surprise". Advertised as "the show young people go 100 miles to see", SHRIEKS IN THE NIGHT promises to be exceptional entertainment.

American Dancing Feminine And Sick, Claim Champions

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Serious dancing in America is sick and can take some lessons from the Russians.

Who says so? Marge and Gower Champion.

Still simulated by seeing the Moiseyev troupe, I sounded out Marge and Gower Champion. They, after all, are the new princes, exponents of the dance in the United States today. They are schooled in the classics. Gower is a noted choreographer.

The Moiseyev company was fantastic, Gower agreed. "I don't think this country has anything like it."

"CRYING SHAME"

"It's a crying shame that we don't have something to match the Russians. After all, Moiseyev has only taken the traditional Russian dances, reutined them superbly and trained magnificent dancers to do them.

"There's no reason we could not do the same. Our dance heritage is just as rich, if not more so. We have Indian dances, the square dance, the Mexican-style dances of California, the whole New Orleans tradition of jazz.

"And our dancers are as good as theirs," Marge added. "We have scenarios and numbers who can do the same leaps and spins and can be taught enough dancing."

U.S. DANCING FEMININE

The couple deems Russian dancers notable for its vigor and masculinity. American dancing, they feel, has become feminine and sick.

They think the whole trend could be changed by a movement like the Moiseyev in Russia or the Sadlers Wells in England.

"The same thing could be done here," Marge said. "It would be a big project and would need the help of the government or a big foundation," said Gower.

On the Tracks

WINNIPEG (CP) — A slim opening day crowd of about 6,500 went through the turnstiles Tuesday at the new $3,000,000 Assiniboia Downs race track as the thoroughbreds returned to Winnipeg after a yeh-long absence.

The bettors poured about $122,000 into the mutuels and the lucky ones were rewarded with good prices as fairly long shots took over in six of the eight races.

Opening ceremonies were brief, with Lt.-Gov. J. S. McDiarmid cutting a red tape stretched across the 6½-furlong track, situated on the open prairies on Winnipeg's western outskirts about nine miles from downtown.

Assiniboia Downs, with its three-level grandstand, replaces Polo Park as the city's racing centre. The old track, which opened in 1925, was closed at the end of the 1956 racing season to make way for a shopping centre.

The 21-day spring meet continues here until July 2. A 21-day fall meet will start Sept. 2, and run through Sept. 27.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this interesting substance while in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was achieved and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make wide statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, from "Itching" to 30-years' standing.

This was all without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of Dr. Samuel Perrin, Scientific Director of a leading Canadian institute. It is now available for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for it at any drug store. Individually sealed containers of Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores on Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Then wake up the liver!

You know that small, tender, convoluted fold of flesh at the corner of the eye? If you pull it out and pull up on the point of the nose it will open and close. Normally, and only for that purpose, it is used to clean. That fold is the "tear duct." Tears, produced by the tear glands under Caesar's Nose Like Bridge, keep vegetable pills help regulate the flow of your bile, thus your digestion and elimination. Get a package of that happy days are here again! Don't let any more. Always keep Carter's Little Liver Pills on hand.

We have just listed one that you will agree is a real large family — yet it is new and modern. The kitchen is designed in the form of a half sun — there enough has been "transferred" to three bedrooms and bath on second floor. Ten Manacled Convicts Flee Bus, Five Still Free

Escape Near North Bay And Hike for Bush

NORTH BAY (CP) — Ten manacled prisoners took over a prison bus from unarmed guards near here Wednesday night and fled into blackfly-infested bushland.

Five were still at large today but authorities counted on the tiny, bothersome black flies—now swarming the bush in maddening clouds—to force them into the open. Highways in the area are being watched.

The five, all from Northern Ontario, were identified as George Mallette, Bracebridge; Roland Legault, South Porcupine; Guy Provost, Timmins; Leonard Rose, Kearns, Hearst, and Richard McDonald. All are about 20 and are serving short - term sentences.

An official of the department of reforms institutions in Toronto said there were 12 prisoners, two guards and a driver in the bus. The prisoners were being taken from Haileybury jail to the district jail at North Bay and were to be transferred later to southern Ontario reformatories. He denied an earlier report that they were en route to Kingston Penitentiary.

DECLINED TO SAY

He declined to reveal the basis on which he will seek a paole, annulment of his first marriage, so he will be free to wed Mimi Outram later in a Roman Catholic ceremony.

"I wish to achieve my goal first and then I will tell you about it later," he said his goal is getting the annulment.

"Speaking of an annulment in the Catholic Church is a matter that may take some time. It must be put through the tribunal of the church . . . in Rome and that is my plan."

Miss Outram, daughter of Wing Cmdr. and Mrs. Sean Charles Outram, is Presbyterian. Beaudoin said he does not plan to ask her to become a convert to his faith.

They will live in Nevada, where Beaudoin said he hopes to practice law.

Beaudoin divorced Margaret Wespiser Beaudoin, whom he married in 1937, on grounds of mental cruelty.

Three of the men recaptured after their escape as Dolphie Verrier, Douglas Larson and Gerald Bacon.

Bus driver William Bolger said the escape occurred 13 miles north of here on highway 11 after the prisoners were in the care of guards.

"They hollered for me to stop but I wouldn't," the driver said. "I felt one of the young pushes got his arm around my throat and pulled me back. . . . I nearly ran into the rocks on the side of the road but I stopped okay."

The guards refused to hand over the bus keys, handcuffs and chains. The convicts ransacked the bus for weapons and fled.

"They all looked like kids to me," Bolger said. "They seemed to be about 16 or 17 years old. The other two I refused to flee with them. A short time after the break, a third prisoner came in explaining the other nine had forced him to go with them until they were able to break their irons with the tools from the bus.

CAPTURE EASY

Two more were captured about two hours later and early today guarded the last three reported. "We've just come up with two more."

The two convicts fled, Bolger crossed the ignition wires to start the bus and drove about a mile to a gas station where he sounded the alarm.

The prisoners were blocked and provincial police warned motorists against picking up hitch-hikers. The escapees were clad in civilian clothing but police said they were armed.

To protect them against the weather but which would be small protection against the flies.

Beaudoin Weds Ottawa Girl At Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Louis Rene Beaudoin, former Speaker of the Canadian House of Commons, marries 26-year-old Alice Outram of Ottawa here today.

The 46-year-old lawyer-politician, who obtained a divorce from his first wife at Reno Tuesday, said the ceremony will take place at 1 p.m. local time (4 p.m. EDT).

It will be performed by Rev. Walter W. Hanne, pastor of the Las Vegas Presbyterian Church.

Beaudoin, a Roman Catholic, took out the marriage license and completed arrangements for the ceremony Wednesday. At first he declined to tell reporters when the ceremony would take place. He revealed his plans later during a phone conversation with reporters.

NORAD FOG BANK NOW DRIFTING TO BACKGROUND

Final Stages of Debate on Friday

OTTAWA (CP) — The NORAD fog bank has drifted into the Commons background for today. But an opportunity exists for its return Friday.

The House turns today to private members' legislation after a two-day debate on the Canada-U.S. agreement on North American air defence. It comes up again Friday when Prime Minister Diefenbaker will complete his say on the matter.

NORAD stands for North American Air Defence Command. It was created with headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., by a Canada - U.S. agreement signed May 12. The debate arose when the government agreed to approbation requests that it be submitted to Parliament for ratification.

There was evidence that all parties favored the principle of continental defence but the government said the agreement represented, although CCF speakers expressed some doubt that this was the case.

OPPOSING VIEWS

The wrangling arose as opposition critics charged the government with confusion and confliction in its handling of the agreement and government speakers replied with charges that the opposition was clouding up the issue.

It appeared to be mainly a case of everybody wanting collective defence arrangements but everybody being able to agree on details.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, opening his rebuttal speech Wednesday, accused Liberals of "making a rare" over the agreement.

Defence Minister Hees prefaced his venture into Wednesday's fray with the hope that he would not "confuse the issue even further."

Frank Howard CCF—Vancouver East said it has "degenerated from parliamentary procedure to deliberate and organized confusion."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals created a "smokescreen" around the agreement in the last election campaign and tried to implant fears in Canadians' hearts.

Handbills Get Brantford Boy Many Job Offers

BRANTFORD (CP) — Summertime is going to be no vacation period for Hugh Goodfellow, 15, boy business-man.

Residents of the Henderson Survey and Terrace Hill areas Wednesday found their letter-boxes filled with handbills indicating Hugh's willingness to look after yard, cut grass, care for gardens, water lawns, trim hedges and do just about anything that brings a fee during his two months' holidays.

He reported later the telephone number indicates he will be busy.

Casbah, Native Quarter of Algiers, Is Place of Hate, Smelling of Death

ALGIERS (AP) — An Arab native quarter, locale for romantic movies and scene of countless love stories, is a place of fear and festering hatred now.

It smells of death.

Police and troopers sweep through it—in effect with fire and sword—hunting down members of the underground revolutionary force that has been fighting for nearly three years to shatter French rule in Algeria.

The parantroops blew up great chunks of the thick-walled jumble of buildings, killed some people, interrogated others and beat others off to prison.

So the Casbah is quiet now, except that murders still take place there.

Casbah means fort in Arabic.

You can see why the one on the hill in Algiers was an ideal fort for the Moslem rebels.

It is a fantastic maze of twisting alleys and passageways barely wide enough for two persons to pass. They coil into each other like serpents through tunnels and secret doors. You could travel miles in the casbah and never be seen.

This is the Casbah. The Algiers

Belleville Delegates Claim Primary Schools Not Given Proper Hearing by Assoc.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Belleville delegates to the Ontario urban and Rural Trustees' Association threatened to leave the association because "everything here is for the secondary schools."

The four-day trustees' convention ended Wednesday on a bitter note as William Van Tassel said he and the other five Belleville public school trustees on the board were discouraged.

Mr. Van Tassel angrily denounced the association for leaving two resolutions described as very important to primary schools to the end of the conference. He said he would recommend withdrawal from the association.

Resolutions chairman F. L. Bartlett of Kingston replied "I am sorry sorry there is criticism."

The conference had spent most of its time discussing the state of secondary education in the province. Wednesday it passed a resolution recommending reduction of secondary education to 12 grades from 13 without lowering standards. The resolution was the result of long debate Tuesday.

Following the passage of that resolution, Dr. W. H. Percival of London, former director of Protestant education for Quebec province advised the trustees that they are lengthening the number of years to 14.

The conference then considered two resolutions of importance to primary schools moved by Port Hope trustees.

The resolutions were concerned with increasing classroom time for pupils.

The first resolution asked the provincial department to extend teachers' working year "thus permitting the school staff to be fully prepared and acquainted with equipment and material to be used during the term."

It also recommended that teaching aids, meetings and events be held after school hours or during school holiday periods.

The second recommended that publishing houses, in co-operation with the department of education, establish book displays in selected areas over long periods. The resolutions were passed without debate.

Ban All Cyprus Assemblies Trying to End Savage Riots

NICOSIA (Reuters) — The government today banned all assemblies, processions and demonstrations and shut more tavens in a move to halt savage Turk-Greek fighting that so far has killed seven persons and injured more than 100.

The new legislation, published today in a special gazette, follows six days of fighting between the Greek and Turkish communities.

Leaflets distributed today by PEA, the political broad by the EOKA Greek terrorist underground, called on all Greek-Cypriots "without exception" to organize self-defence — the only measure left "in view of the Turkish attacks and the shelving of resolutions by the British authorities."

A Greek-Cypriot church spokesman in a statement today described as "monstrous" efforts by government communique references to the fighting as "communal disturbances."

The Turks started about 30 fires in Greek premises in Nicosia Wednesday night. They stoned firemen on the way to one fire.

In Athens Foreign Minister Evangelos Averoff said Greece may appeal to the United Nations about the six days of rioting on the island which has cost seven lives and injured more than 100 persons.

Averoff warned Turkey that if Turkish acts of violence against Greek Cypriots continued, Greece would interpret them as a threat to peace.

In Ankara Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes was reported to have received a message from British Prime Minister Macmillan saying that the Turkish-Cypriot actions have strained relations between Britain and Turkey.

REPLIES TO NOTE

But the Turkish foreign ministry, replying to an earlier British note appealing for a call to end Turkish-Cypriot outbreaks, said attempts were being made to "whitewash" Turkish atrocities and der the oppression of the Greek community."

The seething head of the Greek Church on Cyprus was reported to have cabled Athens that "the Turkish bloody orgy against the Greeks of Cyprus continues with indiminished ferocity."

The Athens News Agency said the message was sent by Bishop Anthimos of Kition to Archbishop Makarios, the head of the Cyprol Greek Church who lives in exile.

Windsor Will Oppose Uniform Gas Rates

WINDSOR (CP)—Mayor Michael J. Patrick has recommended to board of control that the city oppose at the Ontario Fuel Board in Woodstock any equalization of Union Gas Company natural gas rates.

Mr. Patrick said the interests of the committee, representing municipalities formerly served by Dominion Gas Company, and Mines Minister Spooner, it was suggested that the Ontario province recommend to Union Gas Company, Toronto, by Dominion, that uniform-rates be established.

FAMILY OF THREE WIPED OUT IN TRIPLE MURDER

Devout Mennonites Shot, Bludgeoned

VANCOUVER (BC)—A man, his wife and 12-year-old daughter, all devout Mennonites, were found shot and bludgeoned to death in their south Vancouver home Wednesday night.

The bodies of David, Helen and Judith Pauls, were discovered when police were asked to investigate Mrs. Pauls' failure to report for work. They had been dead more than 14 hours. Their heads had been bludgeoned. The mother and father had also been shot twice through the head by what appeared to be small-calibre bullets.

TWO POSSIBLE MOTIVES

Police deduced two possible motives — robbery or intended rape of the girl.

No murder weapon was found. Police think the victims may have been struck with an axe.

Neighbors described the Pauls as "well-respected people" who took a keen interest in their flower gardens. Their freshly painted home was the nicest on the block in the middle-class residential district.

Edward Boivey, proprietor of Home Fancy Sausages, asked police to check the house when he was unable to get an answer when he telephoned the Pauls' residence at 11 a.m. that day.

She was to have reported for work at 3 p.m.

Mr. Pauls also worked nights as a janitor for a downtown apartment house. The girl was a student at Mount Pleasant Junior High.

Mr. Pauls was born in Russia, but his family came to Canada in 1923 and settled in Saskatchewan. In 1948 the family moved to Chilliwack, B.C. Mrs. Pauls was from Manitoba.

Friendly Dog Lands Master In Hoosegow

DETROIT (AP) — A happy, little tail-wagging dog proved so friendly his master landed in jail for a week.

A thief-and-thief breed named Rex led police the way up to Lewis Calloway, while Police Sgt. Edward Lake followed behind. Rex is a routine sidewalk - numbers sniffer chief.

"Go 'way," Calloway softly told the little dog, which only wagged his tail harder.

Then said Lake, he discovered the dog's collar was a waterproof pouch — and contained numbers slips.

The sergeant led Calloway and Rusty off to the lockup.

Indians Rebuke Council of Women For Meddling With Ideal Democracy

BRANTFORD (CP) — The National Council of Women "needed its own business" in the matter of a vote for Indians, a spokesman for the Six Nations hereditary council said Wednesday at Ohsweken, a reservation south of here.

The council's recent convention passed a resolution urging the federal government to give Indians a vote.

"We don't want a vote," Arthur Anderson, secretary of the hereditary chiefs, said. "What good would it do us? And women's organizations have nothing to do with us.

"We were here long before the white man. We have maintained in the very existence of this country. As far as the federal government is concerned, let them leave us alone, and we'll leave them alone."

Anderson had a high and honorable place in the constitution of the Six Nations, yet they would never think of legislation out of their jurisdiction, as was done by the National Council of Women in Vancouver," the chiefs said in a formal resolution of their committee.

"The Six Nations had a form of government long before the white man came, that became the envy of scholars and still is. Our people ran a workable democracy in North America that reached ideal state.

"The Six Nations are allies of Canada and Britain and will remain so. No one should suggest something they do not want, never did and never will ask for.

"Our people have much to be proud of. They have been obedient to the teachings of their Creator and have been free of government and told them to continue their ideal way of life, live life and the plant life and gave them the right to breathe the fresh air here, and drink the clear, fresh water.

"When a Canadian is worn to a frazzle through living the hectic, civilized life he must live, he retires to the bush for rest and relaxation and tries to live for a few days the life of the Indian lived before the white man discovered him."

The resolution continues: "When our people had developed such an ideal state why should they want to join or accept the vote of a country that is just now struggling for a bill of rights?

"The National Council of Women has no right to suggest legislation for the Iroquois of the Grand River."

UN Truce Team Told To Guard Lebanon Borders

Security Council Acts To End Syrian Meddling

BEIRUT (AP) — The first contingent of United Nations observers moved into Lebanon on the double today to guard its borders against intruders from the United Arab Republic.

The Security Council sent the watchdog team in answer to a Lebanese complaint that the UAR is sending arms and men to rebels seeking to overthrow President Camille Chamoun's pro-Western government. The UAR denies the charge.

The council Wednesday ordered Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to organize an observation group and use it to seal Lebanon's borders with the Syrian province of the UAR.

Hammarskjold turned to the UN truce chief in Palestine to borrow some observers temporarily. The first group of these officers who have been trying to keep peace along Israel's borders were due in Beirut from Jerusalem today.

Hammarskjold worked to set up a more permanent organization of American civilian observers for the Lebanese assignment. He planned to appoint a three-man directing board from Norway, India and Colombia, with a Norwegian general in charge of the assistant military observers.

SIZE NOT KNOWN

The projected size of the full organization was not known but Hammarskjold was interested in have sent out recruiting calls to a number of countries. He conferred Wednesday night with Key UN delegates, including U.S. ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon, UAR Ambassador Omar Loutfi and the Foreign Minister Charles Malik of Lebanon.

UN diplomats were generally optimistic that the watchdog group would ease tension between Lebanon and the UAR. But some were worried about prospects for better, as the Middle East is a neighbors...

One of the biggest battles in the 4-day rebellion ended Wednesday with rebel chieftain Saeb Salam surrendering his stronghold in the mountain area to government forces that had been attacking.

Convict Farmer Of Murder of Daughter-in-Law

HANNA, Alta. (CP) — John Kolenick, 60-year-old Hanna farmer convicted of murdering his daughter-in-law, Wednesday was sentenced to be hanged Sept. 15.

The body of his daughter-in-law, Rose, was found last Jan. 31 in her farm home, 70 miles northeast of here. An infant child also was found dead, but Krukowski was not charged in connection with the woman's death.

De Gaulle Calls Soustelle Home, Rebukes Salan

PARIS (AP)—Premier Charles de Gaulle called Jacques Soustelle on short notice today in another show of his determination not to let the rebels in Algeria dictate how he should run France.

Soustelle is one of the political leaders of the insurgent movement of army and French and French settlers who banded together in committees of public safety to overthrow the under French control. De Gaulle wants the Moslem majority to have a full voice in running France's North African territory.

The premier ordered Soustelle back from Algiers after the military-civilian committee there demanded that de Gaulle kick party politicians out of his cabinet and delay the June 30 municipal elections promised in about a month.

De Gaulle's first response was a biting telegram to Gen. Raoul Salan, his top civil and military chief in Algeria who had associated himself with the committee's demands. The premier criticized Salan for getting mixed up in politics instead of intensifying pacification caused by the counter-guerrilla war in the committee."

He added that the committee's proper duty and role is to express the opinion of its members.

Tame Napanee River With Big Reservoir

NAPANEE — The sluice gate on the new $200,000 flood control dam on the Napanee River at Second Depot Lake was opened today by Planning and Development Minister Nickle.

The dam, built by the Napanee Valley Conservation Authority, will provide a reservoir of about 1,000,000,000 gallons of water to serve the town of Napanee, its neighboring municipalities and the Strathcona Paper Co. mill nearby.

Provincial grants met half the cost of the dam. The town of Napanee paid 30 per cent of the remainder, with adjacent municipalities also contributing.

The dam closes a gap between two steep hills and raises the water level in the lake 25 feet. Plans were first engineered 10 years ago, but financial arrangements were not completed until last summer.

"Instead of a river which brought down millions of feet of timber to the mills, provided the power for those mills and saved the lumber, you had a river which threatened us with floods in the spring and dried to a trickle in summer," Mr. Nickle recalled.

He commended the Napanee Valley Authority for establishing a 1,000-acre reforestation project and recommended a program on gravel additions.

Mayor A. D. Alkenbrack of Napanee said that "cleaning up and the abatement of pollution in the river" must go hand in hand with the dam project. He said the Ontario Water Resources Commission had not adequately met the pollution problem. He was referring to recent complaints from the town of Napanee concerning river pollution which is blamed on the Strathcona Paper Co.

SAYS TB CURABLE

QUEBEC (CP) — A Mexican specialist said Wednesday that tuberculosis, if detected early, can be cured in a matter of days.

Dr. Jose Luis Gomez Pimentel, director of Mexico's National Institute of Pneumology, told the Canadian Tuberculosis Association's annual meeting that he is astonished at the "extraordinarily heavy" financial load Canada bears for the treatment of the disease.

Barbershoppers Initiate Five New Members

Last night the Belleville chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America held its regular meeting in the lower auditorium of St. Andrew's-on-the-Hill Church. It was an active meeting and a well attended. Also present was a group from Kingston, who are trying to form a chapter down there.

The highnote of the evening was the initiation of five new members into the chapter. They were Ron Dunmall, Phil Squire, Harold Faulds, Jerry Elliott and Grant Sexsmith. The older members enjoyed the process tremendously, and the new converts took the ceremony in good spirit.

Naturally there was plenty of singing and harmonizing throughout the evening. Chapter activities are nearly over for the summer, so everyone tried to stock up for their summer singing, so to speak.

Any man who likes to sing and harmonize is cordially invited to drop in at a meeting. Regular meetings will be resumed next fall and will be publicized.

The aims of the SPEBSQSA are "to preserve for its members, and for all future generations of prospective members, the sacred right of men to seek haven from the burden of their daily cares through indulgence in old fashioned vocal quartet harmony."

Firemen Play Reverse Role At Water Plant

Belleville city firemen played a reverse role yesterday and in a sense put the city's dead-in water main instead of taking it out via a fire hydrant.

The reverse role was played during the water emergency which arose in Belleville yesterday afternoon when a 30-inch intake at the filtering housage tank was being held in reserve for use in cases of fire so we did what we could to assist in providing water for domestic use."

Firemen had only one other run during the day. The call was to Purin and William Streets where a local taxi was reported afire. The vehicle had only minor damage.

TUNNEL BUILT WITHOUT BLASTING

Like a giant mole, this machine eats into solid rock and disappears in the depths of the earth. It is being used, for the first time in Canada, to dig a sewer tunnel under busy city streets, thus avoiding the blasting and resulting tremors usually associated with underground operations. It was built in Orillia, Ont., by the Foundation Companies of Canada after months of experimental work for the job of tunnelling 11,500 feet at depths ranging from 25 to 100 feet under Toronto streets. A giant bore on the end of the machine rotates and chips off the rocks, which are dropped onto a conveyor belt and carried out of the tunnel.

On the surface, above the tunnelling machine, all that homeowners see is this drilling rig which bores holes into the sewer tunnel, and sends down air for ventilation as well as concrete for coating the surface of the sewer. The machine bores a hole 10 feet nine inches in diameter and, after a coating of concrete, the tunnel is 8¾ feet—big enough to drive a truck through.

Aldermen Visit Yards to View Mobile Equipment

Members of Belleville city council took stock yesterday.

That is they took stock of what mobile equipment the city public works department has at its disposal to do the multitudinous jobs that are required in keeping the streets and sewers in order in a city of over 20,000 people.

In all they saw some twenty mobile vehicles lined up in the city yards, ranging all the way from a large white street flusher and sweeper, right down to the lowly jeep used for hauling tools and other jobs.

In the inspection of the public works department by city councillors was lined up at the request of council at a meeting one evening when it was agreed it was time for council to make an annual visit. Previously the public works inspection has been early in the year, usually following the inaugural meeting.

City engineer Malcolm Turnbull acted as official host for councillors as they moved to the various pieces of city owned equipment and were given a run-down on each vehicle's use in the carpentry, machine shop and other departments.

New this year is a big tention road roller and three new cars, one of them a heavy three-ton job, and a three-quarter ton vehicle for use by the sewer maintenance department.

Weight of the new road roller is variable depending on the amount of water carried as ballast. Also the rear wheels can be varied between six and ten tons.

Also viewed by councillors was the hot mix plant in the former gas works building where asphalt is mixed for street repairs.

Water Supply From Bay Cut For 9 Hours as Main Mended

Belleville and district water users from a cast iron section of the mains were forced to get along on supply main used to draw water a limited supply of water for a from the bay rusted through, al- The low pressure supply pumps few hours yesterday as public lowing water being pumped into works employees worked to repair the filtration plant to run back a supply main at the Trent Road into the bay. filtration plant which had corroded through, cutting off the water supply from the bay.

As result domestic and other water users in the city had to get along with restricted water pressure which saw merely a trickle of water coming from their taps.

The ruse under the job was completed last night shortly after the eight o'clock bell, but before an emergency call had gone out to domestic users to "go easy on the water."

During the repair job water was pumped from the underground clear water storage at the filtration plant, the big elevated storage tank on Hillcrest Ave. in East Belleville being completely shut off for possible emergency use.

Mr. E. L. Burnham, assistant manager of the city public utilities, stated that the million gallon storage at the plant had just been used up and the elevated storage tank turned back into the mains when the repair job was completed.

There were about 400,000 gallons in the elevated tank when it was turned off for possible emergency use.

Kingston Pleads For Dredging Of Channel

OTTAWA (CP) — The Kingston delegation of councillors says, in a brief to the federal government, the St. Lawrence River channel at Kingston Mills is a receway port unless the channel at Kingston Mills Island is immediately dredged to the new seaway depth of 27 feet.

Loss of seaway port status would put nearly 1,000 persons out of work, greatly reduce the present annual $25,000,000 waterfront trade, and seriously deteriorate the value of investment property in the area.

"Further, the service at present rendered by Kingston will be taken over, more than likely, by ports in the United States' side of the St. Lawrence."

The brief was to be presented to federal authorities at 3 p.m. EDT today.

SERVICES FOR 25 YEARS

It says Kingston now has been providing pilotage service and drydock, bunkering and salvage facilities for the seaway "since foreign ships started to come up the St. Lawrence River 25 years ago."

"This thriving business of service to the seaway . . . will be lost if the channel at the foot of Wolfe Island is not dredged immediately to conform with the new seaway depth of 27 feet," the brief says.

"At present moment there are 16 feet of water at the foot of Wolfe Island, perhaps four feet of mud, and then the solid bed of the river."

Baptists Want Enforcement Of Liquor Laws

HAMILTON (CP) — The Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec today was to debate a resolution urging stricter enforcement of laws banning liquor advertising and retaliatory measures against hamburg stands, brewers and distillers who circumvent the regulations.

The resolution was introduced Wednesday at the annual assembly of the convention.

It recommended governments of provinces which prohibit advertising of beer, wine and spirituous liquors and urged all other provincial governments to consider the wisdom of banning such advertising.

The resolution suggested provincial governments enforce present laws and regulations by such retaliatory measures as higher provincial taxes on those breweries, wineries and distilleries who persist in circumventing existing provincial rules of beverage alcohol advertising and promotion.

ASKS MAIL BAN

It asked the federal government to ban the use of mails to publications which violate the advertising restrictions of the provinces in which their main production units were situated by means of fictitious headquarters elsewhere.

The resolution also called on the federal government to suspend TV and radio licences of any individual or group who circumvents existing laws and regulations.

The minister of finance and the minister of national revenue were urged to disallow the promotion and advertising costs of beverage alcohol corporations as deductible items for income tax returns.

Also on today's agenda if the election of the 1959 convention president.

Will Provide Assistance But No Direct Loans

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will shortly provide small businesses with technical assistance but no direct loans, it was learned Wednesday.

The reluctance to provide federal credit may be a blow to retailers. They had urged the administration to set up some form of federal credit facility to help the corner store compete more effectively against the big chains and supermarkets for the customer's dollar.

The government is known to be sympathetic with the retailers' views but experts feel the development of some new form of federal credit facility or agency for small businesses would raise many complications.

So, initially, the plan is to set up a new branch in the trade department to advise small businesses, such as shopkeepers, filling station operators, tourist inns and the like on means of establishing, maintaining and expanding their businesses.

Key job of the new branch would be to develop the ability of small businesses to compete against bigger operators, through better methods and other means. Studies also would be made of sets of key leaders by big firms—selling below cost to attract customers—and varying discriminatory allegations and little outlets in bulk-buying from manufacturers.

Eventually, it small businesses continue to lose ground against the chains and other outlets, another look may be taken at the credit situation. But experts anticipate that for some time at least, the new branch would offer advice, but no loans.

Will Start Work On Mount Pelion Steps in Week

TRENTON — Work on the steps to the top of Mount Pelion will begin in about a week, the Parks Board decided at a special meeting last night at 5 p.m. at the Mountain Park.

The steps which the board will go up the face of the hill in a zig-zag course, with landings on the way. They will be built in such a manner as to make it easy for the elderly people to walk up and the landings will give them a chance to rest if they need it.

The board will hire two men to do the work and they will be under the direction of town gardener Bart Boers, who told the board he would like to get his spraying work finished before starting on the steps. He has plans for killing the dandelions and poison ivy in the parks and it is the most get at this right away.

The steps will be made of ties used on the railways and will be treated. They will be laid down at the side of the mountain and each step will be eight inches high with a run of 16 inches wide.

It is expected to take about 100 ties to build the steps and landings and the work may be finished in two weeks, weather time it gets underway.

At a previous discussion on the Mount Pelion steps it was thought that another set of steps might be built further along the side of the mountain and that the gardener could plant shrubbery at various place around the steps.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon were Ted Parker, chairman of the Parks Committee, Mrs. Smith, Miss Marion Baker and Bart Boers, town gardener.

GIVEN SIX MONTHS

TRENTON—David Barry, 18, of 39 Dundas Street East, was sentenced to six months in the Ontario Reformatory last week when he appeared before Judge J. C. To stop him one of the policemen had fired into the air and Judge Anderson dismissed the four charges of breaking and entry due to "direct conflict between the Crown's witness and the accused's testimony which was presented as evidence." Young Barry was represented by Gregory Butler of Trenton. His term will begin from the date of the trial.

General Rate In Tyendinaga Down 2.1 Mills

A 2.1 mill reduction on the general township tax rate was approved by members of Tyendinaga township council at their June meeting.

The general rate is comprised of the county rate of 15 mills, 13 mills for township purposes on farm and residential properties, and 17.7 mills on commercial and industrial assessment, and a 10.5 rate for secondary schools.

A larger estimated expenditure for roads, including the purchase of a new dump truck, necessitated a one mill increase over the 1957 rate for township purposes.

In addition to the general rate there is a general school levy of 4.8 mills to be paid by public school supporters, down 4 mill from 1957, a rate of 2.3 mills for street lights, in Shannonville, down .2 mill from last year and a 4 mill rate for the Federation of Agriculture.

The local levy for school sections based on school board requisitions are: Tyendinaga School Area No. 1, 12.1 mills; No. 6, 13 mills; No. 7, 17.8 mills; No. 8, 12.1 mills; No. 13 .1 mills; No. 17, 8 mills; No. 22, 12.1 mills; Richmond and Tyendinaga, 14 mills; Richmond and Tyendinaga, 14 mills; North Thurlow, 13 mills and Union Square 12 mills.

WILL CLOSE STREETS

A by-law to close a portion of Brock Street between John and Bridge streets in the village of Shannonville, was passed, subject to a contract, at the June meeting of the county.

The low sheep damage of the year, in the amount of $65.20, was approved for payment, while the hay road woodcutter amounting to $7,468.28 was presented to the meeting by the superintendent Lorne Lazier, and was approved for payment.

A special program to relieve unemployment, approved by the Department of Municipal Affairs and subsidized 50 per cent by the province, was completed by May 31st. The accident resisting of brush cutting on boundary roads and clearing walks in Shannonville saw an expenditure of $830.10 of which $214.40 was spent on the Shannonville walks.

The council meeting had a full attendance of members: Reeve Charles Long; Deputy Reeve Martin Doyle, Michael Horrigan, Russell Glass and Sidney Fitzgerald.

HOME FROM COLUMBUS

Fire Chief Clarence Orser and Engineman Cecil "Jibbe" Ellis returned last night from their trip to Columbus, Ohio, where they had been the guests of a manufacturer of fire fighting equipment. They toured the huge plant there and brought with them the same night for Trenton. Both men remarked on the excellent hospitality shown them by their hosts. The chief's next trip will be to Montreal where more fire equipment will be seen and it is expected this will take place the next week-end. Deputy Sid Lewis and Councillor L. Worrall will accompany the chief to Montreal, where they will be the guests of the Mack Company, who also deal in fire-fighting equipment.

MPP's Widow Says Coroner Will Not Hold Inquest

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Jane McCue, widow of Dr. J. Arthur McCue, late Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario Legislature for Lanark, today said Dr. Smith Lawson told her there would be no inquest into her husband's death.

"It took Dr. Lawson about five minutes to determine there was no need for an inquest," Mrs. McCue said.

She said the superlating coroner for Ontario also assured her there was no thought of exhumation of the body.

Dr. Lawson was ordered Wednesday by Attorney-General Robarts to inquire into the sudden death of Dr. McCue on May 26, the first request he has made since taking office.

NO FOUL PLAY

Mr. Roberts' action followed rumors that the 64-year-old doctor died of poisoning. In Ottawa today Dr. Lawson would not say what he had learned about Dr. McCue's death but said there was no indication of foul play.

He said he will report today to the attorney-general on his interviews with the local crown attorney, the coroner and Mrs. McCue.

Dr. Lawson said there is no reason for an autopsy now and there will be no exhumation.

NO INQUEST CITED

In Toronto, Mr. Roberts said no decision has been reached on whether an inquest will be held. He said Dr. Lawson, who spent the night in Ottawa, will return to Smiths Falls today and report to him on the case late this afternoon.

"Until I hear from him there are no grounds for saying there is or isn't going to be an inquest," he said.

Mrs. McCue, 58, said rumors about her husband's sudden death were the result of jealousy.

She said she believed the jealousy had arisen among certain townspeople because of the fact she, as his wife, had achieved prominence at a comparative young age.

"If I had been 66 you can bet they would have been all very glad," said.

Mrs. McCue said she was told a letter written to the attorney-general by someone in the neighborhood touched off the investigation.

"I wonder if whoever wrote that letter knows what such irresponsible, unfounded and vicious rumors can do to four young children."

She said her daughter Susan, 13, broke down and cried Wednesday when she learned from a newspaper her father's death would be investigated.

Police in Smiths Falls refused to comment on a report that a note written by Dr. McCue had been found after his death.

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—A U.S. Air Force T-33 jet trainer plunged out of a swirling rain-storm late Wednesday night and crashed into a remote farm house, killing at least two persons. Bits of bodies were strewn over a large are and there were indications two men may have been in the craft.

GOOD BUSINESS

It takes money to make money.

That is a commonplace saying, but generally its application is considered to be in the realm of private enterprise.

The other day, in the House of Commons, Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton made clear that it has a wider scope. If a proposed 250-mile road is built from Flat Creek, near Dawson City in the Yukon, to Fort McPherson on the Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories, "we could receive in corporation taxes many thousands of dollars more than the cost of building the road," said Mr. Hamilton.

Since the estimated cost of the road is only eight million, and since private oil companies have already taken out permits to explore 65,000,000 acres in the Yukon, at an estimated cost of $250,000,000, Mr. Hamilton's statement appears reasonable.

On the face of it, this looks like good business. We might add that many other expenditures by governments, federal, provincial and municipal, are also good business in precisely the same way, although the dividends may not always be so easy to assess.

NEUTRALS AS POLICEMEN

President Eisenhower, replying to Soviet Premier Khrushchev on the subject of technical talks on methods of policing any ban on nuclear tests, said "we have no objection to the principle of their (neutrals) joining later in the discussions if it is agreed during the course of the talks that this is necessary or useful."

This may mean little or nothing - - but it might mean that some consideration has been given to the advisability of neutrals supervising any policing arrangements.

From what we have read, the great powers have had in mind policing each other, with Russians having the right of inspection in the United States and the U. S. sending its experts to Russia.

Obviously there are some dangers inherent in any such plan, as long as world tensions remain high.

Supervision by neutral nations, perhaps under the auspices of the United Nations, might prove to be a better arrangement.

That would make it a real police force; an exchange of experts from the big powers would be more akin to the powers hiring their own "private eyes" to keep tab on their rivals.

TWO LITTLE KNOWN DANGERS

The latest release of the Ontario Safety League contains warnings against dangers about which the average motorist may be ignorant.

Driving in a station wagon on a warm day with the back open may help to create a pleasant "convertible" atmosphere, it says, but it may also help to create a vacuum that can suck into the car carbon monoxide and other gases being discharged through the exhaust.

If you are changing a tire beside a highway used by big trucks, use extra caution. A large transport passing at high speed can topple a car off a jack with the force of its "shock" wave alone, says the Safety League. Motorists who regularly experience the "whoosh" of transports on Highway 2, particularly at night, will have little difficulty in grasping the accuracy of that statement.

UNBELIEVABLE

...e Associated Press, in a "brief" from Vienna, reports that the city administration has conducted a survey which shows that not a single Vienna-born boy has been christened Adolf since 1938, the year Adolf Hitler's Nazis annexed Austria.

This is one of those news stories which we simply do not believe. We are willing to grant that the majority of the Viennese detested Hitler - - but anyone with any memory goes back to the fate of Dollfuss and the day of Schuschnigg knows that there were Nazis in Austria, too, and not all Austrians were opposed to Anschluss. The same Associated Press reported in 1945 that Cardinal Innitzer had had excommunicated 200,000 Catholics in his archdiocese because they had embraced Nazism.

Witchdoctors in Africa

By Eric Robbs in the Montreal Star

These are palmy days for African medicine men who know nothing of medicine.

In the locations (townships set aside for Africans) of Southern Rhodesia, the "nganga," as the traditional healers are known among themselves, are also earning up to £150 a month.

"Monthly incomes of as much as £100 to £150 are being obtained in small fees of a penny, three pence, shillings or a sheep . . . with a very occasional highly prized remedy at £5 or £10," says Dr. Percival Gelfand, specialist physician to the Central African federal government and an authority on tribal laws and customs.

Dr. Gelfand, in a recently published paper on "The African in the Medical Field," states that the main principle involved in the treatment given by the "nganga" in the locations is "a combination of herbal therapy with faith in the magical powers of the healer."

The "nganga," he says, is consulted by all in the tribal African society, including educated people. But the type of "medical practice" he follows "has no place in the estimation of the towns in the colony differs greatly from the bush where the nganga practices the divining of illness by "throwing the bones" plays a large part.

Dr. Gelfand deplores the use of the word "witchdoctor" as applied to the "nganga."

Although perhaps, the important function of the rural "nganga" is to smell out and drive away witches, and to identify the machinations of this wicked person the term does not infer that the "nganga" himself is a witch.

"It is in connection with witches that the help of the 'nganga' is most needed.

Although many Africans are turning to Christianity, the ma- jority are still profoundly and firmly believe in the existence of witches and sorcerers, and of persons who roam the country, free to disperse evil and death.

"The African believes that they blame the European settler for all misfortune, because he upsets the African to deal with a proven witch in the customary manner, because the witch is free, and may marry and bear children, and spread evil in hereditary. Hence it is said country is full of bad people."

Dr. Gelfand is a champion of the medicine man who, in the African's conception, accomplishes far greater things than the European doctor. Apart from the function of smelling out and driving away witches, the "nganga" is also an herbalist or minister of the individual and his family who practises on all unexplained problems.

"His real strength lies in the supernatural field, for by helping the individual to face the problems that confront all of us he is able to control many anxiety states. The 'nganga' performs an invaluable service to the community, especially in the remoter regions of the country, by preventing or helping to allay panic amongst the people."

Dr. Gelfand urges that, until there are more doctors, especially African, nurses and clinics in the territory, there should be little interference as possible with the only medical aid that of the "nganga" — within the reach of Africans.

His defence of the "nganga" is supported by Edson F. C. Sithole an African National Congress leader in Southern Rhodesia, whose grandfather was a medicine man.

"It is completely wrong to call an African doctor a witchdoctor," says Mr. Sithole. "The word 'witchcraft' is translated into the Shona language as "ngozi" while doctor is translated as "nanga."

"Ngozi" is a poisoning craft and is mainly practised by women. There is nothing supernatural about it. It is a work of primitiveness. There is no difference from a European woman or man who buys poison from a chemist and kills her husband with it or kills her lover or his or her supposed enemies.

"The African doctor, whom Europeans call a witchdoctor, is a professional man, he is a qualified medicine man, able to cure, tell fortunes and reveal impossible secrets. He casts lots to reveal the complexities surrounding the cause of sickness and illness. Or he merely looks at the "patient" instead of throwing lots and tells him everything."

Mr. Sithole claims the "unbelievable supernatural power" of the "nganga" includes the ability to make lightning, kill a person hundreds of miles away, turn a stick into a snake, a frog or hyena, and cause misfortune to a person, or cure or kill by magic.

Dr. Gelfand cannot be effective unless the particular person has confidence in the "nganga" and is comprehensible to the white man.

"It is there that we can escape from the forces of superstition"? Mr. Sithole maintains that the early missionaries followed a bad course in attacking African practices and customs and institutions.

"Their attack — and that of most European Europeans —is demoralising the African youth. He is being educated into the Western civilization and forced to discard completely his native customs and institutions, regardless of whether they are bad or not. He is being politicised — social invollieations on the African people. The diseard of our customs and the lack of belief in our institutions is helping to disunite us completely."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE FACULTY OF EFFORT

None of us would get very far in the way if we made no effort to get started. Effort is a mighty faculty used, and it has to be used or nothing is accomplished. Effort is the kindling to the fire that enthusiasm is made of. In order to get well started on one's way to success and to keep at it, great effort are those dreams, those hardships and temporary failures. But with the qualities of courage, faith, and increasing incentive, the individual is gradually enlarged, making it serve all useful enterprises, stimulating them and giving permanence to them.

"Taking the plunge," as the saying goes, makes most of us hesitate until we feel that the effort is so great. That it takes no great amount of determination and decision to put us in action to the professions alongside baby sitting. Two young ladies called at the door one day and said they were canvassing the neighbourhood to undertake the job of sending in to care for house plants during summer absences. Fee: 10 cents a visit. Work guaranteed.

When I called a florist to see if this was as new as it sounded, he said:

"Partly. We've been plant sitting in summer for years. But you've got to bring your darlings to our greenhouse."

Mind on Jobs

The sack dress is counted on to get us out of the recession, it only because, with all the women wearing them, the men can keep their minds on their work.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Ever hear of a plant sitter? There are baby sitters, dog sitters, grandma sitters.

A plant sitter is one who, while you are away on your summer holidays, will come in each day and water and feed those orchids, ferns, philodendrons and other household creatures that you don't dare put out in the garden for fear of sunburn, drought, dogs, bugs and other hazards of summer.

Plant sitters usually are relatives, neighbours or friends who are not going to be out of town at the same time as you. But it is an imposition to require this plant-sitting of your friends unless you undertake the same service for them. It is an imposition even to bother them by carting over your precious plants to their homes for care and comfort during your absence.

Therefore it will please you to know that plant sitting has moved work.

This faculty of effort must continually be enriched and made continually healthier. It must be given room to us, and we must spread the idea, for what can be accomplished without inspired effort?

At this time, when all is so unsettled and just don't know what course to take, we can always be sure of the existence of structive, and spread it out, feeling in the heart that all will be well and we had taught times before? Isn't freedom worth saving, not only for ourselves but for all parts of the world? The best possible method for preserving it is for free and friendly commerce one with the other, is to start there to be creating enemies later! We need to use that faculty of effort, bequeathed us by our patriot Fathers.

'Ambergris' Was Rubber

Imperial Oil Review

Chemists in one section of Imperial Laboratories in Sarnia once opened a special delivery package from Nova Scotia and found what looked like a dried up pork chop.

The sender of this unsolicited bit of grist for the laboratory "mill" was an excited farmer who had found it on the beach. He wanted the lab to confirm his belief that it was ambergris, a valuable substance found in the stomachs of whales, and used in making perfume.

Hector Trutter, the soft-spoken, white-haired boss of the analytical branch of the labs — which are known collectively as "service labs" because they render laboratory service to Imperial refiners and petrochemical plants, to name work on the puzzle. After making a few short tests, they had disturbing but unmistakable news for the farmer the "ambergris" was an old piece of rubber.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

CARBOHYDRATES CONTAIN CARBON, HYDROGEN AND OXYGEN

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been on a reducing diet following your advice and it has been quite successful.

"Would you please tell me what foods are carbohydrates? One doctor told a lady she could eat two pounds of these foods and not gain weight. Also would you tell me which of the fruits help reduce? — Mrs. M. T."

Yes, I think we can straighten these questions out for you, but don't tinker around with the reducing diet too much. It's terribly easy to argue yourself into doing what you want to do, instead of what you should do! Believe me, I know.

Carbohydrates are materials containing carbon, hydrogen and oxygen. Starches are the main discussion today the principal ones (there are lots of subtle ones) are starches and sugars.

There is some carbohydrate in virtually all vegetables and fruit but the amounts vary. Ordinarily table fruits are higher in fruit and less all carbohydrates. And you know what sugar does to a reducing diet!

Meats, generally speaking, are essentially protein and fat, and the fat, if you eat it, sends the pounds zooming, too.

Raw cabbage is about 5 per cent carbohydrate, for example. Grapes are about 16 per cent. But if you dry them into raisins and get rid of the water, they are about 75 per cent carbohydrate (in this case, sugar). Potatoes are round 18 per cent, while bread 53 per cent. Most kinds of nuts 75 per cent or more, and so on.

ALSO NEED VITAMINS

Obviously, for a reducing diet you want to go easy on the sugar and starches. Be moderate with bread and cereals. Get rid of fat. Also avoid all carbohydrates. Rather, fill up on fresh fruits and vegetables which don't have modest carbohydrates, but will give you needed vitamins and minerals. One can eat two pounds of "these foods" without gaining weight, that depending on the individual and his daily needs. (You mean per day, I presume.) If you ate two pounds of sugar a day, what would happen?

But if you ate two pounds of cabbage you wouldn't gain much weight, because most of the cabbage is water, and would be eliminated without adding fat to your body.

A man doing heavy work might eat two pounds of carbohydrate without gaining weight — but it would depend on what the potatoes and fats and minerals and vitamins he need. Generally speaking, two pounds of pure carbohydrate would provide 2,500 calories. You can see for yourself what that would mean.

Which fruits "help reduce?" Well, anything you don't eat helps you reduce. Anything you do eat adds weight. Or adds energy, at least. Fruits in general contain fewer calories, per pound, than bread, potatoes, sugar, meat or cabohrate. They contain far fewer calories than the really fattening things like desserts, gravy, candy, fried foods, and all kinds of fats.

Apples, oranges, grapefruit and other common fruits aren't too high in calories. (But watch out for the dried or candied fruits!) Bananas will be 80 per cent higher in calories, per pound, than the other fruits, but only somewhat as high as, say, butter, or bacon or other high-calorie food.

In short, fruit is usually good as part of a reasonable weight-controlled diet, but don't eat much of it, it still can add its share of calories.

"Dear Dr. Molner: A friend of mine has been taking cortisone for high blood pressure. I said it is not. Who is right? — T. S."

You are right — but don't tell your friend so. Help just argue about it and you'll get no place.

Note to H. F.: Bitterness, or distention in the stomach of late can result from a variety of causes, ranging from a simple indigestion to a heart, life-threatening. Thus a small stroke that has disturbed the taste mechanism, for instance. Be careful, please. Depend on a medical check-up.

Afflicted with arthritis? You may find relief if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "Don't Quit Because of Arthritis." To receive your copy, write to me for it in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cepts in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all readers' mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individually. But the readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article thirty-three contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society.)

AN EARLY LETTER

From time to time, personal correspondence and diaries are uncovered that shed light on local conditions one hundred or more years ago.

Such a treasure was the Le-visconte Diary, discovered last December by Mrs. Gerald Redmerselle and subsequently donated to the Hastings County Historical Society with a copy of a letter written in 1834 by William Hutton, grandfather of the late Col. W. N. Ponton.

William Hutton, a Londoner, sails early in the 1830's, and after visiting his settled portions of the country purchased a 165-acre farm about a mile and a quarter west of Belleville on the Bay of Quinte.

On Sunday, June 8th, 1834, Hutton wrote to his wife in Ireland with regard to her joining him in Canada. It is a copy of this letter that Mrs. W. N. Ponton kindly donated to the Historical Society.

The following extract from the letter presents a valuable description of local life and conditions in 1834.

"Regarding the general prospects of the town, and the nature of society therein, Hutton has to say:

"If Belleville goes on advancing as it has done, for a few years, it will be the finest place in all the back which are only a mile from town will be sold before long at £4 per acre. I had not the most remote idea that this country had advanced so far to civilization. The children as well as ladies are most beautifully dressed in silks with their veils and parasols. Do not have the idea that anything will do for Canada. It is quite a country. It will be too gay for it. The ladies are princesses in their dress, but I don't think much of their manners from what I have seen."

Thus did William Hutton describe to his wife, who was coming to join him in Canada, the society she could expect to find in 1834.

Next week, further extracts from this interesting letter will be presented.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LET US CHANGE WITH HEM

The Greek-philosopher Aristotle held the mind of Europe in his grasp for almost fifteen hundred years. Sir Thomas Browne, who lived in the seventeenth century, expressed the older scientific league — they were both physicians — his opinion as to cause of a certain disease. The colleague demurred and said he would give him a few days' reply later. His reply was that after reviewing the entire medical writings of Aristotle, this colleague had not found any reference in Aristotle which supported Browne's thesis. "Therefore," he continued, "you can be sure your theory is incorrect else Aristotle would have had a word to say about it.

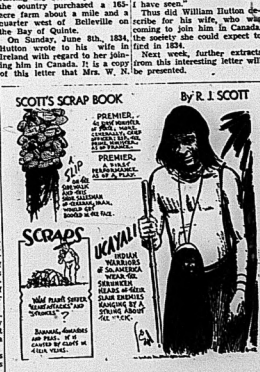
It is hard for us to understand this today. Only a few centuries ago the one question which was always asked when an intellectual or scientific problem arose was, "What did Aristotle think about this?" Today, Aristotle is almost forgotten. The modern searcher after truth no more thinks of him than he thinks of Aristotle's works to find out the truth or falsehood of anything than he does of looking in the telephone book, or of reading the Arabian Nights.

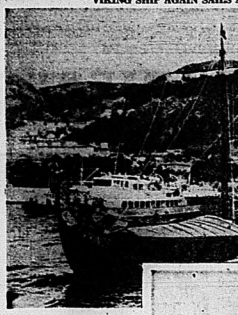
Intellectual styles change. Thinkers come and go. Many great leaders of modern thought will be almost entirely forgotten a hundred years from now.

The world moves. Values and opinions change. Let us change with them.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT





Taking the route of the ancient Vikings, this ship set out from Bergen, Norway, on a trip to New York. On board are seven sailors to man the single sail or the oars of the 70-foot, 10th century vessel. If they reach New York by June 28, without using the auxiliary motor installed in the ship, film actor Kirk Douglas has promised to donate four thousand dollars to Norwegian charities. On their start at Bergen, the wind was unfavorable and the ship had to be towed to open sea. Christening of the ship was done in the ancient manner, right, with Viking Princess Wenche Ortevoide dousing the prow with mjoid, the drink of the Viking seamen.

J. Johns Heads Lions' 'Bank of Light'

FRANKFORD — Over 2,200 delegates and their wives attended the annual Lions convention for district A held at North Bay on June 1st to June 4th.

Sunday, the convention opened with a mammoth parade led by bands and floats from Ontario and Quebec centres. Competition for the best band and the best float was keen.

This was followed by a service and ceremony in which the flags of all countries where Lions Clubs exist, were presented. Lions International is the only service organization that has close to 600,000 members.

Lion Jim Johns, Frankford, international councillor for district A3, and director of the Canadian Association of Lions Clubs, attended the governors' council held Sunday afternoon. He was made chairman of a Lions project for Ontario and Quebec called "The Bank of Light," for sight conservation.

A collection will be made in every community where there is a Lions Club for used eye glasses and frames. These will be packed and sent to countries where there is urgent need for glasses.

Lions in Washington, D.C. last year collected and sent over 200,000 pairs of eyeglasses to Chili, where Lions in that country organized to distribute them and then distributed them where needed under their eye conservation program. In 1957, 200,000 pairs less than 10 per cent were found unusable. Glasses have been sent to Pakistan and India under a similar program by other Lions Clubs.

Monday morning, Lions from all districts attended to the business on hand. A large banquet was held in the memorial arena in the evening, when the guest speaker was J. G. Demera, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville, a former resident of North Bay. Tuesday, being the international night, international district Claude de Voe, of Wichita, Kansas, was guest speaker. He was given a rousing ovation. The evening concluded with a floor show and dancing.

Wednesday morning the reports were given and district governors for six subdistricts were elected, as were directors for the Canadian Association.

Next year's convention will be held at Windsor, Ontario.

The largest Atlantic "bright" salmon taken from New Brunswick fresh waters in over a decade, this 41-lb. specimen of the "king of the game fish" surrendered to Ken Adams of Campbellton after a one hour and 20-minute battle. Taken from the Restigouche River near Campbellton, the fish measured 45 inches from nose to tail and had a 23-inch girth. Adams used an ordinary silver gray fly.

The tables were set up in the Eastern Star Chapter room and presented a pleasing picture, white linen cloths, bouquets of colorful spring flowers, blue programs and favors with delicious food.

The members of Lakeside Chapter served a roast beef dinner the main course, with pie and ice cream for dessert.

The toastmaster was Wor. Bro. E. D. McFaul. A toast to the Grand Lodge of Canada, in the Province of Ontario, was proposed by Bro. R. A. Evans. This was responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. J. A. Cleaver.

Fine entertainment was enjoyed during the banquet, and at this time by Mr. Stephen Chesma on his violin, accompanied by a lady at the piano.

A toast to "Our Guests" was proposed by Bro. William Sainsbury responded to by Bro. Clive McFaul (Lake Lodge).

Bro. Ed. Marshall thanked the ladies of OES to which Mrs. Amos Hicks, Worthy Matron, replied. After the toast of the Junior Warden the brethren adjourned to the lodge room upstairs.

Voters Approve Cocktail Bars at Sault Ste. Marie

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — By almost a three-to-one margin, cocktail bars and liquor with meals have been approved for this city of 40,000.

More than two-thirds of the 31,000 eligible to vote turned out in Wednesday's plebiscite. The results favored liquor regulations in this border city approximating those in its sister city in the United States.

Each of the two questions won better than 72 per cent approval, according to unofficial final figures for the 67 polling subdivisions. Voters approved cocktail bars 10,189 to 3,853 or with meals on licensed premises was approved by 10,158 to 3,848 or 72.5 per cent.

A 60-per-cent affirmative vote was needed on each. The provincial liquor licence board, however, has discretionary powers on issuing licences.

CITE MORAL ANGLE

Advocates of a "yes" vote said the result means 31,000,000 a year will stay in this city rather than going to the 27 bars in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., a 15-minute ferry ride across the St. Mary's River.

The pre - vote campaign was strong on both sides. The results showed in the turnout of 14,042 voters or 66.9 per cent of those eligible. Last December's municipal election had a 44.6 turnout.

The pro-liquor group was led by the Algoma District Hotel Association and a citizens' committee formed by hotel proprietors. It distributed leaflets and bought full-page newspaper advertisements and radio commercials.

The anti-liquor group was led by a public group known as the Alcohol Research committee. Some clergymen supported it. It also used the mass media and circulated letters listing statistical relationships between traffic accidents and divorce and alcoholism.

WEATHER IS FINE

Sunny skies and temperatures in the high 50s contributed to the heavy turnout. Polls were open from 9 a.m. EDT to 8 p.m. No incidents were reported.

Three other cities in Ontario also approved cocktail bars and liquor with meals within the last 14 months—Niagara Falls, Cornwall and St. Catharines. Kingston approved the sale of liquor with meals but rejected bars.

The province's five largest cities, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Ottawa and Windsor, had both types of sale approved in the 1945 Liquor Act without a local vote.

The hotel association was turned down when it asked council to hold a plebiscite. The vote became mandatory when the association presented a petition signed by more than 25 per cent of eligible voters.

VOTES FOR OPPOSITION

CREW, Va. (AP)—W. L. Dixon neared election Tuesday to town council by one vote—his own. He voted, but for the candidate who beat him.

Sees No Barrier To Church Union

TORONTO (CP) — Very Rev. Sir George Fielding Macleod, retiring Moderator of the Church of Scotland's general assembly, says he sees no stumbling blocks in the way of unity of Christian churches.

He is visiting here on his way home to Scotland from the merger of the Presbyterian Church of North America and the Presbyterian Church of the United States, consummated recently in Pittsburgh.

As far as the church union situation in Canada is concerned, Dr. Macleod had no comment. But he did argue forcefully in favor of union in general and said it has a Biblical foundation. St. Paul constantly refers to the church as a "body," which should not be broken.

He is "chapefall" about the ultimate union between the Church of Scotland and the Church of England, a merger he has actively promoted during his term of office.

Lutherans Told TV Stimulates Sale of Books

WINDSOR (CP) — Dr. O. A. Dorn of the Lutheran Concordia Publishing House in St. Louis, says television has in some areas stimulated reading.

He told the convention of the Canada district of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod Wednesday: "Television has not affected book publishing as we feared. Instead in some areas television has stimulated reading."

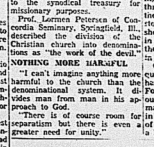
He said Concordia last year supplied 12,000 hymnals, 7,000 kinds of prayer and 17,000 periodicals. The publishing house had a record $7,500,000 business volume with $500,000 turned over to the synodical treasury for missionary purposes.

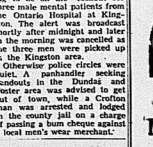
Prof. Lorenzen Petersen of Concordia Seminary, Springfield, Ill., described the division of the Christian church into denominations as "the work of the devil."

NOTHING MORE HARMFUL

"I can't imagine anything more harmful to the church than the denominational system. It divides man from man in his approach to God.

"There is of course room for separation but there is even a greater need for unity."





Community Welcomes Young Couple

On Saturday evening friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Brady, Rawdon township, on the occasion of their recent marriage.

Mr. George Carlisle was chairman and spoke briefly after which all enjoyed a singsong of favorite melodies.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave two romantic readings. Eleanor and Lorraine Shortt delighted with a cute medley song. Mrs. Blake Faulkner read an appropriate poem, and Mr. Ray Shortt spoke briefly.

Sherman and Percy were given seats of honor, and Mrs. James Bailey read a paddress on behalf of the group which also welcomed Harry and Judy Gawley to the community as well as their mother.

The presentation of two beautiful occasional chairs was made by Messrs. James Bailey and Earl Wallace.

Sherman and Percy thanked everyone for the party and gifts and invited them to visit them in the future. They also received individual gifts from relatives.

Guests attended from Bethel, Salem, Ridge Road, Bancroft and Madoc.

The newlyweds recently received an electric lamp, stereo table coffee table and floor polisher at presentation parties held in Belleville, and these gifts were on display.

Refreshments were served by the ladies.

Police Bluster

City and Provincial Police were allerted early this morning to be on the lookout for three male mental patients from the Ontario Hospital at Kingston. The alert was broadcast shortly after midnight and later in the morning was cancelled as the three men were picked up in the Kingston area.

Otherwise police circles were quiet. A panhandler seeking handouts in the Dundas and Foster area was advised to get out of town, while a Crofton man was arrested and lodged in the county jail on a charge of passing a bum cheque against a local men's wear merchant.

Mrs. Fern Pavlech introduced the guest speaker, a former resident of Zion. Miss Locklin illustrated her talk on her work and the countryside in the Holy Land with coloured slides.

Mrs. Frank Horcica thanked the speaker on behalf of the ladies present and presented her with a small token.

Youth Leaders Hold Meet In City

Last Friday a good representative group of ladies from the southern section of the Bailey-Westbury met at Holloway United Church, with Mrs. Daphne Rogers, B.Sc., of Holloway United Church Training School to discuss the work of Baby Bands, Mission Bands, Explorers and CGIT.

Mrs. John Renshaw, Selby, was the chairman for the afternoon and evening sessions. Trinity United Church, Napanee, Ministry Church, the opening worship service with the topic of "The Sower." Mrs. Ernest Boyes sang a beautiful solo entitled, "In the Garden."

Mrs. F. F. Townsend introduced Miss Rogers, who led group discussion on "What is Missionary Education?" coming to the conclusion that the main aim was stimulation, knowledge and action. The group played a suitable game, followed by a film strip, "Growing As World Friends." Mrs. Evelyn Price of Trinity played at the piano.

NEW BOOKS REVIEWED

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, of Trinity reviewed the new books for use in the various groups this coming year, also the many helpful books for leaders and informative books for all.

In the evening, Mrs. Renshaw took charge of the opening worship, with Mrs. John Gillman of Tamworth at the piano. A film strip suitable for CGIT entitled, "It Happens Every Day," depicted prejudices which are faced by many and it showed how these could be overcome by the spirit of today.

A practical demonstration of craf: with all participating, was very worthwhile.

The new Special Objects Fund to which each affiliated W.M.S. group contributes, was outlined by Miss Rogers. This fund will help to carry on the good work done among newcomers, with the Sunday School by mail and aid to Indian Churches of All Nations across Canada, and the Indian work in Winnipeg.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes, president of the Belleville Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society, told of the wonderful response to the similar conference held, the previous day in Madoc. A number of congratulations to Rev. J. F. Lane of Madoc, was sent. Mr. Lane has been elected as chairman of the Bay of Quinte Conference. Mrs. Stuart Bidson, Tamworth, closed the conference.

Asked to End Segregation of Church Women

TORONTO (CP) — The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was asked Wednesday to end the spiritual and "ever-so-polite" segregation of women in the church.

Rev. Louis H. Fowler of Harriston, Ont., joint clerk of the assembly and convenor of a committee on the place of women in the church, said that only 28 of 48 presbyteries replied to a proposal to give women a greater role in church affairs.

The plan called for "shadow councils" at presbytery, synod and general assembly levels which would permit women members to retire after agendas had been completed leaving properly constituted male courts to ratify or reject recommendations.

Twenty-two of the 28 presbyteries that disapproved of a shadow council, three approved and two reported no action.

Thirty-one women's presbyterials reported sixteen approved, nine disapproved and six had nothing definite to say.

Holloway United Church W.A. Sponsors Dainty Blossom Tea

A dainty "Blossom Tea" was held yesterday afternoon by the Women's Missionary Society of Holloway Street United Church.

The guests were received by Mrs. C. W. Coleman, wife of the pastor and Mrs. T. F. Townsend, wife of the assistant pastor, and welcomed into an atmosphere laden with the fragrance of orange blossoms, wine-red peonies and sweet smelling Van Houtt spirea. White baskets filled with these lovely flowers adorned the window ledges and stood on stately pedestals round about the spacious auditorium.

The tea room, with its white picket fence, and wide-open gates, was most inviting backgrounded by the platform-space filled at intervals with standards of peonies and spires, and over all the lovely golden words "I Am the Way, the Truth and the Life."

PRETTY TEA TABLE

The tea table was prettily appointed with a cream-colored lace cloth in grape design, emblematic of Israel and the Lord's chosen people, centered by a white container filled with fragrant orange blossoms and white and peony buds, and flanked by tri-branched silver candelabra, with tall, white candles rising from collars of orange blossoms. Gleaming silver completed the arrangement.

The tea room hostesses were Mesdames Roluf, Coulter, Fred Wilson, Weese and Smale, while those who presided at the silver services were Mrs. S. Westover, Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Cordes and Mrs. M. B. Weese.

Serving included Mrs. John D. Cook, Mrs. F. Cook, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Bryans, Mrs. Vader, Mrs. H. Burrows and Miss D. Craighead. Those receiving the dues were Mrs. R. McMurray, Mrs. Moorman, Mrs. F. Ketcheson and Mrs. Parliament.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS

Other attractions included a little table of African violets, convened by Mrs. N. Brown. Here, at reasonable price, could be obtained lovely potted beauties, some in bloom, the new "Bridesmaid," while others were in bud and still others had just nicely begun their life of loveliness.

A little table around the alcove was backgrounded by a full-sized "crazy" quilt, made of all manner of little patches, and lined with the dainty Dutch Paisley pattern design. There were a few nice aprons, as well. All were under the charge of Mrs. Johnston, and two assistants.

The homecooking table, convened by Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Grills, Mrs. F. Westover, Mrs. Oliphant and Mrs. Hitchon, drew the lovers of good eating with its pumpkin, apple, lemon pies, angel cakes, taffy tarts, dainty little cup cakes topped with white icing and sprinkled generously with shredded cocoanut; diamond-shaped short breads; cookies of many varieties; chocolate cakes, date and orange breads, meringues, cocoanut chews, cocoanut macaroons and jams and jellies, all of which found ready purchasers.

Appreciative thanks are tendered the convener, Mrs. Grant Coulter, and her assistants, for a most pleasing tea, nicely arranged, and gratifyingly successful.

Fiddleheads: Fish? Fiddle? Boat Bow?

by Mary Moore

You trink a fiddlehead is a fish don't you? Or maybe a long-hair- d bass fiddler? Or are you a dic- ionary addict and believe it is the ntwork scroll at the bow of a ship?

DRAWN BUTTER SAUCE: 1- 3 tablespoons butter, 1¼ tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon each salt and sugar, 1 cup boiling water. Blend butter, flour, salt and sugar together. Then stir in boiling water until thick. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice. 2). Omit lemon juice and add 3 tablespoons grated old cheese. Peaty liked the fiddleheads with the lemon variation. Pete liked them with the cheese. Suit yourself. These 2 sauces are good on spinach, asparagus, cauliflower, etc., until you too can come by some fiddleheads.

Or they are well worth a trip to New Brunswick.

All wrong. A fiddlehead is a pinkish green fern tip, tightly furled from just pushing through the soft soil of a New Brunswick woods.

Many years ago New Brunswickians discovered that they were edible, then that they were delicious; then that they could be canned; then that they could be frozen; then that they could be shipped Air Express to Upper Canada and the United States.

That is how I happened to have delivered to my door a 5-pound carton of the lovely green crisp morsels. When the C.N.R. expressman turned his back, I ripped open the box and started right in to prepare most of them for the freezer, I kept some out, for that was the night that we had the Travelers for dinner. Remember?

Since then we have had fiddleheads several times, and I am hoping that soon we can buy them all across Canada when we want a new and pretty green vegetable for our menus.

TO FREEZE THE FIDDLEHEADS:

I washed them in a strainer then plunged them, still in the strainer, into deep boiling water. When it returned to the boil I gave them 1 minute of blanching, then plunged them into running cold water until chilled, drained and packed in 2 different ways (to experiment). Some went in plastic containers; some in double polythene bags, some well sealed in heavy duty foil. Then I froze them.

Last night I used a plastic container for dinner and made 2 inexpensive sauces to try with them, for we had tried them with my beloved Hollandaise and knew that was good.

To cook 1 lb. cleaned fresh or frozen Fiddleheads add ½ cup boiling water and boil covered until tender and water is nearly evaporated — about 15 minutes. Serve with

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Lorraine M. — Mother hurts my feelings.

Mrs. S. M. — She makes me furious.

Lorraine M. — I am 14 and I'm at the stage where I'm having terrific fights at home. My friends all tell me they have fights too — but I'm sure they can't be as bad as the ones I have.

I realize it is natural for parents to want to stop you from everything you want to do — like staying up late, having a lot of dates, using too much makeup and all of that. But is it natural for a girl's mother to call her a fool, the world's worst pain in the neck, and other things like that?

My mother hurts my feelings something terrible every time we have an argument. She never apologizes — no matter how wrong she is.

Mrs. S. M. — Lorraine was a slim, well-behaved girl until two years ago. Then she started going out with a terrible group of girls — loud-mouthed, silly and badly behaved. She has changed so much I hardly know she is the same girl.

When I criticize her she "leaks" all she flies into a rage. She says I don't understand her and I am deliberately trying to make things hard for her, and that I favor her younger brother and sister.

Sometimes she makes me so furious I do say harsh things to her. I don't think a mother should have to apologize to a daughter for a thing like that.

I do my best as a mother, but I think I'm failing with Lorraine.

The Council: It appears to us Lorraine is going through a period of dislike of herself. Evidently she shows herself to her mother at her worst and wants her mother to show love and respect in return — so she can feel a little better about herself.

Mrs. S. M. should try to have a little more patience with Lorraine. She should realize the "loud-mouthed, silly, badly behaved girls" Lorraine has taken up with are probably pretty much in the same boat as her daughter. They don't want to act loud and silly and hate themselves for it, yet somehow they feel impelled to act this way.

These girls are all trying to learn to act like young women and just don't know how to go about it. Childish games no longer interest them and childish modes of behavior feel uncomfortable to them. They want to express their femininity, but they muff it and make fools of themselves whenever they make the attempt.

Lorraine needs help and encouragement from her mother. Mrs. S. M. should avoid criticism and try to offer positive help. If, for example, Lorraine uses too much makeup, she would do best to say, "Don't you think a paler shade of lipstick would be more becoming?" If Lorraine doesn't take the hint, she should let the matter slide. Next time Lorraine is daughter may try the paler shade and Mrs. S. M. should be lavish in her praise of it.

Lorraine has a legitimate complaint when she says her mother doesn't understand her. Mrs. S. M. should let Lorraine know she understands her confusions and is always ready to help her. She should try not to let he self get provoked into arguments.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP . . . DON'T INTERRUPT A STORY

When someone is telling a story, don't interrupt. While he is speaking, don't snap up a word or phrase and make some smart-aleck comment about it, s o m e wise-crack. Naturally this breaks the continuity of the speaker's thought. We often realize that although the speaker just can't help being intensely amused, he's trying gamely to reach the point of his story . . . even though y o u may have stolen his thunder by your rude interruption, or by the laugh you have inconsiderately called forth at the wrong moment. Please let the story-teller tell his story . . . it's his story, n o t yours!

GIFT TO RELATIVES' SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband's brother and his wife are going to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary soon, with a buffet luncheon. We are invited to attend, and would very much like to bring a gift. They are people of means, have a beautiful home, and practically everything available. Therefore a gift of money is out of the question. We would greatly appreciate any suggestion you will give us. — Reader

You and your husband really must take a present of some kind when you go to such an important occasion in the lives of such close relatives. It must not, of course, be a present of money. It need not be a present in silver. It need let be an expensive present, but it should be thoughtfully chosen . . . and you must not fall back on the excuse that "they have practically everything imaginable." In any large city there are excellent department stores and specialty shops to take a look-see in their gift departments, and I'm sure you'll soon mean "just the right gift" — friendly to your budget, welcome at the anniversary hosts. Have it wrapped handsomely in silver paper, tied with silver-color ribbon, with perhaps a group of silver bells.

TAKES SOCIAL FINESSE TO BREAK UP JELLED GROUPS' AT A PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please give us your opinion about a "lively" discussion a group of our friends and my husband and I are having about a procedure which another friend of ours and her husband have at their parties. They love to entertain, quite often give rather large "general" parties either in late-afternoon or evening usually on Saturday, occasionally on Sunday. We all agree they are wonderful hosts. However, they insist on breaking up groups of guests who have gathered together to enjoy one another. Some of their guests resent this, and this includes several of our group having the discussion. But my husband and I think their idea has its good points, and only wish we were brave enough or socially-experienced to follow suit. What is your opinion of this procedure, Mrs. Beeckman? — Reader

I am extremely enthusiastic about the social procedure of this hostess and host at their parties! You say that "We all agree that they are wonderful hosts", and undoubtedly this technic is one of the elements of this wonderful hospitality. It takes a good deal of social finesse, very often a good deal of courage, and always a social "seeing eye", to break up what a friend of mine calls "the jelled groups", who are the despair of hosts. Too often it's a group of intimate friends who naturally f l o c k together and thoughtlessly stay together, or it may be a group of women w h o "keep on" talking together, or a group of men who have tenaciously remained together for too long a time. Of course the graceful guest at this kind of party takes the pleasant responsibility about circulating, sharing in the give-and-take of hospitality and friendliness. But when a guest or a group of guests hasn't the grace to do something about circulating, then the clever hostess or host should take over to "change your partners, ladies and gentlemen!"

Land North of Peace River Can Offer Opportunity

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—The frontier land north of the Peace River can be a land of opportunity for a woman willing to work. In the minds of some housewives, however, modern conveniences do not make up for other factors existent in this community of 4,500 persons.

Mary Worobetz, for one, found the wages good and success quick to come. A year ago she became a restaurant manageress and hostess at a hotel at Taylor Flats, 10 miles south of here. Now she has her own coffee shop on the Alaska Highway, on Fort St. John's outskirts.

"I don't like the city," said Miss Worobetz, a woman of about 40 who lived in Edmonton before coming nortr.

"You can't make a living there. All I could get working in Edmonton is $40 a week. I've been here a year and now I've got my own coffee shop. I really like it here."

BOOM PERIOD

She lived in the hotel until moving to her own up-to-date cafe. There she lives in a trailer.

Fort St. John, a farm-trading centre now going through a boom period sparked by discovery of natural gas and by exploration for more fields, has not outgrown the "shack town" stage.

It has been 40 miles from the end of steel at Dawson Creek and because of transport difficulties hasn't a widely-varied shopping district.

Mrs. J. M. Bowyer of Medicine Hat, Mrs. D. J. Anderson of Kamloops, B.C., and Mrs. W. J. Huska of Vancouver all came here about eight months ago with their husbands, who work with Westcoast Transmission Company's gas - scrubbing plant at Taylor.

Taylor is the starting point for Westcoast's natural gas pipeline to Vancouver.

SNOWED IN

"We came here at the first of October and it snowed the day we moved in," said Mrs. Anderson. "We couldn't get out for a week."

They all objected to mud, dust and mosquitoes, lack of recreation facilities for their youngsters and a long walk to school. High rents and poor shopping were among other complaints.

The women and their families occupy modern, three - bedroom bungalows built by Pacific Petroleums, which operates a refinery in connection with the gas plant at Taylor, and rented to employees.

Rents run around $115 a month plus utilities and the homes are unfurnished.

NO SWIMMING POOL

"A swimming pool is something I'd like to see," Mrs. Huska said. "The kids should learn to swim."

"In Medicine Hat," said Mrs. Bowyer, "we lived across the street from a playground and swimming pool and that was all the kids talked about. Now they've forgotten all about it."

It was not all bad, however. A playground was going up near the housing development and that would help where the kiddies were concerned. Lawns were planned in the new housing division and when they were in, mud and dust problems would be cut.

A supermarket about to be built would give better shopping facilities and when the Pacific Great Eastern railroad reaches St. John this summer, prices might be a little lower.

One woman in Fort St. John, a veteran of 13 years who has watched the boom that came with the Alaska Highway and that of the gas era here, said the life is hard for a housewife used to the services of a larger city.

"But," said Mrs. Margaret Murray, 70-year-old publisher of the Alaska Highway News, a weekly newspaper, "if they can stick it out for a year here, then think how easy it will be for them when they get back to that easy living in the big city."

Salem W.A. Entertains Sister Groups

SALEM — The ladies of Salem W.A. entertained the following W.A. groups on Thursday afternoon, St. Paul's United Church and St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church from Stirling; St. Thomas' Anglican, Bethesda; Beulah, Bethel, Wellman's Carmel, Mount Pleasant, West Huntingdon United and Presbyterian.

The church and hall were attractively decorated with bouquets of spirea, peonies, phlox and life-de-the-valley.

Mrs. Murney Johnson, the president of Salem W.A., opened the meeting and graciously welcomed the guests.

Mrs. Albert Tweedy read the Scripture lesson and Mrs. Frank McGee an appropriate story.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Everett Sine, who read a poem entitled "Wherever Women Gather."

Mrs. George Sine sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Frank McGee. Mrs. Bert Heagle gave a reading "If Jesus Were to Come to Your Home."

Mrs. Lorne Hagerman, Mrs. Tom Clements and Mrs. Harold Holden put on a skit entitled "Visiting Mrs. Gloomy." Mrs. Lindsay Tanner gave a paper on "The Secret of Happiness," and Mrs. George Wood of Ivanhoe rendered an accordion solo.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Harry Mayo introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Marsh, of Bridge St. Church, Belleville, who gave a timely and interesting address on the "History of the Church."

Mrs. Sine thanked Mrs. Marsh for her message and read a poem on "Theology."

Mrs. Pryar of Carmel, extended a vote of thanks to the ladies of Salem for their hospitality, and their profitable afternoon.

Parishioners Present Farewell Gifts

DESERONTO — A dinner in honor of the Rev. W. F. and Mrs. Smith, Rector of Tyendinaga Parish was sponsored by the Ladies Guild of Tyendinaga Reserve in the Guild Hall on Friday night.

About 75 were in attendance and included: Archdeacon and Mrs. J. B. Creegan of Belleville Dr. R. and Mrs. Cassie, superintendent of the Reserve, the choirs and Men's Clubs of the two churches.

The tables were attractive with the tastefully arranged flowers and loaded with delectable food.

The toast to the Queen was proposed by Clayton John and the toast to the Ladies Guild by Leslie Claus.

D. R. Cassie spoke of the splendid work of Mr. and Mrs. Smith among the people and the accomplishments made.

The presentation to Mr. Smith and Mrs. Smith followed: a double wedding ring quilt and a cheque for $25, on behalf of the Guild, by Mrs. Clinton Maracle, a silver tray by Mrs. Francis John, on behalf of All Saints' choir; a pair of matching pictures by Mrs. Thomas Tinney, on behalf of Christ Church choir, and a bronze plaque of the "Last Supper", on behalf of the Men's Club, by Clifford Maracle.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith gratefully thanked all for their generosity and stated that nothing could have been accomplished without the co-operation of the parishioners. He advised that his last service in the parish would be on June 29th.

Hailed as the Stoutest Ship Ever Built, 'The Bear' Lies Dying After 86 Great Years

By ALEX CALNEK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — She's die many ways, but perhaps none ever died a sadder death than the Bear.

One of the most famous ships ever to fly a United States flag, the Bear now lies alongside a little fleet of rotting derelicts here. Her hull is covered with barnacles. Paint has peeled from the masts that once wrote a saga from the North to the South poles.

In 1923 when she was launched at Dundee, Scotland, three shillings were nailed at the step of each mast, in the old tradition, to pay the passage of the crew to Charon and across the River Styx.

In more than half a century of struggle with both Arctic and Antarctic ice packs, the Bear gained the title of the "stoutest ship ever built."

TOUGH OAK

The ship was built primarily for the Newfoundland sealing fleet. Her hull was of oak sheathed with Australian iron bark, the toughest wood known, and so heavy it won't float.

Her career really began in 1884 after 10 years of sealing. She was purchased hurriedly by the United States for $100,000. As a U.S. naval vessel she led the British ship, Alert, in the search and rescue of the Lady Franklin Bay expedition.

The expedition of 25 U.S. Army men had been left in the north for three years. The Bear's dramatic rescue found only seven starving survivors.

After that the Bear was turned over to the U.S. revenue marine.

A forerunner of the present U.S. Coast Guard. With the purchase of Alaska in 1867 the revenue marine was assigned to patrol the Bering Sea and the coast of what was known as "Seward's icebox," since U.S. State Secretary W. H. Seward purchased Alaska from The Russians for $7,200,000.

In the Bear, they had the perfect ship for the job. From San Francisco and Seattle the ship spent four decades pounding her way to Point Barrow, watching and nurse for whalers and Eskimos.

COLORFUL CREWS

She was a colorful ship, but just as colorful were the men who sailed her. Her skipper on the Bering Sea patrol was tough Michael Healy — known to the crews as "Hell Roarin' Mike."

But beneath the rough exterior Mike Healy had a big heart. He couldn't forget the pictures of starving Eskimos, and he gained approval from Congress to ferry reindeer from Siberia to the Alaskan natives.

Present reindeer herds in Alaska are descended from Mike Healy's ferrying service.

In June, 1897, the Bear was anchored in St. Mike, Alaska, when the steamer Alice came down the Yukon River carrying 25 prospectors and half a million dollars in gold dust. Dawson in the Yukon boomed overnight. Over in Skagway, Alaska, one Soapy Smith was the ruling power. But along the coast the Bear was still law.

The Bear's men watched the gold rush come and go. Envy turned to consternation when a rumor spread that waterfront hobos in Seattle had panned a small fortune from the Bear's discarded sand ballast.

STOUT VESSEL

By 1915 when the revenue marine became the United States Coast Guard, the whalers had faded and the gold rush was over. In 1920, after 50 years afloat, the Bear, battered by ice and leaking, returned to Seattle.

But the 136-foot barkentine was still seaworthy. In January, 1921, steaming south off the Oregon coast, she ran into her "big wind." A hurricane with winds gusts of 150 miles an hour whipped the seas. The Bear pitched and rolled, her timbers groaned, but she rode out the turmoil.

She made her last trip to Point Barrow in 1926 and every man, woman and child at the outpost gathered to wave farewell as she came back. She was given to the city of Oakland, Calif., as a marine museum, and in 1931 came out of retirement to help make the movie version of Jack London's The Sea Wolf.

IN ANTARCTIC

The Bear 250 wasn't finished. In 1932 Admiral Richard Byrd climbed aboard, thumped her decks and said he wanted the ship.

She was in the Antarctic a year later, slamming her way through the ice packs; occasionally getting stuck, but always pounding her way free.

She sailed again for Little America, the American post in the Antarctic, in 1939, but this time diesel engines replaced the old steam boiler. She was 118 days between civilized ports without dropping anchor, exploring more than 500 miles of the Antarctic coast.

During the Second World War, the Bear again flew the U.S. flag 1941 to 1944. In that year she was decommissioned and sold to the Shaw Steamship Company of Halifax. The purchase price was $5,-199.

In 1952 Captain Frank Shaw brought the Bear from New York to Mahone Bay, N.S., where she was given a complete refit. A Mahone Bay craftsman carved another polar bear figurehead to replace the original, which had been placed in the Mariner's Museum at Newport News, Va. Shaw brought the Bear here in 1953 with an idea of installing new engines and sending her on the seal hunt. He says he's still going to do it some day.

But each year the barnacles grow thicker, the rigging gets more rotted, and the bilges have to be pumped more frequently.

FIRE ROCKET

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A huge Redstone rocket thundered into space Wednesday night. The 63-foot missile, which can carry a hydrogen warhead 250 miles, streaked straight up for 80 seconds before it curved and roared toward the southeast.

IT HAPPENED IN MERRIE ENGLAND

No one was surprised in the prankish university town of Cambridge, Eng., when this 1926 half-ton truck was seen perched atop Cambridge University's 150-foot-tall Senate House. Police have surmised that about a dozen engineering students hoisted the vehicle up on the roof with the aid of scaffolding and derricks being used in the renovation of a number of adjacent buildings.

Macmillan's Influence Seen Behind Dulles' Bid to Have Red China Join Atom Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The most far-reaching effect of Prime Minister Macmillan's talks with President Eisenhower may be a change in the U.S. attitude toward dealing with Red China.

The impression left by the three-day talks was that of two old friends nodding "Yes, sir" to each other on everything.

They showed no sign of disagreement on anything. At the same time they didn't appear to have solved anything, either. But the meeting hadn't been billed as a world-shaker in the first place.

It was one of those things in which one man may have been a real influence on the other. In this case Macmillan perhaps influenced Eisenhower's thinking on Red China.

That might explain the startling way in which State Secretary Dulles — after Macmillan had been here only one day — suddenly said Red China should be included in any arrangement to police a ban on nuclear testing to prevent cheating.

Almost a year ago the prime ministers of 10 Commonwealth countries meeting in London urged that Red China, as a potential nuclear power, be asked to join in any disarmament agreement or any agreement on ending nuclear tests.

But the U.S. government—the administration and Congress—red only refuses to recognize the Red Chinese government—but opposes its membership in the United Nations.

This is like having cake and eating it, since, no matter what it's called, the present armistice in Korea is the result of agreement with Red China.

Before Red China agreed to inspection posts inside her borders, she might insist on admittance to the UN. That would require American recognition of the Red regime.

CHARGE LOOTERS

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — Eleven Mexicans were charged Wednesday with looting the victims and wreckage of a Mexican airliner that crashed on a mountain near here May 7, killing all 45 aboard.

Deficit Could Be Billion Says Report

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Tax Foundation forecasts that the federal government will have a deficit this year of between $800,000,000 and $1,000,000,000.

In the current issue of the bi-monthly Canadian Tax Journal, the foundation says:

"It now appears quite within the realm of possibility that the budget for 1958-59 will be in the red by $800,000,000 to $1,000,000,000. Based on our own preliminary figures revenues would be $4,500,000,000 and expenditures $5,450,000,000 in round figures.

"The forecast the minister of finance presents in his budget speech may be for a shortfall of less than our figure of $850,000,000 because certain accounting adjustments may be used to close part of the gap, but the real deficit could be something of the order indicated."

Govt. Unable to Explain NORAD Adequately in House

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There is really nothing very mysterious about North American Air Defence Command (NORAD).

It's just that the government has given it an aura of mystery by being, for some reason or other, unable to explain its adequately in the Commons.

Actually, Defence Minister Pearkes in the Commons estimates committee on Tuesday gave the concise and exact definition: NORAD is a planning group covering long-range plans for the air defence of North America.

Unfortunately, Mr. Pearkes, Prime Minister Diefenbaker and other government spokesmen have been unable to put across in the Commons this simple explanation.

Of course, the opposition hasn't helped matters much. It has worried at every point raised, no matter how trifling.

Since last October, many thousands of words have been put on the Commons record concerning NORAD. They might as well have been left unsaid for all the clarification they have offered.

Any RCAF officer even remotely connected with NORAD can give you a lucid explanation of its functions in just 90 seconds.

That's why some RCAF officers are becoming more and more annoyed with the government. They contend, privately, of course, that government spokesmen have by this time so bedogged the issue that it will never be satisfactorily untangled.

Here is their brief discourse on the subject:

NORAD was established because North American air defence required joint Canada-U.S. planning. NORAD has drawn up a plan for air defence which is constantly being refined in accordance with the latest intelligence reports and availability of the new weapons and equipment.

DEFENCE ONLY

This plan is for defence only, to be used to repel any invaders entering North American air space.

The plan will be approved by the two governments so there may be no delay in putting it into operation in an emergency.

In event of attack, NORAD would determine that such and such a part of its plan would be best to meet the situation. It would simply say to the RCAF's Air Defence Command at St. Hubert, Que., for instance, "use part C," and the RCAF's air defence commander would control his squadrons in conformity with this order.

That's all there is to it.

The government, however, has been unable to drive the point home and the opposition, naturally enough, has had a field day.

On Wednesday in the Commons Mr. Pearkes made a new statement on the functions of NORAD which seemed to satisfy the opposition, at least temporarily.

NORAD WITHOUT RCAF

The piece de resistance was offered Tuesday night by Mr. Pearkes when he disclosed that no RCAF squadrons have yet been allocated to NORAD. Under the agreement, NORAD will control only units specifically allocated to it by the two governments.

Perhaps this is a good indication that the government itself is still trying to figure out what NORAD is all about.

In any event, it reduces the whole discussion since last fall to pure theory, if not absurdity.

TURN DOWN OFFER

OTTAWA (CP) — Board of control Tuesday cold-shouldered an Ottawa businessman's offer to buy the deficit - ridden Ottawa Transportation Commission. Only one member of the five - man board supported the offer made Monday by Hy Bessin, car dealer and former suburban bus line operator. He wants to buy OTC assets at a price to be negotiated and leave the city to pay off some $6,000,000 in outstanding liabilities.

General Graham Given Position After Retirement

OTTAWA (CP) — Lt.-Gen. Howard D. Graham, retiring chief of the army's general staff, was named Wednesday as a one-man fact-finding mission to conduct a comprehensive civil defence reappraisal in the light of the threat posed by the intercontinental ballistic missile.

It will be the first such survey by an independent official since civil defence moved under the wing of the department of national health and welfare in 1951.

Health Minister Monteith announced the general's appointment one day after it was made known that he will retire from his army post Aug. 31.

The appointment aroused some speculation that Gen. Graham eventually may succeed Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, who retired as federal civil defence co-ordinator last September after heading the organization since its inception.

Maj.-Gen. C. S. Hatton has continued serving as deputy co-ordinator.

Gen. Graham, 59, will bring to his new task a background which includes law practice, familiarity with municipal politics and a thorough knowledge of the military including the militia forces.

The army and air force reserves last year were given a role in civil defence of reconnaissance, rescue and aid to the civil authority.

Mr. Monteith said he expects Gen. Graham will make some recommendations regarding the financial obligations borne by federal, provincial and municipal levels of government as well as reorganization deemed necessary.

Frankford Drops Fifth Decision, Losing 6-4 to Cobourg Merchants

FRANKFORD — (Special) — Cobourg scored four runs in the opening frame here last night and went on to defeat Frankford Merchants 6-4 in a Belleville and District softball league fixture. The victory consolidated Cobourg's grip on second place while Frankford's loss was number five in succession and left them bogged in fourth spot.

The winners' four runs in the first inning came on a walk, Jim Hart's single and three Frankford errors. The homesiters cut the margin by 4-3 in the fifth on singles by Dean Kemp and Doug Dooher plus a walk and error. Cobourg scored another in the seventh and ended their scoring on Burke Clarke's solo homer in the eighth. Frankford plated one in the ninth but could not overcome the early deficit.

Rolly Campbell toed the rubber for Cobourg, letting the skidding Frankford crew down with six hits. He struck out four, issued five free passes and hit one batter in earning his second win of the campaign.

Bobby Hunter toiled on the losers' hill, giving up seven safeties. He whiffed seven, walked three and hit one batter. This was Hunter's sixth complete game in seven starts, being tossed out of the other game. His record, like the club's, is two wins and five losers.

Jim Hart and Rolly Campbell each collected two singles in leading Cobourg with the hickory. Burke Clarey had his circuit blast while Brian Hart and Jack Bevan added the victors' other two hits, both one-baggers.

Dean Kemp spearheaded Frankford's attack with a triple and a single while Doug Dooher rapped a pair of singles. Jason Field and Mike Cosgrove also hit safely.

Frankford visits Point Anne in the loop's lone game tonight.

HONOR RACING WRITER

TORONTO (CP) — Charlie Oliver, veteran Globe and Mail racing expert known by the nom de plume Appas Tappas, was honored Wednesday night at a testimonial dinner. Mr. Oliver, 61, began his newspaper career as a police reporter 43 years ago. He began covering racing for The Globe and Mail in 1936.

Giardello Wins Over Szuzina In Snooty Bout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Giardello and Washington society have met, but odds are steep that they'll never really be chummy.

Joey, the Philadelphia middleweight, made his bow before the Hotel terrace Wednesday night. Franz Szuzina, the German weightlifter who now fights for a living, appeared with Joey

After 10 rounds of fist throwing in that most unlikely setting, Giardello had won his 77th victory in a career dating back to 1948. It also was his third decision over Szuzina.

The well - tailored audience—black tie and evening gown—booed the verdict as judges Harry Volkman (98-92) and Charley Buck (97-94) voted for Giardello and referee Charley Reynolds viewed it as a standoff (92-92). The Associated Press agreed with the judges (93-92).

For many of the 850 socialites, diplomats, congressmen and government officials, the charity match between the two 160-pounders was their first exposure to the gentlemanly art of self defence as practiced for pay.

They liked stocky Franz as the underdog and for the way he charged into Giardello with a persistent right that sometimes stopped Joey short.

BUSY WITH LEFT

But Giardello, who ranks just behind Carmen Basilio for Ray Robinson's title, was busy with his quick left and generally too effective for Szuzina.

Franz cut Giardello under the left eye in the first round. The wound bled periodically, but Joey was never in any jeopardy. Giardello opened a slight cut on Szuzina's forehead in a bristling 10th.

Lack of noise was one of the things that didn't suit Giardello. "They held themselves back," he said afterward. "It wasn't like a real fight. It was just different."

Big brothers of America really won it big, acquiring an estimated $20,000 from the benefit affair. Those present paid $25 apiece.

Russ Tennis Debut a Farce

BECKENHAM, Eng. (AP) — Russia's debut in international lawn tennis fizzled Wednesday. Both of Russia's touring players were defeated in the first round of the Kent championships.

But little Anna Dmitrieva kept the Red flag flying for 1½ hours before finally losing to Britain's Carol Levy 7-5, 0-6, 7-5.

Andrei Potanin, 17-year-old Leningrad schoolboy, lost 6-0, 6-2, to Narendra Nath of India in a men's singles match started Tuesday but halted by rain.

Anna, 17-year-old Muscovite raced through the second set in 12 minutes without dropping a game. She showed a cool head at moments of crisis.

In the second round of men's singles, top-seeded Neale Fraser of Australia defeated Oliver Prem of England, 6-1, 4-6, 4-6, 6-3

Marlene Defends Ontario Ladies Golf Title

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit begins Monday to defend her Ontario ladies' golf championship, a title she has won two years in a row.

Among the competition Mrs. Streit will find Calgary's Rae Milligan whom she beat in the 1957 final, Mary Gay, formerly of Kitchener but now of Calgary, whom she beat in 1956 and Betty Stanhope, current Canadian open champion from Edmonton.

A field of 120 entrants from 32 clubs will tee off in qualifying rounds at the Thornhill Golf Club as the 42rd tournament gets under way. The 32 low gross scorers then participate in four days of match play, ending with a 36-hole final Friday, June 20.

Terriers Whip Merchants 8-5

GUELPH (CP) — Galt Terriers defeated Guelph Merchants 8-5 Wednesday night to move past Merchants into third place in the intercounty Senior Baseball League.

Glen Legacy, coming on in relief in the seventh inning, picked up his first win of the season shutting Guelph out over the final three frames.

John Clark, who took over for Mike Kovac after the first four Terrier batters hit safely for three runs, suffered his first loss. Clark pitched hitless ball for five frames but weakened in the late innings after Guelph had tied the score at 5-5.

Wray Upper led the Galt attack with three hits, two of them triples. Ron Boomer hit a pinch-hit triple for Terriers.

Art O'Connor and Hal Macdonald had two hits apiece for Guelph.

Hockey Leafs Sign Young Marlboro Star

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League Wednesday announced the signing to a two-year contract of Bob Neverly, right winger who has been with Toronto Marlboros in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series for the last three seasons.

The 20-year-old native of South Porcupine, Ont., had a four-game trial with Leafs last season but didn't score any points. With Marlboros he had 32 goals and 30 assists in the 1957-58 season.

Nevin was rated top rookie of the OHA Junior A series in 1955-56 when he scored 46 goals and assisted on another 35. The following season he had 45 goals and 27 assists.

Maverick Adult Western With Humor Says Garner

Editor's Note—The author of this column is the star of CBC-TV's Maverick program.

By JAMES GARNER

NEW YORK (AP) — When I pause to think of the rich vein of humor in which scripters have tapped to make the series a superior TV product, I'm amazed that most television critics treated the post civil war period like a wake.

We'd been led to believe that 1870 frontiersmen generally had an almost fanatical aversion to any type of humor other than a practical joke.

Producer Roy Huggins couldn't go along with the theory. Asked at the outset for a terse slogan he replied, "An adult western—with humor."

It would be grossly unfair to any writer for me to take a bunch of his dialogue out of context to illustrate his overall skill as a humorist, but in retrospect, I get a charge out of the closing line Marlon Hargrove gave me in Black Fire, a mystery western we filmed early this year.

For the lag of a comedy drama in which a whole string of suspects had been exposed before the camera, Bret says "the butler did it," and waves goodby.

Now, I'm not particularly funny in itself, but I'm sure you'll have to agree it's really off-beat for a western.

As I write this, we're putting the finishing touches on a Maverick dubbed The Day They Hanged Bret Maverick and I hasten to add that the title doesn't denote the demise of the series. Quite the opposite. It's probably be the opening show for a new fall series over on expanded ABC-TV network of stations.

In one of the early shots, Maverick, the card expert, awaiting his execution is well, is calmly cheating at solitaire. That's what you might term a twist. I'm sure our 1870 frontier ancestors'll be sorted to off-beat or shaggy-dog humor.

It was the historians who took themselves seriously.

Hearts Trounce Manchester 6-0

MONTREAL (CP) — Inside left Jim Wardhaugh scored four goals Wednesday night as Heart of Midlothian trounced Manchester City 6-0 to wind up a successful North American exhibition soccer series with three victories and one defeat.

Wardhaugh, a 13-year veteran with the Scottish League champions from Edinburgh, scored all his goals in the second half as Hearts outclassed Manchester.

Outside left John Crawford and centre Willie Bauld scored the other goals. Half-time score was 1-0.

Some 10,000 fans at McGill University's stadium watched the match under threatening skies.

The teams sail for England Friday. The tour took them to New York, Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal. Hearts also played three exhibition games against Canadian provincial all - star teams, winning them all.

Against Manchester, the powerful Scots lost once, 7-1 in Toronto. Three games ended won 6-5 in New York and 5-2 in Vancouver.

Lead World Soccer Tourney

STOCKHOLM (AP) — West Germany's defending champions and Yugoslavia emerged from the second round of the world soccer competition Wednesday as the only teams wit clear-cut leads.

West Germany tied Czechoslovakia 2-2 and took over the lead in its group with three points. Yugoslavia turned back France 3-2 for a total of three points and sole possession of first place in group two.

Sweden, which completes the second round today in a match with Hungary, remained tied with Wales for the lead in group three. Each has two points. England played first and straight tie today, drawing with Mexico at 1-1.

In group four, Brazil played a scoreless tie with Austria and Russia beat Austria 3-0 to head the division with three points apiece. Each has won one and tied another.

In other games Paraguay defeated Scotland 3-2 in a group two contest and Argentina turned back North Ireland 3-1 in a group one game.

Today at 11 16 teams swing into action again. The two leaders in each division qualify for the quarter-finals. If teams end up with the same number of points, then the goal average will decide the top teams.

Deodorized, Talented Goat Mr. Faust Even Has Stand-in

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Another great talent search is over: They've found Fergy's goat.

Samuel Goldwyn needed a very special animal for the goat who pulls the cart of the crippled Fergy in the film version of Fergy and Bess. It had to be strong enough to pull actor Sidney Poitier, have stage presence but not offend the other actors with its aroma.

Clarence Asnes, who supplies animals for film makers, came up with five-year-old Mr. Faust, a husky, deodorized, talented goat.

Why the name? Because Mr. Faust butts like the devil, say the whimsical studio sides.

At any rate, the goat has a six-month contract and the use of a stand-in. Mr. Faust will be watched closely; no scenery chewing in a Goldwyn picture.

It's ironic that the factor that prolonged Deborah Kerr's marriage helped to sink it in the end. She and Peter Viertel have been a producer of TV films. The trouble was that his career kept him in Africa and England much of the time while Deborah was working here. Hence the drift in their marriage, once considered unbreakable.

Shelly Winters wonders where the money is coming from. Her husband, Anthony Franciosa, has been paid for 30 weeks on The Diary of Anne Frank but the picture hasn't even started yet. The delay is caused by Ava Gardner.

The delay is apparently to find a script that will please Ava.

Joanne Woodward and Paul Newman are beginning a four-picture film together since their marriage. Rally Round the Flag, Boys! Oscar winner Joanne assured me there will be no fights—"because he's bizzer."

SIGNS FOR EXHIBITION

MONCTON (CP) — Yvon Durelle, Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight champion, will meet Gaston Roy, welterweight from Quebec City, at Campbellton, N.B., June 20. The six-round exhibition bout was announced by Durelle's manager, Chris Shaban.

Detroit Manager New-Brooms Tigers Into Twin Wins Over Red Sox

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

With the big meeting which is supposed to come up with the cure-all for senior "A" hockey ills almost on us, (it is set for Kitchener this weekend), many suggestions are exuding from a number of sports "doctors."

The latest "M.O." to come up with an MO (page Dragnet) is "Doc" Rolly Ethier of the North Bay Nugget. He offers what he says is a list of suggestions for the survival and improvement of the game. Here they are:

"1. The revival of the NOHA southern group as a five-team fold embracing Soo Greyhounds, Soo Indians, Sudbury Wolves, Pembroke Lumber Kings and the Trappers.

"2. A complete withdrawal by the NOHA southern group and other senior "A" leagues in the province from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in favor of the establishment of a new professional league. The new set-up could climax with the all-Ontario intermediate but it would be optional for the winning team to challenge in 'the Canadian pro series against the Quebec League or Western League champs.

"3. The adoption of a 60-game schedule spread out over a 28-week period that would start in the middle of November and run through until the first week of April with playoffs to follow.

"4. The end of the present salary inflation, the major item of expense, through the adoption of a definite salary limit to all leagues. This would prevent players from continuing their present bargaining tactics and making a complete sucker out of hockey moguls. Our estimate of a reasonable and fair yearly salary limit is $40,000 per club—$2,000 weekly. And as a further economical move, the present playing roster should be reduced from 18 players to 15.

"5. The introduction of a new ruling enforcing teams to carry at least three over-age juniors every year, a move that would serve both as an economy measure and as a means of developing young talent that could be sold to other pro leagues at a big profit."

There you have it—and not much of it makes sense. Ethier calls for a revival of the NOHA southern group. On what? What are they going to do to start the revival? They are as dead as last year's love affair and so reports have it. And as for the Pembroke Lumber Kings joining their former loop buddies, methinks Master Wally Lesner will have something to say about that. So will the eastern senior loops. This, too, coming after the story that Ethier's hometown team is figuring on applying for entry in the eastern circuit.

As for the senior leagues turning pro, that is so much balderdash. Outside of the eastern league none of them made a success of things as alleged amateurs. Does Ethier think the mere changing of the above-board status from amateur to pro and breaking away from the CAHA will pack local arenas? And how does he know the Quebec League will function as a pro loop next season. That ain't the way we heered it, buster!

His estimate of a fair, reasonable salary limit is $40,000 a season or $2,000 for twenty weeks. What does he think the eastern teams paid last season? He also wants the present roster reduced from 18 to 15 players. All the eastern league dressed for loop games last season was 14 for the first part of the schedule, later adding another player. Mr. Ethier should have studied the modus operandi of the eastern circuit, or did he, before writing his column.

He wants clubs to carry three over-age juniors as an economy measure and a means of developing young talent that could be sold to other pro leagues at a tidy profit. What other leagues want to buy the youngsters if they have over-age juniors of their own. Not much room for seasonal improvement there, according to the Ethier plan.

RASSLIN'

Whipper Watson doesn't scare Dan Miller one iota, according to reports from the Miller Bros. camp. Dannul and the Whip tangle here in the main bout come Friday night in what should be a thriller of a contest. The Whip is the British heavyweight wrestling champion and has no idea of being humiliated by Master Miller, the youngest of the rasslin' trio. However, Dannul doesn't appear much worried over the Whip's ability and will be all out to lower the colors of the Pride of East York. Then there's Bobo Brazil and Lee (the Lore) Henning for the semi-final and Krusher Korman and dapper Toni Baillargeon in the opening bout.

Sweep Doubleheader 7-0, 9-3 To Jump Clear of Cellar; Braves Regain National Lead

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Norman had a simple plan for arousing Detroit Tigers in his managerial debut.

"This is too good a club to be last," he said. So they went out and jumped clear of the American League cellar by sweeping a doubleheader 7-0 and 9-3 against the Red Sox at Boston, where they won't soon since last year.

The Tigers, in eighth place for the third time this season when Jack Tighe was fired Tuesday, came alive with 12 hits in each half of the afternoon-night pair.

Frank Lary ended the Red Sox winning string at six with a five-hit shutout in the first game. Billy Martin hit two home runs to lead Detroit to victory in the second. Martin drove in seven runs in the nightcap.

The first-place New York Yankees upped their lead by two games, using hits and breaks for 18-2 and 5-4 victories over the second-place Kansas City Athletics. Don Larsen won his ninth in a row over last season in the opener and ace-beaten Bob Turley became the first pitcher to win his 4th in the nightcap.

BEAT THE SOX

Washington Senators plunked Chicago White Sox into last place by beating them 3-2 and Baltimore Orioles rapped Cleveland Indians 7-6.

Larry gave up only one extra-base hit in the opener, a double, but he ran as far as third while gaining a 6-3 record with his first shutout since last April 30. It was the second by the Tiger staff this year. The same pitching staff drove home three runs. Mike Fornieles got 2-0 hit it.

Jim Delsing (3-5) struck out 12 men, but walked eight and yielded a first-game 8-2-3 decision in the nightcap. Martin hit his fourth and fifth homers in the Tigers' six-run lead in three innings against Murray Wall, who quit the bullpen for his first major league start. He's now 3-3.

Frank Malzone had six of Boston's 11 hits for the day, including three doubles. He was 4-for-4 in the second game and had two of the five hits off Lary, as did Ted Williams.

Brooks Robinson drove in three runs with two singles for the Orioles, who lugged it with five runs in the fourth. Milt Pappas won his third. Dick Tomanek (2-3) was the loser.

RETIRES LAST 14

Russ Kemmerer (2-3) beat the White Sox with a six-hitter, retiring the last 14 batters as the Senators took over fourth place. Three runs in the seventh inning did it against Bill Fischer (2-3), with Ned Cornsley's triple scoring two runs.

The Yankees clubbed 14 hits in the opener, including Tony Kubek's first homer and Yogi Berra's ninth, then won the second game when reliefer Virgil Trucks walked four men and forced a run home in the ninth with two out.

Turley had a two-hit shutout for seven innings in a nightcap duel with Ralph Terry, whose scoreless string ended at 19 innings when the Yankees scored in the seventh. Rookie Ryne Duren gained his 10th save in the opener after Larsen, who walked seven while winning his fifth this season, gave way in the seventh.

LOPATA OUT OF HOSPITAL

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan Lopata, Philadelphia Phillies catcher boned in a game against the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday, was released from hospital Wednesday. Dr. L. C. Middleman, Cardinal team physician, said Lopata had recovered completely.

Los Angeles Dodgers are acting like Dodgers. A batter gets tossed out of the game for jogging at the plate, a runner scores from second on a two-run sacrifice fly and Don Drysdale, their young pitching ace, finally has a complete game victory to go with eight defeats.

Except for being in last place, things are almost normal.

Drysdale, 21 - year - old right-hander, went all the way for a 4-2 victory over Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night. He gave up nine hits, struck out six men and allowed only two earned runs.

Milwaukee Braves, meanwhile, regained the National League lead as they ended their longest losing streak since 1950 at five games with a 13-7 victory over Chicago Cubs. San Francisco Giants slipped to second place, .003 percentage points behind, as Pittsburgh Pirates freezed in Frank Thomas' seven runs batted in for a 14-6 victory and the Giants dropped a 7-5 decision to St. Louis Cardinals took third place, three games behind, with a 3-2, 10-inning victory over Cincinnati Reds.

WINS IN THIRD

A four-run third inning was the same for Drysdale, now 3-8, as Los Angeles Dodgers. It was a 426-foot hit by Carl Furillo with the bases loaded in the opener and another blast by Charley Neal, who was tossed out for arguing a 2-1 pitch. He was the first Dodger to be ejected in Los Angeles, and Johnny Podres became No. 2 seconds later for his bellowing from the bench.

Ken Boyer's leadoff 11th homer won it for the Cards in the 11th, ending a four-inning scoreless duel battle between winner Morrie Martin (2-1) and Redleg Hal Jeffcoat (3-2).

Frank Robinson drove in both Redlegs runs, one with his fourth home run, a 2-2 tie in the seventh. Thomas celebrated his 29th birthday by taking the Giants' lead with a pair, one a grand-slammer, and also gaining the RBI lead.

WITH BASES LOADED

His second homer, No. 19, was his second bases-loaded shot in the majors and gave the Pirates a 10-2 lead in the second inning. Vern Law won his sixth with relief help while Ruben Gomez (3-5) lost it, giving up a three-run homer to Bill Mazeroski in a six-run first inning.

The Braves blew a 5-0 lead, but nailed it with three in the seventh off losing reliefer Don Elston (6-4). Unbeaten Ernie Johnson won his third in relief, and Adcock hit his 20th grand-slam homer in the Braves' first. Andy Pafko drove in three runs for Milwaukee, singling home the tie breaker in the seventh.

Miss Supertest Qualifies for Detroit Race

DETROIT (AP) — Chuck Thompson of Detroit Wednesday qualified his unlimited hydroplane Short Circuit for this weekend's regatta with an average speed of 108.26 miles an hour for the three-mile course on the Detroit River.

Thompson's time easily topped all other qualifying runs so far this year.

Bob Haywood of Embro, Ont., qualified Miss Supertest, at 98.181 m.p.h.

The two boats joined George Simon's Miss U.S. 1, Lee Schoenith's Gale VI and Buffalo's Wildroot Charlie in Saturday's starting field.

Balding Leads Stan Leonard

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Al Balding parlayed a one-stroke lead into a margin of 4 strokes today as he carded a 67 to take the lead over Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Lachute, Que., in their unofficial Canadian championship golf tour.

Balding took a one-game lead in the series which opened Tuesday at Kamloops with a draw.

The Toronto golfer picked up $1,000 by winning, while Leonard pocketed $800 for his 68. The five-city B.C. tour is sponsored by a brewing company. Each day there is a first prize of $500 and a runner-up prize of $400, but Wednesday's event was combined in view of Tuesday's draw.

There also is a $500 bonus for low man over the five courses.

Temple's Bobcats Unsheathe Claws Trim Trenton 11-2 for Two in Row

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Sparked by the pitching and hitting of Bobby Hall, the Belleville Bobcats trounced Trenton Legion Juniors 11-3 at CNRA Park last night to even the N.L. and D. softball record at three wins and as many losses.

Hall turned in his best performance of the season to rack up victory number one. He stopped the Legion crew on two singles and would have had a distinct cramp for the 'Cats only two errors of the contest, coming in the second frame. He was touched for a single by Guy Austin in the fifth frame and gave up another to Doug Alexander in the seventh. Hall fired third strikes by seven batters while walking one less.

Meanwhile the Bobcats racked two Trenton hurlers for 13 safeties, including a double and triple by Hall, and played heads up ball after the bad second inning. They scored two in the third, four in the fourth and wrapped it up with a trio in the ninth.

Howard Cole started and took the loss for Trenton. He gave up seven runs on six hits in 4 1-3 innings, whiffing three and walking one. Gord Mariseo also proved no problem to the Bobcats. He was banged for seven hits and four runs, fanning four and passing none.

The winners opened the scoring with a singleton in the first on a walk and error. Trenton scored twice in the second on two errors, a walk and two smart base running by Leroy Wannamaker who stole two bases on Hull and scored when a high pitch got away from catcher Doug Bonee.

"Wiener" Bonee made it two Faulkner popped a triple to centre and "Bep" Guidolin singled to give Bobcats a 3-2 lead in the third. They chased Cole with the heavy hitting in the fifth. Two walks, Hull's ballist triple, Bob Green's single and Earl Cousins' two-bagger scored four runs.

Hull doubled in the sixth and rode home on Bonee's single to right field. Guidolin singled, Bonee sacrificed and was safe on an error on Bob Green's clean up stick-work with a three-run homer to left field in the eighth. Trenton's one close in the seventh with a hit batter, Alexander's base hit and a walk loading the sacks before three were retired.

Both clubs left runners on base almost every inning, Bobcats stranding seven runners and Trenton nine.

Earl Cousins led the Belleville batters with a double and two singles while Bob Green homered and singled and Hull doubled and tripled. "Wiener" Bonee lined a double and single while "Bep" Guidolin had a brace of singles. Bert Faulkner tripled and Doug Bone singled.

Bobcats have been given a revised lineup when several players were missing. They had pitchers Bob Green, "Bep" Guidolin and Stu Craig in the outfield with regular centre fielder "Wiener" Brown at shortstop and catcher Earl Cousins at second base.

Lineups:

Trenton — Austin, Drake, Alexander, L. Wannamaker, Kennedy, Mrs Williams, Mosrem, H. Cole, Locke, Maroney.

Bobcats — Russell, Brown, Faulkner, Hull, Guidolin, Bone, Green, Cousins, Craig.

Umpires: "Shot" Ethier (P), and Bill Hurst. Time: 1.42.

MARLBORO STAR SIGNED BY LEAFS

High-scoring rightwinger for Toronto Marlboros, Bob Nevin, 20, has been signed to a two-year contract with Maple Leafs. The six-foot, 183-pound all-star was last year's OHA junior "A" dream team. Nevin scored 32 goals and 38 assists to lead his club in scoring. Whether he can make the big jump to the NHL depends on whether he can speed up his skating.

Boros Favored In U.S. Open

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A Boros bandwagon began rolling today as play started in the United States open golf championship. The one fellow who wouldn't get on it was Julius Boros.

Boros hasn't done anything sensational during the practice rounds over the scorched 6,962 yard southern hills layout. But a lot of folks looked at the records and decided that Boros, who won the title at Dallas in 1952 over the same sort of weather conditions, is a contender to be feared when as much as $20,000 is up.

Boros chuckled at the suggestion that he doesn't mind the heat.

"I can sweat as much as anybody," he said after completing his final practice round Wednesday. "But I usually play as well on long courses as short ones. That's the big difference. Southern Hills is a course that requires long and accurate shots. A player who strays off the fairways is due for trouble even though the Bermuda grass rough was cut to a four-inch depth for the tournament.

Golfers who have played with Boros, a 218-pound slugger from Southern Pines, N.C., during the last few days say he has been shooting some of his finest golf and has the look of a man primed to the Southern Hills course.

About six players in the 162-man field scheduled to start play today were rated even with Boros in pre-tournament picking.

There's Hogan, shooting for an unprecedented fifth U.S. Open, and other former winners with long-hitting Cary Middlecoff, who has the title twice and lost a playoff last year to Dick Mayer, Mayer at the head of the list.

Leafs Split With Miami; Royals on Top

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whew! It was close but Montreal Royals refused to yield that prized top spot in the International League.

The Royals Wednesday night took the nightcap of a twi-night affair 3-2 on Bob Giallombardo's not only shot out Havana on three hits but tripled and scored the only run on an error in the ninth inning.

Earlier, Havana blew over the Royals 4-0 while Toronto Maple Leafs edged Miami 3-2 in the first game of their twi-nighter but were drubbed 9-0 in the nightcap. The Leafs still trail Montreal by one-half game.

Rochester shut out Columbus 4-0 in the first game of a twi-night bill, then lost 6-2 in the second, while Richmond bowled over last-place Buffalo 7-4 in 13 innings in the night's only single game.

Giallombardo, who struck out six and walked four, opened the ninth with his triple and scored when shortstop Elio Chacon bobbled Bob Lennon's grounder. Jose Santiago (3-4) lost it.

Emilio Cueto held the Royals to six hits in the seven-inning opener for his seventh victory in nine decisions. Rene Valdes (4-5) was the loser.

STRIKES OUT SIX

Bob Conley of Miami ran his shutout string to 22 innings as he walked only one and struck out six, pitching a four-hitter. Jack Crimian took the opener for Toronto for a 4-3 record. Windy Woody Smith got his fourth homer for the Leafs in the opener.

Jerry Blaylock's two-hitter got the job done for Rochester in the first game, while Cloyd Marrara fired a six-hitter for Columbus in the nightcap.

Mitch Graf's error in the 13th paved the way for three unearned runs after his boot in the ninth helped send the game into extra innings. Six of Richmond's runs were tallied by Jose Cuffie's bases loaded double in the eighth helped the Bisons to a 4-1 lead.

Gerry Kesselring Favored for Ontario Open

KINGSTON (CP) — Gerry Kesselring, who has virtually monopolized the Ontario Open golf championship for the last six years, looms as the favorite for this year's tournament at the Cataraqui Golf Club starting Friday.

Kesselring has won the championship four times. His first two victories, in 1952 and 1953, were as an amateur. He came back to win it in 1956 and 1957 as a professional.

Kesselring, playing out of Kitchener, holds the record for the 54-hole competition with the 207 he shot in 1956 and repeated last year.

A field of 111 professionals and amateurs will tee off with professionals eligible for $3,000 in prizes. The leading pro will be played Friday and the low 60 and ties will play 36 holes Saturday.

Foxboro Trims Shannonville By 6-1 Score

Foxboro drew into a first place tie with Latta in the South Hastings Baseball League last night after handing Shannonville a 6-1 defeat before a good crowd at Foxboro.

Jack Stewart was the hero for the winners tossing a three hitter and aiding his own cause with a pair of doubles. Rolly Bellanger and Lorne Cronkwright each had two doubles and a single for the winners with M. Mafico rounding out the nine hit attack.

For Shannonville G. Fuller, D. Barberstock and R. Bennett were the only players to connect safely with the Stewart shoots.

Foxboro scored two runs in the second innings and added two more in the fourth and fifth frames. Shannonville got its lone run in the fifth. Umpires were Fuller and Seero.

Latta and Foxboro are tied for the loop lead with Read in second place and Shannonville and Camilton folowing in that order.

Says Navy Could Use 12 Nuclear Subs in Exercise

OTTAWA (CP) — Vice-Admiral Harry DeWolf, chief of naval staff, says the navy could use some 12 nuclear submarines to exercise present Canadian antisubmarine forces.

He said in an interview that if the navy had these vessels today it could put them to full work during the destroyer exercise of the RCAF's Maritime Air Command.

The RCN employs three British sube at Halifax for training of naval officers, aircraft, and planes of the Maritime Air Command. The subs are partly manned by Canadian sailors trained in Britain. However, they provide only a small part of the training requirements, which are increasing as more ships and new Argus aircraft join the Maritime forces.

NEED TWO YEARS

Admiral DeWolf said it will be "two years or more" before Canada could be ready to start construction of nuclear subs.

A study of the nuclear submarine is under way and recommendations will depend on the results of that study. There is no firm program for the construction of such vessels in Canada.

Admiral DeWolf said he considers the possible inclusion of nuclear subs would not alter the role of the navy's fleet in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Admiral DeWolf said construction of nuclear-propelled submarines in Canada would depend on the assistance received from the United States and Britain.

Admiral DeWolf did not go into the matter of what the subs have been estimated that a nuclear submarine costs about $50,000,000. A program for 12 would run into $600,000,000.

NORAD FOG BANK

CCF OUT OF ORDER

The CCF tried to put a motion calling on the government to negotiate NORAD with NATO. It was ruled out of order.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the CCF motion was "an attempt to sidetrack Canada's commitments."

The CCF has one policy in British Columbia, said the prime minister, to hold power from its supporters, and another in Ontario.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada must maintain defence and peace using a positive and imaginative policy for peace. This country was in a more favorable position than any other member of NATO.

Mr. Pearkes gave the first indication that American interceptor planes would not operate in the arm of the RCAF's nuclear fighter squadrons originally planned. Canadian territory unless the attack was bigger than the RCAF could handle.

IN THE FRONT LINE

"It should be appreciated," he said, "that the RCAF squadrons are, as it were, front-line troops.

"They are the first which would engage any hostile bombers entering over Canadian airways and they would be assisted by the U.S. Air Force squadrons at the base from where they greater strength they were able to carry out."

Alan Macnaughton (Lib.-Montreal Mount Royal) questioned Mr. Pearkes' statement that no RCAF squadrons have yet been allocated to NORAD.

"How can NORAD be effective," he asked, "without participation? What is the purpose of this agreement if we do not participate?"

PAPER STARTS FUND

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The Niagara Falls Review Thursday opened a benefit fund to assist the 16-member Daudelin family, which lost its home and possessions in a fire Sunday. Presbyterians Fear Deficit Will Quadruple

TORONTO (CP) — The financially - harassed Presbyterian Church in Canada received some sympathetic support Wednesday when the former Moderator of the Church of Scotland said his church has similar problems.

Very Rev. Sir George Fielding McLeod told the general Assembly "the Church of Scotland wrestles with a debt of £400,000 and about $1,120,000 in connection with church extension."

The interest on the church's bank overdraft is the cost of a new church a year, he said.

Commissioners have expressed concern over condition of Presbyterian finances. The deficit now stands at $145,000 and is expected to approach $700,000 by September. Several projects, including a Toronto office building, were imposed until conditions improved.

The assembly agreed that church officials and professors in church colleges will not get a salary increase.

The 1957 assembly had promised $200 annual increases this year and next. Executives of various church boards already have voluntarily refused the increases.

THREATEN TO RESIGN

For the second time during the assembly, the chairman of the board of administration, James Wilson, of Montreal, threatened that he and perhaps all members of the board would resign if the estimates for the coming year were increased.

The assembly referred approval of the estimates until the board's report on other finances has been heard.

Rev. F. G. Stewart of Kitchener, convenor on the committee of recruitment, reported: "In the home field we are losing 1 in 3 of ordained men. 14 deaconesses, eight teachers and three welfare workers left the church this local year over the next 20 years is astounding. Unless our recruitment and movement produces a staggering future. Our losses to come likely overwhelmed."

NEXT YEAR HERE

It was decided to hold next year's assembly in Toronto. Invitations from Montreal, Halifax, Prince Rupert, B.C., and Winnipeg were received.

Principal Robert C. Wallace of Queen's University in Kingston, Ont., said the church is disturbed by the presence in this land of surplus wealth and the need in other areas of the world and by the failure to take up whatever steps are possible to remedy this situation."

Diefenbaker and Macmillan To Have Long Talk on Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — Two practical politicians of the Commonwealth, alike in many respects and intent on the same objectives, sit down today to talk about trade and try to get to know each other.

Both Mr. Macmillan and Mr. Diefenbaker are thought to be concerned about reports of the Russian economic offensive, and with raising new capital for underdeveloped countries. British officials said, however, there is no specific United Kingdom proposal to lay before Mr. Diefenbaker.

One of Mr. Macmillan's preoccupations, it is thought, will be to learn from what Mr. Diefenbaker has in mind now that he is a clear majority as the Commons. An avenue of meeting between the two, the Canadian leader headed a minority government.

They were pretty tentative including a sentimental journey to before," an informant said. "Now his grandfather's old university in Indiana, arrived from Washington by air Wednesday night and went to an informal dinner with Mr. Diefenbaker at the prime minister's official residence.

Today the real work was to start. Financial and economic matters were expected to dominate the discussions in Ottawa, 1957 when elected prime minister, as they did in Washington. Mr. Diefenbaker, chatting informally with reporters Wednesday night, made plain one of the first things he wants to talk about is the Commonwealth economic conference, set for Montreal starting Sept. 15.

Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan, fresh from what aids described as a "personal success" in Washington and in the hearts of the American Middle West, was to meet today for his first formal session with Prime Minister Diefenbaker, launching two full days of discussions with Canadian leaders.

External Affairs Minister Smith was to attend. Mr. Macmillan also scheduled a meeting with other members of the Canadian cabinet, Friday he is to address the Commons, a forum denied him when he was the Canadian leader headed a minority government.

"Things were pretty tentative two men have a chance to get to know each other."

There are some surprising similarities. Both are in their early 60s, survivors of the "lost generation" that fought the First World War. Both are politics' "sleepers," men who came almost unheralded to power. Both have fulfilled their success stories in near the end of their elected prime minister.

Britain Flying Paratroopers To Pacify Cyprus

Turkish Village Raided By Gang of 300 Greeks

NICOSIA (AP)—Britain is flying large troop reinforcements to Cyprus to strengthen forces trying to end intercommunity bloodshed between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. Eleven Cypriots have been killed since Saturday.

British plans for the future of the Mediterranean colony, to be announced Tuesday, are expected to intensify the violence by failing fully to meet Greek demands for self-government. Some 400,000 Cypriots of Greek descent outnumber the 100,000 of Turkish origin.

The Greeks want the island organized in Greece. The Turks want partition of the British base.

NEAR CIVIL WAR

The first troop plane approached civil war Thursday. A gang of 300 Greek Cypriots tried to raid a Turkish village near Nicosia and was met with gunfire. Three Greeks were killed and nine wounded.

British troops headed off part of the Greek gang and dispersed it and disarming the rest, but one group set fire to crops and was attacked by hidden Turks. Seventeen Turks were arrested.

The Greeks claim the Cypriot riots have attacked British troops in a terror campaign for independence and a chance to join Greece. Now the British find themselves in the middle as the Turks strike at their Greek neighbors.

The war office in London said the situation on Cyprus was described by Gen. Alonzo Jr. paratroops are expected to be flown here Saturday.

Lovesick Airman In Rented Plane Sought in Texas

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — A lovestick airman who threatened a suicide crash in a rented plane was sought in northern Louisiana and northeastern Texas today.

Donald Keeton, 19, of Dallas, Tex., who was stationed at an air force base in Biloxi, Miss., flew about 250 miles Thursday before pursuers lost track of him in northern Louisiana.

He was flying a two-seater Cessna 120 which he had rented at Gulfport, Miss., about 20 miles from Biloxi. Keeton had less than two hours fuel when he left.

In Dallas, 17-year-old Lynn Bowling said: "He's the most wonderful person in the world. I wanted to get married, but called it off because I thought I was too young."

The airman's mother, Mrs. Annabelle Keeton, also of Dallas, said her son was worried "because of worry over a love affair."

At Keesler, his barrack mates found a note saying he wanted to die in the air because "that is the way to go."

Macmillan Also Gets New Letter From Khrushchev

LONDON (CP)—A new letter from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was delivered to the British government today on Russian proposals for a summit conference.

The letter was presumably similar to a similar communication from Khrushchev to President Eisenhower that was delivered Thursday in Washington. A spokesman at the British prime minister's office said the letter to Macmillan was also lengthy.

In Moscow, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko summoned the British, American and French ambassadors to report on separate talks today on a summit conference.

The letter to Macmillan was handed to R. G. Butler, deputy seal, by Soviet Ambassador Jakob Malik. Butler is in charge of the government while Prime minister returns Saturday from Ottawa.

Diplomatic observers in London thought the latest Khrushchev letter to Macmillan was a reply to one the British prime minister sent to Moscow April 19. Since then Khrushchev and President Eisenhower have exchanged several communications.

A Downing Street spokesman reported the letter dealt with preparations for the summit talks and with the agenda for them—subjects that have kept diplomats busy for months now with little apparent result.

The letter is not expected to be published here until after Macmillan returns.

Three Gunmen Take $15,500 In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Three gun-wielding masked gunmen sporting sun glasses robbed a downtown Ottawa restaurant early today of about $15,500 in cash and cheques.

Paul Pellerin, 34, manager of the Sacred Heart Credit Union, identified three men as part of $37,000 taken in the robbery.

The men ordered Mr. Pelterin, two other employees and two customers to lie on the floor while they scooped the money from a cashier's drawer and the vault. They collected more about $8,000 in cash.

The remainder was in cheques already negotiated by the bank.

Teller Gaetan Deriger, 26, jumped the gunmen shortly after the escaping gunmen left. He pursued them after only 10 minutes in the bank but he lost them in noon-hour traffic.

HEADS CARTS

OTTAWA (CP) — Election of D. Malcolm Neill of Fredericton, president of the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters was announced Wednesday night.

End of Recession Is Sure to Come But Bankers' Head Uncertain When

MONTEBELLO, Que. (CP)— President E. Neville Hyde of the Canadian Bankers' Association said today the end of the present economic setback is inevitable. Most severe Canada has experienced in the post-war period there are sound reasons to look hopefully for an upturn.

Addressing the CBA annual meeting, Mr. Roberge made no attempt to forecast when the recession. He said he could not tell when business would have been reached or when the upswing will come.

On the economic side, Mr. Roberge said the long-range prospects for Canada is continued expansion, progress and prosperity.

"There is too much inherent strength in our productive machinery and too many raw materials still awaiting development—to say nothing of the inestimable and industrial skills of the Canadian people—to think otherwise."

Hopeful that the upturn will not be long delayed, Mr. Roberge said the Canadian economy is as strong or as rapid as that of 1954. There does not appear to be the volume of unsatisfied demand for goods of all kinds that there was in that year, he added, but the lack of productive capacity which caused the surge in capital expenditures that spearheaded the boom extending through 1956.

Mr. Roberge said the present signs. One is the official forecast of capital investment in 1958, expected to be only 2.5-per-cent less than last year. New construction contracts are 10 per cent higher. The capital investment program for 1959 should represent a strong and sustained demand for materials and labor.

A buoyant retail trade has been on an upward trend since last fall.

The index of industrial production turned upward at the first of the year; business inventories may be on the point of moving up again.

REDISTRIBUTION DIVIDES MEMBERS IN LONG DEBATE

Many Do Not Favor Commons Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons members — even government supporters — are divided over whether MPs do a fair, efficient job of revamping their own constituency boundaries periodically to keep up with population changes.

"We're all human," said one Progressive Conservative Thursday, agreeing that a Commons committee of 40 or 50 MPs could do an impartial job.

The days of political "gerrymandering" are over said another Conservative.

The point of controversy was a bill sponsored by Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) to turn over the task of redistributing federal ridings after each decennial census to an independent commission.

Mr. Fisher bluntly said he doesn't like the present system. His bill would remove "the pretty back-biting, impulsive and unfair decisions possible with the job in the hands of a parliamentary committee.

CITES EVIDENCE

The main evidence he cited against present procedure was Prime Minister Diefenbaker advocating "gerrymandering" in Saskatchewan. When in opposition in 1953 Mr. Diefenbaker's old riding of Lake Centre, Sask., was merged by the Liberals with Moose Jaw and he had to switch to Prince Albert for the 1953 election.

The Commons Thursday night defeated Mr. Fisher's bill after majority defeated, on a vote of 145 to 36, a Conservative-backed CCF colleague H. W. Herridge, Kootenay West.

Mr. Herridge's bill would have empowered the board of commissioners to investigate, on receiving complaints, to rule on proposed redistributions in service Canadian railways.

In the redistribution debate Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel-Dufferin-Simcoe) argued that changes in Canada — more population, more industry, more voters — have largely eliminated the chances of gerrymandering — political interest affecting redistribution, in earlier days when votes were won by narrow margins, slight changes in constituency boundaries were more important than now.

Mr. Fisher's bill didn't come up to the end of the day but continued up to the night, adjournment motion standing and to be renewed debate later in the session.

The next redistribution will follow the 1961 census and Mr. Fisher said the commission should be set up now to give it plenty of time to prepare.

TIDDLERS SET RULES

CHATHAM (Special to Intelligencer) — England's major universities have laid down the rules for tiddler wishing. At the 20th World Tiddly Winks Congress in London, delegates have agreed on rules for the game played with thumb and forefinger. The rules will be set up by the English Tiddly Winks Association of Ware, Herts. Edgar Wills, a veteran of 50 years standing, as the head tiddler.

Lebanese Rebel Heads Vow To Fight on Despite UN Move

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanese rebel leaders say they will fight on against President Camille Chamoun despite the intervention of the United Nations.

The vanguard of a UN observation group made plans today to carry out a security council directive to watch for the arms and men the Lebanese government accuses President Nasser's United Arab Republic of sending from the neighboring Syrian province to help the rebels.

After a lengthy meeting Thursday night, rebel leaders said if the council refuses to end the five-week crisis it should bar the government's representatives from UN members.

Hammarskjold appointed Norwegian Maj.-Gen. Odd Bull to head a permanent military observer team of 30 officers. Bull was also named to a supervisory commission with a former president of Ecuador, Gen. Plaza Lasso, and a former Indian ambassador to the UN, Rajeswar Dayal.

Ideas, Ideals Will Decide World Struggle -- Macmillan

OTTAWA (CP)—British Prime Minister Macmillan said today the Commonwealth has the most vital role to play "in this struggle in which so much may well be the ideas and ideals which count."

In an address to both Houses of Parliament he said:

"It would be wrong to think that in the great world struggle we can only take a defensive posture. The steady growth of the British Commonwealth is indeed here to stand as a set as the first English Tiddly Winks Association of Ware, Herts. Edgar Wills, a veteran of 50 years standing, as the head tiddler.

NO FEAR FOR FUTURE

"How will it end? I do not believe we need fear the future if we hold firm to our own ideals. In time even monolithic dictatorships crumble or change.

"For myself, the free world by its diversity often seems to lack its variety and above all in its freedom to change its course.

"I do not believe that a purely totalitarian regime of life will satisfy.

"Nor do I fear a continuing struggle of ideas. That simply is our chosen battleground."

Referring to his recent "inspiring" tour of the Commonwealth, Mr. Macmillan said the Commonwealth is in good shape and in good.

"I earnestly trust that the conference which lies before us the Commonwealth trade conference at Montreal in September) marks a great advance in Commonwealth co-operation in trade and commerce.

"We are looking forward to increased mutual trade and closer working in all industrial and economic fields.

"Never were Canada and Britain closer together than today," or tyranny."

Four Members Of Stratojet Found Dead

ENOSBURG, Vt. (AP) — The charred wreckage of a B-17 stratojet which disappeared Wednesday night on a flight from Savannah, Ga., to Plattsburgh, N.Y., was found Thursday on West Hill about 10 miles from the Canadian border.

The four crew members were dead.

The six-jet engine medium bomber cut a 500-yard swath through dense woods and exploded on impact. Its ammunition was scattered.

The cause of the crash was not determined.

The air force said the B-47 was assigned to Dow Hunter Field on a training flight.

Mr. Macmillan said at another point in his speech which was broadcast live on the CBC television network:

Mr. Macmillan defined what he called the basic bond between the Commonwealth—"this unique community of nations."

"It is the belief in free governments, freedom of the law, of law by representatives separated, the judiciary uncontrolled by the legislature or executive.

"It is the belief in government by consent, by debate, by committee, by local authority, by Parliament.

"Above all it is the conviction, that the state is made for man, and not man for the state. People believe in these ideals without ever surrender to materialism

SOVIET SURPRISES IN LEBANON VOTE

Soviet Ambassador Arkady Sobolev raises his hand, signifying that he abstains during the UN Security Council vote to set up a watchdog commission to insure Lebanon's independence from the United Arab Republic. Sobolev's abstention was a surprise as Russia was expected to veto the plan.

COMB BUSH NEAR NUDIST CAMP FOR ESCAPEES

Three Prisoners Still at Large

NORTH BAY (CP) — Police searched dense bush near a nudist camp today for three escaped prisoners at large since 10 inmates broke free from a prison-bound bus Thursday night.

Two of the 10 were caught Thursday near the Sun-Air Freedom Lovers Club near the whistlestop of Whiddifield Station, bringing the total captured to six.

The nudist camp is vacant at this time because of blackflies. Many predicted the flies might drive the nudists out of the area.

But the missing men, Leonard Rosevear of Hearst, Jean Guy Trevisi of Timmins, Reginald Height, near Timmins, and Roland Lepage of South Porcupine, are lumberjacks and well used to the bush.

Officials of the reform institutions department said the men were being transferred from Haileybury to Guelph Reformatory to serve terms for minor offences and are not considered dangerous. First reports said seven escaped but the Ontario Penitentiary and might be dangerous.

Twelve prisoners were being transported on the first leg of their journey to Kirkland Lake when the 10 overpowered guards and the bus driver 13 miles north of here.

The escapees took bus tools and broke their chains. One returned soon afterwards, saying he had been forced to go along till freed with the others.

Two more were captured separately near Highway 11 and the others were captured as they begged food at a farm house.

George Lepage, wife and husband of MacDonald, both of Brunetville, near Kapuskasing, were captured near the nudist camp.

Constable Jerry Barry of Widdifield township found the men sleeping on an embankment. They submitted without resistance but MacDonald attempted to escape from Widdifield police station but was stopped by the provincial police after a scuffle.

Woman Missing In Bush Country, Police Baffled

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Police say the are still baffled by the disappearance of a 24-year-old Toronto woman missing after four days in bush country infested bushland on the eastern shore of Georgian Bay.

Mrs. Alice Hamilton has been missing in bush country 24 miles north of here since Tuesday after she went to visit a cottage being built by her husband.

Her husband, a Toronto fireman, has offered a $1,000 reward for information on her whereabouts and $5,000 if found alive.

Police have called off the search Provincial Police there said today.

University of Alberta Starts Work On Dictionary of Canadian English

EDMONTON (CP)—Canada is soon to have a dictionary of its own English. Researchers already have collected more than 25,000 Canadian words and the list is expected to grow rapidly.

Preliminary work on the project which should be completed in two or three years was started by the Canadian Linguistic Association meeting here today by Dr. M. H. Scargill of the English department at the University of Alberta.

Dr. Scargill said the project will be "This is a big scale, joint effort by Canadians to compile the first truly national dictionary of Canadian English," Dr. Scargill said. "Our research program will extend from coast to coast and we expect to enlist many scholars and students to lend a hand."

The text of his remarks was made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Linguistic professors have shown interest in the projected dictionary. However, Dr. Scargill said the project and the completed dictionary will be kept identified with the university here. The university boards of governors will finance the first year of work, which will continue on various scholarships and, possibly, Canada Council grants.

The researchers' aim, he said, will be to ascertain the words, phrases, idioms and pronunciation preferred by most educated Canadians.

"Our job is to discover, not to decide. We want to find out from Canadians how they talk and what things are peculiar to Canadian English," he said.

"Then we will compile our dictionary on a basis of historical principles, similar to the Oxford. That means reference to the original usage, the initial meanings, and what is preferred today."

Dr. Scargill cited three examples of typically Canadian words and word combinations:

Will Give Dates, Names, Figures In Backing Charges

Claims Six Quebec Ministers Involved

MONTREAL (CP) — Le Devoir says a $20,000,000 market coup figured in a "political-financial" transaction in which Quebec Natural Gas Corporation took over Montreal area household gas distribution from Quebec Hydro.

(The Canadian Press approached Premier Duplessis at Quebec for a comment but no statement was issued for publication up to midday the time of his weekly press conference.)

Le Devoir, politically independent and long critical of the Duplessis government, says six of the province's Union Nationale cabinet ministers were or still are shareholders in the privately owned corporation.

In a story spread across its front page, the daily newspaper lists five "charges" concerning the transaction and announced it will carry five more stories with "dates, names and figures" in support.

The story in the paper Monday will carry the heading: "six cabinet ministers involved in the speculation."

The charges Le Devoir makes are:

"1. The sale to the gas corporation by Quebec Hydro of the gas-distributing facilities brought a $20,000,000 to a market coup. The coup is really scandalous. It was possible only through the connivance of Union Nationale politicians with Quebec Natural Gas Corporation promoters.

$8,000,000 CITED

"2. Natural Gas Corporation promoters—represented by seven prominent dealers—made a non-taxable capital gain of at least $8,000,000.

"3. At least six Union Nationale cabinet minister, some of them among the most prominent . . . are involved in this scandal since they were or still are shareholders of the Natural Gas Corporation.

"4. The transaction's promoters personally risked only $50,000 to negotiate with Quebec Hydro purchase of the gas facilities at more than $20,000,000. The difference, but the promoters have full control of the matter. They have obtained an option on the Montreal gas service, have realized an immediate profit of about $9,000,000 in addition to putting their own men to work—gas network from which they have obtain huge profits in all the years to come.

"5. At least three high officials of Quebec Hydro played double parts, by serving . . . the public interests and those of the Natural Gas Corporation. They have warded them by giving them bulk options on stocks in the company, stock and appointing them among its directors and its vice-presidents.

REFERENCE TO ONTARIO

"In Ontario, a lesser scandal than this one led to the departure of two cabinet ministers. Premier In the affair we are starting to expose there are six cabinet ministers, four legislative councillors, a great number of Union Nationale politicians, three top officials of Union Nationale politics."

"The proof we have accumulated is irrefutable," says the newspaper.

Le Devoir adds that a story Saturday will be titled "$20,000,000 market coup" and it will deal with the six cabinet ministers involved.

HEARING NEXT WEEK

Le Devoir says the gas corporation is due for a hearing Tuesday by the provincial electricity board to "ask for permission to increase its rates."

It is well that the public be informed of the whole history of the political-financial transaction that gave the gas service of Quebec Hydro to Quebec Natural Gas Corporation."

The corporation was formed in 1956 to take over the distribution system of the provincially-operated Montreal Island and an area within a radius of 25 miles.

It serves about 150,000 customers with natural gas first'y delivered from Jan. 1 of this year.

About 88 per cent of the corporation's shares—including 1,000,000 authorized common shares and 140,000 class B shares — is Canadian-owned. . .

TRANSIENT SUFFERS WHEN HIT BY CAR

George Murray, 58-year-old Toronto transient, suffered a broken arm, bruise, and possible other injuries early today when he was struck by a car while walking on the highway near the Trenton Air Station. He was admitted to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Driver of the car, Douglas Hogg, told provincial police that he had turned out to pass a highway transport and had been on the man in time. The accident occurred at about four o'clock this morning.

TWO YOUTHS GIVEN "ONE MORE CHANCE"

Magistrate T. Y. Wills today gave two Belleville boys "one more chance" to keep out of trouble with the law, when he foiled them guilty of theft.

Donald Bombower and Maurice Whitmore, both 17, were given suspended sentences of one year for stealing $30 worth of scrap copper from Herman Lucas in Hillcrest on June 9. The boys pleaded guilty.

Although Boombower and Whitmore have juvenile police records, Magistrate Wills gave them suspended sentences because "this is your first offence as adults." He warned them to "play ball" with Donald MacKinnon, the probation officer, or else he would send them off to a penal institution.

BIG MARKET

South Africa's exports to Britain, excluding gold, doubled from £34,400,000 in 1952 to £110,600,000 in 1957.

Toronto Man Gets Suspended Sentence Here

William Bentley of Toronto was put on suspended sentence on two year term after Magistrate Wills found him guilty of uttering a worthless cheque in March 1957. Bentley pleaded guilty.

Bentley walked into Shaw's Men's Wear on Front Street, over a year ago and bought two sport shirts ($6.95 each) by passing a cheque for $29.75. The cheque, made out to Bentley by a G. Watson, was drawn on the local branch of the Toronto-Dominion bank. Watson did not have an account in that bank.

The accused, under oath, testified that he had told the bank manager some time ago he would make restitution. However, Bentley left his family alone to take a job in Toronto and "to help me, I don't know why" but was a Toronto cop, completely about the cheque.

City Detective Harold Reid arrested the man on Wednesday in downtown Belleville. The magistrate Wills gave him the same suspended sentences because "this is your first offence as adults." He warned them to "play ball" with Donald MacKinnon, the probation officer, or else he would send them off to a penal institution.

Hallowed Date Among U.E.L. Is June 16th

Two events of more than ordinary importance to a great many Canadians are connected with June 16th.

It is the 174th anniversary of the arrival on that date of the famed batteaux carrying four hundred women, men and children to the point on the Bay of Quinte known at that time as North Bay, but in reference to Adolphustown. This group of Loyalist refugees who had been forced to forsake their homes and in many cases relatives and friends, in the British colonies which had become part of the new American republic, and under the leadership of Major Peter VanAlstine were seeking a new home in Canada.

It also is the second anniversary of that momentous day in 1956 when the Premier of Ontario, Leslie Frost graciously accepted on behalf of the Province the restored and re-dedicated United Empire Loyalist burying ground, and the first of a two-acre plot established 172 years previously, a project credited primarily to the energetic group of members of the Consecon Branch, U.E.L. Association.

During his address of acceptance, Premier Frost announced that arrangements had arranged to take over the grassland plot of the burying ground, comprising the original site of the townsite of Adolphustown and the adjoining old 8 acre park, and to be henceforth known as the Bay of Quinte U.E.L. Provincial Park as a year having exotic reminders of the hallowed past.

MONEY AMOUNT

Anyone visiting this spot today can scarcely conceive the difficulties that this now quiet little band of Loyalist settlers in 1784. The heavy timber growing right down to the water's edge presented almost incalculable hardships, but under these gradually cleared which permitted erection of log cabins, and in time small crops for small spots for cultivating foodstuffs. That this was a great success and a great asset may be cited an instance occurring less than a week after arrival when a young pioneer was killed by a falling tree, while attempting to fell a tree. This accident required clearing a small spot for a burying ground. Within as the years went by, were laid to rest, many more settlers, and a goodly number of Loyalists.

The ceremony of restoration and re-dedication of this pioneer burying ground in 1956 was the culmination of inspired efforts of a small group of the Toronto Loyalist descendants. One of the chief in the project was the late Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin, who contributed much to this little neglected burying ground. Her late friend Mrs. VanAlstine, Mrs. W. H. Corby in the Bath, Mr. Harvey R. Pollock and Mr. James C. Levick, of Toronto were untiring in their efforts to raise the funds necessary for the project, plan and supervise the project. Their recompense came when on June 16th 1956 more than one thousand Loyalist descendants gathered to participate in the re-dedication ceremony.

MEMBERSHIP GROWING

Following close on these events came the organization of the Bay of Quinte Branch of the United Empire Loyalist Association. Membership is rapidly approaching two hundred who are pleased to have the opportunity of perpetuating the ideals and activities of their Loyalist ancestors. It is hoped that as many more will become members during the year on behalf.

When the executive considered plans for the regular July membership meeting, it was brought to their attention that the widely scattered meeting in the open . . . right out in the Bay of Quinte U.E.L. (Provincial) Park and have it held a day or two ahead of schedule . . . on the evening July First (Dominion Day).

In that way we can observe our two important June 16th anniversaries, together with our ninety-fourth Natal Day anniversary.

Our program provides an old fashioned social afternoon, after a basket-picnic, with full opportunity of renewing and becoming better acquainted with fellow members and their friends.

For the youngsters Folks Allen Dempsey and John Chard have working out a fine program of sports and activities, with desirable prizes.

Hostesses and hosts will be more than one hundred U.E.L. members.

The time and place, Tuesday, July First, 2 to 5 p.m., in that hallowed spot in the Bay of Quinte U.E.L. (Provincial) Park at Adolphustown.

A day long to be remembered. Plan to be there.

Union Stewards Play Vital Role In Auto Fight

DETROIT (AP) — An army of 3,000 union officials has become a vital factor in the United Auto Workers' fight to win the Big Three auto makers from and three main car makers.

They are at the auto shop stewards and plant committeemen now working under unusual conditions to handle the problems of nearly 500,000 General Motors, Chrysler and Ford workers in the present no-contract period.

The stewards and committeemen figure prominently in union strategy when contracts with the Big Three can only be negotiated. Since then, for the first time in more than 10 years, no agreements have been operating without a contract.

GM, Chrysler, Ford and the union all said when the contracts expired that they would do their bargaining at plants operating normally while negotiators tried to reach an agreement.

Under contract, union stewards devote the bulk of all their work time to handling complaints and grievances. The committeemen also pay stewards and committeemen the rates they would get if working on their regular jobs.

But now the companies have tightened up. At Chrysler, a union steward has to report to his regular job for the first hour after his work day, the first hour after lunch and the last hour of the day.

Norman Matthews, director of the union's Chrysler department, charged that the policy was an attempt to intimidate other unionists. Chrysler denied the charge, saying that without a contract, it was not bound to have union representatives in the plants.

Mayor Named Treasurer Macs' Overseas Fund

The newly-organized Belleville Macs' Overseas Committee held its first meeting Wednesday night in the mayor's office at city hall. The committee, appointed here with Mayor Hyde and Alderman Jack Ireland Jr. to map out their initial projects.

Mayor Hyde was named treasurer of the Belleville Macs' Overseas Fund and R. G. Hamilton, Belleville Collegiate Institute teacher of Commerce, is the publicity chairman for the committee.

The overseas fund is held by the Bank of Nova Scotia here in Belleville. Macs and today that donations can be sent to any bank, as they will eventually trickle into the fund. City auditors will prepare statements of the fund monthly and these will be issued in the fund. The amount needed to send the Allan Cup winners to Prague is $50,000.

To date Mayor Hyde, as treasurer of the fund, has received a number of donations.

Mr. Hamilton said today, "As I see it, the Booster Club will do the job it's done so well in getting involved in raising $50,000."

Young Student Wins Scholarship At Spartanburg

Joseph George Caldwell, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph George Caldwell, Spartanburg, North Carolina and former resident of this city and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Caldwell, 209 Albert Street of this city, has been awarded a scholarship valued at $4,500 by the General Motors Corporation.

The young student, interested in nuclear physics, hypnosis, Meteorology and radio, will be able to go to college last year due to the fact that he will be at the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Philadelphia this fall under the scholarship and the course will take four years to complete and the student will probably enter the GM organization after graduation.

When he was just entering college last year, young Joseph went back to high school at Spartanburg and took another year in higher mathematics.

He was born in 1943 but will take a great deal of his education in Kingston before he returns to Spartanburg, where he has since resided. He has taken out his first papers for citizenship and will become a U.S. citizen. While in school he is active in sports with other students, the group worked on a missile project. They have their own rocket or a missile at least four miles in the air. Each member of the group has talked to Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs in Spartanburg, explaining their project.

The student has also taken an active interest in boy scouts, being connected with several societies of the student body.

Grandfather, Ford and the union all said when the contracts expired that they would do their bargaining at plants operating normally while negotiators tried to reach an agreement.

It's nearly impossible to find anyone who sees chance of agreement before August. The UAW Thursday set in motion the final step in the strike drive, but emphasized there was no plan for an immediate walkout.

The union considers no-contract operations being up new pressure, possibly for wages and management alike.

Under contract, union stewards devote the bulk of all their work time to handling complaints and grievances. The committeemen also pay stewards and committeemen the rates they would get if working on their regular jobs.

But now the companies have tightened up. At Chrysler, a union steward has to report to his regular job for the first hour after his work day, the first hour after lunch and the last hour of the day.

Mechanic Steals Obsolete Bomber At English Base

HUNTINGTON, England (AP) — A U.S. air force mechanic stole a bomber plane early today and zoomed off alone on a mystery flight. He crashed to his death a few miles away in the kind of mishap that gives the British the jitters.

Left-wing leaders here insist that the presence of American bombers armed with nuclear weapons adds to the island's dangers — that someone might get berserk or accidentally drop one of the atomic bombs on Britain.

The plane that crashed today carried no bomb of any sort.

The Air Force said it was an obsolete Tornado light bomber, one of the last in use by the U.S. Air Base at nearby Alconbury. Both were to have been broken up for salvage soon.

Just what prompted the runaway flight was not known. The Air Force said the plane was piloted by a mechanic who had no instruction in flying. The circumstances surrounding the accident were being investigated.

The plane crashed almost immediately into a railway line, cutting tracks used for the overnight express between London and Scotland and delayed rail service four hours.

Loses Licence, Drives Car, Gets 7 Days

Donald H. Ferrill of Belleville was sent to jail for seven days today for driving a motor vehicle while his licence was under suspension. He appeared before Magistrate Wills.

Ferrill lost his operator's license about a year ago in Campbellford after being convicted of driving while his ability was impaired. A few days ago the O.P.P. in Belleville picked him up while he was driving his brother's car.

The magistrate said that anyone who ignores a licence suspension is "guilty of contempt of the court."

Ferrill pleaded guilty to the charge.

Benidickson May Head Commons' Accounts Body

OTTAWA (CP) — William M. Benidickson, Liberal financial critic in the Commons, Thursday was named to the public accounts committee. But Opposition Leader Pearson said later the Liberals have not yet decided whether to accept the government's offer of the committee chairmanship.

There has been speculation that Mr. Benidickson would be a likely candidate for the post if the Liberals take up the offer.

Mr. Pearson said last Thursday his party likely would accept the chairmanship of the committee — a 26-member body with wide powers to investigate government spending—if the chairman could not be overruled by the government majority. He said then this would be in keeping with British parliamentary practice, which Prime Minister Diefenbaker had said the committee would follow.

Mr. Pearson told a reporter he has not yet met with government officials to clarify the chairman's powers.

Figures Show Investment in Canada Is High

OTTAWA (CP) — Foreign long-term investment in Canada climbed by more than $2,000,000,000 to a record $15,000,000,000 in 1956 and may have reached $17,000,000,000 by June 30 of 1957, the bureau of statistics reported today.

It said the flow is still continuing to rise this year, though the rate of climb may be slower. With business falling off, the flow of foreign capital into Canada dropped to $250,000,000 in January-March, compared with $617,000,000 in the similar three months last year.

This $250,000,000 was equivalent to the Canadian trade deficit in goods and services. The deficit—the excess of imports over exports—dropped from last year's $417,000,000 mainly because of less buying by Canada of foreign goods.

Full Canadian Cabinet Told Of Macmillan's Trade Ideas

MOIRA SHEARER IN THE MAKING

OTTAWA (CP) — Indications of a broad approach to the free world's economic difficulties were accepted from three meetings between the leaders of Canada and Britain.

Trade, tariffs and foreign affairs preoccupied Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Macmillan Thursday in their first round of talks. One session included the entire Canadian cabinet.

Mr. Macmillan flies home tonight, concluding the two-day Ottawa visit and his North American trip.

An address by Mr. Macmillan before both Houses of Parliament accompanies today's round of at least one and possibly two working meetings.

The two leaders "ranged the world" Thursday morning in their sessions, informants said, covering among other things the French crisis, the United Nations Security Council debate on strife-torn Lebanon and related Middle East troubles.

MET THE CABINET

Later the visiting British prime minister met all members of the Canadian cabinet and in the afternoon turned to trade and economic matters. It was understood Mr. Macmillan briefed Canadian ministers on his talks in Washington this week where he planted the idea of "economic expansion" among the world's free nations as an answer to Russia's economic challenge.

Mr. Diefenbaker has indicated he is prepared to table the idea which can be expected to figure prominently in preparation for the Commonwealth economic conference opening at Montreal Sept. 15.

Proposals for making easier the flow of trade among free nations were also studied apparently. A Canadian informant said the main emphasis lay more on a broad Commonwealth approach to trade problems than on increasing investment funds.

The September trade conference in Montreal prompted discussions on how best to speed up to spark Mr. Macmillan's idea of economic interdependence.

One of the afternoon sessions included Finance Minister Fleming, Trade Minister Churchill and Agriculture Minister Harkness. A confidential presence of Mr. Harkness was constructed as a hint that discussions centred on Canada's exports of farm produce in the light of the European common market and the proposed free trade area.

There was no indication of any further reference to Britain's proposal last autumn that Canada and the United States make a gradual removal of tariff barriers between them.

It was a crowded day Thursday for the British premier. His only purely social events were a reception for him by the speaker of the House of Commons and an evening dinner as guest of Mr. Diefenbaker.

Friday, in addition to his parliamentary address and conference, he has scheduled a television interview before he leaves from Uplands airport in late afternoon.

Police Blotter

To wake up in the middle of the night and find a window peeker peering in through their bedroom window, was the experience last night for a Grove Street man and wife.

Police were told that a note was heard after the couple had gone to bed. The husband went to the window and was surprised to find a man peering through the glass. The man made his getaway through the backyard.

Police reported a number of traffic violations, including driving through stop streets and driving with defective equipment, and one rear end collision resulting in about $100 damage.

A Rex Bridge delivery truck driven by Gary Nolan, Victoria Ave., was eastbound on Bridge when it stopped to make a left turn when the following auto driven by Roy G. Howard 152 Charles Street, bumped into the rear of the truck. Only the car was damaged.

20-Year Study Of Lake Ontario Will Commence

TORONTO (CP)—The arrival of a Royal Canadian Navy vessel here today will mark the beginning of a 20-year study of Lake Ontario.

The Porte Dauphine, on loan to the Ontario department of lands and forests for the summer, was scheduled to arrive from Halifax.

The $1,650,000-gate vessel will enable a recently-formed organization, the Great Lakes Institute physical Research Group, to study currents, pollution and flood control.

Major financial supporters are the department of lands and forests and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission.

VARIED RESULTS EXPECTED

Ontario Hydro wants to know about the currents near steam plant locations and how far condemination might spread if there should be an accident in a nuclear power plant. Conservation bodies want to know how currents affect shore erosion.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission is interested in the ability of the lake water to cleanse itself of pollution by radiation and bacterial action.

The department of lands and forests, for whom most of the scientists taking part work, is interested in the effects of pollution on fish.

Results are expected to produce information on how the lake affects storms moving across it.

Steals Cigarets, Court Awards Suspended Term

TRENTON — Magistrate T. Y. Wills sentenced Peter Valyea, formerly of Trenton, but now of Toronto, to one year suspended sentence and ordered him to pay $17 in costs and restitution of $7 on a charge of theft.

Valyea stole a quantity of cigarets from the Queensway Hotel on May 27, and pleaded guilty to the charge. He was represented by counsel. Sgt. Gordon Robertson attended for the crown.

The manager of the hotel was called by the crown and told how he had come out of the back office and saw the accused jump from the counter of the hotel. He said he noted there was a quantity of cigarets missing and was suspicious. He said he watched Valyea and when he left the hotel his shirt was bulging and that he was carrying something inside it. He said when he got behind the counter he asked the accused if he wanted anything and he had brought a package of cigarets then.

He said he later found some packages of smokes under the counter. This is one the accused and his friends were sitting at. He told the court when Valyea left he called the police and registered the complaint.

Staff Sergeant Walter Youmans said he was at the station when the call came in. He and Constable Dave Camp had looked for the boys that night, but were unable to find them.

LOCATE ACCUSED

He said they located the accused the next evening and placed him under arrest and took him to the police station. When they arrived at the station the accused was given a warning concerning the statement he might make.

He said the accused had told him, "Yes, I did it." The policeman then instructed Constable Camp to get a statement signed and in that few minutes the accused had changed his mind and told a different story. He said that the circumstances no statement was taken and signed by the accused.

Constable Camp agreed with the testimony of the police officer and when asked by the crown, said he had not at any time abused "or promised the youth anything."

Valyea, when asked by the magistrate expressed his desire to give evidence under oath. Speaking in his own defence he told the magistrate he had been fooling with his friends and had jumped on the counter and had jumped back down when he heard the manager coming.

He explained that the bulge in his shirt had been another shirt, which he had planned to wear to the dance and had not put there in time and was carrying around with him.

BLAMES ALCOHOL

When asked concerning the statement he made to the police that he had taken the cigarets, he said on the night he had been arrested he had been drinking a drink and did not remember. He said he had been asked by a friend of his had told him what he had done. He claimed this is what he meant when he talked to the police.

Percy Ferguson, who was with the accused on the night of the theft, said he had seen the accused on the counter but had not seen him take any cigarets. He said he later saw several packages on the floor on the outside of the counter and had noticed the accused stoop and pick them up, putting them in his shirt. He said he had not been given any packages of cigarets by Valyea.

Civil Service Assoc. Meets

TRENTON — The Bay of Quinte Local Council of Civil Service Association of Canada held its monthly meeting in Canadian Legion Hall, recently. A large representation of members, and officers from 6 Repair Depot, Trenton attended.

Mr. M. J. Reid, Regional vice-president of the C.S.A.C. and Mr. A. R. Bond, regional representative of Ontario were guest speakers. Mr. Reid's theme what C.S.A.C. stands for, called on those present to get behind the local officials of the association in protecting the rights of the Government employees in this area. This can only be done by getting the co-operation of the Government employees in this area.

Mr. A. H. Bond, also spoke on the method of grievance procedure to be followed by membership of the C.S.A.C. and in so say that if this procedure was followed, good relationship required between employer and employee would result.

He said that such good relationship was a necessity and that to get results it was each person's responsibility to back the local officials with a strong local.

The report on new membership drive by stewards of each department so far has been successful, with 90 per cent members been sworn in to the Bay of Quinte Local.

Liberal Senator Backs Proposal By Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — A Liberal senator Thursday asked the upper house to support Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposal that Canada and the United States set up reciprocal legislative committees to improve relations between the two countries.

Senator Wishart Robertson of Fredericton made the proposal Thursday in a Senate motion which will be debated later, probably next week.

Mr. Diefenbaker made his proposal in a speech last Sunday at Wesleyan College, Middletown, Conn. He said periodic exchange visits by legislative committees from the two countries would do much to help in solving Canadian-American problems.

No Commons action has been taken yet to carry forward the idea.

Spencer Church, 108, Recalls Days of John A. Macdonald

CALABOGIE, Ont. (CP)—Spencer Church put down his axe and wiped his brow.

"No siree, it ain't the same at all," he said. "They just don't work like they used to 100 years ago."

He should know. He celebrated his 108th birthday Tuesday.

Mr. Church no longer swings his axe with the vigor of his youth but he was willing to show how it was done in the days gone by.

"I've worked hard all my life, ever since I went to work for the McFarlands at the lumber mill when I was 10 and I don't think I'm any the worse for it. I'd do just the same again."

Mr. Church is believed to be the second oldest living person in Canada. Capt. Wellington B. Sobears of Windsor is 109.

The greatest age which has survived official Canadian investigation is that of Pierre Joubert, a French Canada boatsman who died in Quebec in 1814 at the age of 113. His age also is believed to be a British Commonwealth record.

SKILLS OF LIFE

Bright and alert, although slightly deaf, Mr. Church recounted tales as one of 16 children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Church, who settled near Calabogie, about 20 miles southwest of Renfrew, after coming from the United States.

As a boy he worked with his father in the bush in the winter and on their farm in the summer, with time off for two years to attend school.

"We didn't go to school much in those days. We grew up early and as soon as we were old enough we had to get out and work. They have it easier now. We had to walk four miles through the bush to get there," he recalled.

"I got married when I was 28. I knew her though all my life and but when the right girl comes along there's not much you can do about it."

The couple had 11 children and 37 grandchildren. Two are Mrs. Harry Wilson of Wellwood, Mrs. Orrie Switzer of Perth, Mrs. Sadie McGonagal of Perth, Mrs. Jean Ross of Toronto, Mrs. Julius Osborne of Calabogie and Mrs. Jean Gordon, Murray and Duncan of Calabogie.

Mr. Church lives with the widow of another son, Mrs. Augusta Church. He is a white frame house two miles north of here overlooking the Madawaska River.

HAS BIG FAMILY

The family also includes 50 great-children, 48 great - grandchildren and 18 great - great - grandchildren. Only one of his 11 children is dead. He is still living.

Mrs. A. R. Burton of North Bay had similar spoons.

"She's getting awful old too. Must be 89 something," he said.

Mr. Church said his most vivid recollection is seeing Sir John A. Macdonald at a political rally in Arnprior.

"Boy, how he could talk, he was quite a smart old guy, I remember how he said he was going to build a railway coast to coast and he came pretty close, too."

The old man glanced at the sun, shouldered his axe and sauntered off to do a few chores around the house.

"But I miss my health now. I'm getting old. Smart hundred and eight years . . . that's a long time, a long, long time."

BREAKING A RULE

Judge John Arthur McGibbon performed a civil marriage ceremony for Brigitte Reisky of Bancroft at Lindsay.

A report from Peterborough says the judge was so taken with Miss Reisky when she came to him to apply for citizenship that he agreed to break his rule against performing civil marriage ceremonies. (The report says that he has kept this rule for 25 years, but it hardly seems that long ago that a civil marriage ceremony was authorized in this province.)

Judge McGibbon says: "I have always been opposed to civil marriages and still believe that people should be married in church."

Judge McGibbon has every right to this opinion, which will be shared by many. But the law of this province is that persons who wish a civil marriage ceremony can be wed in this manner. If the few persons who are entitled to perform such a ceremony refuse to do so, those wishing it are being deprived of their legal rights.

There is no reason why a judge should be forced to perform a ceremony against the dictates of his conscience. But there is every reason why the province should make certain that obstacles are not placed in the way of persons who wish such a ceremony. Where a judge, or any other person empowered to perform a civil marriage ceremony, does not wish to do so, some person else should be appointed in his place to undertake this task.

UNCLE SAM'S SLICE

Miss Elfrida von Nardoff, who is making a fortune on "Twenty One," the television quiz show, will not have so much of it after Uncle Sam takes his slice.

Her winnings of $237,500, income taxes will claim $190,000, leaving her $47,500. If she continued to the $300,000 level, the extra $62,500 in winnings would net her only $5,625.

Few people will feel sorry for Miss von Nardoff, but this example serves to illustrate how difficult it would be today to amass a million through hard work. According to our calculations, Miss von Nardoff would have to win a quarter of a million a year for 20 years to have a million left after taxes and living expenses. Capital gains must be the key to becoming a millionaire, we thought, and then suddenly remembered that the U.S., unlike Canada, has a capital gains tax.

The government would get a healthy chunk of pipeline profits if made in the U.S.

Which sets us to wondering how it is that U.S. individuals and corporations always seem to have so much money available for investment in Canada, while Canadians, who picked all their capital gains, do not seem to be able to finance more than a relatively small proportion of major development projects.

We suspect that there must be a gimmick somewhere place in U.S. tax laws, an area in which considerable freedom of action is possible.

DRASTIC SOLUTION

Reading about the rioting in Cyprus, between the Turks and the Greeks, we were reminded of a friend who had a simple solution for the problem of alcoholism.

"If we were prime minister of Canada, he said, he would pass a law making it obligatory for every municipality to install big barrels on the main street corners. The barrels would be filled with rye whiskey and a tin cup would be hung beside them. Everybody would be free to drink as much as they wanted. Within three months, he maintained, those who wanted to drink themselves to death would have done so - - and the rest of us would be walking by those barrels without giving them a second glance.

It is a pity that the same solution cannot be applied to political and racial strife, in Cyprus, in Algeria, in South Africa and elsewhere. Then the firing squads would operate a few million machine guns and distribute them, those who want to kill each other could do so - - and in a year or so the rest of us, if there were any, could live in peace.

LIFE AND A GARDEN

No, it ain't much of a garden,
Hardly worth my while to hoe,
And in mostly clay, I reckon,
And there's not much that will grow.
But I've going to dig and rake it,
And I'll fix it spick and span;
Though it ain't much of a garden,
I will do the best I can.

I can plant some morning glories,
And some asters and some pansies,
Though it ain't much of a garden
I've not going to take my chances;

'Cause I reckon, if one blossom
Only nods there in the sun
When the summer days are smiling,
I shall count my duty done.

A life's much like a garden;
And the humblest of us all
Has a duty worth the doing
Though it seems so very small,
And though big tasks you are craving,
If a little one's your share,
Make the best of what is given
And a rose will blossom there.

Mesmerism as Anaesthetic

St. Thomas Times - Journal

More than 100 Ontario physicians were reported to have set "mesmerized" in Toronto when Dr. William A. Cunningham of Birmingham, Alabama, ran half-an-hour overtime in telling them his experiences with, and the advantages of applying, mesmerism as an anaesthetic in medical practice. He made the interesting statement also that four times as many dentists as surgeons used hypnosis in their practice.

Mesmerism is an old science, if it is a science, which was practised by F. A. Mesmer in Vienna, about 1770, but when he first gave a demonstration of it before a gathering of doctors he met with much opposition, although there was no snake-thetic of any kind at that time and he was practically hounded out of the city.

Ultimately it fell into bad odor with the medical profession of most of the civilized countries, and many people of means travelled from place to place and gave demonstrations, charging admission with them, and occasionally using men in the audience who would volunteer to be mesmerized, during which time they were made fit all kinds of ridiculous acts which greatly amused a disbelieving audience.

No doubt mesmerism would have won a respected place in medical science if it had not been applied so much to vaudeville performances. Many eye-witnesses were sceptical that it was genuine, or just felt it was a "stunt" and nothing more.

The press report of Dr. Cunningham's session states that he gave a demonstration by jabbing a pin into a man's hand, and the subject felt no pain. He also stated that a hypnotised person would wake up naturally, in course of time, unless held in sleep by the hypnotist. Perhaps the most notable of the vaudeville hypnotist of all time was "Dr. Walford Bodie," native of Aberdeen, Scotland, who, 50 years ago, starred in British vaudeville as a hypnotist and trickal 'wizard' and ventriloquist (in which he used seven figures). Bodie mesmerised a man, stuck a needle and a thread through his cheek, pulled it tight and tugged at it, and the subject felt no pain or discomfort.

As to Dr. Cunningham saying a person would wake up naturally if held in sleep by the hypnotist, Bodie mesmerised a young woman on the stage of a theatre on the Monday night, placed her in a trance and put her cataleft in the lobby while artists, and many people of the theatre where it remained all night until he awoke her on the Saturday night performance. Except for moistening of the lips, she had no sustenance all that time. Unless awakened, Bodie was nowhere near to keep her under control.

There is a vaudeville hypnotist going around Ontario right now, but if this science has practical value in medicine and surgery, it is regrettable that it should be in the hands of vaudeville artists, because Dr. Cunningham seems to have impressed many physicians in this province, and probably in many other cities also, that it can be a real aid to the profession and to ailing humanity.

DEDICATIONS

I like this word, Dedications. It suggests that someone is a bit thoughtful of others, like the dedication of a book to a loved one, or the dedication of one's life to a useful cause. Especially do I like the idea of the dedication of a book. Many are unique in their expression. I love the dedication on Michael Fairless's "Roadmender"; it said: "To my Mother, and to Earth. My Mother Whom I knew."

I became an admirer and collector of the writings of Kay Boyle many years ago from reading her book called "Plagued by the Nightingale." The title intrigued me and so did the dedication, which read: "To my Mother and her undying Flame." Anyone can be highly honored to have been dedicated to him or her. I have several among my treasures.

The greatest dedication that I know is that of my brother, to the one in which he has dedicated his own life to a great purpose.

I can think of no more courageous, or selfless resolve than to give one's life to a great cause. fortunate. Such people are apt to get more out of life than I am in spired happiness that grips them and their imagination right from the start. They feel decision follows and grows in importance and happiness with the passing years. In my judgment every great public servant should be looked upon as a great saint, for he has given all in! Respect him. Make him feel good that he is appreciated.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What radio and TV have done and are doing to unify the language, diction and pronunciation of the continent, from the Rio Grande to the Bow Line, is worth thinking about. For example, there was no radio in the days of President Theodore Roosevelt. So he was known all over Canada and perhaps most of the United States as President Rucevelt. I do not recall him being called anything else in my youth.

But Franklin Delano Roosevelt emerged in the full flower of the radio era, and he was known to the entire world as President Rosa-velt.

And to this day, it is generally accepted practice to refer to Theodore Rucevelt and Franklin D. Rosa-velt. They would hardly be recognized otherwise.

In the old pre-radio days, it would have taken years, maybe decades, for the generality of us to grapple with the name Pflimlin. Most of us would never have gotten it up. We would have ignored Pflimlin, and therewith in some measure, France.

As a matter of fact, the name of the radio and TV broadcasters an appreciable three or four days to get a line of a story Flamlan, Flimflan, Pflimlan, as heard one boggle it. But, about the fifth day, on the basis of assurance, they were all getting it Pleem-lanh.

And then we all got it. And we could be heard tossing it about at TV.

I am told even the Texas accent is slipping under the assault of TV.

Must Give Good Value

Ottawa Journal

One of our current slogans is "You auto buy now."

We shall say nothing about this except that there ought to be a lot more auto sales, regardless of English speech.

But there is another current slogan, which calls for comment. The cry "Buy Canadian."

This cry, we suggest, while it may have something to commend it from the standpoint of national state, to say nothing of our own trade balance difficulties.

The qualification was stated last week by Mr. H. V. Lush president of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association. Asked he:

"What right have we (Canadian manufacturers) to demand that people buy our products and go nothing more about it? We are in business and if we hope to persuade customers to buy second rate goods or to pay exorbitant prices."

"As manufacturers, it is our duty to see that the 'Buy Canadian' symbol is synonomous with value and quality. We are not afford to have it otherwise — and neither can labor."

This is the truth. The truth so important, the wonder is that its emphasis is so neglected.

Too many Canadians over the years have believed that only two things were necessary to get Canadians to buy Canadian goods: Tariffs and a spirit of nationalism.

As our mounting imports tell, they were wrong. And when they were wrong for the clear reasons Mr. Lush cites, they were high enough not sentiment strong enough to inflluce people to buy Canadian products when such goods do not compare in price and quality with the goods of other country.

Mr. Lush says that Canadian manufacturers and Canadians are as good as those of other countries at producing quality goods. Canadian technicians and techniques equal to any in the world.

We feel sure that is true.

But it is equally true that Canadian craftsmen have the same pride in craftsmanship that one finds in Europe, in countries, for example, like Britain, Germany and Italy?

Not one can. It ever be possible for Canadian producers to turn out goods that can compete in price with similar goods from European and other countries—it would be through the steady successive rounds of wage increases compel them to keep upgoing their prices?

Nor would we like to hold that for these "wage rounds" the blame was exclusively with unions, nor is fact to hold that in all cases the size of the price increases was due to demands for increased wages. For what we fear is that in at least a minority of instances management and producers did not much oppose "wage rounds", this through a desire to avoid labor trouble their new price scales not only high enough to cover increased wage costs but perhaps a bit more, and that in any event tariffs, high tariffs, have given them the home market.

This is the real sacrifice, to whatever extent it has existed—and we don't think it included the majority of manufacturers—it has turned out to be a delusion. For what we have now is a disturbing way, is that with high prices, as with so many things, there is a point of diminishing returns in this case not only of maintaining markets abroad, but at home as well.

The extraordinary thing is that this trend in the world the Canadians will only buy Canadian goods providing they can match in quality and price the like goods of other countries—is not more widely understood by some of the ablest of our union leaders.

For Canadian workers all of us want, or at least should want, the highest possible standard of living. But a high standard of living for Canadian workers will remain secured if workers are unemployed.

Unemployed they will be, with no good standard of living for them nor indeed for any of us, if we get to thinking that a mere production line is a substitute for good craftsmanship in Canada and elsewhere, if we will have to re-examine closely his economic and political relations with its "good neighbors."

DESPITE GOOD HEREDITY, SOME BABIES ARE BORN WITH FAULTS

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have two healthy children, but recently lost a baby at two-days-old baby. She was born with one part of the heart not working properly. Now I am afraid to have another for fear it will happen again. Could you explain more about the heart and does heredity enter into it to happen? Could I or should I have more children? — Mrs. E.F."

A few babies have anomalies, or irregularities. They may have extra fingers or toes; they may in some instances be born without arms or legs, or some part of the heart may never develop. Some babies are born with the intestine closed off at some point — this used to mean death in a matter of a couple of days, although today surgeons operate when the babies are only a day or so old, and change them into perfectly healthy tots.

But these defects aren't the result of heredity. Indeed, I can see cases of parents having once such irregularities while the other twin is completely normal. No, the abnormality in development happen because of some tiny variation in the miraculous chemistry that controls the formation and growth of a baby.

True, parents pass on to their children certain characteristics of eyes, color of hair, shape of face and body, height, texture and color of hair. Fortunate parents tend strongly to have children of the same type, although we should remember that occasionally perfectly normal parents may have a feeble-minded child, just as normal parents may occasionally have children who are geniuses.

The point is that despite good heredity, from time to time a baby is born with some unexpected fault. Some of these faults often remain beyond our ken. It is not given to man to understand all the complex chemical particles which control the baby's development. Development are not affected by accidents to the mother, such as an arm in an accident. Would your babies be born with one arm? Of course not.

Since you've had two healthy babies, you can certainly reasonable that you and your husband are passing on the right traits to your children in general.

The accident that developed with that one baby is to be regarded as that — an accident. Should there be some reason to expect that the baby is not going to develop properly, your physician would in all likelihood be able to find some definite evidence of some such aspect, you have nothing lacking evidence of some such aspect, you have nothing lacking evidence of some such aspect, you have nothing lacking

Kingston Pilot Pulls Out of Work Stoppage

KINGSTON (CP) — Capt. R. A. Stevenson of Kingston Thursday pulled out of the eight-week-old work stoppage by the Great Lakes Pilots Association and left for Port Weller to accept a pilotage assignment from the Shipping Federation of Canada.

"I've been willing to hold out so long as everything was clean and above-board but when it failed to be above-board it's time to get out," the lake pilot said in explaining why he is ready to work on federation ships, blacklisted by the association since April 18.

Capt. Stevenson said his chief objection was to the refusal of the pilots executive to hold talks with the shipowners.

"No one can tell me our men don't want a meeting with the federation after two months of banging our heads against a wall," he said. "If we had discussed our differences with them we could have had every member working a week ago."

"There is no likelihood of that happening now."

FOR SEVERAL WEEKS

Capt. Stevenson said for several weeks he has been urging Capt. John Andrews, association president, and Capt. Thomas Wilson, vice-president, to call a general meeting of the lake pilots but without success. The last such meeting was in early April, before the lockout started, he said.

In a telegram sent to association members three weeks ago, Capt. James Matheson, assistant general manager of the shipping federation, indicated the shipowners were willing to hold talks, said Capt. Stevenson, adding: "What we need is some constructive action."

He was also critical of the borrowing of funds by the lake pilots' union from the International Masters, Mates and Pilots Union AFL-CIO.

"This borrowing has got to stop," Capt. Stevenson added. "Ours is a Canadian union and if we go on this way we're going to end up under international control."

Queen Drenched By Rain During Color Ceremony

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen was drenched by rain yesterday at the annual trooping the color ceremony.

Occasionally wiping the rain from her face with the back of her white-gloved hand, the 32-year-old Queen spent more than an hour in the open on her chestnut police horse Imperial as the 1st Battalion of her Scots Guards trooped their color.

"It was not trooping the color," cracked The Evening News, "but dripping the color."

The steady rain did not, however, wash away the pride and pageantry of the ceremony held on the Horse Guards Parade ground near Whitehall in honor of the Queen's official birthday.

ACCOMPANIED BY PHILIP

The Queen was dressed as a colonel-in-chief, with tricorne hat, scarlet tunic and dark blue shirt. She rode side-saddle onto the parade ground with Prince Philip and the Duke of Gloucester. Both were dressed as Guards colonels.

The Queen Mother, Princess Margaret, and Princess Anne arrived in her " barouches drawn by greys.

A fly-past of 16 RAF Javelin all-weather fighters was cancelled because of the weather.

Trenton-Marysville Section Of 401 Highway Will Open For Traffic About Oct. 1st

The Trenton-Marysville section of No. 401 highway, now in various stages of completion, will be open for traffic about October 1st, it was learned yesterday by Ontario Department of Highways officials.

The announcement was made at a meeting called by highways department public relations officials with the view of acquainting district municipal representatives with the system of directional and traffic signs which will be posted on the highway.

The meeting was held at the Hotel Quinte and was attended by officials from local municipalities through which the new four-lane highway runs. In charge of the meeting was Walter Macnee, traffic engineer, and Larry Forster, traffic control engineer.

Although the Trenton-Marysville section of the new highway is expected to be first into use, the Brighton-Belleville section further could very well be brought into use at the same time. The Wooler Road interchange on this section of the highway is now under construction, while placing of the granular base preliminary to paving is underway. Grading of the entire Brighton - Marysville section has been completed; the Belleville-Trenton section is already paved, and paving contracts are let for the balance of the route.

Entry to 401 from the east would be by the first sideroad west of Marysville, which will be widened to full 20 foot width.

NEW SYSTEM OF SIGNING

Access to the new highway section at the west end will be either by No. 33 highway at Trenton or by No. 30 at Brighton, depending on when the Trenton-Brighton section is completed.

According to Mr. Macnee an entirely new system of signing has been adopted for the "freeways" as compared with the King's highways. And, incidentally, he said the word "Freeway" actually meant free movement of traffic, rather than a toll free road.

The big difference in the signing of the freeways is that such signing is confined to the interchanges or grade separations. The message on such signs must be limited, due to the faster rate of speed, which motorists travel on the controlled access roads.

"Travelling at 55 miles per hour, or 75 feet per second, a motorist doesn't have much time to read lengthy messages on signs," Mr. Macnee said.

As a result the "totem pole" signs with as many as a dozen or more place names on the one pole, are out.

"We must change the layout habits of the motorist," he went on. We want motorists to know where they are going before they start and to know exactly where they must turn-off."

Roads which intersect No. 401 with interchanges will be designated, while the policy is also that communities on the road which the freeway was built to replace, will also be named.

"We just can't hope to show all the municipalities that are served by any certain road which intersects the freeway."

DIRECTIONAL SIGNS OUT

Accordingly places such as Brighton, Trenton and Belleville will be named with routes designated to get to these municipalities, but directional signs following the way to say Madoc, Stirling or Marmora, will be out.

However, what are termed "assurance signs" will be placed on highways leading off 401. For instance, on No. 14 highway north of 401 a sign bearing the placenames Stirling and Marmora would appear.

The policy here is that the first centre from 401 on the intersecting highway with a population of more than 1,000 persons is named as the point where the highway ends.

Mr. Macnee said these signs were merely to assure the motorist that he is on the right road.

The color code system of regulatory signs plays an important part in signing freeways. Through this system, adopted three years ago, a specific color of sign has a specific message with, for instance, red always meaning a full stop or extreme danger. Going further, full stop signs are octagonal in shape.

Directional and place name signs are green with white letters, while regulatory signs are black letters on a white background.

With respect to placename signs, Mr. Macnee admitted that it was virtually impossible to please all municipalities but due to problems involved certain policies had to be set and adhered to.

INSPECTED DRAWINGS

Visitors were invited to inspect drawings of the various interchanges on the 401 route between Brighton and Marysville, together with directional and other signs planned to be erected.

Later they were invited to offer comment or to ask questions.

Insofar as Belleville is concerned, it was agreed that the "Belleville" placename would appear only at the No. 37 highway intersection. This highway has been designated as the business section route. Highway 14 would be designated merely by the highway number, as would other roads intersecting the four-lane route.

This question was raised by Alderman Les Digby who noted that council had recommended that Highway 37 be the business section route into the city.

Reeve James V. Holt of Stirling suggested that in view of the importance of the Quinte area, a roadside map, showing the whole area in detail be erected at some roadside spot where visitors to the district could stop and check their route.

Mr. Macnee said this was already under study by his department.

Alderman Ralph Graham noted that what appeared to be an access road appeared on the department large scale map running between Sidney St. and the Wallbridge road and south of the new highway route. He wanted to know who was to pay the cost of this construction.

He was told that department policy in this respect was for the highways department to build the road and then turn it over to the municipality.

The Wallbridge Road interchange next spring. This work will be done after the road was opened. A "flyover" crossing between Belleville and Trenton, would also be built after the road was operating.

Roscoe Robeson, M.L.A. for Hastings East noted that apparently there was no provision for a Madoc placename sign on No. 14 highway north of 401. He was told that as Madoc was not on the No. 14 -highway route, police would not permit the erection of such a sign.

Sweep Winner Keeps Promise To Firm Friend

MONTREAL (CP) — When Steven Nikoriak knew he'd drawn a horse in the Irish Sweepstake a week ago, he told friend Arthur Dupuis:

"If I hit the big one, my car belongs to you."

Dupuis immediately promised his own car to neighbor Gerald Bowers and Bowers, who didn't own a car, promised to salaam on the sidewalk if such good luck came to him.

Wednesday, Nikoriak, winner of $140,000, parked his 1957 automobile in front of Dupuis' home and handed over the keys.

Dupuis passed along his 1947 car to Bowers who bowed low while a crowd of friends and neighbors danced and cheered on the street.

Motel Business Not Likely To Decline on Lake Route

Will the close proximity of Highway 401 to Highway 2 cause any decline in the motel business along Lake Ontario and the Bay of Quinte?

According to Robert G. Hamilton, secretary - manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, the answer is no, for a number of reasons.

Mr. Hamilton told The Ontario Intelligencer yesterday that owners of large new motels along Highway 2 were well aware that a super - highway was planned to cut the province a few miles north of Highway 2, even before they started building their businesses.

Provincial government officials surveyed the business before 401 was started. They found that many well-surfaced roads leading from the proposed new highway into communities were available to 401 traffic. People like travelling salesmen, who are one of the most frequent users of motels, know the area thoroughly acquainted with the locations of motels along the lake and bay shores. The only people who might find some difficulty in acquiring overnight accommodation are tourists who do not know this part of Ontario.

However, Mr. Hamilton believes that if communities erect identification signs, free of advertising, adjacent to 401, the problem will be alleviated. The Department of Highways will not permit the erection of bill boards within one quarter of a mile of a controlled access highway. Highway 2 does not fall into this category.

WILL BE SCENIC ROUTE

Mr. Hamilton added that he has learned Highway 2 will be designated on a new Department of Highways map as a scenic route. Tourists are more likely to travel along scenic routes than a freeway.

Many people say that through traffic will use 401,-rather than town-dotted Highway 2. Should their opinions materialize into fact, Mr. Hamilton believes the motel business still will not be affected adversely, because motorists travelling on a freeway must sleep and eat. It is understood that the Department of Highways will not permit the

Urge Building Water Pipeline

TORONTO (CP) — Immediate construction of a pipeline from Lake Erie or Lake Huron to meet water needs in Middlesex county was urged Thursa. by the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

The government agency made its recommendation in a 97-page report distributed to a meeting of representatives from the county's 23 municipalities. Another report on pollution is to be issued later this summer.

The report says London's water consumption, now at 700,000,000 cubic feet a year, is exceeding supplies provided by river water and the city's 45 wells.

building of motels on Highway 401. Therefore, anyone desiring overnight shelter must swing off onto an access road and use the accommodation facilities on Lake Ontario and the Bay of Quinte.

In fact, according to some people, 401 may even give a boost to the motel industry on Highway 2, through increased traffic, which creates considerable noise, is likely to take to the new highway, rather than keep to No. 2. Because Highway 2 would then be quieter, more transients, especially tourists, would probably stay overnight at motels and inns adjacent to the lake and bay, instead of pushing on to other locations.

Wedding

PEAKE—McCONNELL

A very pretty wedding was recently solemnized at Rawdon Church United, when Gwendolyne Ann Marilyn Maude McConnell, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman McConnell, of Stirling R.R. 3, was united in marriage to Charles Frederick Peake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Peake, Campbellford, with the Reverend W. G. Fletcher, B.A., officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a bridal gown of white lace and nylon net. Chantilly lace cream satin ribbon trim, fashioned in ballerina length with deep full skirt in crinoline effect. The strapless bodice was in empire style with lace medallions and enhanced with matching lace jacket, trimmed with medallions. She wore a shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion with lace appliqued crown, held by a lace-trimmed headdress of iridescent beading and a cluster of seed pearls. Her semi-cascade bouquet was of red roses arranged on a red background.

Miss Lola McConnell, sister of the bride, was maid of honour, gowned in waltz-length powder blue nylon over taffeta with billowing skirt and shirred bodice with cascading shoulder ruffles and a trench of matching bandeau headdress studded with sequins and carried a semi-cascade of yellow baby 'mums on a net foundation.

Mr. William Stephens, of Campbellford, assisted the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 40 guests at Mount Pleasant church hall.

The bride's mother received in a flowered gown of teal blue chiffaletl silk with white accessories and a corsage of bronze talisman roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a flowered dress of navy silk accentuated by white with white and navy accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

The hall platform was decorated with ferns and baskets of mauve and cream iris.

The bride's table was nicely appointed with a lace cloth, centred by an all-white, tiered wedding cake, decorated with silver leaves, and flanked by silver candle holders with tall yellow tapers. The bridal bouquets added a further note of beauty.

The guest tables were centred by novelty flower holders filled with pansies and yellow mums.

Those serving were: the Misses Marlene Haggerty, Jean Tweedy, Shirley Broadworth, Gail Jeffs and Raye David. Mount Pleasant W.A. catered for the buffet luncheon.

For travelling around Lake Ontario by way of Ivy Lea Bridge and Niagara Falls, Mrs. Peake chose white faille taffeta flowered in Roman blue, with full skirt and wide cummerbund, a black duster, white accessories and corsage of red roses, their return they will reside in Belleville.

Guests were in attendance from Belleville, Campbellford, Stirling and Wellman.

Women's Activities

COLLEGE HILL W.A.

The ladies of College Hill W.A. met at the church Wednesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Mitts, opened the June meeting and welcomed members and visitors.

Sick calls were reported and thank-you notes read.

Mrs. Jenkinson presented the financial report and several business items were discussed.

Mrs. Anna Dickens convened the worship service, using the theme "Go Tell," and read 1st John, 1-9, telling of the man named Jesus, who was the witness, the bear witness of the light, that the man through Him might believe.

A reading was given by Mrs. Nina Mills, using the same theme. Christian women have good news to spread, the Lord will cleanse away ill feeling; God will forgive and start you afresh, and He will have to tell some one else in order that your joy may be complete.

Mrs. Nina Neal rendered an appropriate solo, "I Am Praying Now."

Mrs. Jan Smith told of Amos, the first prophet to preach a universal God. He had a mission to these people and as he watched his sheep went to Bethel and denounced their idolatry. He was a shepherd but God enabled him to be a spokesman for God. God still comes if people are willing to hear. God turned to Amos when warned of doom to come, and Amos recognized God's call. He said: "I was a herdsman and the Lork took me as I watched my flocks."

Mrs. Nina Walker gave a reading, "My Needy Neighbour," saying, "Go and you will go north and south, neighbors to the most obscure places where God has planted man."

A poem, read by Mrs. Dickens followed. The beautiful things are the diadems, which poor men wear. Beautiful things are not bought or sold.

Mrs. J. Smith conducted a contest, which was followed by refreshments and a social half hour.

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

MADOC — The June meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society met in St. Peter's Sunday School room.

In the absence of the president, Miss Reeves, the vice-president, Mrs. Jack Bailey, presided.

The secretary's report was read by Mrs. David Blakely. Twenty-one members answered the call. A goodly number of sick calls and cards were reported. The Scripture lesson was given by Mrs. Harry Walden.

Mrs. Bailey's reading was followed by an earnest prayer for the missionaries and for the General Assembly, that God's guidance and blessing would be theirs.

Miss Cecelia Heslip sang, "Teach Me To Pray, Lord," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. W. Hulin.

Mrs. Blakely took for her topic, "What Is the Mission of the Church, and What Is My Part in that Mission?"

"Are we like the early Christians who went everywhere preaching the gospel? One of the problems today of the church is the reluctant witness. 'Ye shall be My witness, first in Jerusalem, then in all Judea, and in the uttermost parts of the earth.' We should be active, dynamic witnessing, and worshipping Christians."

Mrs. Kilpatrick stressed the power of the Holy Spirit in the early Christian's disciples as Christ's disciples is also chosen and entrusted with that message of salvation.

Mrs. Ida Johnston's subject was "Our High Calling in Christ Jesus." "We have not chosen me but I have chosen you. What a noble calling! May each one say with Paul "I press toward the mark of the high calling in Christ Jesus."

An hour of fellowship followed while refreshments, served by Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Kilpatrick were enjoyed.

Departments of United Church Told to Tabernacle WA, WMS

A joint meeting of W.A. and W.M.S. of Tabernacle United Church was held in the church parlors on Tuesday afternoon.

The president of the W.M.S., Mrs. Ray Lockyer, opened the meeting. A letter was read from Mrs. Baxter telling of the need for women workers in the church.

Mrs. Percy Kerr, president of the W.A., then took charge of the meeting.

It was decided that the W.A. pay $20 to W.M.S. for mailing of Missionary bulls.

Mrs. Archibald conducted the devotional exercises and the Bible lesson was taken from 1st Cor. 12.

Mrs. Archibald emphasized the need of greater co-operation in church work. Each one has some talent he or she can devote to making the world a better place in which to live. Christian people should co-operate, also congregations, to bring in the better world.

Mrs. Barclay sang a beautiful solo, entitled "Such Lovely Things." Mrs. Duff was the accompanist.

Mrs. Johnstone called on the Rev. James Eastcott to address the meeting.

CHURCH BIRTHDAY

Mr. Eastcott, who had just returned from the May of Guides Conference held in Peterborough, mentioned the fact that 1959 was the birthday of the United Church of Canada. The first department of the organization of the United Church consisted of the pastoral charge which may consist of one charge or maybe several; the Presbyterial; the Union of United Evangelical Presbytery consists of 52 pastoral charges and 65 mission stations.

Presbytery must have equal numbers of ministers and laymen; there is the Conference, the Play of Conference has 253 ministers and 253 laymen. There are 11 conferences in Canada and Conference meets once a year. Ministers are ordained by the Conference.

There is also the General Council of the church. Council meets every three years and appoints the moderator, also the Board of the church. Such as Board of Home Missions, boards of Social Service and Evangelism.

CHURCH WORK VIEWED

Conference gives a view of the work carried on by the church.

One of the subjects discussed at conference was various institutions of which the church has charge. There are the churches and the Bible Society of which are in Canada.

The two million immigrants have come to Canada the last few years. The Bible is the gospel in 17 languages every Sunday. Four million meet the ships as they come to our shores.

We have several theological colleges in Canada. Here our ministers are trained by the finest men we have. It is pertinent to note that there are 186 more candidates for the ministry this year than last.

"Our church has about 70 homes for senior citizens. There are homes for unmarried mothers, where mother and child have finest care. There are hostels for men, like the Fred Victor Mission in Toronto, where men who are out of work can find shelter and free meals.

"The church also has 67 summer camps across Canada. These camps are supervised by fine Christian leaders.

"There is the publishing house in Toronto where Sunday school helps and other religious books are published. Over 700,000 Sunday school leaflets are sent out each year."

Mrs. Gorsline thanked Mr. Eastcott for his informative address.

New Stamp Will Honor Nurses

OTTAWA (CP) — It was through the Canadian Nurses' Association that the post office chose a secretary as model for a new stamp honoring nurses.

The story of how 21-year-old Florence Sullivan came to pose in the lilac of nurse's uniform Thursday after individual nurses registered their indignation at the appointment of a general he chosen.

Nurses in Toronto were miffed and some suggested the nurses' association may protest the post office choice, announced Tuesday.

As it turns out, this is not the first time Miss Sullivan has posed as a nurse. And the nurses' association approved her choice originally.

It all started on an Ottawa bus one morning in January, 1957, when Cliff Garvin of the federal health department's information services spotted Miss Sullivan.

FOR A BOOKLET

He was responsible for a booklet being put out by the health department for the CNA to promote nurse enrolment and he was seeking a girl of suggestion who conveyed an impression of dedication.

Garvin said he asked a woman friend to approach her and Miss Sullivan had her first modelling job.

Garvin said CNA members, the press department for the CNA Pearl Stiver, were on hand at the studio for the set date. She handled the results and gave the go-ahead for use of the picture on the front of CNA booklet.

Then Gerald Trottier of Ottawa, the artist chosen by the post office department to design the latest marketing CNA's 75th anniversary, approached the nurses' association for a model. He was shown the Miss Sullivan picture. He engaged the trade department secretary himself and her portrait found its way onto the attractive, one-lawn, 4-cent stamp to be issued July 30.

FAUBUS A "QUISLING"

"The name of Faubus will go down in history . . . as a man who failed to do his duty and use his office to uphold the public interest," Harriman said.

Running CNE Women's Division Easy Thanks to Efficient Staff

By EDNA DREES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Running the women's division of the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto is easy, says Mrs. Rena Jenkins, when she's doing it for six years now.

"It's all a question of staff," she said in an interview, lightly dismissing the job which keeps her at work all year, has taken her once around the world, put her in an open boat for two days on the Mackenzie River and sent her up the Andes on horseback.

The big Fair is open for only two weeks, but Mrs. Jenkins' year-round job includes entertaining 30,000 women at teas, presiding at lunches, organizing handicraft competitions for women and for school children, appointing judges, arranging displays and producing an annual issue of new ideas.

EXPERT STAFF

Her staff varies from one secretary when the exhibition is over to as many as 600 while the big job is open. "Many members of the permanent staff come back to the CNE organization every year and this simplifies my own work."

Staff members include experts in various lines of interior decorating, home economics, fashions and publicity, to name a few—and during the exhibition add demonstrators, theatre ushers and janitors.

"Something new must be presented every year to keep up our image as a big business of nearly 1,000,000," she said.

"So in comes the "something new" Mrs. Jenkins took a world tour, and one result was a colorful display from many countries.

The South American trip was the outcome of another search for ideas, and she has toured in Canada's far north to collect examples of Eskimo art and sculpture.

GUEST

Some 30,000 women for tea with a complex project. The 30,000 first have to be selected.

"This is done through women's organizations," she explained. "A number are invited from various national groups."

Under her supervision an "ideal home," incorporating the latest trends in interior decoration and design, is built each year.

The handicrafts section of the exhibition draws entries from all over Canada in spinning, weaving, making jewelry, copper work, ceramics, baking and other activities.

Children, too, participate in competitions in painting, puppetry, penmanship and sculpture, all in classes allied to the school curriculum.

Fashion shows are a popular part of the exhibition, and here Mrs. Jenkins works with people in the fashion trade to produce frequent displays of men's and children's clothes as well as women's fashions.

A family theatre also is organized; celebrities have to be welcomed; commercial exhibitors must be satisfied as to their space.

It all sounds like hard work. "It is, at times," she admitted. "But you just trust the staff."

FRIDAY

Broiled Sliced Gaspe Salmon, Tartare Sauce or Lemon. (Note: Do not overcook this precious fish); New Peas with Kernel Corn; Julienne Carrots; Rice and Raisin Pudding; Pouring Cream; Coffee.

ER:

... letter went on top of the ... pile. Eleanor and I loved it, and cooked our ideas. How do you like this menu?: Economical birthday party for a beloved husband: Eleanor's Take-The-Consequences Casserole, Swedish Meat Balls (on rice if desired), Hot Cheesed and Garlic-Buttered French Stick, Tomato Aspic Ring, Cole Slaw with Dill Weed and Parsley, Orange Sunburst Cake, Coffee or Tea.

The Orange Sunburst Cake I gave you on June 2, but will mail the release to you. Eleanor suggests using not only birthday candles, but make a border of daisies or other yellow flowers now in bloom to give the table a sunrise effect.

ELEANOR'S TAKE-THE-CONSEQUENCES CASSEROLE:

... cans undiluted mushroom ... package fine noodles cooked until tender and drained, 2 cups cooked chicken cut in large pieces, 1 1-lb. can tuna (the inexpensive pack), 1 package frozen peas, brought just to boiling, 1 lb. sliced mushrooms sauteed in butter (optional), 1 cup chicken broth, ... package dehydrated chicken noodle soup cooked in ¾ cup water 7 minutes, 4 tablespoons minced vegetable flakes (see note below), 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup fine buttered cracker crumbs for top. Gently combine in order given (except crumbs) and divide into 2 large buttered casseroles. Sprinkle top with crumbs and bake at 425 deg. for 30 minutes. Make these in morning of party and keep refrigerated (hidden from birthday boy) until baking time.

NOTE:

The mixed vegetable flakes I refer to are dehydrated carrots, onions, tomatoes, celery, green peppers, spinach, and corne in a 1-oz. can. A tablespoon or so is colorful and tasty and handy to have for casseroles or soups or stews.

SWEDISH MEAT BALLS:

¾ cup bread crumbs, 2½ cups milk, 1 large chopped onion, 4½ tablespoons margarine, ¾ lb. each ground beef and ground pork, 2 small eggs, 1 tablespoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup water. Soak bread in milk. Saute onions in half the margarine. Add them to all remaining ingredients but margarine. Form meat balls with greased spoon and brown evenly in hot margarine, shaking pan to make them turn over. When all are browned, add the water and cook very gently for about 15 minutes or until all water is absorbed. These amounts serve 9 to 12 generously. If a layer of hot cooked rice is under the meat balls in the bowl it serves to extend them. Very best of good wishes to you both.

THE RIGHT WAY TO THINK OF WEDDING-RECEPTION INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be proper to send invitations to the ceremony but not to the wedding reception, when you know these people would not be able to attend? — Thank you

When the invitations include invitations to the ceremony and also to a large, or even a fairly large, reception, they should be sent not only to all the relatives and friends who might be able to come, but both invitations should be sent to relatives and friends who live so far away that they probably would not be able to come. Such an invitation is a gesture of devotion to the relative or friend to whom it is sent, a compliment, means that the bride and groom would like to have the relative or friend, if at all possible, be with them on this solemn, important occasion of their wedding.

Don't hesitate (as some people do) to send this invitation to the reception thinking this might be interpreted as asking for a wedding present. Send the invitation that is a compliment to the receiver, and dismiss the gift-consideration.

WHICH OF GROOM'S DIVORCED PARENTS SHOULD BE IN RECEIVING-LINE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have a problem about the receiving-line at our daughter's wedding reception. The parents of her groom-to-be were divorced a few years ago, both have remarried and live in different parts of the country. The young man gets along amicably with both sides of his family. However, he lives in the same city where his mother lives, and although he has his father's name, he goes to his mother's home often and freely, and it would certainly mean that his relationship is closer to his mother and her family than to his father and his family. It is fairly certain that both families will come to the wedding. So now our question is: Which of the parents should stand in the receiving-line? Or should we ask both of parents be in the line?

— Mother of Bride-to-be

The plan for this depends on the bridegroom's wish, and he is too would know best about h i parents' personal reactions to whichever procedure is chosen. Both sets of parents may be in the line. Or the groom may prefer to have only his mother invited to be in the line, since he is apparently more devoted to her. Also because very often, even in usual circumstances, the groom's father prefers not to stand in the line, the fact that he is not in the line will not appear t ell out-of-order.

Queen Awards Titles, Honors To 2,200 People

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen today awarded honors and titles to more than 2,200 of her subjects in recognition of achievements in fields ranging from biology relating to scientific research.

The list included millionaire industrialists, politicians, businessmen, screen actors, musicians and the doctor who performed tonsil operations on the Queen's two children.

The birthday honors list is issued each year at this time on Queen's official birthday. She was 32 on her actual birthday April 21. Like all honors lists, the list issued at New Year's, it is drawn up in consultation with the government of the day.

The list includes five new hereditary titles. Four barons' fiefs are addressed as "Lord") and three baronets (addressed as "Sir"). In addition, the Queen created 33 knights bachelor, who will be addressed as "Sir" for their lifetime.

NEW BARONS

The new barons are Col. Sir Ellis Robins, 73, a director of many African mining companies, and Oliver Poole, 47, deputy chairman of the Conservative party organization.

The three baronets are Henry Benson, lord lieutenant of Berkshire David Bevan, a millionaire Welsh industrialist, and Lt.-Col. John Dunnington-Jefferson, vice-lieutenant of the east riding of Yorkshire.

Matt Busby, manager of the Manchester United soccer team and the biggest name in the country's national sport, was named a commander of the Order of the British Empire. He is still recovering from injuries suffered in a plane crash last February which killed eight members of the team.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and four writers. Each week it is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Laura L. — My husband refuses to retire.

Louis L. — They think I'm bust on my last legs.

Laura L. — My husband and I are nearing 70 and have our own small business. Neither of us is in very good health and the business has been going steadily downhill over the past few years.

We have four children who want to help us out if my husband will retire. They could do it with very little strain. Our needs are quite small. But my husband stubbornly refuses.

The worst of it is that despite the fact that he works about 12 hours a day, much of it at hard labor, my husband doesn't quite make ends meet. Last year the children had to help out with certain emergency expenses in connection with the store. It c o s t them more than it would to support us.

Louis L. — For no reason at all my family has suddenly lost all confidence in me. They don't seem to recognize there is a recession on. I pulled through worse periods than this with my business and came out on top. I'm still able to do it.

I'll pay the children back with interest for every penny they put into the business, but I refuse to retire.

When I ask my wife what am I going to do if I retire, she says, "Garden, read the papers, s e e your friends." Well, I do that on Saturdays and Sundays. I get sick of it when Monday morning rolls around.

My whole family seems to take the attitude that I'm on my last legs, but the doctor thinks I'm in top condition for my age.

The Council: We're with Louis.

It is hard for young persons to be forced to stand by and watch an older person overexert himself physically, but if the only alternative to such work is complete retirement, the younger person should restrain that helping hand as long as possible.

The body recovers from its aches and weariness, but the mind that wakes to day after day of monotonous emptiness cannot recover.

Besides, doctors agree that most of our bodies suffer far more from underactivity than overexertion. Certainly, a man who has done hard physical labor all his life will suffer severely in a physical sense from sudden retirement.

Harried young and middle-aged individuals imagine nothing can be more delightful than to have the time to "garden, read the papers, see your friends." That's because they underestimate also the an oasis of pleasure in the midst of a busy world can have a hundred.

Deprived of his sense of independence and of all goal and challenge, the older person often finds these activities tiresome, and certainly unsatisfactory as a goal to look forward to every morning.

Laura cannot really appreciate this problem because she would continue to be independent and of use to herself and her husband. As long as she is physically able there will be housework to do.

Louis ought to try to taper off a bit on the heavy work, but if it can't be managed, his children should try to accept the situation.

HOME BUILDING SECTION

A PORCH WITH a decorative planting box adds interest to the entrance of this charming Colonial home. The lower half of the house is finished with brick veneer, while the upper story is frame. A garage is attached.

Perennial Favorite

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

HOUSING styles come and go, housing styles go, but the Colonial home remains a perennial favorite. It's a style with American tradition, a house that seems to stand for happy family living.

Economical Plan

Today's Colonial charmer, R-R1-KF, is a four-bedroom plan that provides an economical solution to a large family's living requirements.

The entry hall is not waste space. Rather, it's a gracious entranceway which provides direct access to all parts of the house: the living room, lavatory, study, upper floor and basement stairways and the kitchen.

The living-dining area is enormous, with a fireplace wall that's extremely decorative. Bookshelves which rise to mantel height, leaving an uncluttered wall for pictures or other ornaments, run from the right side of the fireplace to the back wall.

A cozy dining area, which makes an L with the living section, has a doorway to the terrace. As for storage space, one wall is given over to a built-in unit—a buffet flanked by china cabinets.

The kitchen is centered between the dining room and a sunny breakfast nook. Appliances and cabinets are set in a U beneath a window. There are three extra closets for brooms and storage. At right, a doorway leads into the garage.

May Be Guest Room

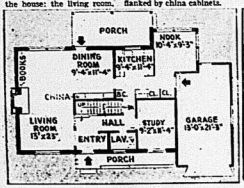
At front, the study is close to a lavatory. With dual-purpose furnishings, such as a sofa-bed, it might well serve as a guest room.

Sleeping quarters on the upper floor are handsomely arranged.

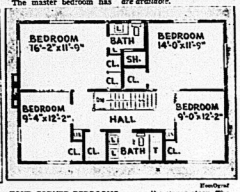
The master bedroom has its own bath with stall shower and twin closets. A double vanitory is featured in the other full bath. All bedrooms are cross-ventilated and closet space is excellent.

Design H-351-KF comprises 1,038 square feet; the garage, 277 square feet, 27,329 cubic feet.

If you are interested in obtaining blueprints, send your inquiry and a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper for the name and address of the company from which they are available.



AN ENORMOUS living-dining area, a kitchen-breakfast nook, a study and a lavatory complete the first floor.



FOUR CORNER BEDROOMS occupy the upper story. The master bedroom has its own bath and double closets.

Check-up on Common Fire Hazards When Planning Various Home Improvements

Keep safety in mind in planning your alterations and fix-up projects. And, home improvement time is also a good time to take care of the many fire hazards that lurk unsuspected around the typical home after a few years of occupancy.

New York will be fire-safe if it conforms to the building laws and is approved by the inspector but existing hazards will go on unless corrected. The best time to correct them is when general renovation is going on.

Among the more serious fire hazards are obsolete and inadequate wiring; unapproved, open-flame space heaters; older fireplaces and chimneys. These hazards can easily be corrected while other remodelling work is going on.

It is more than likely that existing wiring in older homes is overtaxed by the new electrical appliances. Additional circuits should be installed to carry the loads with safety.

Secret Panels For Radiator

To get rid of an old fashioned radiator in the living room, the Hal Carlsons of Westchester County, N.Y., put in a convector type hidden in a window seat.

But they didn't like any of the conventional methods of putting in removable panels for getting at the radiator valves. The Carlsons thought they didn't fit tight and they rattled.

Canadian Garden Service

VITAL FACTOR

Seed costs so little that one is inclined to overlook its importance. But of all the things that go into gardening, including one's time, seed is the most important. Without good seed, selected and tested for Canada, successful gardening is simply impossible. A flower or a vegetable that may give wonderful results in England or the Southern States can be a complete washout in our different climate. It's patriotism but common sense to buy seeds from Canadian sources.

THE WONDERFUL ZINNIA

The colorful Zinnia has become one of our most popular flowers. And it richly deserves this place because it is easily grown either from seed or plants; it comes in a variety of sizes from tiny to giant; and in an amazing range of colors, few sights are more striking than a big massed box of Zinnias.

Although today's varieties are a far cry from the wild species from which they were developed the resistance to heat which was a necessary factor in the survival of the native North and South American types still persists. This heat endurance makes the zinnias well adapted to Canadian summers. While extremely easy to grow, there are a few general rules that one can follow to be sure of the best results. First, time of planting. Since zinnias grow best in warm soil, you will find it is well to wait until the weather and soil are really warm before the seed is planted.

Second, if you are going to transplant zinnias for any reason, do so at the earliest stage possible — preferably when they have just their first pair of true leaves). Plants moved when they are larger will live, but they take a long time to recover, and it is much better to have started from seed sown where the plants are to remain.

Finally, when you pick zinnias for cut flowers do so in the late afternoon, plunge them to their necks in water and keep them in a cool place over night.

FRAGRANT GARDEN

If one has a bit of extra space, a fragrant flower garden will make an interesting and pleasant feature.

Here are grown those flowers noted for perfume. People don't have to be able to see to enjoy such a garden and it is just as attractive after dark as in the daytime.

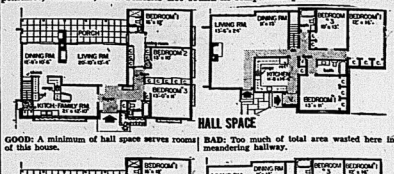
In the old fashioned garden there was always a bed or two of specially fragrant flowers planted in such a location that their perfume would reach the people sitting on the verandah. There are plenty of special flowers listed in any Canadian seed catalogue which will suit this catalogue which will suit this purpose. Among these are nicotine, sweet pea, alyssum, evening primrose, lilies, sweet william, pinks, and mignonette.

MORNING INSPECTION

One of the greatest pleasures in the flower garden comes from the daily inspection during just a five minute tour before the day's work begins. This proprietary examination of your garden soon develops in you the satisfaction of seeing fresh new blooms each day but also serves to check the condition of every plant. A wilted stem, a few leaves turning yellow in the foliage all point to damage in its earliest stage. If you get busy right then and will find that a water that drooping plant you can keep everything growing at its peak capacity and prevent injury from spreading to the whole plant.

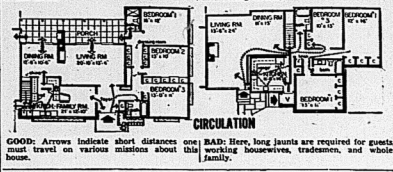
Here's How to Judge a House Plan

A quickie method devised by Architect Rudolph Matern uses hall space and "circulation" as two principal yardsticks. Others include simplicity of construction, appearance, materials, and benefits not found in comparable plans.



GOOD: A minimum of hall space serves rooms of this house.

BAD: Too much of total area wasted here is meandering hallway.



GOOD: Arrows indicate short distances one must travel on various missions about this house.

BAD: Here, long jaunts are required for guests, working housewives, tradesmen, and whole family.

Location Looms Large When Buying or Building Home

In building or buying a home, the "where" is every bit as important as the "what". Location looms large indeed among the factors which will determine the satisfaction you and your family will derive from your home.

First of all, consider the neighborhood in general and the type of people who will be your nearest neighbors. Are they the sort likely to prove congenial to you and your family? Would you welcome their children as playmates for yours?

Take a careful look at the homes in the immediate vicinity. Are they commensurate in value with one which you intend to build or buy? It is well to remember that a home out of character, price-wise, with its neighbors can often present a difficult re-sale problem.

Look into the transportation schedules of any bus line or railroad that you or your family will use frequently. Consider, as well, the distance to the nearest bus stop or railroad station.

If you have children, the character and location of the schools they will use are important points to bear in mind. It is necessary to cross major traffic arteries in order to reach the schools?

Find out if there are churches of your denomination within reasonable distance.

Check the nearest shopping centre, both as to its scope and accessibility.

Look into the matter of nearby recreational facilities for all members of your family.

See if any improvements (water mains, paving, curbing, etc.) are in not paid for, Ascertain what, if any, assessments against your property may be expected in the future?

Investigate public utility and tax rates. Are they in line with those prevailing in comparable communities? Check into such civic services as police and fire protection, garbage disposal, etc.

Last, but by no means least, on the matter of zoning restrictions. Are they such as to adequately and permanently protect the residential character of the neighborhood in which you are planning to build or buy?

Insulating Windows

Double-pane insulating windows are important to summer air conditioning just as they are to winter heating, latest studies of temperature control problems reveal.

Builders are finding the double-pane glass, which reduces heat loss in winter months, plays the opposite role in summer by stifling heat intake by lightening the "load" of the air-conditioner.

Non-Sweating Toilet Tanks

The annoyance of condensation dripping from the outside of a water closet tank can be avoided in two ways. Can is a new supply valve that mixes hot and cold water thermostatically to keep water in the tank tempered. This valve can be installed in bathroom, basement or utility room.

Another system is to use a tank within a tank. The air space between the two tanks acts as insulation and prevents so-called sweating on the outside.

LIQUID MASKING

Painting window sashes and frames can be speeded by masking the window panes. Sometimes wet newspapers will suffice. Masking tape around the edges is frequently used. However, you can get liquid masking material at paint stores and this is specially applied. It peels off like adhesive tape removing paint streaks with it.

FHA Approves New System

A new FHA-approved building technique permits strip flooring to be laid over concrete without use of subflooring.

This system, featuring the use of 2 x 4-inch lumber screeds imbedded in mastic was designed originally for new homes erected at on concrete slabs. Many home-owners, however, are adopting the principle to convert dreary basements into pleasant recreation rooms.

Decorate Dead Wall With Mirrors

A good solution for a dead wall in your house is a full size mirror, but when you learn the price, you may decide to leave it blank. However, you can get the same effects as a full mirror by using inexpensive small mirrors and putting them together behind a molding.

Actually, the effect can be even more drastic sometimes by painting the moulding to match or contrast with something in the room. If you want to use imagination and vary the sizes of the small mirrors, you can attain another striking effect. An example of what can be done is an 18-section mirror above a 9-foot-long fireplace, shown in the photograph.

To use a one or even three-piece mirror would have sent the family budget in retreat. However, by using 18 small mirrors, a decorative effect was achieved at a fraction of the price of larger mirrors.

First, decide what area you want mirrored, and the size of the mirrors. Next cut strips of wood three-eighths of an inch wide and an eighth of an inch thick. Nail these to the wall with small brads and you can slip the mirrors into place in the pattern you want.

It is safe to nail these light strips into a plaster wall but they will not hold on sheet rock. To overcome this, you can start by nailing a piece of quarter-inch plywood to the studs behind the wall, then brad the strips on this.

Because the double strength mirrors are so light, the strips don't have to carry much weight. Now, you'll have to have strips three-quarters of an inch wide and an eighth of an inch thick. The surface of this should be smooth because it will be the outside facing.

Now, with your strips up, place each piece of mirror into its hole and centre the moulding over the strips to hold it in place. Use a small level to make sure everything is plumb. Also, it's easier to run long strips of moulding either horizontal or vertical; then after you have all the mirrors up, finish by placing the rest of the moulding between the long sections.

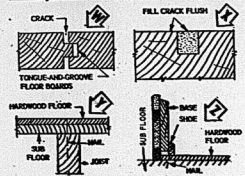
Right Method Outlined For Refinishing Floors

By J. RALPH DALZELL

Author of Books on Home Building and Repair

When hardwood floors of oak, maple or birch need refinishing, a simple procedure can be followed, and the homeowner can do the job himself. Floors become unsightly in time from ordinary wear, and because coats of varnish have been applied improperly, perhaps over dirt, resulting in light and dark spots.

If the floors are sound, an electric sander is not necessary. The machines may be too difficult for the average homeowner to operate. For best results sanders should be operated by professionals. When the boards are perfectly flat and edges are not raised at the joints, when joints between boards are not excessively wide, and when the surfaces of the boards are free from splits or uneven spots, a refinishing job can be done without an electric sander.



Remove all old finish first with wonderpaste or another good paint remover. Brush on heavy coats to small areas, and follow directions on the container for soaking time. When the old finish peels off under force the nails below the surface, and fill the resulting holes with sandpaper dust and shellac.

If the bottoms of the shoes (see picture Z) are above the floor surface, nail them after removal so the nails enter the floor and not the wall. It may be wise to drill holes first in hard woods. Use fine sandpaper wrapped around a wood block to smooth down and patched joints, nail dents and where required.

Several new finishes are available. A penetrating floor seal available at paint and hardware stores makes a beautiful surface. Apply a first coat and let it dry for several hours, then thoroughly buff with number two steel wool. After a second coat, let dry and buff with number one steel wool. For a high gloss, buff with number 0 steel wool.

If cracks (shown in picture W) are found they can be filled with a mixture of sandpaper dust from the same kind of wood as the floor and shellac. Mix small quantities and apply rapidly with a putty knife. Make the surface of the crack patch flush with the floor as shown in picture X.

If floor boards squeak, use screw-type nails to renail them as shown in picture Y. Locate joist position by tapping with a hammer, where it sounds solid over joists. Use a nail set to the edge of a putty knife start to scrape it off.

Picture V shows a section of floor at the upper left where old finish has not been removed. The finish has been removed at the lower right. Rolled-up old finish is shown as indicated. Scrape along the grain of the wood with the putty knife as illustrated. Add additional remover and scrape over the areas again if necessary. After all of the old finish is removed, scrub the floor with number two steel wool soaked with alcohol. Let the floor dry twelve hours.

Questions And Answers

Q. — Our basement smells musty and damp winter and summer. What can we do?

A. — Heat the basement in winter, and ventilate at least once a day continuously during the summer.

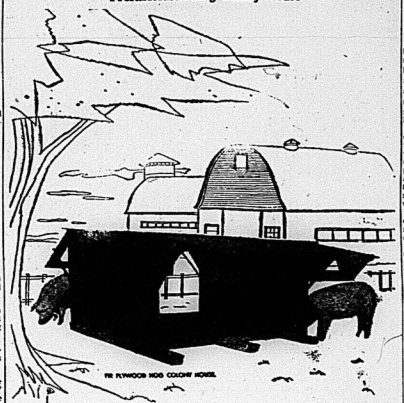
Q. — Will the present "rainbow" colors on automobiles continue?

A. — It is expected that these colors will be "grayed out" within the next two or three years.

POPULAR ANCHORS

Special framing anchors, which provide stronger joints between wood members, are becoming increasingly popular with home builders.

Prefabricated Hog Colony House



This design can be made indoors during winter months, ready for assembly outside in spring. Waterproof-glue fir plywood provides hinged walls for summer ventilation, sloping roof for easy rain from entry and guard rails for protection of young pigs. Easy to follow step-by-step plans may be obtained from your local lumber dealer.

Guard Against Contamination In Planning Rural Water Supply

Private water supplies, principally from wells are becoming more common as new home building spreads throughout rural areas. Hazards of contamination also are increasing because of the necessity of using cesspools and septic tanks disposal fields in outlying locations.

If you are planning a well in connection with a country home or vacation lodge, make sure that the well is uphill from all sources of danger, including old manure piles. The National Water Well Assn. says that generally the farther a well is from possible sources of pollution, the safer the water will be.

Well water can be safe to drink only if the well is properly constructed and located. Every trickle called a spring is not pure.

A well should be so designed that it will seal off water-bearing formations that are, or may become contaminated. Materials used should be new and durable.

Powerful rigs used by well drillers can penetrate through soy substrface, even solid rock, and to virtually any depth necessary to tap a year-round supply of water.

There is much more to well digging than a hole in the ground. The old oaken bucket was a picturesque, but often brought with it few swimming lizards.

PEGGED TO NEATNESS

Your garage floor can be kept clear by hanging tools and toys on a peg-board wall.

Plenty of Preparations Go Into Making Federal Budget To Be Brought Down Tuesday

The federal budget comes down next Tuesday. How is a budget prepared and what are the factors into consideration, by a finance minister? This story gives the answer.

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Finance Minister Fleming presents his first full-fledged budget to Parliament Tuesday night. It will climax a job that's 12 months ago, probably last December.

The time-table this year may have had variations—due to the general election — and certainly the budget is later than usual.

Allowing for election complications in the preparation of a budget runs broadly as follows:

In the autumn the finance minister meets with officials from the finance department, from the Bank of Canada and from the department of trade and commerce.

At this meeting, usually two hours officials present to the minister statistics and forecasts of views concerning the economy.

By the end of the session the minister probably has a preliminary idea whether tax rates should stay unchanged, be cut or go up.

He may know, too, whether he should aim at a balanced budget, a budget with a surplus or deficit.

The officials have given him the facts and figures, and views they think are the best answers to meet the circumstances.

The minister must ponder government policy in the light of social and political conditions; and probably must often draw difficult decisions between what may seem theoretically best and what may be socially and politically acceptable.

If it is a time of boom, he may feel he must restrain the pace of the economy.

The most obvious way to do this is to collect in taxes more money than necessary for the year's operations.

If it is a time of recession, he may feel he should do something both to ameliorate the difficulties of the unemployed and to stimulate the economy.

An obvious way to try is to collect less money than needed and go in debt for the rest. This is called deficit financing.

The boom's surplus and the recession's deficit are sometimes called cyclical budgetting. They are really, however, a response to conditions as they exist according to the views of the government of the day, rather than the result of a planned formula.

WELLINGTON
Fine Talk On India Given At WMS Meet

WELLINGTON — The regular meeting of the W.M.S. was held Tuesday afternoon in the church parlor, with 23 members and several guests present. Quiet music played on the new piano, called the meeting to order.

The president, Mrs. Hamel, read an appropriate poem, and extended a hearty welcome to all present. The roll call showed that 23 cells were made, and 15 books read.

Letters will be sent to Mrs. Mrs. Orchard who celebrates her 51st wedding anniversary on June 11 and to congratulate the Rev. J. F. Lane on his new appointment as president of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

The treasurer's report included the proceeds from the bowling banquet, Easter thank-offering and several donations.

Mrs. Orchard was pleased to report the mite box total was nearly $70, some still to be collected, just a penny a day soon fills the little box and gives a nice sum to the work of the W.M.S.

Literature secretary reported that 13 boxes had been shipped to Toronto. The charges were paid by the W.A. Anyone having puzzles or books please leave them with Mrs. Hamel to be sent to a Bible school and Norway House. She will also receive discarded nylons to be sent to Japan. These are made into flowers for the women there. A letter was read for all to participate in the ghost X-ray and TB. survey in September.

The program was in charge of Group II. Mrs. Yourt announced the numbers.

DEVOTIONAL

Mrs. Nash gave an inspiring devotional on Stewardship. The theme was "Freely Ye Have Received, Freely Give." Mrs. Yourt read the Scripture from St. Matthew 6: 26-34. Mrs. Nash enlarged on the theme and closed with prayer.

Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg introduced her neighbor, Mrs. John McKenzie, who recently returned to her home here after spending 20 years in Digha, Patna, Bihar, India. Mr. McKenzie was manager of the Bata Shoe plant there. Mrs. McKenzie delighted everyone for a half hour with her talk. She is glad to be back home, but certainly made the most of her three years in India.

INDIA IN MARCH

The four of them left Montreal March 8th, 1955, on a cold day, dressed in winter clothes. Three days later they arrived in India where the temperature was 100 degrees. It took some time to grow accustomed to the heat.

Digha is a small Indian village 40 miles from Patna on the Ganges River, and about 150 miles from Calcutta, they were the only European family living in the compound of about five acres.

They had a large house with ceilings about 20 feet high. The bedrooms had air conditioning. They had electricity, two cars, refrigerator and water. Several servants helped her with the work. The natives lived in the village in clay houses with dirt floors. It is very hot and dry in March. The rainy season is in June and very humid. The winter months are from October until March it is the Canadian summers.

They grow vegetables in the gardens. The trees were tropical palms. The birds have very beautiful, brilliant feathers. There are many monkeys, insects of all kinds, snakes, even cobras. The lizards were as hard to get away from. But they are useful as they eat the insects.

The cows are sacred and roam all over, even in the city streets. The Mckenzie children, never without shoes, played in the compound with three dogs and a cat. They were happy and learned to speak the native language. Mrs. Mckenzie attended school two miles away. There were several different nationalities. But he was the only European.

FRIENDLY INDIANS

Then Indians were friendly wherever they went. They were interested in Canada. They found it hard to get used to imported food was expensive, but the natives used lots of spice in their food, followed by sweets. The Mckenzies took vitamin pills, had shots, vaccination, washed all raw food boiled all water, peeled their vegetables for an hour in a solution before eating. They wore cotton clothing, open sandals, no stockings. The natives in this area wear sari and lots of jewellery.

They visited several large cities. They found wealth and poverty, mansions and slums and everything in between.

Benares was one city where there are many ornamented temples. Real silk, hand brocade is hand loomed. Patna is the largest university in Asia. Mrs. McKenzie met the Governor and Provincial Secretary of Education in Patna. They are doing wonderful work among the natives in the small villages.

Mrs. Hamel moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. McKenzie for her most interesting talk.

The meeting closed with the Hebrew benediction.

GOVERNORS SHOWN

Before lunch was served, Mrs. McKenzie exhibited some of her beautiful souvenirs: an ivory statue, a real royal tiger skin rug, a wall hanging of brilliant applique and embroidery, a large brass tray, embroidered scarves, shawl, several dolls, inlaid wooden box, beautiful carved walnut box, silver bowls, brass bells trays and many other interesting ornaments.

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Hunter and Chico Carrasquel, a pair of 30-year-old infielders, went to work for new bosses today with ex-teammates still talking of their hit-punctuated farewells.

Hunter, a good-field, no-hit utility infielder, was traded Thursday by Kansas City Athletics to Cleveland Indians for Chico Carrasquel, himself no shucks at the plate.

Off their last appearances at the plate Thursday, there's little to choose between the pair. But general manager Frank Lane of Cleveland is hopeful the slick-fielding Hunter will pull the Indians' weak infield defence together.

All their farewells Hunter slammed a triple and a double and drove in two runs as the Athletics defeated New York 4-1 in the afternoon half of a day-night doubleheader. He then packed his duds and left to join his new teammates in Baltimore.

Carrasquel, who wasn't advised that he had been dealt to the Athletics until after the night game at Baltimore, said goodbye with three hits and two runs batted in but Cleveland dropped a 7-3 decision to Baltimore.

Hunter raised his batting average to .153. Carrasquel boosted his to .256. Carrasquel has 21 runs batted in, Hunter 11.

George Reeves Does Not Work Since He's Superman

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's like Hopalong Cassidy trying to get an acting job in while Je and tails."

This was George Reeves's lament. He's an actor and a good one. He ought to be, I felt, after 20 years at it. He has been 21 years in the movies, his career dating back to Gone With the Wind and before.

So why isn't he working?

He's Superman, that's why.

"The producers wouldn't give me a job," he said. "They'd take one look at me and say it was impossible."

This freeze on his acting career has driven him behind the scenes. And that may be the best thing that ever happened to him. Superman made fast fall," he remarked, "I did it as sort of a chance, but now I was surprised to find out how much I knew, I suppose you ought to absorb some knowledge after being in the business so long as I have."

"Now I'm enthused about doing more. I'm forming a production company and we plan to make a couple of science fiction features back-to-back. The trick stuff should come easy. We've done everything imaginable in the Superman series."

An affable performer, George has done well over the years, although not always spectacularly. He went to New York in the late 1940s and prospered in early television. But when Superman came along eight years ago, he became encumbered.

His fate isn't as black as it seems. He gets perpetual residuals, which means that he is paid every time the series is played. And it is being played all the time. It is the No. 2 daytime show in audience ratings and is appearing in seven foreign countries.

Argos Sign Queen's Star

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football League Thursday announced the signing of Paul Fedor, a defensive end season with Queen's University Golden Gaels.

Fedor, a six-foot-two, 210-pounder from Niagara Falls, Ont., was Argos' first choice in the college draft.

At the same time Argos announced the signing of halfback C. R. Roberts who suffered a knee injury which put him out of action for most of last season. Also signed were guard Vic Kritopoulis, and tackle Dick Fouts, two more holdover imports.

Canadians signed were centre Normn Stoneburg, tackle Pete Bennett and Danny Nykoluk who did not play with the team last season because of injuries.

Ninth-Inning Pinch-Hit Single Gives Ox Pointers Narrow 2-1 Win

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Dave Jones pinch-hit single in the bottom of the ninth provided the Point Anne Cementmen with a dramatic 2-1 victory over Frankford Merchants in one of the better Belleville and District Softball League contests of the year last evening at the Point.

Only a handful of fans were on hand to witness an excellent pitching duel between big Al Carkner and Frankford's new hurler, Wayne Shaw. The game had several fine fielding plays and also a couple of clutch blows highlighted by Jones' game-winning single.

Johnny Batchelor also played a major part in Point Anne's last second victory, opening the ninth with a double to right-centre field. He reached third on Gilmour's infield out and Jones was called from the dugout to bat for Jackie Elliott. Jones drove a Shaw pitch into the hole in left-centre to send Batchelor home with the run that was the winning run. Two men were left on the base.

Al Carkner tossed fine ball on the winner's mound, touched for just four Frankford hits, one in each of the second, fifth, seventh and ninth frames. He struck out four batters and passed only one and was helped by a couple of fast double plays by his teammates.

The Ox Pointers gave Carkner good support in the first two frames, committing three errors. One of these paved the way for Frankford's lone run in the second inning when Doug Soule dropped Wickson's fly after a long run. Jason Field slammed a triple into left field, plating the runner. Frankford had only four runners after that, one on a walk and the others on hits.

Wayne Shaw, with Madoc for the past several years, tossed fine ball in his initial appearance for Frankford. He ended up with a seven-hitter, four of these coming in the last two innings. He fanned one, walked one, while his mates miscued but once.

Point Anne did not get a run-batted-in until Carr doubled to lead off the fourth frame. He was cut down at the plate later on a fielder's choice play.

Pat Gilmour supplied the Cementmen with the lying run to open the fifth inning. The centrefielder sliced a bone run down the left field foul line, his first circuit blast of the season.

The winners threatened in the eighth when Frankford's lone error and singles by Carkner and Carr filled the sacks with only one out. Wardaugh's long drive almost tore the glove off Shaw but he hung on for the second out, then got Hull on a fly ball to leave all three runners stranded.

Catcher Claude Carr lashed a double and single, the only Cementman with two safeties, while Batchelor doubled, Gilmour homered and Jones had his big single. Al Carkner and Doug Hull picked up the other base knocks.

Jason Field continued to hammer the ball for Frankford with a triple and double in four trips to the plate. Bill Rankin and Ray Coniglio reached Carkner for singles.

EAGER BEAVERS

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)— Mike Bodnar is fighting a battle with beavers for the 25 million trees he planted as a hodge carrier years ago. Beavers from the nearby river have been knocking down the hedge at a rate of three trees a night. When he put up lights to keep them away, the beavers took four trees in one night.

Radio and TV Broadcasters Being Urged to Editorialize

Editor's Note: This column was written by the American Broadcasting Company vice-president in charge of news, special events, sports and public affairs.

By JOHN DALY

NEW YORK (AP) — Increasingly of late the radio and television broadcasters are being urged to editorialize.

The right of stations to present editorial stands was affirmed 10 years ago, but only recently has the issue come to the fore in the minds of listeners and broadcasters.

A series of statements by industry leaders, culminating in an address by the chairman of the Federal Communications Commission to the National Association of Broadcasters last April, lent encouragement to backers of editorializing. One is that it takes an editorial staff to write editorials. The editorial staff worth its salt is marked by four qualities: experience, intelligence, courage and detachment.

An editorial, in whatever medium, must be a distillation of facts leading to a conclusion; this is the logical process in its most vital form, requiring of its practitioners that gift, intelligence. And since the conclusion frequently flies in the face of popular opinion—in the words of one writer, 50,000 Frenchmen can be dead wrong—it requires as well the equally rare gift of courage.

Experience, brains, guts: there are the qualities which each editorial staff must embody. And I submit that they are the qualities of the specialist, the detached specialist who has no other responsibility but his specialty. No one now on the payroll of a station in another capacity can be consulted on an editorial staff; there can be no easy, "when you're through with those reports, Sam, why don't you grind out an editorial about so and so."

The station which decides to exercise its right to editorialize will, I believe, soon discover the need for a new man, perhaps a new department — an editorial staff.

MISS SUPERTEST

Only Canadian boat in the race "Miss Supertest," well-known in this district, will vie for honors at the Detroit regatta on the Detroit River tomorrow. Five American boats will provide the opposition for the crack Canadian speedster. She will be driven by Ralph Eznbryo, shown above.

Tim Tam Goes Under Surgery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tim Tam will come to this centre of veterinary medicine next week for an operation known to baseball players as removal of bone chips.

Ball players usually return to the lineup after such an operation. Tim Tam, horse racing's biggest money winner this year, conceivably could race again but won't.

Calumet Farm trainer Jimmy Jones said on Thursday in announcing the operation to be performed at the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine:

"He's ruined, and about all we can do is save him for stud," said Jones in New York after conferring with Dr. William Reed, his veterinarian, and Mrs. Gene Markey, owner of Calumet Farm.

The three-year-old colt won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, then injured his right front ankle running the Belmont Stakes last Saturday. He finished second, losing his chance for racing's triple crown.

Dr. Jacques Jenny, the surgeon who will perform the operation has this to say: "I've treated a good number of horses with similar conditions, and some have raced, some have not. Some have raced and won.

"The operation will make it possible for Tim Tam to race again but it won't make him a better race horse."

Dr. Jenny operated on Swaps when the famed race horse broke a hind leg in 1956. The doctor says Tim Tam making the same complete recovery Swaps did; then, like Swaps, going to stud.

Tim Tam broke the sesamoid bone which forms the knob at the back of the fetlock joint just above the foot. The result is bone chips lodged between the joint.

UNION BUYS BUILDING

NEW YORK (AP) — A labor union has bought a $1,500,000 building and taken a $2,000,000 mortgage on another to try to keep hat-makers from leaving New York City. A spokesman for the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers, said the union feared the buildings would be converted to other uses, forcing millinery manufacturers to scatter their operations.

Dick Metz Tops U.S. Open With Two Others

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Twenty years ago Dick Metz, then a star of the pro golf circuit, had the United States open championship all wrapped up going into the last round only to lose it with a horrible 79.

Today Metz, a weather-beaten 50-year-old, was out in front again as the Open went into its second round.

Sharing the lead with Metz after an opening day in which no one could equal par on the heat-scorched, windswept Southern Hills course were Tommy Bolt and Julius Boros, a couple of aggressive, tough-minded tournament players. They shot 71s — real good golf on a day when some of golf's best known stars had to settle for 73s.

Southern Hills' par is 35-35-70 for a hilly 6,907-yard layout.

Toronto's Jerry Magee, only Canadian in the tournament, posted a 78. He covered the front nine in par but blew to a 41 on the way back.

LAST PLAYED IN 1954

Metz, who finished second to Ralph Guldahl in the 1938 Open after his memorable blowup, last played in the championship in 1954. Since then he's been running a ranch, playing in a few minor tournaments each year.

This year he buckled down to serious preparation. He won the Lake Charles, La., Open for his best performance.

He's dead serious when he says he is in shape and can play good golf right through the tournament. But most observers feel the weight of 50 years will be too much when it comes time to play 36 holes in the heat Saturday.

Welland Dumps Brampton 20-5

WELLAND (CP) — Welland-Crowland Switsons romped into first place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A League Thursday night by dumping Brampton Excelsiors 20-5. The win gave Switsons a 6-1 win-loss record in league play this season and dropped Brampton back into second-place with a 5-3 record.

Only four men of the Welland club failed to score. Ron Roy led the way with four goals, while Doug Smith, Dave Hall and Don Baker each scored three. Gary Garr scored two and Rich Daniels, Skip Teal, Jim McMahon, Ted Howell and Les Howard all got singles.

Norman Ranks With Kesselring In Ontario Open

KINGSTON (CP) — Moe Norman, hoping to control his temper as well in competition as he does in practice, ranked with Gerry Kesselring as favorite as the Ontario Open golf championship started today.

Norman, like Kesselring a Kitchener product, fired 65 in practice Wednesday and 71 today. Local professional Dick Green said the 65 was the lowest round ever shot over the Cataraqui Club course.

A field of 122 was scheduled to tee off for today's 18 holes. The low 60 and ties will continue over day.

36 holes Saturday in the 54-hole competition.

Kesselring is seeking his third straight title and fifth in seven years. Norman, now an assistant at Toronto de Havilland Golf Centre, has never won a professional tournament in his two years as a pro. But the practice rounds indicate he's ready.

Norman's temperament has often kept him from duplicating his practice rounds in competition. But the pros say he has the shots and Norman insists he has his temper as well under control as his drives.

"I've played 36 holes on this course and wasn't off the fairway once," he said.

Windsor's Rudy Horvath, the 1954 winner, had a 68 Wednesday and Nick Weslock also of Windsor, the Canadian amateur champion, had the same score Thursday.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Bob Temple Bobcats unsheathed their claws in no uncertain manner in their last couple of times out of the lair, and it looks as though the Temple Bells are looming up as a distinct threat for the league leadership. Bobby Hull came through with a nifty two-hitter, while the prize hockey rookie slambanged out a few hits that made him the hero of the piece. The Cats were shorthanded at that and if they keep up their present pace they are going to make it mighty interesting for the Ox Pinters and second-place Cobourg.

The luckless Merchants of Frankford have been unable to hit their usual stride thus far and have dropped six decisions in a row. However, don't sell the Rankin gang short. They have what it takes and some of these days they are going to explode with a rash of victories. Incidentally, this corner wants to thank the Rankins and Merchants for their card while we were hospitalized.

Tomorrow night should be a battle de luxe for second spot in the league standing when the Bobcats, their claws thirsting for more victory blood, invade the Cobourg Merchants' domain in a scheduled fixture.

There is a possibility the game postponed between Point Anne and Trenton from Tuesday will be played at Trenton also tomorrow night. The standing to date is: Point Anne won 6, lost none; Cobourg 5-2; Bobcats, 3-3; Frankford 2-6; Trenton 1-6.

The Booster Club tickets for the free air ride to Prague and the world hockey tournament come next prespring are new on sale. They were released yesterday and can be purchased in books of six for a five-spot—or a dollar each. Most of the Front Street stores have them for sale while not a few salesmen are on the prowl looking for customers. If you happen to be the winner and cannot make the trip to Prague, you can pocket one thousand dollars instead. Not a bad investment for a buck no matter which way you look at it.

The Boosters are getting into the stride in an effort to raise their quota for the overseas fund. The latest word is they have secured city permission to hold a tag day or days and these will blossom next Friday and Saturday, June 20 and 21. A nickel here, a dime there, an occasional quarter, the odd half buck, while folding money also will be acceptable. All these will add up to a tidy sum, if and when everybody co-operates. The price of a candy bar or a packet of fags won't be missed, so help kick in the kitty when you are asked to buy a tag.

Incidentally, the Tag Day is being held under the supervision of those super-Boosters, Win Quincy and Pat Matthews. You can reach Pat at WOodland 2-1368 and Win at WOodland 8-5716. The idea is, a whole squad of volunteer laggers is needed and you—and you—and you can help by phoning either of the ladies mentioned and getting on the tag-selling bandwagon. Do it now. Your assistance will be greatly appreciated.

FISH ARE STUPID

A friend of ours writes from Florida after hooking himself a handsome sailfish. Says these finny fellas are the last word in stupidity. Seems as how one was tagged, and hooked and landed a short while later. It was released and some ninety minutes afterwards was hooked again. How stupid can some fish get.

However, some of these babies are long distance swimmers. One was tagged in Texas waters and caught in Florida some 900 miles and 433 days later. Yet another was landed hundreds of miles from where it was tagged more than two years later.

Joe White tells me they're going to tag Stan, the first time he hops into the Bay of Quinte off his Rossmore residence, but there's no telling how far Stan will swim before he gets hooked, or at least comes up for air. He has one record to his credit, although his teeth were chattering when he made it.

Raydon Tosses Two-Hitter As Braves Edge Chicubs 5-4; Dickson Goes Limit, Loses

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The day after Christmas, 1953, Pittsburgh Pirates traded second baseman Danny O'Connell to Milwaukee for three guys named Max, Sid and Sam, three kid pitchers and $75,000.

One of the pitchers was Terrence, called a "sleeper" by the Bucs, who brought him along in the minors. Thursday, big right-hander Curt Raydon threw an eye - opening two-hitter for his first victory and complete game in the majors, a 2-1 job over San Francisco that gave the Pirates a three-game sweep.

By losing their fifth in a row the second - place Giants tumbled 1 1/2 games behind Milwaukee Braves, who beat Chicago Cubs 5-4. Cincinnati defeated St. Louis 5-0 on Brooks Lawrence's six-hit pitching. Philadelphia beat Los Angeles 4-3.

Raydon, 24, who lost his first two decisions in the majors, walked six and struck out five, giving up singles to Daryl Spencer and Orlando Cepeda. The Giants scored in the fourth on Cepeda's infield hit, two walks and a fielder's choice. Pirates, getting only four hits with both runs unearned, scored the winning pair in the sixth when rookie Paul Giel, 0-1 forced a run home by walking Roberto Clemente with the bases loaded — after a hit batsman, a walk and error had filled the bases.

DRIVES IN RUNNER

The Braves overhauled a 4-1 Cub lead with Del Crandall's single driving in the winning run in the eighth. Ed Mathews' 13th home run had tied it 4-all in the seventh against loser Moe Drabowsky, 4-6, who beat the Pirates 4-0 with a one - hitter Sunday. Humberto Robinson, 1-2, won it in relief. Starter Lew Burdette bowed out after a two-run Chicago fourth, giving up Bobby Thomson's seventh homer.

Lawrence, 4-3, once The Bull of the Cardinal staff, didn't walk a batter while fanning five of his old mates. Wilmer Mizell lost his sixth. He had a four-hit shutout until the Reds, now 3rd, 3 1/2 games behind Milwaukee, record two in the sixth on a walk and singles by Frank Robinson, Don Hoak and Gus Bell. Ed Bailey and Robinson homered for the other runs.

Harry Anderson drove in three runs for the Phils, cracking a 3-3 tie with a ninth-inning single. Dick Farrell, 3-2, won it in relief.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP)—Leatherwood 3fl, 9, ran second from Lincoln, Del., won the $2,000 pace for three-year-olds Thursday night covering the mile in 2:09 at Blue Bonnets Raceway.

Indian Prince sliced while Sandra Red showed.

Ontario horses won a pair of $600 events. Allan Welker drove Widower Pat Can from Owen Sound to victory in a 2 pace in a time of 2:10 for the mile. A. W. Chief from Collingwood, with Keith Waples at the reins, was second.

Another Collingwood entry, Legal Prince, was the winner in 2 D trot. Driven by Clint Galbraith, Legal Prince stepped the mile in 2:11 3-5. Helen Stout from Pembroke was second.

Game hitting Murray Dickson lost out in 12 innings Thursday night to a bunch of guys who were mostly in knee pants when he pitched his first major league ball game.

At 43, the knuckleballing Kansas City right-hander went all the way only to lose 3-2 to the American League leaders.

The kids who beat the old man, a rookie in the American loop, were Andy Carey and Elbie Fayland. Carey, who is singled and went to third when his theft of second drew a throw, was eight years old when Dickson broke in with St. Louis Cardinals in 1949. Fayland, who singled Carey home, was nine.

The Athletics, who won the opener of the day-night pair 4-1, fell to third with the defeat at Boston, a 4-3 winner over Detroit, took second place, nine games behind New York. Forty place Washington defeated Chicago White Sox, 6-5, and Baltimore romped past Cleveland into fifth by beating the Indians 7-1.

STRANDED 17 YANKS

Dickson, now 4-2 in his 17th major league season, left 13 Yankees on base. He stranded a total of seven in the 9th, 10th and 11th—innings Stowron will be the bases loaded for the final out in the ninth.

Ray Herbert, 2-1, won the opener with an eight-hitter, blanking the Yanks until Clete Boyer's 3rd homer in the eighth inning. Bob Cerv hit his 11th homer for the Athletics.

Dave Sisler won his sixth game with relief help after singling home the clincher in the fourth against Detroit's Paul Foytack, 5-6. Jackie Jensen pounded out his 50th homer for Boston.

Gus Triandos and Jim Marshall hit two-run homers for Baltimore, who blew a 4-1 lead, then won with Marshall's single driving home the winner in a three-run fifth against loser Cleveland reliever Don Mossi (4-6).

Neil Chrisley's third hit, a triple, won it for Washington in the eighth against losing reliever Early Wynn (5-5.) Al Smith pounded out a four-run with two homers for the last-place Chicago club.

Royals Sweep Two From Kings; Toronto Wins

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When you get right down to it in the International League, the younger pitchers can help themselves by watching ex-major leaguers on the mound.

In the five games played Thursday night, the winning pitchers previously had played with clubs in the big leagues.

Whammy Douglas, Don Johnson, Tommy Lasorda, Dave Birrer and Bud Daley each went the route in winning.

Montreal Royals swept a twin bill from Havana Sugar Kings 10-4 and 7-1. Toronto Maple Leafs edged Miami Marlins 1-0. Columbus Jets beat Rochester Red Wings and Buffalo Bisons defeated Richmond Virginians 3-1.

STAY IN FRONT

Lasorda and Birrer picked up their sixth victories as the Royals retained first place by one game. Bob Lennon increased his league-leading batting average to .360 with three hits in six trips. He also batted in four runs, two in each game.

Johnson scattered eight Marlin hits as he pitched his second straight whitewash for the Maple Leafs. He also scored the only run of the game in the fifth inning when he went to second on a wild pitch and came all the way home on Angelo Giuliani's double.

Sam Mele's two-run home run in the fourth inning gave Daley an 8-hitter. Victory Daley fanned seven and walked three and Rochester had a shutout but for his own error.

Douglas survived a shaky first inning when Rochester's Duke Carmel tripled and Don Lassetter homered for the Red Wings.

Sunday Sport Now Legal In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Commercial Sunday sport in Vancouver has finally become legal.

The British Columbia Court of Appeal Thursday ruled that an amendment to the city's charter permitting limited commercial sport on Sundays is valid.

The five justices were split 3-2 in favor of the ruling, which ended five years of plebiscites, legislature manoeuvring, pressure petitions and spates of angry words.

Vancouver city council asked for the amendment after voters last December approved it in a second time. The provincial cabinet asked the court to decide whether the amendment was valid.

The amendment permits commercial sport on Sundays between 1.30 p.m. and 6 p.m. Russell J. Baker, Vancouver corporation counsel, said city council will pass a covering by-law on Tuesday.

Officials of the Vancouver Mounties baseball club, major sporting group affected by the decision, were jubilant. The Pacific Coast League club and some officials were fined last year for playing games on Sundays.

Tim Tam's Track Days Over: Jones

NEW YORK (AP)—Tim Tam's racing days are over, trainer Jimmy Jones said Thursday. The Calumet three - year-old star will be sent to the University of Pennsylvania for an operation on his injured ankle.

The decision was made after Jones conferred with Dr. William O. Reed, his veterinarian at Belmont Park. Jones also talked on the transatlantic telephone with Mrs. Gene Markey, the Calumet owner, who is in Europe.

"I have no hope he'll ever race again," Jones said of the colt who won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness. Tim Tam missed the Belmont Stakes when he broke a sesamoid bone in the Belmont Stakes last Saturday and finished 4th.

Anthony Stops Pitts in 5th

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Veteran, stiff-punching Tony Anthony survived a rocky second round Thursday night, and then stopped Orville Pitts in 57 seconds of the fifth round after dropping the middleweight bout four times.

Anthony weighed 176 pounds, Pitts 174½.

Pitts, making his seventh professional start, was leading on rounds when the New Yorker began to work on his stomach and then his head as he slugged on the victory. The light heavyweight bout in the Milwaukee Arena was scheduled for 10 rounds.

Anthony, who dallied in the opening round and took punishment in the second, began to move late in the third when he found he could blast Pitts with lefts to the midsection.

'Dont Care What People Say As Long as They Talk of Me'

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Jim McCaffrey is a newspaper man's delight. He is also one of the shrewdest men in Canadian football who lives by this axiom: "I don't care what people say as long as they keep talking about me or the product I have to sell."

He's been in business as the game stand—general manager of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four — for many years than he cares to remember and people listen whenever he has something to say. Additionally, he's a great needler.

Last year, for instance, he wondered out loud if it wouldn't be a good idea to import American officials to handle Big Four games. With this, he retired into the background to allow club officials from east and west to clobber the idea.

NEEDED PUBLICITY

At the time, McCaffrey figured, football wasn't getting enough hit in the newspapers. He knew his idea would be met with indignation, and he was right.

Now, he's back in the news again—when baseball, track and field and horse racing are taking up most of the sports-page space. He thinks the time is coming when there will be fewer Canadian-born players on the rosters of the pro clubs. His reasoning: The homebrews are pricing themselves out of business.

"None of our Canadian players have signed for 1958," he told Jack (Ottawa Citizen) Kinsella. "And I hear that a lot of other clubs are experiencing the same difficulty."

Maybe Jim has a pipeline to the other clubs but stories of signings the last few weeks indicate that Canadian players haven't been too coy about lining up with clubs east and west.

Canadians on the Rough Rider club apparently want substantial raises before coming to terms. "The average person is quite happy to get an increase of a couple of hundred dollars a year," McCaffrey told Kinsella. "But a lot of players want a couple of thousand."

EYES PAYROLL

"Even $200 per man adds up to a sizable sum, and as for the rates some have been asking, our payroll would begin to look like the national debt. A lot of them would be making almost as much as import."

What is the answer? Well, said McCaffrey, there may be fewer homebrews on future Canadian pro clubs.

"I know that sounds radical, if not impossible, but who is to say that it won't come some day soon? There has to be a certain proportion, and once it gets out of balance, a club can get into deep trouble."

The day might even come when the Canadian club will be divided to employ "no less than six Canadian players . . . I'd hate to see a thing like that happen, but if the clubs feel they can get a superior player, or even one of equal ability, from the States for the same money—perhaps less — what do you think they'll do?"

Jim's beat has been hanging over the heads of Canadians for a couple of years now, but they don't be too worried about it when they go for more money every year, especially the fans—there who, in many cases, are better than imports.

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto boxing promoter Jack Allen said Thursday a "firm offer" of $300,000 will be made to world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson to defend his title in Toronto in September.

He would fight against the winner of Monday night's heavyweight bout in Toronto between sixth-ranked Alex Miteff of Argentina and Toronto's George Chuvalo. The fight would be in Varsity Stadium which could hold close to 30,000 fans.

Allen said the offer includes television and training money.

Carter Fights German Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Harold Carter, ranked among the top contenders in the heavyweight division before he entered the army 18 months ago, returns to the ring tonight to box German Willi Besmanoff, at Madison Square Garden.

Although Carter is heavily favored he cannot afford to take Besmanoff too lightly. The German has been able to hold his own against some of the leading beavies.

Besmanoff, a stocky broad-shouldered fellow, upset Pat McMurtry at Seattle Feb. 4, and later lost a split decision to Archie Moore, the light heavyweight, in Louisville.

The bout will be televised.

Leonard Takes Senior Baseball

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thursday night was a night of firsts in the Senior Intercounty baseball league.

Listowel Legionaires collected their first win after five failures and Oakville Oaks took their first lates after seven straight victories.

The Oakville defeat allows Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen to move into a first-place tie with the Oaks in the nine-team loop.

Hamilton Beavers took advantage of two Oakville errors and a scratch single in the 11th inning by Jim Wilson to push across the only run of the game for a 1-0 victory. Lefty Ross Paton, one of the league's top hurlers, allowed only four hits, struck out 11 and took his first loss.

Bob Burrows also pitched brilliantly for the Beavers, giving up five hits and not allowing a man past second base. His mates aided with two double plays.

HURLS SEVEN-HITTER

John Pohobsky pitched a seven-hitter, struck out six and clubbed out two of his team's eight hits to spark Legionnaires to a 7-2 triumping of Brantford Red Sox.

He pitched himself out of a bale in the eighth when he retired the side without a run after the Red Sox had loaded the bases with none out. Legionnaires, leading 3-2, scored up the game with home runs by Ernie Meyer and George Arlene, both with one on.

Gary Sheardale and Stan Lipka with a single and a double each led the Brantford attack.

Mead Johnson's five hits were scattered among as many players. Hewsen's and Helmes' singles accounted for both runs.

Sports Centre won the game with three runs in the first, adding two in the third and clinching the win with four in the fifth.

Mead Johnson scored singles in the fifth and sixth.

Soo Greyhounds Have No Plans

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Acting Mayor Vic Hatt says no decision has been made on the future of the Greyhounds hockey club, an entry in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A eastern group.

He was commenting Thursday on reports that the club has lost financial support of the Algoma Steel Corporation and planned to dissolve. The reports, he said, originated in Sudbury which also has a team in the league.

Mr. Hatt admitted that the club lost "about $30,000" last season but said future plans will not be decided on until a full meeting of shareholders is held.

What is a father?

When you are small, a father is two huge hands. These hands help you cross the street. They put worms on hooks better than any other hands in the world.

A father is the man who sits at the head of the table. He gets two lamb chops . . . you get one. He is nice to be near when there's thunder and lightning . . . or trouble.

A father understands when you think you're too old to be kissed goodnight. He is the one who teaches you how to tie your tie, who buys your first razor, who gives you permission to take the car . . . and who comforts Mother when you aren't home on time. Sometimes he helps you fail algebra.

A father spends most of his life reaching in his pocket for money to give someone for something. His favourite words are, "Now, when I was your age . . ."

A father is the person you want to be like when you grow up. You can ignore him, but you can never forget him. A father is a small boy grown taller and wiser.

A good father's wisdom is shown in many ways. And not small among them is his practice of moderation in all things. On the occasion of Father's Day, 1958, The House of Seagram says once again: True happiness springs from Moderation.

FAMILY HOME

One often reads about a large family home for sale only to be disappointed when one discovers the kind of home it really is for a large family. We have just listed one that you will agree is for a large family — yet it is new and modern. The owner has lived in it for a year and a half and is now being transferred. Contains four bedrooms and bath on second floor. On first floor a living room to live in with a log-burning stone fireplace, a dining room, a den for dad, a kitchen that you should see to appreciate. Proud of room in the full basement for your future recreation room. Then there's an enclosed breezeway and the garage. You would be near to your church and school. We are asking $23,500. Can we show it to you?

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Aries (March 21 to April 19) A fine day for sitting down and analyzing your financial and social position and outlining a far better plan for increasing abundance and prestige. Also, take good care of your larynx as a good, clear voice is often the key to real success.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Think in terms of self today, your appearance, your desires and ambitions. Make improvements wherever necessary and feasible, and also get into some new, profitable venture. P. M. let social life be supreme and enjoy it thoroughly.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Ferret out whatever it is that does not suit you or with which you do not understand, quietly and keenly. Then see to it that you give something to charity, do some civic work of merit and increase prestige. Pay part of your debt to fellow humans.

Capricorn (Dec. to Jan. 20) Here is a rare day when you wake up feeling aces and smiling. Set out and meet people, watch a game of sport, play tennis. Get into the swing of things and enjoy life. A doleful outlook is never a happy one for either you or others.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 20) Since you have been upset because things have not been just right for some time, this is the ideal day to set them right. Be practical and act with conviction. P.M. see that you have the proper persons in for dinner at home.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Now you can get caught up on shopping, selling, gardening, prospecting — all those things impossible to you during busy work-week. And get letter writing done! P. M. get Swedish massage, other treatments that will tone up system.

If your child is born today in the line child born today is the type who appears to be rather slow on the outside but actually has a lightning-quick mind. Give the proper training with the purpose in mind to balance the two. Once this point is reached, the horoscope is then splendid for any precision work, such as that of the engineer, the inventor, the aviator, the research chemist or the banker. Interesting chart.

Druggists Smack In Middle of Tough Problem

TORONTO (CP) — Pharmacists, often relied on for medical advice, are in the middle of the tranquilizer problem, Dr. R. Gordon Bell, an authority on alcohol and drug addiction, said yesterday.

Addressing the 40th annual meeting of the Ontario Retail Pharmacists Association, he said pharmacists are in a difficult position because "an ever-increasing percentage of our population feels the need of some type of nervous system depressant or stimulant."

He said the demand has caused drug companies to compete feverishly to discover new types of pills. He said it is the pharmacist who can cause a customer to develop an unhealthy dependence on a drug.

D. C. Kerr, outgoing president, said the greatest compliment in recent years has been the "acceptance and faith of the public in the neighborhood druggist."

Sunday School Lesson

A Woman to the Rescue

By ROY L. SMITH

The person who believes that religion, the Church, and the preacher, have no place in the field of economics finds himself in strange surroundings when he digs even a little way under the surface of the scriptures. There is not a book in all the Old Testament, and scarcely one even a chapter of any book, that does not bear the vivid colorations of economics.

Something of the same thing can be said in the case of politics. Prophet after prophet — especially among the great ones — was immersed in the political struggles of the land and lived out his days in political controversy with the government under which he lived.

TRIUMPH OF PERSONALITY

The Children of Israel arrived in the Land of Promise as untutored, untrained, and disorganized hordes almost completely ignorant of military science. Their fathers, in Egypt had been slave-laborers employed on the vast public works being constructed by the Egyptian Government. The generation that was born and grew up in the desert consisted of nomads, shepherds, and herdsmen. In the wilderness they were seldom called upon to engage in anything like war, except on the most defensive basis. The nation came out of the wilds quite undisciplined, or unprepared to wage a long and costly struggle. The people were in no way a match for the Canaanites who were, after long centuries in the land, thoroughly disciplined as warriors.

Moreover, there was not one personality among all the thousands who exercised any authority aside from that of his personal influence. After the death of Joshua the nation broke up into rival tribes and clans, each group going its own way.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for June 15: "The Times Of The Judges", Judges 2:11-23; 4 and 5; 21:25.

Here and there individuals came into prominence because of their superior wisdom, their attractive personalities, and their personal powers of persuasion or of judgment. The Old Testament calls them "judges" but for the most part they could be more accurately described as civil authorities and military leaders. But in every case they maintained themselves in power by the force of their personalities, and not because of any office or legal designation.

NATION IN A CRISIS

During those first few months or years, following the victory at Jericho, it appeared that the Children of Israel might take the land. But as time went on they allowed the licentious practices and the pagan faith of the native inhabitants to seduce them. Little by little their moral powers were dissipated. Soon they became little different from the pagans among whom they lived.

The whole land was in chaos. Men had to cultivate their fields by night, to avoid being murdered. Travellers did not dare appear openly on the highways, but crept stealthily from camp to camp. Ill organized defence disappeared, so that the nation lay helpless without one sword or spear to a thousand men.

Nominally speaking, there was a military commander named Barak, but he seems to have been an utterly futile individual who found it easier to run with the herd than to lead the nation. And in that situation a woman came to the rescue.

Deborah seems to have been a woman of great personal powers, capable of vast indignation and of inspiring men. Because of her rare gift of wisdom she had settled hundreds of private disputes among the families of the nation, and had won thereby a large amount of public confidence.

Stung to indignation because of the sufferings of the people, and the helplessness of the nation, she demanded of Barak that he play the part of a man and lead the nation to deliverance. The resulting victory was one of the most memorable in the history of the nation.

It is one of the strange facts of history that on frequent occasions God has gone to strange places to find the leaders who are destined to save nations in which he had a special interest. We may even yet discover that the coming man will be a woman.

Russia Agrees To Nuclear Talks Starting July 1

Accepts All Conditions Proposed by Eisenhower

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to begin scientific exploration talks in Geneva July 1 on ways to police any world-wide ban of nuclear explosions.

The Russian agreement came Friday in answer to proposals Tuesday by President Eisenhower. Eisenhower's message, which followed similar earlier proposals, avoided a flat U.S. commitment to stop testing atomic and hydrogen bombs. The West has insisted that technical talks on inspection must come first.

Russia announced in April that she was suspending nuclear tests and challenged the West to follow her lead. The Russians have consistently rejected the idea of inspection and control and insisted that tests could be stopped by a simple declaration. Only three countries—Russia, the United States and Britain.

The Russian note said the technical talks are to be concluded in three or four weeks and then be continued "without saying the Geneva meeting should lead to a quick suspension of all tests."

HAS APPEALED

The West has made repeated appeals to Russia to discuss nuclear problems at the level of members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization invited Russia to join in technical talks and said they would go ahead with their own disarmament studies even if she refused.

Officials in Washington were reported pleased by Russia's agreement to sit down at the conference table and predicted by Eisenhower. Russia had proposed that any talks be conducted in Moscow.

Eisenhower proposed that scientists be flown from the United States, Britain and France sit in on the talks for "one side" while the Communists could send scientists from Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Russia agreed to this.

Chrysler Union Money Demands Create Record

WINDSOR (CP) — Chrysler auto workers are seeking equality with their U.S. counterparts.

New contract demands of the United Automobile Workers union, made by Chrysler of Canada locals Friday, call for the largest monetary package ever asked by the union in Canada.

The union brief, approved by a membership meeting at Local 444 hall, said the present average of U.S. auto workers is $2.40 an hour and only $2 in Canada.

The union has asked Chrysler for the full 40-cent increase but this may be waived if other monetary concessions are granted.

The total monetary package includes items ranging from straight pay increases to profit-sharing plans. The old contract expired August 31 but it is expected negotiations will run beyond that date.

The union has asked the company to start paying an annual automatic improvement factor of six cents an hour August 1 whether or not a new contract is ready.

PREVIOUS FORD DEMAND

A week ago union locals of the Ford Motor Company of Canada asked for wage increases of 20 cents an hour across the board. Chrysler union officials said they are willing to forego any profit-sharing concession if the company will start a short work day of perhaps six hours with eight hours take-home pay.

The Chrysler union also seek a one-year contract. Observers said the company will bargain for a longer one.

Other demands include full pay for jury duty if a worker in the plant is called by the courts; three days' full pay for attending a funeral of a member of the employee's immediate family; improvement in the cost-of-living escalator to one cent an hour for every .5 per cent increase in the cost-of-living index instead of a cent per .8 per cent at present.

Police Recover Part of Money Taken in Holdup

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today they have recovered part of the money taken in a Toronto bank robbery following a roadside search Friday night in which one man was shot.

Roy Henderson, 28, of Toronto was shot in the lower abdomen near Lake Wilcox on Metropolitan Toronto's northern outskirts. He is in serious condition in hospital.

Police said he has been charged with the armed robbery of a west end branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce Tuesday in which three men escaped with almost $7,000.

Peter Needham, 26, of Toronto, was charged with attempted murder.

Police said money recovered in a house has been identified as part of that taken in the holdup.

Today's Chuckle

Two little boys came into the dentist's office. One said to the dentist, "I want a tooth out and I don't want an injection or gas in a hurry."

"Well," said the dentist, "you're a brave boy. Which tooth is it?"

The little boy turned to his silent friend and said, "Show him your tooth, Raymond."

LITTLE DISRUPTION OF CIVIL SERVICE SAYS MINISTER

Refuses to Name Employees Fired

OTTAWA (CP) Works Minister Winters says the Progressive Conservative government has "leaned over back wards" in civil service politics partisanship despite "some very provocative actions".

"There has never been a government's record which has taken over in Canada where there was so little disruption of the civil service," he told the Commons Friday during an exchange which generated some heat

But he declined a request from Lionel Chevrier, former Liberal transport minister, for a statement on how many public works employees had been fired since the 1957 election for political patronage and other reasons.

"... There have been some very provocative actions which in other days would have called for some pretty drastic action," Mr. Green said during debate on his $253,000,000 spending estimates for the current fiscal year.

"But this government has leaned over backwards to be non-partisan in its dealings with civil servants ..."

Mr. Chevrier said he was willing to wait for a reply.

He said there was no reason to assure the country that the government "is doing a good job" with civil servants.

Mr. Chevrier said he could not understand why the government recommended that an employee be fired for political activity.

"I want to see the other side so why should they be fired?" retorted Mr. Green. In 22 years in office "the Liberals had appointed active supporters to the civil service. There were "many cases where supporters of opposition parties were unable to get work or were dismissed."

The discussion threw no new light on any employees that had been fired for political activity. That any talks be conducted in Moscow.

Eisenhower proposed that scientists be flown from the United States, Britain and France sit in on the talks for "one side" while the Communists could send scientists from Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Russia agreed to this.

The highways department offered Mrs. Vitanoff $15,000 for the house, a smaller building, swimming pool and four acres of land on the north side of the highway.

Judge J. E. Pritchard made the order with the consent of Mrs. Vitanoff's lawyer.

A department spokesman said the property is needed to provide a substantial part-payment on the property to assist moving to other quarters.

Russia's Big Jet Airliner Arrives For Display at B.C. Centennial Show

VANCOUVER (CP) — Russia's TU-104 jet airliner arrived here Friday night to go on display at the British Columbia's centennial air show.

The huge twin-jet plane, capable of carrying 70 passengers, covered the estimated 7,000 miles from Moscow to Vancouver in seven flying time.

The pilot-in-chief was T. T. Fyodorov, veteran of nearly 3,000,000 flying miles with about 16,000 hours in the cockpit.

He accepted a B.C. centennial plaque on behalf of himself and his 13-man crew from Harold Merriless, centennial committee chairman for the province.

He made a brief speech of thanks in Russian which was translated for greater friendship between Canadians and Russians.

Then, along with the two stewardesses and other members of the crew, he submitted to a round of posing for pictures, talking to reporters and being interviewed on radio with the help of Soviet Embassy personnel.

Russian Embassy personnel said Canadians were seeing one of Russia's best planes, a sister ship of the one that made flight from Ottawa to Vancouver, a Russian crew member said the TU-104 is nothing compared to the TU-114, a four-jet plane that will carry 220 passengers.

The TU-104 took about 5½ hours to fly from Ottawa to Vancouver, a distance of more than 2,900 miles. It flies at altitudes ranging between 30,000 and 35,000 and bucked headwinds most of the way.

Looks Like Showdown Battle As Fighting Rages in Beirut

BEIRUT (AP)—Heavy fighting erupted today inside Beirut. It looked like a showdown between government and rebel forces.

It was by far the worst battle in the capital since the rebellion began in Lebanon 36 days ago.

At least three big battles were being fought between security forces and insurgents who are trying to overthrow the pro-West government of President Camille Chamoun.

One of the battles was raging around The Associated Press office on the edge of Moslem sectors. The fighters were blasting away with pistols, rifles, machine guns and mortars.

Mr. Chevrier said he could not understand why the government recommended that an employee be fired for political activity.

"I want to see the other side so why should they be fired?" retorted Mr. Green. In 22 years in office "the Liberals had appointed active supporters to the civil service. There were "many cases where supporters of opposition parties were unable to get work or were dismissed."

The discussion threw no new light on any employees that had been fired for political activity. That any talks be conducted in Moscow.

Eisenhower proposed that scientists be flown from the United States, Britain and France sit in on the talks for "one side" while the Communists could send scientists from Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Russia agreed to this.

Comb Bush and Drag Waters, Hoping to Find Fireman's Wife

PARRY SOUND (CP) — A search party, bolstered by 50 firemen from Toronto, today continued to comb thick bush and steep Georgian Bay waters in the hope of finding Audrey Anderson, 26, missing since Tuesday.

The firemen left Toronto Friday night in a convoy of private cars on the 150-mile trip to Parry Sound.

Georgian Bay community, Carrying their own food and equipment, they prepared to pay their own expenses in the search for Mrs. Anderson, wife of a Toronto fireman.

Mr. Anderson has offered a reward of $5,000 if she is found dead. He said he hopes the money will spur more people to take part in the search.

He said Mrs. Anderson came here last Sunday with her husband, Ross, and their 3-year-old daughter.

She slept in a car, 10 yards from a tent where her husband was sleeping, because she feared insects and bears. Mr. Anderson told police he heard the car door slam sometime between 4 and 5 a.m. but he did not investigate. When he got up later she was gone.

Mrs. M. H. Willing, her sister, said: "The car door was open the next morning just as if she went for a walk. But she would hardly do that. She was afraid of the walking—about the bush, even in the day time."

Although Mrs. Anderson has worn glasses since she was three years old, she can see well without them, car door along with a box of special prescribed by a Toronto doctor after she underwent a serious operation a few months ago, Mrs. Willing said. She is engaged to nearby channel without success.

The search will follow inshore but there is a deep section between the cottage site and an island about half a mile offshore.

Mrs. Anderson is five feet tall and weighs less than 100 pounds.

FREE-TRADE PLAN STILL STANDS SAYS MACMILLAN

British P.M. Leaves Ottawa for Home

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain, after two days of far-ranging discussions with Canadian leaders over East-West problems, has left Canada for home.

The world of ideas "should be our chosen battleground," he told Parliament in a special morning address Friday.

At a subsequent press conference he said Britain's proposal last fall for a Canada-U.K. free-trade plan still stands.

Despite obvious difficulties, an Anglo-American free trade area might be just an ideal, "but it's the ideals if anyone wants to pick it up, in whole or in part," Lady Dorothy Macmillan, the British prime minister's wife, indicated as she boarded the chartered British Argonaut jet for their return home that in London the Macmillans soon may return the hospitality they have received from Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker.

"We'll see you quite soon," she remarked to Mrs. Diefenbaker.

PLAN A TRIP

The Diefenbakers are understood to be planning a trip to Belgium and Britain in August, and expected to participate Aug. 25 in celebrations set aside by the Canadian Corps in the United Canada.

They would later visit Canadian troops in Germany and take the chance to visit Mr. Macmillan in his home.

Mr. Macmillan indicated at his press conference—his first since the Conservative sweep in last September's Commonwealth trade and economic conference—that Britain will revive the Canada-U.K. free-trade proposal.

But he declined to say whether the subject was discussed here during meetings with Mr. Diefenbaker and the cabinet.

"I do not intend to feed fear the cards if we hold firm to our own ideals. In time even monopolies can change. . . . Nor do I fear a continuing struggle of ideas. That should be our chosen battleground."

Two Committed To Stand Trial On Fraud Charges

TORONTO (CP) — Two men were committed for trial Friday after preliminary hearing on charges of swindling Windfall Mines Limited of $900,000.

Stanley Stuart, North Bay lumberman, and Toronto hotel operator Ben Smith elected trial by judge.

Fraud conspiracy charges in connection with a transaction last May 1 when Smith sold Stuart 600,000 shares of U.S. interests.

Bail of $10,000 for Stuart and $5,000 for Smith were reset.

Special prosecutor Peter White, winding up the Crown's evidence, said that when Brilund Mines was being sold to U.S. interests they knew the transferring of fake cheques totalling $1,330,000 between two banks in Saskatchewan, Smith and the U.S. interests was like a chain reaction.

He said:

"Without someone removing the key log from the jam the deal would not go through. All this occurred in a small bank office."

FRIDGE COMMENTS

Magistrate Donald Graham said that from the evidence Smith benefitted $900,000 through the sale to the U.S. interests of 600,000 shares of Brilund.

"On an open market they would have sold for considerably more," he said.

The magistrate said sufficient evidence had been heard to warrant Stuart standing trial on the charges.

Following the hearing, Smith was arraigned on four other charges involving Brilund Mines. He elected trial by judge and jury and the preliminary hearing on these three charges begins Tuesday morning before Magistrate Graham.

Le Devoir Names Cabinet Ministers As Buying Stock

Duplessis Denies Any Connection With Deal

MONTREAL (CP)—Five Quebec cabinet ministers, 10 former legislative councillors and Premier Duplessis' executive secretary are named today by Le Devoir as shareholders or former shareholders in Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

Their names are published in the second of a series of stories on the newspaper plans about what it terms a $20,000,000 municipal investment scandal in the company. It was formed last year to take over from Quebec Hydro the supplying of gas to 250,000 household clients in the Montreal area.

Premier Duplessis Friday at a press conference denied he has had any connection, direct or indirect, with Quebec Natural Gas or any other company. Le Devoir on Friday had said the premier "maybe" was a corporation shareholder.

In its story today, Le Devoir says a check of corporation records at Montreal Trust Company showed:

Finance Minister John Bourque bought 72 shares July 15, 1957 and sold them Dec. 11;

Hydraulic Resources Minister Daniel Johnson bought 100 shares July 15 and sold them Aug. 25;

Jacques Miquelon, mining minister, without paying for 100 shares July 15 and sold them last Feb. 28;

Labor Minister Antonio Barrette bought 200 shares Aug. 29, 1956, bought 50 more at $13.50 last Jan. 26; and that he sold 50 shares at $14 and held 200 more shares at May 31;

Roads Minister Antonio Talbot bought 50 shares Aug. 29, 1956 and held them last May 30;

The Quebec legal firm of Gagnon and deBilly, in which Lieutenant - Governor Onesime Gagnon is a partner, bought 50 shares last July 15 — shares that were split two for 20 to the same of Jacques deBilly, one of the partners in the firm;

Legislature Councillor Jean Barrette bought 40 shares last July 15 and sold them Dec. 11;

Councillor Albert Bouchard bought 100 shares July 15;

Council Councillor Louis Baribeau bought 20 shares Sept. 25;

Edouard Asselin, government leader in the council, bought 60 shares July 15 and sold them on May 31 and Mme. Jeanne Asselin at the same time sold 10. Asselin held 120 shares May 31;

Emile Tourigny, Premier Duplessis' executive secretary, bought 20 shares last Aug. 20.

PUBLISHED TODAY INSTEAD

The newspaper says it originally planned to publish the story some Monday but decided to use it somewhat earlier because the premier at a Friday press conference commented:

"I read (Le Devoir) name them."

Montreal Trust is transfer agent for shareholders of Quebec Natural Gas. The stock closed Friday on the Montreal Stock Exchange at $22.50 a share, $2.25 above the Dominion Corporation price.

In its Friday story, Le Devoir said the political financial operation by which Quebec Natural Gas acquired the gas distribution of Quebec Hydro was Possible Legal Battle Looming Over Television

OTTAWA (CP)—A possible legal battle is looming between a Barrie television broadcaster and operators of a community antenna system in Midland.

Ralph Snelgrove, owner of CKVR-TV, Barrie, told the CBC board of governors Friday he wants the Tower Television Company in Midland to stop piping the signal off the air and then copying it by wire to subscribers.

He said the "parasitic operation" is "degrading" his signal which could be viewed with better results in Midland with a simple 57 antenna. Midland is about 35 miles northwest of Barrie, in central Ontario.

Mr. Snelgrove told a reporter after the CBC hearing that the Canadian Association of Broadcasters has a "war chest" to help him in his fight with Tower Television.

He appeared before the board to seek a power increase for his channel to stations from 13.3 to 16 kilowatts video and from 30 to 100 kilowatts audio.

NO COMMENTS

There were no comments from members of the CBC board on Mr. Snelgrove's about Tower Television.

Board chairman J. D. Dunton later informed the hearing that a written opposition to Mr. Snelgrove's application for a power increase had come from the Midland company and some of its subscribers.

Mr. Dunton said the letters indicated fear that the power increase on Channel 3 would interfere with reception on Channels 2 and 4 in Buffalo, N.Y., through the Midland antenna system.

Mr. Snelgrove said the antenna system opposes his bid only because operators fear the additional power will give his signal a still clearer picture in Midland.

If the antenna system was forced to go dark, he said it would be out of business in 30 days, he said. "It would mean the last case" of his fight and added that if lawyers' letters are not successful he is prepared to go to court injunction to prevent Tower Television from using his signal in the Midland service.

The case may possibly affect other community antenna systems in other small Canadian communities which are accused of such systems in Canada, licensed by the transported department for a nominal fee.

For generations, people have depended on pharmacists to supply them with medicines & health aids. Our trained knowledge protects against improper use.

Unfortunately, desire for greater profits is influencing supermarkets, variety stores, and even door-to-door salesmen to sell medicines and health aids, despite their lack of knowledge.

Since the prices we pharmacists charge are the same, your choice to secure all pharmaceuticals and health aids from us is wise. Without that business, which helps reduce overhead, your drug stores would have to increase prescription prices

Motor Car Smashes Into Room Of House, Furniture Damaged

TRENTON — Friday the 13th will be remembered well by the Mickel family on Marmora Street after a car, out of control, smashed into their living room and tore the entire wall off the front of the house.

The mishap occurred last night at 10:10 p.m. and was investigated by Constables Jack Graham and Garry Davis of the Trenton Police Department.

According to the police accident book the car, driven by Wesley Hamm, 19, of RCAF Station Trenton, was proceeding west on Dominion Street and when it approached the end of the street as it joins onto Marmora, the driver, instead of curving straight across Marmora Street, ran over the sidewalk, across about 80 feet of lawn and into the front of the house and coming to a stop when it was sitting in the living room of the home with two window frames on top of it.

The entire wall, about 15 feet from the front door to the corner post, was torn down by the impact and the wall included some bricks and mortar.

The car did not stop until it was right inside the house and had smashed into an oil stove, broke an easy chair and raised havoc with other pieces of furniture. Total damage to the house and contents was estimated at $2,000 and was owned by Russel Mickel, 72 Marmora Street.

Damage to the grille, fenders, headlights, hood and front doors of the car was estimated at about $150. One other passenger was in the car at the time of the accident.

The Mickels were not at home at the time but from what they considered themselves lucky. Had they been in the house, they said, the wall would have been very likely they would have been sitting in the living room and would have received serious injury at the least.

None of the teens in the car was injured other than a shaking up.

Works Committee Will Build Path Requested by Golf Club

TRENTON — A four hour meeting of the Public Works Committee and the Sanitation and Waste Committee dealt with an agenda of over 20 separate items. The committees met in the Board room of the Municipal Building Thursday evening.

The meeting decided to build a walkway over the creek at the golf club, which would cost no more than the steps the town had agreed to build in the same place some time ago.

Speaking on the matter, Councillor Hilton said the Golf Club does answer a need to the community and it is always been co-operative with the town Council.

It was agreed that the Town Engineer, Eric Aldersey, should meet with members of the golf club and make arrangements to have the path built.

The matter of issuing tenders was brought up after a discussion on the planting of sewers and water in certain new areas of the town. The committees agreed that the Town Engineer be given power to use his own discretion on additional work for projects under $1,000. For all items over the $1,000 mark he would call for tenders and the successful bidder would be chosen by the committee at a meeting. This will be recommended to the Town Council at the next meeting which will be held on Monday night.

They also decided to do the requested work on the road at the front of Hinde and Dauch to the men being charged to the company.

Eric Aldersey reported that tenders for work on town sidewalks has been issued and that the new grader the town purchased has arrived and will go into action soon.

The committee also decided that a new air conditioner be installed in the board room and with the firm chosen to manufacture it will do the job. The town will make a suitable down payment and pay the balance in two months after the machine does the proper job.

It was reported that the curbing at Cottrill Park is now being built by town crews and the costs of this will be borne by the Parks Board.

The town engineer reported that tree stumps on various town streets, where the trees have been cut down, have been removed. This has been done, he says, for the purpose of widening the streets concerned.

A letter from J. D. Lee on the town bridge was read in which it was suggested the repairs include the smashing out of the approaches to the bridge. This would prevent the "thump" when vehicles enter the bridge and therefore lessen strain on it.

The meeting also recommended that a street light be placed on an existing post in front of the parking lot on Queen St. which is the Trentonian offices. Councillor Hilton asked that the matter be taken down at the last meeting of the town council, as it had been asked to be placed on private property.

It was pointed out the light would be in a corner of the parking lot and on the town street. The committee felt it was a reasonable request as the light would be right and wanted to know what would happen if an accident occurred and injure one of the men working there.

It was decided that to strongly suggest the yacht club form a committee and take over the direction of Jack Vanalstine, who is well experienced in construction work, and instructed the town engineer to make the committee's wishes known to the men who are forming the club.

Discussion was held on various sewers and open ditches throughout the town and the necessary recommendations will be put before the town council for approval.

A letter from Jack Zigman was read concerning the collecting of scrap paper and metal from the town dump. The committees decided to abide by the ruling passed at the last meeting of council in which it was decided to keep all persons other than town workmen away from the dump.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Ross Burti; Councillor Joe Gould, chairman of the Public Works Department; Councillor Charles Hilton, chairman of the Sanitation and Wastes Committee; Councillor Lloyd Worrall, committee member, and Eric Aldersey, town engineer.

Falls From Bank Into Moira, Head Is Gashed

Losing his balance while standing at the side wall of the river bank at the rear of Thomas' Furniture Store, Louis Reid, 31, of Halloway, tumbled into the river early last evening and suffered a gash on his head when he struck it on a rock.

A salesman in a nearby store heard the commotion and called city police, who in turn called firemen, who fished the man from the river.

After having his head attended to by a doctor, Mr. Reid was charged by police with being drunk and was lodged in the cells.

Wrong Name Used in Police Court Story

It was erroneously reported in Friday's edition of this newspaper that Donald H. Ferrill was sentenced to seven days in jail for driving an automobile while his licence was suspended. The name should have been Donald Farrell.

The Ontario Intelligencer regrets any embarrassment caused to Mr. Ferrill by the report.

Membership at Record Level

TRENTON — Branch No. 110 of the Canadian Legion in Trenton now has the highest paid-up membership in its history. This was revealed recently by the president Ted Farrell.

On Thursday the treasury department of the branch held a membership campaign in which phoned all members who were not paid up asking them to do so and by this method a number of members in good standing were brought back.

Mr. Farrell said there are still some who have not paid their dues and urged them to do so immediately. The branch intends to be a contributor to Poppy Fund this summer on its new building and would rather have the money now in this way than to borrow it.

It is planned to put draperies on the large windows this summer as well as to get the front and side of the building finished. This work has already begun, with some of the stone work completed.

A large hole has been dug under the entrances and filled in with cement which act as a base for the cement steps and platform that will be the main entrance and extend around the building to the side door.

Plugged Chimney Causes Alarm

TRENTON — Firemen were called out to a home on Sidney Street Saturday by a worried housewife when smoke filled the house.

Mrs. DeMille of 273 Sidney Street, decided to take the chill from the house and lit a fire of wood in the furnace. In a short time the smoke began to curl out from the furnace and soon was all through the rooms. She immediately called the fire department.

Firemen Elmer Stacey and Mo Mitts rushed to the scene and on arriving found the chimney plugged and the smoke pouring out of the furnace. They removed the remainder of the wood and cleared out the pipes, allowing the draft to get through.

It was the second time in recent days the fire department has been called to the same home.

A former resident of Belleville, now living in London, England, has been visiting relatives and friends in the Quinte district for the past week. He is George Ketcheson well known in many people both in the city and Tweed where his brother, Laurison Ketcheson resides. Mr. Ketcheson, who is known as Ken Ketcheson, has been on an extensive business tour in the United States and Canada in connection with advertising for the firm. His last visit here was in 1954. They crossed to New York on the Queen Mary early in April and return home next week on the Cunard liner Sylvania.

During the past thirty years, Mr. Ketcheson has achieved a notable business career in London where he founded and developed a very successful publishing business, known as the Association of Service Newspapers. He is managing director of the company and as the name implies the editorial matter is devoted to military matters of the Navy, Army and Air Force. Sixty-two publications are published in many of the United Kingdom's most famous regiments and other military establishments are long-standing clients of his firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Ketcheson have two daughters — Barbara, who is married to Alfred Gundry, manager of Lloyds Bank in Sloan Square, London, and Eileen, who is married to R. M. Stray a director in his father's firm of chartered accountants. During the war years 1939 to 1945, Mrs. Ketcheson and her daughters lived in Toronto where the girls attend Havergal College. Mr. Ketcheson is a member of two of London's well-known clubs, Canada Club and the Devonshire.

Mr. Ketcheson, in an interview today, said that it is always the greatest pleasure for him to return to his native city and see old friends and his only regret is that he is unable to come back as often as he would like. "I've always delighted to have my friends look me up when they come to London," he said, "and there is no trouble locating me, for unlike the city of Belleville, there is only one Ketcheson listed in the telephone directory." His business address is 27-28 Paternoster Row, St. James's, S.W. 1, London, England.

IN MEMORIAM

ADAMS. — In loving memory of R. P. Adams, who passed away June 13, 1954.

Sadly missed is now laid low, His loving voice is still;
His kind face we treasure in mine,
But death has left a chill.
I often sit and think of him,
When I am quite alone,
For memory is the only thing,
That death can call its own.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife and daughter.

MEEKS. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Archie Meeks, who passed away June 14, 1957.

O happy hours we once enjoyed,
How dear their memory still;
But death has left a loneliness,
That can never fill.

A Lift for Living

The Large Outlook on Life

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

When I was a boy I enjoyed reading "Gulliver's Travels." Those experiences of Gulliver in the land of Lilliput were exciting to me. The pygmies who climbed over him and bound him to the ground seemed very real.

Of course, I did not know then that the learned author had a deeper moral to his story. Wise old Jonathan Swift who wrote "Gulliver's Travels" was seeking to show how little things can get us down.

We can become pinned down by trivial things until we lose our vision. We can live amid skyscrapers and yet have only a subway outlook. We can live in a lovely city like Denver, the first mile toward heaven, and yet not feel the lift of the lofty peaks.

Several years ago I flew out to the University of Oregon. It was a day of such good visibility that the pilot favored a bit to take us over Yellowstone National Park. For about a half-hour we circled around over Old Faithful and the other wonders of God's creation.

But some of the conversation I heard in the plane revealed that the vast vistas of thrilling scenery had not enlarged the mental outlook of all our passengers. Some were still hemmed in by little thoughts.

On the other hand, think of the persons who catch great visions in humble places. John Bunyan from a debtor's prison glimpsed the gates of the Eternal City and was inspired to produce his "Pilgrim's Progress."

The Hebrew Psalmist down in the valley of shadows could say, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills. . . My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth."

A wise old minister was wont to preach one sermon each year on the stars. When asked why, he answered, "It helps us to walk among little things down here when we think of big things up there." And so it does.

God has given to each of us the marvelous gift of imagination. Through our mind's eye we can see the beauty spots of the world from our sickbeds, we can keep company with the immortal artists and writers of all ages.

With our imagination we can build castles in Spain while we are laying bricks or digging tunnels; we can see how life looks to people on the other side of the track and on the other side of the world.

If we are ever to have a brotherly world, we must enlarge the mental outlooks of our Main Streets. Jesus did not travel more than perhaps two hours' motor journey from Nazareth. But He saw the world through the eyes of His mind sharpened by incessant parable love.

Wide travel does not insure broad minds. And cold facts seem to make cold wars. What we need is the imagination to see faces behind the facts, the human situations beyond the headlines; that is the viewpoint people who do not figure in the news but who love their families and want to live in peace.

Through newspapers, radio, television and airplanes the world is now within our reach. From the room where you now sit you can radiate thoughts and words which will help to influence public opinion on the vital issues of the day.

Through the school in your neighborhood you can help to mold the moral styles of tomorrow and shape the minds of youth who may become leaders of state.

And this brings the responsibility for great living home to each one of us. A nation's greatness stems from those who make great the places where they live.

Our transient population has always been losing the old settler spirit of our forefathers who built the United States and Canada. The pioneers who opened the frontier with their covered wagons built themselves into their communities.

The restless moderns move about in trailers. If they don't like a place, they move on. What we need is a citizenry that combines loyalty to locality with largeness of outlook.

I am not saying that we settle down complacently in whatever conditions we find ourselves. A friend of Whistler, the artist, once called him in to advise on the hanging of a picture. He complained to Whistler that he could not seem to make the painting fit the room.

"Man," said Whistler, "you're beginning at the wrong end. You can't make that painting fit the room. You will have to make the room fit the painting."

Yes, we may have to improve our home town. But we do not need to leave them.

CAN THIS BE TRUE?

Dickens had one of his characters say that the law is an hass, but-as far as we are concerned this is a dickens of a poor assessment. Generally the law is much more reasonable than those who assail it.

We do, though, feel like taking a mighty swipe at the idiocy of the law if it actually reads the way that York District Chief Joseph Thurston interpreted it the other day.

When an explosion left a Bathurst street apartment house in ruins, forty Civil Defence rescue workers were rushed to the scene to probe for possible victims in the debris.

Because they were not insured against injury in this type of work, Chief Thurston would not let them enter the ruins.

"They could be killed - - and I could be sued for letting them go in," he said.

If this is true, it is a sorry state of affairs.

If he had ordered them to go into the building, it would be one thing. But if he had warned them and they had gone in despite the warning, surely he would have been absolved of any blame? If not, the law needs revising. If not, it puts police chiefs in a most unenviable position, faced with the possibility of being sued unless they prevent attempts at rescue work.

However, there is one comfort about the report. It places a different inference on the incident from that which we deduced from the first report. We thought that these 40 Civil Defence workers declined to help in the rescue work unless they were guaranteed compensation if they were injured. No matter what the danger, we doubt whether you could assemble a crowd of forty without finding a few willing and even eager to risk their own lives and limbs in an effort to save others, which is a rather striking tribute to the average man.

WATCH THE TOMAHAWKS

The members of the hereditary council of the Six Nations Indians think that the National Council of Women has a lot of nerve. They state that the members of the National Council of Women hold reciprocal views regarding the councillors. If there is a difference in cheek, we suspect it is because the Indians have their tongues in theirs.

The National Council of Women, meeting in Vancouver, had urged that Indians should be given the vote. The hereditary council of the Six Nations retorted that the Indians didn't want it and that the National Council of Women "has no right to suggest legislation for the Iroquois of the Grand River."

"When our people had developed such an ideal state why should they want to join or accept the vote of a country that is just now emerging from a bit of rights?" ask the Indians. We would be tempted to observe that this is a good question, were it not for the fact that no white man with all his buttons would think of sticking his nose into a quarrel between white women and Red Indians. One way or another, he would be certain to get scalped.

So we will just stand on the sidelines and do no more than point at the tongue stuck in the Indian cheek in this paragraph: "When a Canadian is worn to a frazzle through living the hectic civilized life he must live, he resorts to a rest, or what he calls a vacation, and tries to live for a couple of weeks like an Indian lived before the white man discovered him."

A tent with speckled sun and water skis and 18 holes of golf? Like the Indian lived, with portable TV and transistor radios and Elvis Presley records? Not to mention propane camp stoves and portable coolers and trailers with "all conveniences."

FRIED GRASSHOPPERS

Fried grasshoppers, considered a delicacy at Christmas cocktail parties, are still selling in a local store for $1 for a tiny cartton. Farmers, next year sell your grasshopper crops and to heck with wheat and sugar beets. How else can you make $43,000 an acre?—(Lethbridge Herald.)

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

A PRETTY GOOD LAND

In spite of the graft that is said to abound,
In spite of the rogues and their ways,
In spite of the wrong that's occasionally found,
My country, I still sing thy praise.
Let the muck rakers rake and view things with alarm,
Let them loudly proclaim their writings with gall,
This country of ours still retains all its charm;
It's a pretty good land after
all.

I heed not the shout of the scoffer who cries
That riches are dragging us down,
For the Stars and Stripes proudly and splendidly flies
Over city and prairie and town,
And the warmth of the sun and the grace of the dew
As sweetly and tenderly fall;
In millions of hearts there are hearts beating true;
It's a pretty good land after
all.

Let him who will say that this land that we love
Is losing its vision of right;
I say that her skies that are bending above
Are as gentle and blue and as bright
As they were when this nation of ours was first born.
Oh, the wrong that we see is but small;
And in spite of the lips that are turned up in scorn,
It's a pretty good land after
all.

New Atlas of the Skies

By A. J. Brandon in UNESCO Features

In observatories all over the world astronomers are busily ironing excitedly the "pages" of a new sky atlas such as the world has never seen before — a superb map of the heavens which is already revealing secrets of the universe. Undertaken by the National Geographic Society (U.S.A.) and the California Institute of Technology which operates the Mount Palomar Observatory, the atlas is a photographic record of a giant map of the universe, the result of some seventeen years of intensive study.

Intriguingly, the results of this massive survey are already posing new queries, while the answers to others seem tantalizingly close.

One special piece of optical equipment — the "Big Schmidt" telescope — has brought reality to the astronomers' dreams by making it possible to photograph the heavens to a hitherto unprecedented depth in space — 600 million light-years. In reality Big Schmidt is a huge camera, named after its inventor Dr. Bernhard Schmidt, a German optical specialist. It has a wide aperture — measuring 48 inches across and a reflecting mirror of 72 inches. It is a special camera, penetrating with high fidelity ten times deeper into the universe than any known space volume a thousand times greater than any hitherto-known previous attempts to chart the skies photographically. Three separate plates have to take pictures of hitherto unknown sharpness and clarity at exposures of 45 minutes. A "light-year" is the distance light travels in one year — nearly six million million miles. The Big Schmidt can reach out some 600 million light-years to obtain its pictures.

Originally, this wonderful telescope was not designed specifically for star-mapping. It was rather as a "Scouting instrument" for the mighty 200-inch Hale telescope at Palomar Observatory. But in the Sky Survey it was soon found that the Big Schmidt was of paramount importance. With its wide-angle reflector, it could easily sun itself corded on supersensitive film all visible parts of the sky, even cone-shaped slices of space, reaching out to an average distance of 2,000 billion billion miles. It accomplished in a few years a task for which the "mightier" 200-inch Hale telescope would have needed 10,000 years or so, though the "mightier" scope will in three times as far.

Yet the Hale is vital too, for when the Big Schmidt discovers some unusual phenomena they turn it over to the 200-inch Hale telescope. The immense scope of the work may be better understood when it is known that the new sky atlas will keep astronomers at work for a year just studying the results for an estimated 50 to 100 years.

When conditions are suitable the Big Schmidt goes into action, but even then it is possible to obtain (usually) only four matching pairs of red and blue photographic plates a night.

Each section of the sky is photographed on 14-inch photographic plates through red and blue filters. For a blue exposure about 30 minutes are needed, for a red approximately an hour. This "double" exposure reveals a great deal about the temperature and brilliance of distant stars. Astronomers will enable astronomers to learn more about the "novae" and "supernovae" — those stars which suddenly and inexplicably explode and swiftly burn themselves out, giving a brightness estimated to be millions of times greater than that of the sun.

In all, nearly three-quarters of the sky visible from Palomar have been photographed and recorded.

* * *

What mysteries and secrets of the universe will this new atlas help to solve, when it is available? It is difficult to say, of course, but many astronomers feel that, having long excited the earth's astronomers are these:

How old are the stars? Are they ageless, or are some continually being born while others die?

Do celestial systems hurtling outward eventually reach the speed of light and disappear from view for ever?

Does space curve somewhere out on the edge of the vast stretches of the universe — or is it boundless?

What is the power which operates the universe?

What causes those gigantic explosions that astronomers have seen from time to time both in the Milky Way and in the nebulae millions of miles further into space?

What is the true source of cosmic rays?

How many suns are there in the heavens? One expert put forward the theory that all the grains of sand on every beach in the world would not equal the number of suns in the heavens!

Almost from the beginning of the surveys astronomical discoveries have been made. In 1950, for instance, the discovery of two new great stellar systems in the Constellation of Leo was announced. Up to this time, the smallest known galaxies were estimated to possess a diameter of about 10,000 light-years; the smallest of the new discoveries is estimated to have a diameter of only 1,500 light-years, which suggests that perhaps even smaller stellar systems exist.

Then, in 1951, came the announcement of a much more startling discovery — that there are more than 1,000 clusters of nebulae in the heavens, as compared with the mere handful known prior to the survey. These clusters contain great masses of stars and gas, some as far as 350 million light-years way.

But the most revolutionary discovery of all was made by Dr. Walter Baade, early in 1953. Working at Palomar, Dr. Baade found that, contrary to scientific belief, the universe is immense beyond the earth's own galaxy (the Milky Way lare twice as far away as had been believed before. The most distant galaxies visible through the 200-inch Hale telescope, Dr. Baade discovered, are two billion light-years away.

What is the significance of this discovery? The observable universe is now known to be many times as great as believed, while its age is put at four billion years.

Almost daily new aggregations of stars and systems of stars, nebulae like the Milky Way, are discovered. Yet the Milky Way itself much new information has been added. Indeed it is now seen as a great flat wheel of stars, slowly spinning in space with swarms of stars, gas and dust aprilling off its rim.

The foregoing is but a microscopic fragment of new knowledge about the universe which the sky atlas has already revealed. Equivalent in size to about 20 Yellow Pages directories, the completed sky atlas will comprise 1,760 pages of photographs. Overall cost of one printing of the finished atlas — and another all other expenses involved, will be about $2,712 ($2,000) per copy. By 1959, it is expected that sections of the atlas will have been printed and distributed to the hundred or so observatories which have ordered it.

With the new image we shall learn how large creation really is. We shall learn whether the universe is of uniform structure, and whether it had a definite beginning in space and time? Perhaps, also, we may learn whether the universe will end one day, or simply go on extending outward endlessly into space.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SIGNIFICANCE OF THOUGHT

In the Bible you will find this line: "For as he thinketh in his heart, so is he." In other words we are what we think. You can easily get the meaning of a man after a brief talk with him. Look close enough, carefully listen, and you are apt to read his story right across his face! There is a line in Emerson's writing that I often think upon. He says: "What you are speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say."

We love and trust people instinctively. Our thoughts of a man are but our autobiography. We ourselves are our most accurate testimonial. The old philosopher thought is that no one can keep us from it. It is forever active and free, in fact. It is the one thing in the world! A gag can be put upon the expression of a thought, but not upon its existence. Thought will forever remain the main significant, for from it are born the joys, hopes and aspirations that become a part of our daily living. We often think ourselves out of illness. It is from the throne of the human mind that all good thoughts are born and sent out into the world. There is nothing more significant than what we do with our inborn power of thought. You can mediocre, or you can make it something before that great bronze by Rodin called "The Thinker." No one can know our thoughts until we give expression to them. We have no more sacred possession. It's what we do with our thoughts that can make us or lives significant. We can visit, and talk with any number of useful people, but remain isolated in their books. Our thoughts have a tendency to do with our success and happiness in this best of all possible worlds!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The popular notion is that your have to do to enter the newly populous cult of fishing is buy one of those light-rod-and-cast casting outfits, and away you go.

It does not take long, nowadays, to pick up the trick of casting with the modern tackle and reels. The more old-fashioned bait casting tackle has been vastly improved in recent years, and almost anybody, on any summer vacation, can put you onto it in a few minutes. And in a few days you are casting like a champion. But there is one more phase to fishing than casting, one m o r e item of equipment, and a hundred dollar box full of lures. And this you won't pick up in a few days or hours, nor with a hundred dollars.

It is the natural history of fish, be it a good angler, it is vastly more important that you know the natural history of fish, where you live, how they l i v e, their habits of life, than that you have all the skills you can practice with rod.

Thus, when we grow a little shamed at the sight of all these expensively clad and equipped people taking up fishing as a hobby, and fret about the destruction t h e y will wreak upon the fish in our hard-pressed lakes and streams, we should remember that out five in a hundred of them will take the trouble to do with our natural history of fish. All they will be doing is to have a lot of arm exercise and to nourish the resort trade.

OLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

Private H. Theobald, "B" Company of the Argyll Light Infantry (Tank) was chosen the "most efficient recruit" of the battalion for the year 1938 at the annual inspection which was held on the snow-ouries lawn. To mark this attainment of such signal honour, Private Theobald was awarded the fine trophy donated by the Army and Navy Veterans' Association of this city. It is a handsome silver cup and in future will be up for annual competition among the privates of the regiment. The large silver cup will be in permanent possession of the battalion successful prize winners will have their names suitably inscribed on the silver cup, while a Theobald name is entered as that of first winner. He will also receive a smaller silver cup which will be engraved and remain in his possession. Other annual winners will receive the same award. The award is given according to the number of points gained during the training season of the battalion by the new recruit.

Ex. Ald. E. J. Baldree has decided not to accept the honor of entering the city council to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation from the city of Ald. Ray Carr. Mr. Baldree is entitled to enter the council to fill the vacancy owing to the fact that he ran next to the lowest man elected in Mr. R. J. Powell, barrister, and Mr. Baldree will step aside and allow Mr. Howell to take the seat.

In the opening game of baseball here this season the Intermediates defeated the Napanee team by a score of 5 to 1, Mayor Allan McFee threw the first ball and the attendance was only fair, but it-was a good game. The following composed the teams: Belleville, — Gerow, Campbell, Watkins, Bateman, O'Neil; Smith, Yohn, Bathurst and Rowland. Napanee, — Rose, Shortle, Schultz, Warner, Allison, Tremble, McNeil, Derry and Wood. The umpire was James Erskine.

Bancroft had a bad fire on the 15th. Inst., which resulted in the destruction of two business places and a restaurant.

What has become of all the railroads that were going to make a descent upon this peaceful city some time ago? It doesn't look as though we need to become excited over the possibility of the Grand Park being cut up.

Anger Can Prove Fatal

London Free Press

A charge of manslaughter against accused man was dismissed in a Toronto court after a doctor had reported a psychiatrist believed that the skull of a man who fell dead on the street after a brawl, had no cuts, fractures, or any indication of a blow. He testified that the man died of brain hemorrhage, probably brought on by loss of temper.

Which ought to be a warning to all who are given to such outbursts of temper and irritability. It can prove fatal.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

THE PAIN WE CALL "SCIATICA" CAN BE FROM VARIOUS CAUSES

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you write about the cause of sciatica, proper treatment, and if there is a cure? — Mrs. G.F.L."

Dear Doctor: Would you discuss sciatica? I have one in particular that affects the sciatic nerve? — Mrs. J.W."

Sciatica is simply pain resulting from irritation of the sciatic nerve. And that, my friends, is actually the only simple thing about it — the definition. Irritation may follow infection or mechanical pressure.

The sciatic is a large nerve which extends down the back of the thigh, and branching into it from which supply the back of the leg, the foot, and the skin of the leg. The nerve, of course, originates in the lower portion of the spine.

But the pain we call "sciatica" can be from different causes, since this large nerve can be affected at various points and in various ways. For one thing, a disc — the pad of cartilage lying between two vertebrae in the spine — may be ruptured or bulge out. When the nerve is pinched at the point at which it leads out from the spinal cord.

Inflammation of the nerve is another cause, perhaps the most common. Direct physical injury to the nerve, as from a severe blow, is another cause responsible. Tumors or other disorders of the spine may affect the nerve. Arthritis of the spine is a possibility.

Both men and women are subject to this trouble, although men past middle age are more likely to be victims. Usually one leg is affected by the pain, but if the trouble persists it may affect the spinal cord, then both legs can be affected.

A full-blown case of sciatica, as any victim can hardly help telling you, can be intensely painful. As a general rule the pain is continual, builds up to a peak and then gradually disappears, although it may remain for a matter of days or months.

NO SIMPLE CURE

There is no simple, single "cure" for sciatica, as I said, there is no simple cause. The treatment positively must be suited to the case, so in sciatica, careful, painstaking diagnosis is an absolute must. Indeed, it may be difficult for any physician, no matter how skilled, to hit on the cause quickly.

Once the cause is found, then the treatment is usually simple. It can be readily decided. Any focal infection must be eliminated. If inflammation of the nerve is at fault. If diabetes is present, treat it.

X-rays of the back will show spinal defects if they exist. Severe curvature of the spine for example, may result in pressure on the sciatic nerve. For this, there are damaged discs, or the like, the proper treatment may vary. Anywhere from correction of posture to use of a special corset to support to "weld" a faulty portion of the spine into a rigid section which will take the pressure off the nerve.

Should, in some cases, a tumor of the spine or spinal cord be suspected, then special studies would be required to learn if and beyond the scope of this column, although your physician, if he suspects this to be the trouble, will advise you as to where and how to have these studies but intricate, delicate performed.

In short, so "sciatica cure" is worth a penny until first the cause is ascertained. Once that is done, you have reason to look for relief.

"Dear Dr. Molner: How could a person know he has ulcers? Can you give symptoms. — R. W."

I recently did, but for a practical working rule, don't look for symptoms. If you have a real, hard-working stomach ulcer, you'll go to the doctor to find out why it hurts. And then you'll find out.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a substitute for citric acid in the diet when a person is allergic to citrus fruits? — Mrs. E."

Vitamin C, or ascorbic acid, is available in tablets, enclosed in a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 3c in coin to cover handling.

Best Teachers Were at Home

Victoria Times

On In Ho was a 26-year-old Korean Christian who had come to Canada to continue his education and education.

Recently he left the campus of the University of Pennsylvania to mail a letter home. He was then the target of a group of young delinquents and beaten to death with blackjacks and pop bottles.

The mayor of Philadelphia wept for the shame of the violent crime.

Since that time a letter has come from the parents of On In Ho asking "the most insistent possible treatment within the law be instituted against the fourteen teenagers accused of the crime. It also offers to set up a fund for their "religious, educational, vocational and social guidance" when ever they obtain freedom.

They wish, the parents wrote, to turn around the Christian purpose in the hope "that we can do something to minimize the juvenile criminal actions which are to be found not only in your country but in Korea, and, we are sure, everywhere on earth."

In In Ho came to this continent to learn. Where can be found better teachers than he left in his home?

LIFE IS JUST NATURALLY HAPPY

A man remarked casually in conversation that he neither drank, smoked, nor gambled. "Heavens above," cried a listener, "what a package of potential happiness you've managed to get any satisfaction out of life!" And the reply was, "I live it."

It is one of the most incredible facts that many people fail to see that life has all sorts of joys and satisfactions as part of its building equipment. We allude to Robinson, Tremble, McNeil, Derry and Wood. The umpire was James Erskine.

Bancroft had a bad fire on the 15th. Inst., which resulted in the destruction of two business places and a restaurant.

What has become of all the railroads that were going to make a descent upon this peaceful city some time ago? It doesn't look as though we need to become excited over the possibility of the Grand Park being cut up.

Not that living life to its utter fulness and so finding it a thrilling adventure.

For instance, the natural world round about us is full of wonders that give gladden the eye, but give a real thrill to body and mind. Daily contacts with people can be — with all their disappointments — a source of delight that has all sorts of joys and satisfactions as part of its building equipment. We allude to Robinson, Tremble, McNeil, Derry and Wood. The umpire was James Erskine.

When it comes to the rearing of a family and the continual interest that arises in their development and outreach, then we behold fairly joys and thrills galore — yes, at their highest, even though the joy may be blighty interlarded with trials and grief.

Your Car

You Can Help Your Car's Engine Beat the Heat

By EUGENE MILMOE

The dash gauge could be haywire if the needle indicates engine temperature is nearing the boiling point, but usually that's a wishful thought.

More likely suspects are clogged or leaky radiator hoses, rust and water pockets, sticking thermostat, slipping fan belt, etc.

Yet many overheating troubles are caused by faulty carburetor operation, water or dirt in the fuel which leans out the mixture, late ignition timing, clogged exhaust, bad spark plugs or sluggish valves.

Often, too, the driver is to blame. In stop-and-go traffic, he can aid the fan and lubricating system by frequently accelerating with the transmission in neutral. He can also hold down heat by getting out of lower gear and idle drive speed as soon as practicable. Keeping tires well inflated and by not running a high compression engine on low octane gas.

T. E. asks: "Whenever the shift selector is in drive and the car is stopped, why does my automatic transmission seems quite noisy. Could it be in need of repair?"

A) This can occur when the engine idles too fast or when the idle is too high. However, there are several other conditions which might cause the noise. You should check with your dealer.

B. P. writes: "We all realize how much oil means to a car, but isn't it a bit far-fetched to recommend it for the chrome section? My dealer does."

(A) Motor oil wiped over chrome after washing will serve as a protective film — although wax is generally used for this purpose.

From O. V.: "In several years, including your column, I have read that moderate speeds will bring better gas mileage than higher speeds. Truthfully, is the saving worth while meditating?"

(A) Judge for yourself. At an average speed of 40 mph, you will get approximately 2 to 3% miles more to the gallon than you will at 50 mph.

P. T. asks: "After draining engine oil, is it a good idea to flush with kerosene before refilling with fresh oil?"

(A) Drain, it off while the engine is hot and you won't need flushing oil. Neither will you have to worry about any of it remaining to dilute the fresh oil.

Coal Truck Drivers Strike For More Money

TORONTO (CP)—Seven hundred coal drivers and loaders went on strike Friday against 19 Toronto coal firms to back up demands for wage increases and other benefits.

The strike, ordered Wednesday by local 232 of the Teamsters Union (CLC), is expected to cut off supplies to some industrial firms.

However, the union said some drivers will receive permits "on a rotation basis" to allow them to deliver coal to hospitals and institutions.

The Fuel Protective Association said the strike are deadlocked over the status of owner-operator drivers who haul coal on a contract basis. The independents want the teamsters to bargain for them.

Should Fire Sherman Adams Says Democrat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Peter F. Mack Jr., a Democratic representative from Illinois said Friday President Eisenhower should fire Sherman Adams. Mack said there could be in keeping with Eisenhower's campaign pledges to run a government "clean as a hound's tooth."

Three other Democrats on the House of Representatives subcommittee checking federal regulatory agencies said it is up to Eisenhower to decide whether to discharge Adams, his No. 1 assistant, because of Adams' dealings with wealthy Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

Adams acknowledged Thursday being a hotel guest of Goldfine, whom he described as an old friend. Adams also said he spoke with federal agencies on cases involving Goldfine, but denied bringing any pressure on Goldfine's behalf. He called such charges "unwarranted and unfair."

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Eisenhower agrees Adams' relations with Goldfine were not improper. The president feels Adams' usefulness has not been jeopardized, Hagerty said.

Gander's Feats Are Amazing

GOODWOOD, Ont. (CP) — When a poacher's shotgun pellets battered the wing of a wild Canada goose with the gentle name of Jonathan, it seemed unlikely that he would amount to much among the other birds who survived a wanton blast of gunfire here last year.

But the gander's feats of endurance constantly amaze ornithologist Dr. Alan C. Seagel, who watches over a flock of the wild birds at a refuge near this town 20 miles northeast of Oshawa.

Dr. Seccel performed immediate surgery on four - year - old Jonathan and inserted a stainless steel core in the bone of the shattered wing.

Slowly, Jonathan recovered. Last fall he flew schedule to Florida and returned here this spring with a mate.

Have You a Question On Unemployment Insurance?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to some:

Q. Last summer my husband and I operated a tourist business including a boat, cabins and a small gas station. The creek bar, which I also operated, opened in May, but the cabins and gas station did not open until the beginning of the tourist season. However, if my husband were to get sick on one day a week — Sunday — until it opened for full-time business, and did nothing in connection with the snack bar, would it affect his benefit? He has been collecting unemployment benefit since last November.

A. If the entire business, including the snack bar, cabins and gas station is operated jointly by you and your husband, he might be considered self-employed and not be eligible for benefit from the time you opened any part of the business to the tourist trade. At any rate, any work done and net profits realized must be declared to the local office and he should enquire there giving full particulars.

Q. Can a person who drives a school bus file a claim during the summer holidays and receive insurance benefit for that period?

A. Yes, provided he is ready, able, and willing to work during the holiday period and he is not being paid holiday pay.

Q. I understand that the Umpire is the final authority on all questions concerning claims for unemployment insurance benefit. How is he appointed?

A. The Umpire is appointed by the Governor in Council from amongst the judges of the Exchequer Court of Canada and the superior courts of the provinces.

Q. I am a single girl and am now in receipt of unemployment insurance benefit. I will be getting married shortly and wonder if I will still be able to draw benefit if I am unemployed at that time.

A. You will be eligible for benefit, following marriage, provided you continue to be available for employment. You should get in touch with your local office as soon as possible after your marriage and arrange to have your name changed on your unemployment insurance records.

Q. Recently, while drawing unemployment insurance benefit, I worked for a week building a storehouse, shelves for a storekeeper. I owed him a $45 bill and he agreed to mark this paid in return for my work. I did not report this to the local office as a friend told me the work did not count as I had not actually received any money. I have been told by the local office that I should not have received benefit for that week and I now have to pay back the $30. I do not think this is fair as I didn't realize that I had to report this work.

A. Although you may have acted in good faith, you received benefit to which you were not entitled and the money must be repaid to the unemployment insurance fund. It is not good policy to act upon information given by unauthorized persons. When a person is in receipt of benefit, any work, other than routine household chores, must be reported to the local office where it will be determined whether or not it affects the payment of benefit.

Q. I am receiving regular unemployment insurance benefit at the present time but benefit will be exhausted on December 1, 1958 to June 28, 1959. Is this correct?

A. No. Seasonal benefit is payable in the period from the beginning of the week in which November 1 falls to the week in which the following May 15 falls, both inclusive. You would qualify for benefit in this period but the maximum number for which you could be paid will depend on the length of time you were paid under your previous claim (that ended in July). Seasonal benefit will be paid this year to June 28; but that date applies to this year only.

Q—My claim was disqualified recently but I was informed that if I could appeal to a board of referees. Who appoints the members of these boards?

A.—Members of boards of referees are appointed by the Commission after consultation with organizations representing insured persons (usually trade unions) and organizations representing employer groups. Chairmen of boards of referees are appointed by the Governor in Council. Boards of referees are impartial bodies, chairmen and members not being employees of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Q—Why is it that a claimant who has finished a benefit period with some entitlement still remaining may find himself in a position where he cannot collect the balance of his entitlement?

A.—The Act allows a claimant a period of one year to draw the benefit to which he is entitled at the time of his application. In most cases a claimant will draw all the benefit to which he is entitled in the time of his application. In most cases a claimant will draw all the benefit to which he is entitled in the time is able to immediately requisite.

SHIP HITS DOCK

HAMILTON (CP) — The German Eastern Lines freighter SS Christa Gerdes struck a dock hole in her bow Wednesday when caught by wind as she came in to moor here. The ship slammed her stern into the dock, ripping a section of plate. Harbor officials said the damage was not serious enough to hold the ship in port.

Swiss Women May Not Vote

BERN (AP) — Parliament approved a constitutional amendment Friday to grant voting rights to Swiss women for the first time.

But so many deputies voted against the measure that the necessary approval in a subsequent public referendum seems in doubtful. Switzerland is the only country in Europe that still denies women the vote. The men have turned down similar proposals in the past.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Here's Financial Retirement Plan If You Have Plenty of Will Power

By THOMAS COLLINS

Most people at age 35 see retirement as a dreamy, faraway thing they'll come to one day. When they're old.

Then a short time later, usually at 37 or 38, they discover the main thing is hurtling down the calendar toward them. And they suddenly start regarding age 65 like it's day-after-tomorrow.

For such people, here is a unique financial plan for retirement. It's not a recommended one. Just a bold one.

But for those who worry over their future, it may be just the thing you should check with your dealer.

The plan has just been put into effect by a man who prefers to be called Mr. Brown, for reasons you'll understand.

MR. BROWN'S PLAN

"I have just turned 60," Mr. Brown says, "and in the last year will have turned gray trying to figure out what to do with the inevitable when I reach 65. My wife and I will have nothing but social security, and it will total about $131 a month.

"I make $7,500 a year. I have what is considered a good job with a good company. But the wife and I never could seem to hide in the mattress . . . we don't even have a home.

"His situation is not unusual, for a $7,000 man (except that his company has no pension plan). Want-ever sets in with most families after they pass $6,000 a year, and there go $12,000 a year. So many of them spend everything they make.

Mr. Brown continues:

"Our children came late, and it wasn't until last year that we were freed of the expense of the last one. Money became a little easier.

"So I made a deal with the company — a good man's deferred income deal. On my 60th birthday the company started holding back $2,400 a year of my salary. With it, at the rate of $200 a month, it is buying an annuity that is payable to my wife and or me.

"The annuity is payable, starting on my 65th birthday, at the rate of $100 a month. Thus if I realize it only 7½ miles wide.

up $300 a month worth of fun and luxury for five years in order to treat well for ten years thereafter. A fer all, you may find a gold mine before 65. Then, too, you may not.

On the other hand, anybody who is facing retirement income inadequate for normal needs (and $131 is inadequate) might well defer some of today's income as their only hope of escaping hardship from somewhere.

Deferred income plans in a k ge nerous, and they are unique only as they apply to a $7,500 salary.

Highly paid executives are now deferring their income right and left . . . in annuities, stock options, special pension deals, and so forth. They are seeking both a saving in taxes and a higher level of living after retirement.

Your company, for many reasons, might not be able to make a deferred income deal with you. If not, you can make almost any type of annuity deal you want with most of the leading life insurance companies.

The Kinsmen Club of Belleville announces that the Belleville Reereation Committee will take over the operation of the Community Swimming Pool for this year. The Kinette Wading Pool located near the swimming pool has in the past been supervised by the Belleville Recreation Committee and this will be similarly carried on again this year.

Director of Recreation, L. Doran has set June 28 as the opening day with free swimming for all the children of Belleville from 9:00 A.M. until 6:00 P.M. Plans are in the making to have a special program the evening of the opening day where spectators may come and see professionals perform and then may swim later.

A staff of five lifeguards will be on hand the first day with the same number of guards alternating shifts through July and August.

Red Cross instruction and free swimming will be carried on each morning. Season tickets will be made available shortly with reduced prices for children, adults and family tickets. The members of the Kinsmen Club are at present busy overhauling the filtration plant, painting and general maintenance so that the pool will open on schedule.

Wedding

BIRD — TISDALE

A lovely late spring wedding was solemnized recently at the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, when Elizabeth Louise Tisdale, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Percy Tisdale, became the bride of Flying Officer Walter Franklin Bird, of Ottawa, son of Mrs. Haines-Bird, Belleville, and Mr. Ralph Bird, of Ottawa.

The wedding music was rendered by Organist Sister Mary Bibiana at the console of the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of nylon tulle and lace, featuring a molded lace bodice with sweetheart neckline and bouffant skirt accented by bands of matching lace.

Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a headdress of lace and seed pearls, and iridescent sequins, and carried a semi-cascade of red roses mingled with lily-of-the-valley.

She was attended by Mrs. Daniel Peoples, who was gowned in a floor length model of taffeta net layers, and wore a headdress of seed pearls. Her flowers were a spaced white bouquet entered by pink roses background by frilled lace and carnations.

Mr. John Campbell of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, and Ushers were Mr. Donald Peoples and Alex Ryan, both of Belleville. Miss Jean Bird was flower girl.

The reception was held at Hotel Quinte where the bride's table was appointed with white damask, centred by the wedding cake and with floral arrangements of blue and yellow iris, and white pom-pom mums.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding, a light blue lace sheath dress with the peacock blue with pink accessories, and corsage of pink and green with matching hat, and accessories, and gardenia corsage.

For travelling to Lake Placid and Montreal, the bride wore a turquoise blue ensemble with white hat accessories, corsage of pompom pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Bird will reside at Parkdale Park, Manitoba.

Guests were present from Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, St. Catharines, MacDonald, Manitoba, and Belleville.

Following the marriage the bride was entertained at a large reception attended by a number of friends, and at a dinner at Maple Inn, Bloomfield, Mrs. Bird presented gifts made by the Hydro Electric staff.

St. Michael's Girl Guides Hold Mother-Daughter Banquet

A most successful and enjoyable "Mother and Daughter" banquet was held recently by the Guides of Company 8, Belleville, in the spacious auditorium of St. Michael's Church.

Twenty-six Guides and 22 mothers were in attendance. Head table guests were: Rev. P. J. Murphy, chaplain of the company; Mary Ann Hardy, leader, principal of St. Michael's Academy; Joan Hardy, assistant; Timothy, principal St. Michael's junior school; Sister Mary Annis, home economics teacher and senior grades; Mrs. Dan Stewart, chairman of the Belleville Guilder; Mrs. B. B. Burley, district president of the Catholic Women's League, who was guest speaker; Mrs. E. Logan, president of the C.W.L., Bloomfield; Mrs. Lillian Ashley of St. John Ambulance; Capt. Young, Lieut. Hinchcliffe, Betty Holland, a former Guider with the company, and Mrs. E. J. Bird, convener of Girl Guides and Brownies for the C.W.L., the sponsoring body of the company who convened this enjoyable affair.

A delightful dinner, prepared by the Guide mothers was enjoyed by all. After the dinner head table guests were called upon, and a few remarks were made by each.

BADGES PRESENTED

Division Commissioner Diamantides and District Commissioner Kuntze were unable to attend the banquet due to other commitments, but arrived in time to address the company and present second class badges to Eleanor Burke, Jo Ann Jones, Wendy Attrell, Pat Howe, Diane Howe, Carol Walsh, Catherine Walsh, Marie Dalpuy, Susan Gist, Judy Robillaille, Jean Jacouelline, Cheryl Power and Mary Couture.

Mrs. L. Ashley presented St. John Ambulance badges to Cheryl Power, Diane Howe and Brenda Cottrell.

Captain Young presented awards to Guides who won 1st and 2nd class proficiency cert "Hobby Show": Jo Ann Jones, Krystyna Trokaucholuj, Ann Marie Murphy, Carol Walsh, Jacouelline Boyle, Ann Rashotte and Judy Robillaille.

Light Finkle and Mrs. E. Hsiah, past convener of Guides, each Brownie, received a mug or tea towel as a token each, in appreciation of work and help during the year.

The girls then sang "Around the Campfire."

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of "Captain's Warrant" to Mrs. F. C. Young, by Commissioner Kuntze.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Mrs. B. B. Burley, was introduced by Ann Hardy. Mrs. Burley is president of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, with its 38,000 Brownies and Guides across Canada. She has the distinction of final approval by the National Council of the C.W.L.

Mrs. Burley thanked Mrs. Burley on behalf of the mothers for the banquet.

Mrs. Helen Gaffney delighted all with two lovely songs, accompanied by Mrs. Lorraine Preston.

A toast to the mothers was proposed by Guide Mary Couture, and Mrs. G. Power responded on behalf of the mothers.

A most enjoyable sing-song followed, with Mrs. Gaffney prepared for the "Fashion Show" which followed.

Commissioner Mrs. E. J. Bowers, opened the program with an outline of the fashions to be shown, and introduced the commentator, Rose Mary Dergavan.

Rose Mary modelled a sack dress, one of the fashions shown in Sweet Sue, as she did so.

FOUR FASHION GROUPS

The show was held in four groups, featuring gowns, the sack look, hats and accessories, and the ten-year look.

The commentator noted special points of interest about each outfit, while the audience was kept in "stitches." It will be a fashion show long remembered!

Interesting numbers provided variety between the appearance of the group modellers.

Mrs. Helen Gaffney sang two numbers: Susan Gist, Eleanor Burke, Carol Walsh sang, "Tammy," and Krystyna Trokaucholuj, "Hungarian Dance."

Captain Young spoke about the coming camp season and camp forms were available for the "guides who were interested in going to camp.

Mrs. E. J. Bowers extended a special vote of thanks to the following workers, who helped make the banquet a success: Mrs. G. Power, Mrs. D. Derraw, Mrs. E. Walsh, Mrs. G. Bruyea, Mrs. F. Murphy, Miss Lillian Smith and Sylva Pauw.

Also to Mrs. William Grant for the "Hostess Gift" for the evening.

Floral Emblems of Canada

Prairie Crocus Manitoba

by Lavonia Stockelbach

"And 'tis my faith that every flower Enjoys the air it breathes."
Wordsworth.

The pretty technical name is more truthful than the common name of crocus for this genus of the buttercup order, Anemone, comes from a Greek word meaning wind and pulsatilla from the Latin word meaning as pulse and with its lilting sound blends so well with the inspirative happiness of spring and its gay plumed setting of seeds.

Both South Dakota and Manitoba has also an Anemone Pulsatilla for its flower. The common name, pasque patens, is a European plant. It is not found in Canada or the United States and only one subspecies is found in North America, the Prairie Crocus of Manitoba. The real difference between it and the anemones is the elongated plumes.

In the very centre of the flower are styles crowded together in a tight tuft and hairbidden by the golden stamens. After fertilization has taken place and the seeds begin to form the styles lengthen into the feathery plumes which eventually fill in the centre of the seed.

When those tight tufts in the centre are slightly lengthened the flower is sometimes given the name of Lion's Beard.

The colors of the petals are difficult to portray and even more so the plume which at its base begins with a soft tan then on to a delicate emerald green and ending in an arch of crimson.

Naturally, such a lovely flower has many names. Pasque Flower is particularly suitable as it often flowers about Easter time, a wise method of dates. It is the name most frequently used in Europe and is associated with Passover. As one views a slope of ground covered with the flowers, the name prairie crocus seems perfect, but that is only one phase.

The very name crocus suggests spring and as one recalls its specific period of alternating spells, its protective sleep in the cold ground, sheltered by the scaly remains of last year's leaves forming a corm, one likes to think of the sleeping princess awakened by the first warm rays of sunlight.

It is the first flower to arrive in Manitoba in time for the spring event, the first flower we started with. First, there was word of an unusually early spring, then came news of a chilly spell and delay, but, fortunately, it came and I arrived.

Mr. George A. Stevenson of Brandon had written me to be in Pierson, if we started the four western floral emblems, the Prairie Crocus or Pasque Flower is the most critical as far as timing is concerned, for they are called forth at the faintest whisper of spring and frequently the slopes and high places on the prairie with their purple coblets long before the first robin has reached us or the last snowbank has wept itself away. To predict its date of bloom would be to predict the weather.

In 1936 the first bloom appeared on April 22; in 1955 the date was April 12; over a 20-year period the average date of first bloom is April 13 with March 23 as earliest and April 29 as the latest record."

A later letter April 4 — "The Crocus" started to peep out in the through the thawing earth on March 18 and at the time of writing the silky-grey cushions are one or two inches high.

The crocus has no perfume. If we put it in a separate genus because of its plumy stigmas its legitimate name is Pulsatilla ludgoviana. The species would be the circumpolar species found in Eastern North America. A yellow-flowered variety is found in Western Siberia. The violet-flowered variety is found in several European countries, and it is believed that it followed the Romans to England where it became established and where a dye made from the flowers was used to dye eggs at Easter.

PRODUCES ACRID POISON

The plant contains an acrid poison which may cause blistering of the skin.

At last, on a dismal rainy day in Brandon, Manitoba, April twenty-third, Mr. Stevenson of the Experimental Farms Service found for me a hillside of prairie crocus. Never have I more hypnotically observed, not the lily of the field, but the pale purple crocus of the prairie. The gentle slope was painted, how can one describe the colors, lavender, purple, violet, purple.

But, if words fail, how equally hard was it for pencil and brush to portray the gentle beauty of the flower. How to represent the silky, fur covering of the first sprouts, the stems, and even part of the flower. A dry-dabbed brush was employed to obey orders. Even looking at the fine pen-and-ink stores of efforts of other artists did not give me hope, but the thrill of my farewell, the tall plumes wave aloft. In all of its stages there is pleasure, in the garden of the home of Dr. Taylor of the University, a number of gorgeous varieties were cultivated and he discovered beauty in display flowers, leaves, and plumes, all at the bloom time.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

You often hear people wondering aloud where they can go for a pleasant drive in the country. They are wondering really where they can load about to get away from the hurly-burly of horns; the smell of exhaust fumes; the whir of hot tires on pavement and the strain of traffic.

There are many such drives within a few miles of Belleville. We were out for a drive a few days ago and at Stirling we turned north along the Marmora highway. We had not reached Forrester's when our host said, "let's get off the beaten path." He went on to say that he had not known this country well in his youth and that a tree wanted for we were in border country — the border between Hastings County and Northumberland County; between the township of Elzevir and what is to be called Sevmour east.

It is beautiful drive and I'd say I had a feeling that if you saw this country pictured on a travelogue at a theatre, you would express a desire to drive through here sometime.

There are a few miles from Belleville. The woods and fields are fully green, dressed in green and yellows of innumerable shades. The hills and winding roads are as picturesque as the streams and valleys. It is a drive you could wish for. It was still and peaceful, a million miles from the hurly-burly of the world. The farm homes defy description.

BUILT FOR FAMILIES

We finally remarked that our pioneer ancestors built for permanent residences and for the comfort of large families. We drove across quaint bridges which span crystal clear streams. We saw an old mill that must be very ancient. Our driver turned left at the first road we came to. With a roar of laughter he exclaimed suddenly "here we are back at the highway."

One passenger reminded us that if you keep turning left you will eventually return from whence you started. Not to be outdone our driver said he used to know the country began again. Deep in a lovely valley, surrounded on all sides by hills, we got to the village of Madoc, Hastings County. The village was Wellman's Corners and instead of going west as the driver thought we were driving directly north. We went again up hill and down dale through this beautiful farmland. We decided to eat from the lunch basket church which rests serenely on the brow of a hill with its well tended cemetery sloping away to the west towards Campbellford. We ate our lunch on the church steps. It was a long open shed made of rough hewn timbers.

It is a rustic reminder of the old days of the pioneer when farmers drove to church in a buggy, a sleigh or maybe a wagon with straw in its box. The cemetery has its memories of days gone by when life was more simple and arduous, but possibly more fulfilling. We used to leave Burnbrae and come back home through Menie. Anyone sometimes, if you have visited the Old Country, you will imagine that driving picked a village in their magic carpet and dropped it on the bosom of the Northumberland hills and in the valley a few miles away.

TAKE ALONG PICNIC BASKET

You can do the same thing in this Ontario countryside this lovely ville. A few years ago we got lost in Prince Edward County and finally ended up at Napanee we has spent the most delightful day wandering hither and yon through the quiet and beautiful countryside. Take a picnic lunch and waits for us to come and see. We suggest that some Sunday afternoon this week day, you do this. Possibly a picnic basket will add to the pleasure of driving along our country roads. The country is so young and fresh. The trees are green and come autumn it presents a colorful fantasy as though defying winter in a last act of glory.

T and T did not start out to devote a whole column to this drive but we were led along as we were the day we went driving and we have long felt that we should say about far away hills not as they look from our own hills and you will be glad to be denied.

Dear reporter's husband says he doesn't mind if we expose him as the driver of the family car. Perhaps he is left in the country he drove over so often with his country doctor father many years ago.

Watching Banana Boat Workers Brings Popular Song to Life

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Ocho Rios, Jamaica, B.W.I.— Once a week freighters from England and Venezuela and New York call at port towns like Montego Bay or Frenchman's Cove here, for the business of loading up with bananas.

On those night caravans of rickety trucks wind their w a y down from the hills to the docks on these nights and take their turns at carrying bananas until the lighters have brought the week's crop out to the ship in the harbor and they head back for another load. By then it is daylight; and time to go home.

The brilliantly lighted dock shed where the bananas are unloaded, the trucks are lined, counted, washed, wrapped, stacked and loaded, unloaded, counted and loaded. But between truck a n d ship takes place a remarkable performance which h a s been made watching the banana-loading Jamaica's latest tourist craze, with some help from Harry Belafonte. If you can keep out from underfoot, the docks are open to visitors.

Each workman proceeds in turn down the loading ha sheet's sloping wooden ramp, balancing a stalk head and ankle deep in dried banana leaves. He reaches the passes first a checker whose job it is to examine the stalk for rot, then the hands of which the planer is paid. Slees range from $1 to $3 per stalk.

"Six! Seven Eight- Bunch!" rings the voice of the checker as he examines the stalk. At the procession passes by the planter's desk, a pencil mark on a checker marks the size of each stem on a tally sheet as it is called off.

Then it's on board.

Near him stands a little o l d man with a razor sharp machete which he uses to cut off the each stem passes he eyes the stalk part, slicing the fleshy end from its perch atop the worker's head. If it is too long and will not fit comfortably in the hold, the machete flashes and w i t h swift precision slices off a few inches of stalk, passing as it does so only inches in front of t h e worker's head.

Usually the hurrying worker doesn't even break his stride — except for a while he is too fast for the machete-wielder, who will then call "Steady, steady!" and hand the dead in his tracks, for the banana already is packed in the hold. Speed will swoosh by where his face would be if he didn't duck.

At the end of the line is the "tallyman" of the group. As it is his job to keep the burden, he is handed a token, evidence of one stem loaded. At the end of the night he cashes in his tokens for pay — one cent for each stem carried. The average stem weighs 50 pounds, and a man may carry 50 stems in a night's work.

The bananas are dropped in a long water trough between the lighters, and carried to the next stop where they a r e packed in boxes. Finally they are stacked by the hundreds under the hatches, where they wait the lighters for the final trip out to the angored freighter.

Over the loading hubbub can be heard the sound of the "tallymen" as they are relieved, relayed to the boats, the voice of a supervisor chanting ". . . and a hundred, and a hundred, and a hundred, stem o' ba-na-nas."

SINGING STARTS LATER

That sound plus a tuneless humming from the wrappers, who are the only stationary workers, represented all the "singing" we heard. Our guide said that toward morning as the men themselves awake, they sing the work chanties the tourists come to hear, but we didn't stay that long.

Watching the banana loadings is only one of the treats that lie outside the self-contained resort hotels and towns like Montego Bay, which, rather being a banana town isn't too different from beach villages everywhere. Like all the Caribbean islands it has its straw market, where the natives, unrestricted by a language barrier, convert shillings into dollars with lightning accuracy and harass t h e tourists into making purchases with a skill and determination not seen elsewhere.

It also has its fancy shops which, except for the bargain-priced free port items like liquor and perfume, generally charge as much as stateside stores f o r English apparel and other shoddier items.

More rewarding, and holding a key to Jamaica's abounding beauty, was the motor trip from Montego to Ocho Rios. In the course of it we encountered lovely towns reminiscent of Cape Cod, with their white frame houses and mountain roads straight out of New England. Then the illusion would be shattered by groves of coconut palms, cuyca husks piled high at their bases, shading long rows of banana plants.

Great cottonwood trees w i t h trunks as thick as California redwoods, spreading bamboos, colorful shrubs, Flamboyan, hibiscus and honeysuckle suddenly broken by a vista of curving blue bay and white sand, or by a treeshaded waterfall, all could give only a hint of the rich scene of Jamaica's 6,000 miles of roads might hold in store for us — next time.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

BRIDE'S MOTHER IS ESCORTED UP THE "AISLE" AT HOTEL WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter's marriage ceremony and reception are being held in a private suite of a large hotel here. Her only attendant will be her sister as maid of honor. The groom's oldest brother will be his best man, and there will be 10 ushers. His parents will be escorted up the aisle together. How about me? Is it proper for me to walk up the aisle alone? Or could one of the ushers in the line come to escort me to my seat? In other words, what is the best procedure? — L. B.

If the proceedings and the processional are formally planned, and there is to be a definite "aisle," just before the ceremony is to begin, an usher escorts the groom's mother, her husband following, up the aisle to a position at the right of the ceremony place. Then the head usher offers you his right arm and escorts you up the aisle to your place at the left of the ceremony-place.

WEDDING INVITATIONS TO PARENTS OF ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should we send invitations to the parents of the bridesmaids and the parents of the ushers in our wedding party, even when we know them only slightly? — Bride-to-be

Yes.

HOW TO WRITE PLACE CARDS FOR HEAD TABLE, PARENTS' TABLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have ordered very handsome place cards to use at my wedding reception. I am going to write these cards myself, and I have several questions about what is correct.

1. My wedding is to be large and semi-formal. For the Bride's Table, for only the members of the wedding party (and we all know one another very well indeed) should I write "Miss," "Mrs.", "Mr." on the cards, or only the first names? Would nicknames be permissible?

2. Also I have been told by my aunt that there should be no cards at the places of the bride and groom. Is this really right?

3. We are also to have a parents' table. My family and I will be meeting the groom's family for the first time when they come to the wedding, as they live a great distance from where we live. Also the clergyman and his wife will be at this table. Should the place cards on this table be written with the formal names, "Mrs. Allen," and "Mr. Clark," and so forth? And as at a formal dinner, should there be no place cards at the place of the hostess (my mother) and the host (my father)? — Miss M.

1. On the place cards for the bride's table, write the first names: Dorothy, Arthur, and so forth. Nicknames are permissible when all the members of the wedding party are such close friends as the members of your wedding party are.

2. Right . . . no place cards at the places of the bride and groom.

3. Formal names should be written on place cards for the parents' table, Mrs. Allen, Mr. Clark, and so forth. And yes, as usual, there should be no cards at the place of the hostess or of the host.

WEDDING BREAKFAST MENU FOR AUGUST, SIMPLE, EASY-TO-SERVE, INEXPENSIVE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter is to be married here in mid-August. The ceremony is to be at our church at 10 o'clock in the morning, and we plan to have the wedding breakfast at our home immediately afterward. We would like to have quite a few guests, but our budget is limited and so is the service we can have. Would you please suggest a menu that would meet these conditions? The simplest menus, and suitable for that weather. Thank you.

— Bride's Mother.

Suitable for hot weather, a simple, easy-to-prepare-and-to-serve, menu for a Wedding Breakfast either seated or buffet, might be: (1) Fruit cocktail, (2) main course, slices of chicken or turkey and or ham, either hot or cold, served on the plate with ovdive salad or a vegetable salad or a plain mixed green salad; rolls, (3) dessert, ice cream or sherbet with small cakes or cookies. Hot coffee. The wedding cake might be served with the ice cream or separately: or you may have only the wedding cake as dessert. And there should be a punch or other cold drink served for the toasts.

Readers' Saturday Column

As told to Mary Moore

Question: I'm sending out an SOS.!! My problem at this moment is sponge cakes. A friend gave me a recipe with a super filling but no luck with either sponge cakes No. 1 or 2. The chief complaints are: Batter soggy and sticky on bottom of pan like glue. Notes: Have range with automatic thermostat. Have electric mixer to beat yolks and whites; folded with rubber scraper. The filling: 1 heaping table-spoons flour and 1 cup cold milk. Chill in refrigerator 2 hours or overnight. Very good. Thanks for any help you might be able to give me with the sponge cakes . . . Jane L.

Answer: The filling sounds quite unusual and rich! Rather than try to correct unfamiliar recipes I shall give you the one I use, as follows:

FOOLPROOF SPONGE CAKE

One and one-quarter cups cash sifted cake flour and while sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 6 medium-sized eggs, 2 tablespoons fresh, frozen or canned lemon juice, 2 tablespoons water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 teaspoon cream of tartar. Sift together 1 cup of the sugar the flour and salt. In a large mixing bowl add the egg yolks the lemon juice, water, vanilla and flour mixture and beat for at least 5 minutes with rotary or electric beater. Sprinkle cream of tartar over whites in large bowl and beat with washed and dried rotary beater until soft peaks form. Start slowly to add remaining sugar and beat until glossy and stiff and all sugar is added. Pour egg-yolk mixture over whites and fold in until smooth and yellow color is uniform. Pour into tube pan which has not been greased (don't use layer cake tins) and bake at 350 deg. F. for 40 to 50 minutes or until cake springs back when touched with finger tip. Invert on rack to cool 1 hour, then loosen sides carefully and pull cake free from pan. Use 2 layers with long-bladed knife and apply filling as desired (other readers write above) Good luck Jane.

River Valley W.I. Sponsors Annual Grandmothers' Meet

STIRLING — River Valley Women's Institute was entertained on June 3rd at the home of Mrs. Ed. Heasman. Her mother, Mrs. Ina Free, was cohostess.

Since this was the annual Grandmothers' meeting, Mrs. Susan Bush presented each of the 12 grandmothers present with a corsage.

Approximately 25 ladies and 17 children attended the meeting. Guests included Mrs. Ray Hills and Mrs. Joe Black, of Stirling.

New programs were distributed and it was announced the August meeting will be cancelled because of the Centennial.

The meeting was closed by Mrs. Ross Bush, and a report was given by Mrs. Ina Free.

Plans for transporting delegates to the district annual at Wallbridge were made. Mrs. George Heasman will give the report at the July meeting. It was decided to choose rug-making for the local competition.

The July meeting will be Children's Day at the school house with Mrs. Susan Bush, Mrs. Roy Tucker and Mrs. Phil Cooper in charge of arrangements.

Money is needed to provide a float for the Centennial parade. The directors will canvass for cash donations after the July meeting.

On May 3rd the F.W.I.O. provincial convener, Mrs. Insch sent a parcel, which weighed 100 pounds and was valued at $115.

The U.S.C. conveyed their appreciative thank-you, stating: "Your shipment has been received abroad with overwhelming gratitude by shivering children and adults. To many of them your generous gifts will mean life itself."

Mrs. Ernest Carr presided over the program arranged by her aunt Mrs. Jack Bush. The latter conducted the sing-song with Mrs. Phil Conley as pianist.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, district director, gave a half-hour talk on the highlights of the recent Officers' Conference at Guelph. She told of the total O.A.C. buildings and the college farm. She noted MacDonald Institute was founded in 1903 by Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless. During the past 55 years over 7,200 girls have attended regular courses.

The theme of the conference was "The Challenge of Tomorrow," and was based on "World Peace and World Safety."

Mr. J. Eccles, director of public relations of O.A.C., completed the theme of conference ?.

Mr. E. L. Loughrey, director of extension liaison of O.A.C., compared farming before 1900 with the vast mechanization of the industry in 1958.

Mrs. James Haggerty, president of F.W.I.O., welcomed over 600 branch directors to Guelph.

She said: "Organized rural and progressive organization has a vision of high ideals for the future." She thanked the branch Institutes for their contribution to the Centennial project and said more layettes are needed.

Mrs. Haggerty also expressed thanks for $1,000 for the Ceylon Flood Fund. Up to May 1st over $1,000 had been received.

Dr. J. D. MacLachlan, president of O.A.C., welcomed the delegates and stressed the need for higher education for the young people.

Dr. Margaret McCready, principal of MacDonald Institute, stressed the great need for home economists.

There were addresses on the new hospital program, work for the mentally ill, maternal care and infant mortality, safety in the home and on the farm and many other topics of interest.

Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Agriculture, urged the women of today to make their homes happier and ask their government for a better way of life.

Mrs. Keith Rand, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, challenged her audience to freely give of their time and talents to carry on this worthwhile Institute organization. She urged more publicity and support for Women's Institutes must co-operate with other organizations for world peace.

She expressed thanks for donations to the Ceylon Flood Fund and hoped more generous response Canada had responded.

Mrs. Rand said education is the keyword of Institute work and every member must be ready for any knowledge that will help our way of life. She urged branches to study both national and international problems. She also gave a resume of what the rural women will be asked to pass their opinion on in the future.

F.W.I.C. has 90,000 homemakers who are members of Women's Institutes across Canada.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. MacMullen thanked the Institute for providing her trip to Guelph. Mrs. Carr expressed thanks on behalf of River Valley.

The program consisted of the following: a piano solo by Mrs. Bush, "The Challenge of Tomorrow," and was based on "World Peace and World Safety."

Prizes were given to Mrs. Ina Free, the oldest grandmother, and to Mrs. Claude Tucker, who has ten grandchildren.

Mrs. Jack Bush conducted a novel contest which contained all the names of the Institute grandmothers.

A vote of thanks was tendered for the hospitality, program and refreshments served by the lunch committee.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

DID CHRIST O'ER SINNERS WEEP?

Did Christ o'er sinners weep,
And shall our eyes be dry?
Let floods of penitential grief
Burst forth from ev'ry eye.

The Son of God in tears
The wond'ring angels see
Be thou astonished, O my soul;
He shed those tears for thee.

He wept that we might weep;
Each sin demands a tear;
In heav'n alone no sin is found
And there's no weeping there.

The Bible reference to Jesus' sorrow over the sins of Jerusalem (He beheld the city and wept over it — St. Luke 19:41) and His prediction of its destruction was the inspiration for this tender hymn.

It was written by the Rev. Benjamin Beddome, an eighteenth century English churchman who, at the time of its composition, was serving as minister of the Baptist congregation at Bourton-on-the-water, Gloucestershire.

Mr. Beddome was born at Henley, England in 1717 and served the Gloucestershire church continuously from 1743 until his death, 32 years later.

His hymns and other poems were little known and appreciated during his own lifetime. They were collected and published by the Rev. Robert Hall, in 1818.

Lowell Mason, one of America's most widely known composers of church music and the author of the tune for Bishop Reginald Heber's famous missionary hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains", gave Mr. Beddome's hymn its "long-sings".

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Understand Unpardonable Sin

By DR. HOWARD V. PARPER

Several readers have asked "What is the unpardonable sin"? This is the sin of which Jesus, where any direct mention is made of an unpardonable sin, but the term appears in the New Testament in our language. Any clergyman knows there are many people in mental hospitals who are convinced that they have somehow, without knowing it, committed this sin, and many more tortured souls outside the hospitals who are afraid they have committed it. They don't know what it is, but they are worried about it just the same.

There is a clue in Matthew, Chapter 12. In the 31st Verse Jesus said "Blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven you." What does this mean?

The best way to find out is to take it in its context. Jesus had cast out a devil from a blind and dumb man in Verse 22. But the Pharisees had accused Him of performing this good work by the power of Beelzebub, prince of devils (Verse 24). Then Jesus pointed out that fusing good with evil, saying devilishness is the works of Satan, and Satan hardly would cast out Satan. He said, shall not be forgiven.

It should be further stated that such confusion is understandable not be cause God does not want to forgive it but because it makes the man with his outlook so twisted cannot repent. He cannot see that he has anything to repent. And without repentance forgiveness is impossible even to God.

AN EXAMPLE

Sunday, June 15 — An example of the unpardonable sin is to be seen in the stories of Vitus, Modestus, and Crescentia, who were martyred on this day sometime around the year 300.

Vitus, who was a little boy at the time, is the star of this unhappy drama. Modes.us, his tutor, and Crescentia, his nurse, are only the supporting cast.

Vitus was the only son of a Sicilian senator. Converted and baptized at the age of 7, he soon produced so many miracles it was feared for him to conceal the faith he had held secretly because of the fear of persecution. Immediately his father and his father's friends tried to persuade the boy to renounce Christianity, but nothing could shake him, not even torture.

Accompanied by Modestus and Crescentia, he escaped to Italy in 303 and began spreading the word. He guided by an angel and fed by an eagle as they made their way in Rome.

Apprehended in Rome and tried for his Christian heresy, Vitus pleased in the midst of the trial before Emperor's son of some illness, but, as in the case of Jesus and the blind man, the emperor was attributed to sorcery.

Here again is the unpardonable sin, assigning the works of God to the works of Satan, a man's things exactly backwards.

The angel gave us with the account, so frequently heard, of completely ineffectual tortures. It is told, was put into a cauldron of molten lead, which did him no harm than a good warm bath.

He was thrown to a lion, and the lion not licked his feet. With nurse and tutor he was put on the rack and all their limbs were dislocated.

At this point a violent storm stopped the grisly proceedings and an angel led the three saints to a quiet place where they died peacefully from their exhaustion.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a report of a typical case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Albert H. — I don't know how to reassure my wife.

Ethel H. — He has a tendency to stray. . . .

Albert H. — I am a married man of 33 and have four children. A few years ago I became involved in an affair with another woman and my wife found o u t about it.

The whole thing was a mistake. I was wrong. I admitted it. I said I was sorry and I haven't done anything wrong since that time. But it looks as though I'll never hear the end of this affair.

Ethel is constantly suspicious. She nags me with questions and seems to be trying to trap me in a lie.

I just don't know how to reassure my wife of the real truth — which is that I love her and the children and wouldn't hurt them for the world.

Ethel H. — Al has a way of talking very calmly and says and makes me believe him for the moment. Then I remember how closely he associates with that woman and I get sick at heart.

Sometimes I feel that although Al loves me as a person, he is not really attracted to me very much as a woman. I do know he has a really sexy and never ending appetite and trying to maintain his wife's feelings, Albert could build up a greater reservoir of feeling for her.

Ethel will undoubtedly sense it when I will not be the complete object of her husband's love.

I don't want reassurance. I want love.

The Council: Ethel has stated her own case in a nutshell. She craves love and not reassurance, and she can't help feeling short changed as long as Albert doesn't find the means to show her she is really desirable to him, as a woman.

The fact that Albert rowed once certainly lent fuel to Ethel's feelings of insecurity on this score. What was just a passing fancy to him was a deep wound to her in her end of the affair. She cannot possibly get over it as easily as he did.

Ethel appears to have some cause for her uneasiness. If e is not entirely satisfied in their married lives do not go in much for off-color stories, and although they may enjoy looking at an attractive woman, they don't do it in such a way as to cause embarrassment to their wives. There is such a thing as a detached pleasure in beauty.

Ethel won't get over her wound until she can feel her husband is loyal to her because he deeply cares for her. If he deeply cares for her he will not do things that arouse her fears and he will not offer glib reassurances in place of positive actions of devotion.

By pushing his own feelings to one side in and trying to understand his wife's feelings, Albert could build up a greater reservoir of feeling for her.

Ethel will undoubtedly sense it when he will not be the complete object of her husband's love.

The 57th district annual convention of the West Hastings Women's Institute was held at Wallbridge United Church on the 11th with approximately 100 ladies in attendance. They included Mrs. Clifford Gilleso-Grafton; Federated Board representatives from the seven branches in the district; Ray of Quinte, Chatsom, Pine Grove, River Valley, Stirling, Uniondale and Wallbridge.

The registration was in charge of Mrs. D. Irish and Mrs. A. Hadden. Mrs. Lawrence Kelson and Mrs. Douglas Thompson welcomed the guests. The church was adorned with bowls of summer blooms.

The district representatives for the seven branches in the district: Ray of Quinte, Chatsom, Pine Grove, River Valley, Stirling, Uniondale and Wallbridge.

The registration was in charge of Mrs. D. Irish and Mrs. A. Hadden. Mrs. Lawrence Kelson and Mrs. Douglas Thompson welcomed the guests. The church was adorned with bowls of summer blooms.

Mrs. Harry Coulter district president, presided over the two sessions opened with the Institute Ode, followed by the Ladies' Institute Collect in unison. The guest speakers, Mrs. Hedgie and Miss Sandra Thompson were introduced.

Mrs. Harold Phillips presented her annual report of 1957 activities. The financial report showed a small working balance. Mrs. Merson Kelly presented the auditors' report.

Mrs. M. McMullen gave words of welcome to which Mrs. C. Gardner graciously replied.

The president, in her remarks noted and visited all seven branches during the year. She also attended the "Achievement Day" Stirling and the Homecraft Auxiliary luncheon held at Belleville, and referred to a special resolution on atomic power which was passed at the C.W.W.I. of 1957. It is a resolution that might well be taken to the Women's Institute of the Dominion of Canada. Its conference expressed the hope that means for destructive purposes be held in check, and that the peoples of the world through their governments to develop their talents and to treasure the development of atomic power for the universal good of mankind. A full report of this resolution appears on page 10 in the "Winter Home and Country". Mrs. Coulter said that it be read at every branch.

The Board representative rated the district directors as follows: Ray of Quinte, Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson; Chatterton, Mrs. Lawrence Attis; Pine Grove, Mrs. Allyn Finkle; River Valley, Mrs. Percy MacMullen; Stirling, Mrs. Robert Williams; Uniondale, Mrs. Gerald Herrington and Wallbridge, Mrs. Harold Phillips.

The roll call of branches followed: Bay of Quinte, Mrs. Chatterton, spoke on the fine work of the Ontario Institute agricultural College, and other aspects of the conference.

Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson, of Ray of Quinte, read a poem, "The Always Faithful Few." Mrs. Percy MacMullen, River Valley, summarized an address given by Mrs. Keith Rand, president of F.W.I.C. at the official reception of the Queen.

Mrs. G. Bartindale of Pine Grove, read an interesting story on "Directions". Mrs. G. Herrington, Uniondale, told of an address at Guelph regarding the work for Retarded Children. Mrs. Robert Williams, Stirling, told a humorous story, and Mrs. Jas. J. Ketcheson of Wallbridge gave a picture of the Golden W.I. when they entertained at Guelph.

This was followed by the reports of the standing committees' conveners.

REPORTS

Mrs. E. Foster, of Stirling, reporting on agriculture and Canadian industries, told of the topics on rubber, radium, nickle, glass, powerful electric plants, to be many uses of salt. Canada is a land of abundance with numerous fruits and vegetables, and skill was had in their preparation for food.

The other subject, included: bird calls, improvements on farms.

There were exchanges of plant slips), special tours, and a demonstration in making of plastic flowers. She suggested the use of films from the study kit and loan library.

Mrs. Fred Campbell, Pine Grove, in her report on citizenship and education, said the motto was "Citizenship, Like Charity, Begins At Home." The roll call contained a favorite proverb, an immigration law, ways of helping with education and the "Union Jack."

Slides of Holland and the far east were shown at the home of a Dutch newcomer; a topic on "The Colombo Plar and Ceylon" and another on Korea, presented an international picture.

"Education is Everybody's Business" and "Canadian Citizens" and "Opening Parliament," were all educational.

As Institute members we should teach our children the three 'R's' — respect; reverence and responsibility.

Bronze plaques and new paint for cloth were demonstrated.

Suggestions were as follows: members are urged to study the outline of branches from the provincial convener, also to increase education in the local school through better teaching methods.

Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson, Bay of Quinte, reporting on community activities and public relations told of community beautification; also something for a retarded child. All branches in the district sent flowers, cards and gifts to the sick and shutins, as well as letters of sympatey.

Many social evenings were held. The donations include, Red Cross; Salvation Army; Children's Camps; at e t a l Health; Celyon Flood Fund; F. W. I. C. project and district branches also entertained the seniors and the district presidents visiting all the branches.

Demonstrations were made on smocking; cake decorating; basket weaving; new method of artificial respiration; making of lampshades. Ine nuds were raised in countless ways, and all branches had a press reporter.

"Try to succeed with all your might,
In every task ful service give;
Cling to the things you know are right,
And in contentment you shall live."

Mrs. Morley Phillips, Wallbridge reporting for historical research and current events told of a variety of roll calls. There are seven Tweedsmuir History Books; the topics were varied and sold of Albert College; the McIntosh Apple; and an European trip. The balloons were displayed which included a Bible dated 1883. One of the mottoes was: "A house is built of logs and stone; of tile and posts and piers; a home is built of loving deeds that stand a thousand years."

Mrs. Harold Bloor, Chatterton, reporting on home economics and health gave as roll calls: a housekeeping hint; a famous artist; my first mistake after marriage.

The topics included many aspects of health and especially, what to do for Asian 'flu.

There were five extension services and many demonstrations. The junior 4-H girls club gave a skit. "Cereals around the Clock". One garden club completed their project. She suggested that the branch members who had hobbies give a demonstration and not hide their talents.

Mrs. Bert Bush, Uniondale, in her report on resolutions, told of a panel discussion on this theme, and in part, "It is necessary that our membership realize that only through well planned resolutions may their wishes for change and reform be made known." Resolutions should be given constructive thought and be well discussed. When drafting resolutions always follow carefully the instructions outlined on page 43 of the Hand Book.

REPORTS RECEIVED

Mrs. Clifford Gillespie, Grafton, Federated Board member, congratulated the conveners and members of West Hastings district for 100 per cent reporting. There are seven branches and each conference had received seven reports. She felt the suggestions would be helpful.

Mrs. Gillespie urged the Institute members to challenge the men to clean up their barnyards, as she had noticed several on her motor trips through the county. She said her pet theory is "life is a lot happier if you do not cross a bridge until you come to it."

Mrs. George Heasman and Mrs. Charles Fair were in charge of the assembly singing.

Mrs. Gillespie then presented her report on the Provincial Board. She mentioned the national convention at Ottawa last October, the new office in Toronto for F.W.I.C. and the 50th anniversary in June 1958 at Eldorado and Bannockburn W.I.

The F.W.I.C. convention will be held in British Columbia in 1961. Mrs. Gillespie brought greetings from Mrs. James Haggerty, Napanee, and Mrs. Keith Hunt, of Nova Scotia.

She asked the members to read the highlights of the FWIC Board meeting as published in Home and Country, and noted there has been an increase of 1,200 members this past year. Thanks were expressed for contributions to the Ceylon Flood Fund.

The ACWW Conference will convene in Belgrade, Scotland, in 1959. The contributions to the FWIO project for layettes and sweaters has been gratifying and an amount, valued at over 1,000 has been collected.

The FWIO office is a wonderful asset, she stated, and the fee will be 30 cents per member, payable February 1, 1959.

Mrs. Gillespie explained the conversership of community activities and public relations had been changed to Mrs. Clarke. The new idea is to have a press reporter who will report all meetings and all other activities; also all donations of clothing and cash. There will be no restrictions and this conveyer can hold this office as long as she wishes. The branch secretary will receive the material and instructions from head office and will pass this on to the publicity officer.

The U.S.C. donations should be in by September. Each branch can send in one citizenship essay on "How can I train myself to be a citizen of the world?" The 1959 Tweedsmuir competition theme is "Grandmother's Quilt Blocks." The cultural project is "Words and Melody of an Institute Song."

Mrs. Gillespie outlined the rulings regarding a Tweedsmuir Workshop; new changes in Miss Helen McKercher's department, and the growth of the Local Leaders' School.

The fall board meeting will be held at Guelph. The FWIO silver spoon was displayed, but the handbook committee have not completed their task.

Branches are asked to study the question of a new area groups. It was suggested there be two more board directors, and that Belleville area subdivision No. 5 retain the three districts in Hastings and one in Prince Edward county. This would make four districts and six branches. It was then suggested subdivision No. 6 comprise the two districts in Northumberland and all of Peterborough county — three districts and 35 branches.

She urged all officers to keep carbon copies of all letters for reference. District directors were asked to display names of officers and conveners at the branch meetings. Mrs. Gillespie concluded her report of the findings and discussions of the provincial board with this remark. "The only old person is he who no longer wishes to learn."

Miss Sandra Thibaudeau gave a vivid picture of girls' work in this district. She outlined the Cereal Shelf and the use of grain.

The Tweedsmuir workshop will be held at a later date at Trenton, and all interested folk are welcome to attend.

Mrs. George Heasman extended an invitation for the 1959 District Annual to be held at River Valley.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Following a box lunch, served by the Wallbridge ladies, the afternoon session convened with about one quarter of the branch membership in attendance.

Miss Sandra Thibaudeau brought a special message from the department of Toronto. The "Course in Hospitality" presented new ideas for showers, weddings and such, and the one on salads gave many new ideas for serving raw fruits and salads that supply vitamins and minerals.

Many members are interested in fabrics, dress finishes, children's clothing and millinery, she said. In one course a woman of 83 made herself an attractive hat.

Several members bring their treasures of old time heirlooms for display at the Home Furnishing courses, she said.

Miss Thibaudeau stated in 1957 there were 61 training schools with 537 Institute women and over 700 ladies in attendance. At these courses noninstitute members are always welcome.

The booked rugs will be a 2-day course probably in October, she stated.

Mrs. R. Skinner and Mrs. M. Rombough, of Foxboro, delighted with two vocal duets with piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Coulter stressed each branch should distribute nine of their own programs at this meeting. A vote was taken and the district fee will be 25 cents per member next year. An agriculture office will be thanked for mimeographing the programs. A book will be purchased for the district Historical Research Committee and the old one is to be displayed at the next annual meeting.

The pupils of Wallbridge public school, under the direction of the music supervisor, Miss Grace Pitman, delighted with four selections.

Mrs. John Reid, Trenton, reported for the nominating committees and Mrs. Gillespie conducted the election. She then ratified the voting delegates. The newly elected district director and newly elected president are honorary delegates by virtue of their office. The branch should also specify the names delegates when they appoint the delegate to bring in a report. The work of the new office of press reporter was carefully outlined and she will be known as public relations representative.

Mrs. Coulter urged every branch, if they have not already done so, to send their ACWW contributions to Toronto by September 30. Of this amount he will be used for expense at the new office and 10c for travel expenses to Scotland.

Mrs. George Heasman gave the courtesy report and expressed thanks to all the many people who had contributed to the success of the meeting.

Mrs. Coulter read a poem, "Your Task is to Build a Better You," followed by the national anthem to close the session.

Efforts to Get Sick Mother Out of Romania Got Her A Communist Jail Sentence

MONTREAL (CP) — Nicholas Constantinesco has tried for more than a year to get his mother out of Romania.

Recently he learned his efforts have only got her into a Communist jail.

Mr. Constantinesco, a 30-year-old welder who fled from his Bucharest home in 1947, brooded over a pile of petitions, cablegrams, letters and applications as he told of the struggle to get widowed Varvara Constantinesco into Canada.

IN NEED OF HELP

"She is alone and ill," he said. "She is 53-year-old. She had no other sons. It would be only simple humanity to let her come."

Instead, he said, despite appeals from the International Red Cross and the Canadian government she has been imprisoned, accused of unknown crimes.

The man who informed him she was in jail included friends and diplomatic officials in Canada and in Romania, he said. It would be dangerous to them to name "Mama," he said, because their reports were reliable.

He feels his mother was jailed, not for anything she did, but for what he himself did not do—turn Communist.

"They send me the newspaper, for example, called 'Voice of the Homeland', and it promises us everything if we come back," he said, "even pardon for anything illegal we might have done.

"But I return the newspapers as they come; I am often to my mother that I will not go back. That is why they jailed her.

"Why should I go back? I am free here. I have been in Canada since 1951 and my children are Canadian. My wife comes from France."

Mr. Constantinesco — he changed the last letter of his name when naturalized in January, 1957—got to France by way of Hungary, Austria and Germany.

He has a seven - year - old daughter, a three-year-old son and a steady job.

GOT EARLY PARLIMIT

His first efforts to get his mother here were in the spring of 1957, when at his request the Canadian government granted her an entry permit, good for six months. It has since been twice renewed.

Twice the immigration department has cabled the British legation in Bucharest to press the case. Several times the Red Cross has written its Bucharest office to use its good offices with the Romanian foreign affairs department.

Mr. Constantinesco has even written the United Nations, but found he could get no help there.

Forty-three friends signed a petition asking the Romanian government to let Mrs. Constantinesco come to Canada "as an act of human kindness" and the Red Cross forwarded the petition.

"It is not as if she did not want to come," he said. "It is on record that she applied for her passport in June, 1957."

He waved a hand at the pile of documents.

"What more can I do but help warn those who think things are not really as bad over there as they are said to be?"

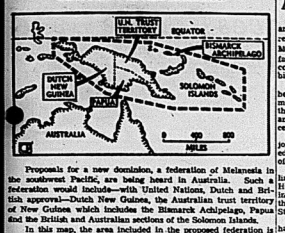
PROPOSAL FOR NEW DOMINION



Proposals for a new dominion, a federation of Melanesia in the southwest Pacific, are being heard in Australia. Such a federation would include—with United Nations, Dutch and British approval—Dutch New Guinea, the Australian trust territory of New Guinea which includes the Bismarck Archipelago, Papua and the British and Australian sections of the Solomon Islands.

In this map, the area included in the proposed federation is enclosed by a dotted line. (CP Newsmap.)

Propose New Dominion For Area in South Pacific

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — A new Commonwealth of Melanesia has been proposed for a lushly tropical area of the Southwest Pacific.

It would be a federation of New Guinea and the British and Australian sections of the Solomon Islands.

The natives of these islands mostly of Australia are Melanesians, a racial group similar to the Polynesians but distinguished from them by their distinctively dusky black skin and generally darker skins.

CONVENTION SUGGESTED

The suggestion for the new Commonwealth unit came up for the first time at a convention in Canberra, the Australian capital, early this year.

At least two obstacles would have to be overcome before the federation could become a reality.

First, the Netherlands would have to agree to it. The western half of New Guinea is the last remaining possession of the once-mighty Netherlands East Indies. This now is the Republic of Indonesia.

Second, Indonesians would have to be placated. They are bitter that the Dutch held on to New Guinea, and have vowed that it will one day be part of Indonesia.

The southern half of New Guinea is controlled by Australia. Part is her own territory of Papua. The remainder is a United Nations trust territory that Australia administers for the UN.

One reason for making the islands a Melanesian federation would be to answer pressing questions to the UN trusteeship council as to how and when it will grant self-government to her half of New Guinea.

The suggestion for Commonwealth status was made by John Kerr, a Sydney lawyer, at the meeting in Canberra of the Australian Institute of Political Science.

WAIT AND SEE'

The government's attitude on New Guinea was put by External Affairs Minister Paul Hasluck. It was, in effect, "develop, but don't rush." Hasluck said: "Societies build themselves. . . . Even God never pours people into molds."

Kerr, largely responsible for the early organization of the International South Pacific Commission that works to improve health and welfare of native populations, called this attitude negative and dangerous. He said:

"The general collapse of the colonial system, the pressure from the Afro-Asian Communist and other anti-colonial blocs, the never-ending debate in debate in the United Nations — rejected by Australia but we should not name a date for establishing self-government in New Guinea . . . make it increasingly difficult for us to persist in the present approach."

Kerr said Indonesia's hope of some day "liberating" Western New Guinea and Australia's watch-and-wait policy in Eastern New Guinea had set up a similar danger. Either could result in splitting the Melanesian peoples—3,400,000 mostly primitive tribesmen—into different groups.

Kerr said the east of Melanesia could become a political unit allied to some power system outside either Communism or the Commonwealth.

If instead a federation of Melanesia was set as a goal, the way would be open to give the people of New Guinea a independence while retaining a close association with Australia.

AVOID CLASH

"Europeans in New Guinea," Kerr said, "must be told clearly and directly that when self-government in one form or another comes to New Guinea it will be self-government of the whole population . . . and that we intend, if we can, to avoid the violent clash which will inevitably come from the attempt of a handful of Europeans to keep over 90 per cent of the people over the remaining 98 per cent."

Kerr's ideas have had a mixed reaction in newspaper and magazine arguments.

Some Australian groups, particularly those living in New Guinea or who have developed business interests there, back the scheme.

They direct attention to a statement by Prime Minister Robert Menzies that "Australia is in New Guinea to stay." A remark that at the time brought acid comment from Russia's delegate at the UN trusteeship council.

Delegates from 12 Ontario hockey organizations are meeting in Kitchener this weekend to discuss the future of senior hockey in the province.

The group is expected to hear a proposal from George Dudley, secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association, which would unite the top 11 senior clubs in a mutual franchise agreement. The agreement is currently in effect only in the one-year-old OHA-NOHA.

Representatives from Windsor, Chatham, Kitchener, Sudbury, North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie of the OHA-NOHA will attend, along with the representatives of the five clubs of the OHA eastern division, Whitby, Belleville, Cornwall, Kingston, Pembroke and Ottawa Junior Canadiens who participated on a part-time basis last year.

Several senior city arena operators will also attend to discuss ways of easing the burden of the financially-harassed clubs.

There are also reports of major changes in club sponsorship and management. Murph Chamberlain has been under fire as coach of Chatham Maroons and will not attend the meeting as a club representative.

The league has been unable to reach Nick Wiese of Detroit, owner-operator of Windsor Bulldogs. The team is said to owe the OHA pool a large sum of money and is many months in arrears.

Other topics for discussion are player salary limits, schedules and playoffs.

Wren Blair, the Whitby impresario, commenting on the meeting says: "Top item on the agenda will be to establish a salary limit with teeth in it. Certainly if clubs are to remain in business this is an absolute necessity but we suspect the final outcome will be similar to previous attempts which have failed dismally.

"A couple of seasons back, the Western senior 'A' division set a payroll limit of $1,350 per club in the competitive years, and then proceeded to spend it almost before the delegates got back home. Junior 'A' hockey clubs set a top salary of $80.00 per week to any player a few seasons back, and from what we can gather they have successfully got it skids.

"Senior 'A' hockey needs a higher limit but the money paid by some clubs is nothing short of ridiculous and has already forced teams like Sault Michigan, Niagara Falls, Stratford, Sarnia, Owen Sound and Brantford out of business. New clubs from everywhere in that district are faced with a tremendous problem and it appears that an answer as to who will comprise the league is not readily available.

"The eastern division seems to be in a much healthier way for the time being at least. If anything the competition is smoldering. Kingston is hungry for a winner and have followed the pattern set here in Whitby and later taken up by Belleville. The Limestone City is in the throes of organizing a booster club, which they claim will be the biggest in the league.

"Pembroke signed 'Bucky' Buchanan as coach and general manager of the Lumber Kings, and a phone call from 'Bucky' the other night indicated that the Kings plan a real shakeup in their roster. Ray Miron of Cornwall, says the Seaway City fans are demanding a better team and he is combing the country for players.

"Another feature in the Eastern set-up may see the Ottawa Canadiens, elevate fully to senior 'A' ranks next winter and play for the Allan Cup instead of the Memorial. This gives Sammy Pollock the whole Montreal organization to draw from, and they could be the toughest to beat.

"When you review the whole picture the Eastern group could be in for the greatest season senior 'A' hockey has had in years. We're in the throes of organizing the Bulldogs a little to meet these new challenges, and there is little doubt that the fans are in for a mighty interesting season."

Sparks 9-5 Win Over Kansas As Tigers Topple Yanks 4-2; Joey Jay Blanks Cardinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joey Jay, the youngster touted as having the stuff to be another Warren Spahn for Milwaukee Braves, may just be starting, but he already has one of Spahn's traits down pat. Two of his three victories in the majors are shut outs.

The 23 year - old righthander hasn't been a ball of fire since signing for a bonus in 1953. But there wasn't much wrong with his stuff Friday night as he shaded St. Louis 2-0 in a game held to six innings by rain.

Last retained Milwaukee's 1½ game National League lead as second - place San Francisco posted a losing slump at five with a 6-1 victory over Philadelphia. Los Angeles scored two in the ninth for a 3-1 victory over Pittsburgh.

Billy Bruton had three of Milwaukee's seven hits off Jim Brosnan, now 6-3. Bruton singled and scored in the first inning on Hank Aaron's sacrifice fly, then dashed home a run in the second inning.

STRIKES OUT FOUR

Jay, the first Little Leaguer to make the majors, walked but one and struck out four in the Cards' dropped their second in a row, both shutouts.

Manager Johnny Antonelli won his sixth with a five-hitter that gave the Giants their first home complete game since Atty beat St. Louis June 1. He lost his shutout in the ninth when Ed Bouchee hit, who with Wally Post had two hits, singled and scored on an infield out. The Giants, held to three hits and an unearned run by loser Vinegar Bend Mizell in seven innings, hopped on three successive for five runs on four hits and two errors in the eighth.

Willie Mays broke an 0-for-10 slump at a third-inning single for the Giants. He was 1-for-3 for the game and now has two hits in his last 36 at bats.

Junior Gilliam scampered home from third on Dick Stuart's two-run double by Peewee Reese for the winning Dodger run. Chet Lobine won his third in relief. Roy Face didn't save the loser after Dick Groat had homered and home three runs with a triple and double for an early 4-2 lead.

Fights Last Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York — Harold Carter, 191½, Linden, N.J., outpointed Willie Besmanoff, 193, Germany, 10.

Jackie Jensen and Rick Gerbert have been slugging the home runs, and Frank Malzone has been rattling with the bat, but look who's finally started to hit for the bunting Boston Red Sox—a fellow named Ted Williams.

Williams, who last year won the batting crown at an unlikely .388 with an equally unlikely .328 average, has been having it tough so far. But Friday night he hit two singles, drove in two runs and scored one while reaching his percentage high—.295—of the season as the Red Sox tightened their grip on second place in the American League with a 9-3 victory over Kansas City Athletics.

That left Boston eight games behind the leading New York Yankees, beaten 4-2 by Detroit Tigers. Cleveland Indians defeated fourth - place Washington Senators 10-1, Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox battled 3-3 for 14 innings because of a Baltimore curfew.

The Red Sox, winning eight of their last 10 games, handed seven-game winner Ned Garver his first defeat as Gerbert hit a double in a clinching three - run fifth inning. Jensen rocked the 13th homer with Williams on base to cap a three-run finale.

Malzone, 0-for-3 in the 12-hit Boston attack, reaching .300 mark for the first time this year. Tom Brewer, now 3-5, won it with a seven-hitter. Vic Power hit a solo homer for Kansas City.

Gerbert, batting eighth in a row, eighth inning that handed Bobby Shantz his third consecutive defeat. He had homered against the Tigers since 1950.

Billy Hoeft went it for a 3-5 record, but needed relief help. He retired the first six men he faced, then gave up Mickey Mantle's 12th homer for a 1-1 tie in the fourth.

Ray Narleski won his eighth with a four-hitter for the Indians, who counted single runs in three homers. Billy Moran, hitting his first in the majors, led off the fifth. Porter belted three-run shots and Minnie Minoso hit one with no man on in the seventh, his eighth for the Senators.

The White Sox blanked on two hits for eight innings, chased Jack Harshman with seven and five runs for a 7-0 lead in the ninth. Then Jim Marshall, pinch - hitting for Jim Busby, belted three - run homer ended Billy Pierce's one-hit shutout in the ninth, only to bring home run off Bill Fischer with two out in the ninth.

Champion Won't Stage Bout In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson's manager won't bring his boxer to fight in Toronto this fall — even for $300,000.

Toronto fight promoter Jack Allen made the offer Thursday for Patterson to defend his title against the winner of Monday's fight between six-rounder Alex Miteff of Argentina and Toronto's George Chuvalo.

Manager Cus D'Amato turned down the offer, Allen reported Friday.

"He told me he has other irons in the fire," Allen added. "Apparently Miteff and his manager, Hymie Wallman, are on D'Amato's bad list."

Kesselring, Moe Norman Battle for Ont. Open Title

KINGSTON (CP)—The final 36 holes of the Ontario open golf championships shaped up today as a fight between two Ontario natives.

After Friday's opening 18-hole round, Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener Grand River Golf and Curling Club came up with a record-breaking five-under-par 65. The old mark stood at 68 for the 6,336 - yard Cataraqui Club course.

Three strokes behind but still in contention was temperamental Moe Norman, a Kitchener native now playing out of Toronto's Havalaad. Norman's putting was simply below his usual form and with luck he could have matched a 65 he carded earlier on a practice round.

It will take either a complete collapse by Kesselring or Norman or five much better golfers than the two Kitchener golfers, FIELD IS CUT

Rain plagued the 72 pros and amateurs who teed off Friday in search of the title and a piece of $3,000 for the professionals, was cut to 60, who qualified for today's final rounds with scores of 77 or better.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor Essex, winner at Cedar Brae three years ago, finished with a 69. Top three were the only pacebreakers after the first day's play.

A couple of amateurs, Terry Malone, Toronto Rosedale and Eric Hanson, Toronto Scarboro, had 72's.

The team is selected by the showing of Ontario amateurs in this tournament and the 18-hole qualifying round of the Ontario Amateur, June 22.

Kesselring combined tremendous drives off the tee with a nerveless green game to set his blistering pace. He might have finished with a phenomenal 63 or 64 had he not three-putted on the 18th green. He took a par after his second shot hit the green, 15 feet from the cup.

The first-day leader was trying for his fifth Ontario Open championship in seven years. Two years ago he won with a record 307 for 36 holes and tied it last year over a wind-blown course at St. Catharines.

First round results included: a-D. MacLean, Brockville 44-43-87
Merle Matan, Lindsay ... 36-38-74
Lloyd McCord, Guelph, 41-44-85
George Balazs, Belleville 37-41-78

Whipper's Corkscrew Twists Dan Miller Into Submission

By GEO. R. CARVER
Sports Editor.

Husky Dan Miller should stick to refereeing, or have his big shoulders make better opposition decisions for him.

Last night Samuel, the baby of the trio, tried a wash at everything. He gave each referee first imitation of a juiced up railway semaphore while pinch-hitting the referee for Jack Gollop in the first bout, or part of it.

Then Oncle Joe put in a belated appearance and Dannul was loath to leave. In fact he insisted on staying until Toni Ballingreon threatened to clean he's klaser. Then he beat an arm-waving retreat.

The second bad break came for Dannul in the main bout. He clobbered on Whipper Watson in the loyal opposition. Now the Whip is not the least bit fussy who he mixes it or where. They size, color mean nothing to the Pirate of East York. So he proceeded to use his clubbing on Dutty wh'ch he did quite effectively in the first couple falls.

Dannul hadn't forgotten his dominoes withdrawal from his scheduled match and when he got an then the opportunity ure-ferred a haymaker on the schnozzle of Oncle Joe who happened to be looking at the blonde in the third row back at the moment. You couldn't trace the source of the rockeroo by the immediately blamed the Whipper for it. Dannul let it fet in his map but irate fans rushed to the ringside and straightened out the somewhat befuddled mind of Oncle Joe before he resisted. He was all set to send the Whip to the showers.

But the Whipper took the first fall in a little over twelve minutes after taking some punishment from the rampaging Miller. Dannul almost stole the show in the preliminary. Housing is the same wily, carny old customer who has more tricks than Ennett Berlie and who stops at nothing short of using a ring-post, which he would do if they were loose.

Henning had a field day dodging the wooden arms of Miller, strodding and scogging at Ballingreon, eyeball, stuffing "the crest weapon" in his fingers, armpits, shorts, ears and other nooks known only to referees. Then Oncle Joe tried to keep him on the straight and narrow. But the wrestler brushed off that stuff. He was out to win, regardless. He used a speed move or ears or ears or a baker's dozen of them to the mill-run rassler. He used a couple of boare parts in Tunney's pachysandra garage in this fit. Then the evening was out to win and the knife Ballingreon was kute and stretched the bout to the time limit.

Ballingreon, Small koko-konked Krusher Korman into submission after twelve minutes in the semi-final of a bout that was lively with action.

Tommy Bolt Holds Lead In U.S. Open

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — After fighting appetite and anger, the fiery Tommy Bolt today set out to hold his lead in the Unified States open golf championship against two unexpected rivals.

The men whose names were scribbled atop the score sage at likely winners watched from the sidelines.

The 39-year-old Bolt has made much ado lately about his changed attitude toward golf. He still flares up occasionally, but he discussed the benefits of tranquility Friday in spite of the two-over-par six that marred his second straight round of 71 at hot, troublesome Southern Hills golf course.

"I wasn't tired but I was awfully hungry," he said. "I had been out there 4½ hours and hadn't eaten since breakfast. I didn't care much what I shot on that last hole. I just wanted to get off the course."

As 55 survivors of the field, which opened at 2,150 original entries and 162 starters, plunged into today's 36-hole brilliant than the players to beat lined up this way: Bolt, 142; Dow Finsterwald, 29-year-old South African who is the tournament's only part-time golfer, and 35-39 and 40-year-old Frank Stranahan at 144.

SNEAD IS OUT

Missing for the first time in 18 years was Sam Snead, the ol' pioneer who has successfully succeeded in winning this title.

Defending champion — a time champion who shared the favorite's role, barely escaped elimination Friday when he came inner Ben Hogan, suffering from an injured left wrist, fired a 72 to tie for the lead but wound up six strokes behind at 148.

Dick Mayer, the defending champion, was farther back at 150 after a brilliant 73.

Leader of the younger generation of touring golfers, Mayer had his first-round score of 76 for a 153 total, he managed to survive the cut by firing a 74 which put him safely over the limit.

Northern Senior A Clubs Vote Operating Costs Cut

S&T NORTHERN SENIOR golf KITCHENER (CP) — Clubs in the Ontario Hockey Association—NOHA Senior A group Friday night voted to cut operating costs by trimming payrolls, reducing schedule lengths and cutting the number of north-south trips.

The teams accepted a North Bay recommendation — the motion made by Kitchener - Waterloo which suggested a maximum $2,000 weekly salary bill. The amendment lays down a $1,750 figure for each club for 14 men, with a maximum payment for any player in the schedule of $2,500.

A 32-game, unbalanced schedule, with the top six clubs in teams exchanging two intersectional visits instead of five as they did last season, was approved.

Guelph Ste. Marie Greyhounds were not represented but Windsor, Chatham, Kitchener-Waterloo, Sudbury and North Bay were.

Both Windsor and North Bay reported losses of about $30,000 last year. The other clubs gave no indication as to how they fared money.

The NOHA-NOHA group will meet with team representatives from the OHA eastern Senior A section today and will attempt to have these rules made uniform for all 11 Senior A clubs.

North Bay and Windsor delegates said that unless drastic rule, which the other teams exchanging two intersec-

Wings Defeat Richmond 10-9; Bisons Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you were an umbrella salesman you could have pitched up a tidy sum here Friday night as the International League ball parks last night.

Despite the rain they managed to get in two games. Rochester Red Wings pounded brilliant Montreal 10-9 and Columbus Jets defeated Buffalo Bisons 6-1.

The Red Wings' victory was oddly. The Red Wings spotted the Virginians a 9-1 lead after two innings and then scored nine runs, five in the third and four in the seventh. The official time of the game was three hours and 10 minutes but the rain actually halted on and off for two hours because of a downpour.

Rochester manager Cot Deal and Richmond's Bobby Del Greco were ejected from the game for ball and strike rhubarbs, Deal in the third and Del Greco in the ninth.

BIGGEST RHUBARB

The big argument of the night arose in the seventh as the tying and winning games were matching. With the score 9-8 and the bases loaded for the Red Wings, Loren Babe hit to deep right field. Boyer made a spectacular stop at short and threw to second for the force. The umpire ruled the runner safe and while the Virginians were at their wits' end gloves in the air, the two runners scored unopposed.

In the other game, also held up for an hour because of rain, Herb Rand belted a 1-1 tie with a two-run homer in the sixth and Jack Rodriguez drove the clincher the cake with a three-run blast in the seventh. The nightcap was postponed because of rain. Other games were rained out.

These Knoxes Father, Son, At It Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ronnie Knox, the handsome football star who would like to cast a line with his passing and his profile, said he doesn't want his stepfather to pull signals on his career any longer.

But Harvey Knox, 47, insists he be called a quarterback's quarterback since he's called the plays for Detroit Lions' passing star first bit the headlines as a fancy-talented passing whiz, had other ideas.

He's "terribly, terribly hurt" Ronnie's decision to strike out on his own. The 23-year-old football star's contracts with both Chicago Bears of the National Football League and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

Harvey wishes the boy luck. But he added: "I want a contract for a percentage of his earnings that has six years to run."

Ronnie's latest break-up, the former UCLA tailback said he thought it was time he went out on his own.

"It isn't that I don't love Harvey, for don't think all he has tried to do for me," he said. "It's merely a matter of evolution. You've got to grow up some time, and I figure I'm way over time."

Ronnie had a brief fling in Canada with Calgary in 1956. He started out with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four and then moved on to Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Harvey argued with Hamilton club officials how they should play Ronnie.

British Tennis Gals Take Lead Over Americans

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Christine Truman, a 17-year-old London schoolgirl prodigy, smashed her way to a double victory Friday as Britain's long hopeful tennis gals took a 2 - 1 lead over the United States in the first day of the Wightman Cup competition.

Miss Truman and Gibson, gangling Wimbledon and U.S. champion from New York's Harlem, was able to salvage American prestige in the opening day of the series, which ends with three singles and a doubles match today.

Miss Gibson whipped Shirley Bloomer 6-3, 6-4 in the opening singles match.

Then Miss Truman took over to put Britain close to its first cup triumph in 28 years and only its fifth in 30 attempts since the competition began in 1923.

She whipped Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N.Y., 6-4, 6-4 in the No. 1 singles match. She teamed with the revived Miss Bloomer for an easy doubles victory over Mrs. Knode and glamor girl Karol Fageros of Miami, 6-2, 6-3.

The British thing to enliven the dull doubles was Miss Bloomer's appearance in a pair of shorts worn under her skirt. At one stage of the second set, the shorts showed, prompting Bloomer giggled and the match continued.

Odds and Ends for Outdoorsmen

Every now and again a letter comes in asking about the limit of the month, or the year, when fish and game may be shot in the mouths and thus refuse to feed. This is an old folk-lore belief that, strangely enough, is given considerable credence, particularly in rural areas.

Always we have been of th e opinion that there is no basis of truth upon which this belief could be founded. Just to be on the safe side, however, we wrote to three ichthyologists; good, solid scientists who earn their living working with fish.

They agreed that the belief will not hold water. Fish, so far as can be learned, do not have perilodic sleges of sore mouth. There are a great many things which may put fish off the feed, but this is not one of them.

CONSERVATION LAWS —

Having returned recently from a trip to the Florida Keys, one of the striking things observed on the way is the frequency with which "litterbug" warnings were erected along the highways. In all of the seaboard states between Pennsylvania and Florida, inclusive, notorious litterbugs were the possible arrest and fines for throwing trash from the car windows.

Time was that the job of keeping the highways clean was a task of major proportions. Not today, for person thinks twice about throwing a bilge can or a bottle of beer out of the car window when faced with possible arrest with a fine of $100 as the penalty.

Only recently Pennsylvania has widened the scope of its litterbug law. As of January 1st last, it will become a part of the fish code so that wardens are now directly empowered to make arrests as a part of their regular duties.

Specifically, the amendment to the fish code passed by the State Legislature empowers the fish wardens to arrest any person found in any of the waters of the Commonwealth and lands adjacent and contiguous thereto, casting garbage, bottles, cans, rubbish, wire, glass, crockery, lumber or wooden cartons or a n y other type of debris or refuse, constructing an owner or his tenant ingnore or regress to the property or cattle-ing digging in the property or cattle-ing digging in the property or cattle-ing digging in

Musician Dave Rose Collects Miniature Steam Engines

Has Agreement With Bruins

By BOB THOMAS

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Providence Reds of the American Hockey League Friday announced completion of a working agreement with Boston Bruins of the National League whereby the local club will become a farm team of the Bruins.

Terry Reardon, general manager of the Reds, said the Providence team will receive considerable player material from the Bruins under the arrangement which is for one year but includes a one-year cancellation notice clause.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Mister Jive will carry top weight of 129 pounds in today's $10,000 King Edward Gold Cup to be run over New Woodbine's grass course at a distance of 1 1-16 miles.

Mister Jive, which set a Canadian record for seven furlongs last Saturday, will be making his first start on a grass track. He will meet 11 rivals in the King Edward Gold Cup and must concede 16 pounds to Kitty Girl, winner of $40,000 last season.

Peter Del Greco's Our Guest won the featured Hastings Purse on Friday's program before a crowd of 6,110. First Sea Lord, making his first start of the year, battled head and head to the eighth pole before giving way.

Culpeper charged up to finish second with Compactor third.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When you see Dave Rose conducting his smooth music for the Red Skelton TV show, you'd scarcely suspect that he's a steam engine addict.

The suave conductor-composer not only has one of the world's largest collections of miniature steam engines; he even has a steam train that runs around his San Fernando Valley home.

"Every Saturday, I blow the whistle and the kids come from all over the neighborhood," he said.

Dave doesn't know how he got started on this kick. No doubt he became fascinated with trains early. When he clicked as a composer 25 years ago, he began shoving the profits into steam. He collected engines from all over the world and developed his own miniature train, a knee-high affair that will pull 150 persons.

BECAME MANIA

It's got to be a mania for Dave because it isn't tax deductible. Out here, celebrities hastily point to much money they're losing unless it either earns a profit or an income tax deduction.

The diversion provides welcome relief from the rigors of Dave's musical life. A perfection-ist, he composes and arranges most of his own material. Besides the Skelton show, the Shower of Stars and other programs, his record albums are best sellers and he sometimes does a movie score.

Then he keeps up a steady schedule of concerts. This week he was in Portland, Ore., conducting at the Rose Festival. Today he leaves for Europe to scout the possibilities of staging some concerts over there this summer.

Japs to Have Covered Park

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japanese baseball fans soon will be laughing at the weatherman, thanks to a covered park plan announced Friday by a Tokyo television company.

The proposed stadium, expected to be ready in about two years, will be built by Nihon Television and will be covered entirely by an enormous umbrella made of thin steel plates. Seating capacity will be 57,000, making it one of the largest baseball parks in the world.

TV NOTEBOOK

by John Weitlaufer

Unlike the Canadian Mounties who have garnered quite a reputation for their ability to "get their man", a TV comedienne does a complete turnabout with an equally high degree of success. We're referring to Ann Davis — the Schultzy of the Bob Cummings show — who has yet to get a man of any description, at any time — on TV, that is.

Once a pre-med student in college, Schultzy ranks today as one of the more talented supporting actresses in TV, as witness three successive Emmy nominations for best comedienne in a supporting role.

Getting their man is a problem for the law and frustrated females, but getting first-rate, thoroughly competent TV service and repair is a simple matter for anyone who calls on CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St. Seriously, we have the equipment and the know-how to get the job done quickly and at the lowest cost. Try CIRCLE TV SERVICE for better work—always Phone WO 8-6791 — in Trenton phone Zenith 6-3000.

FAMILY HOME

One often reads about a large family-home for sale and the description is based upon inspection to find there is room for a large family. We have just listed one that you will want to see for a large family — yet it is new and modern. Only a couple have lived in it for a few years and it has been well cared for and transferred. There's four bedrooms and bath on second floor. On first floor a living room to live in with a log-burning stone fireplace, a dining room for dad, a kitchen for mom, and a bedroom for the family bath. Plenty of room in the full basement for your future recreation room. Then there's a glassed-in breezeway and the garage. Situated in the north end of town close to your church and school. HIS EYES LIVE ON RAIFORD, Fla. (AP)—George Lowell Everett, 22 - year - old murderer who willed his eyes to be blind to soothe his conscience, went calmly to his death Friday in the electric chair for the rape-murder in 1955 of Mrs. Lou Ellen Jones, 21. The eyes, apparently undamaged by the 2,200 volts of electricity that ripped through his body, were removed immediately after Everett's death, packed in ice and flown to a New York eye bank.

LITTLE

Mr. Green said in answer to Mr. Cleverley that his department might take over all government construction, indicating that it had not been discussed at cabinet level yet.

Opposition Leader Pearson was among those members who resumed prodding and poking at the new department.

Opposition speakers reiterated that the program appeared to be just about what the previous Liberal government had thrown on planned and that it was intended to make good Conservative election campaign promises.

Mr. Pearson said the huge $1,185,000,000 program advertised by Prime Minister Diefenbaker was neither new nor a recession-aid.

Public works had their place, he agreed, but the present program was disappointing.

Mr. Green said that other departments including defence production, transport and northern affairs have a large part to play, not to mention the funds allocated to finance housing construction.

Mr. Pearson took issue with a recent statement by Mr. Green that no works projected by the former government had been cancelled and few had been postponed.

He read a list of 17 projects which he said had been or were postponed. Mr. Green said that was a case of politicians mixing in the work of the department.

J. R. Garland (L-Nipissing) asked a number of questions relating to small docks throughout the country, which seemed to indicate tenders to tourists among other things

LE DEVOIR

Premier Duplessis was asked at his Friday press conference for comment on Le Devoir's story, which made five "charges" relating to Quebec Natural Gas. He said at first he was too concerned it was "a crooked and dishonest deal" with any other company," he said.

Later Maurice Forget, president of Quebec Natural Gas, said that "we have taken notice" of Le Devoir's story and that all details of the company's organization are existing and appear on the prospectus issued at the time of financing.

"This prospectus was approved in its entirety by the Security Exchange Commission of Washington, by the Quebec Securities Commission and the Ontario Security Commission and contradicts the allegations and insinuations published in the above-mentioned article."

CHARGES "CONNIVANCE"

Le Devoir had said:

1. Sale to Quebec Natural Gas of Quebec Hydro's distribution system brought a profit of $10,000,000 cash coup possible only through the "connivance" of Union Nationale politicians with the new Natural Gas promoters.

2. Quebec Natural Gas promoters made a non-taxable capital gain of at least $9,000,000.

3. A number of Union Nationale cabinet ministers were involved.

4. The promoters have promised to risked only $50,000 to negotiate with Quebec Hydro for an asset worth more than $30,000,000.

5. At least three high officials of Quebec Hydro "played double parts, by serving . . . the hydro interests and those" of Natural Gas Corp. which rewarded them by giving them lush options on blocks of common stock and appointing them among its directors and its vice-presidents."

Arctic Missionaries Make Drastic Changes in Lives And Culture of the Eskimos

MONTREAL (CP) — Missionaries in the Arctic have made drastic changes in the lives and culture of the Eskimos, says a Montreal physician who has just completed his 18th trip to the far north.

Dr. Ray Lawson, member of a federal government - sponsored medical team sent each year to examine and treat the Arctic native, told a medical gathering after his return:

"Missionaries have suppressed everything native to the Eskimo culture. They are largely responsible for the disappearance of such native arts as the drum dance, which is no great loss to the musical world but certainly was interesting from an anthropological standpoint."

SUCCESSFUL HUNTER

It is a wildly vocal solo dance performed before the drum-beating tribe by an Eskimo man celebrating his return from a successful hunt, Dr. Lawson told the group.

If he lunges toward a man who shies away and looks guilty, the celebrant is entitled to conclude that the guilty one has been taking advantage of his wife in his absence and a fight may follow.

All memory of the native religion is gone now, said Dr. Lawson. The missionaries have replaced the old faith with stories of the Good Shepherd and all the Hebraic symbolism which the native usually fails to understand.

"I asked one Eskimo what a sheep was. He had no idea. The Anglicans are a little more lenient than the Roman Catholics in that they will replace the symbol of the shepherd with that of the good caribou herder.

"Many tribes under the missionary's influence have replaced a good healthy attitude to sex with the white man's modesty which has set up a whole string of artificial guilt feelings.

"One tribe was not allowed by the missionary to disrobe even partially by families for medical examination. We had to take all members of one sex together."

TOP LINGUISTS

But, he said, religious leaders are striving to help the Eskimos within the framework of the Christian religion and are preserving the Eskimo culture in one important realm—language.

"The missionaries are the best linguists up there," Dr. Lawson said. "Two dictionaries have been published, both attempting to unify the spelling of Eskimo words."

But old superstitions still persisted, and an Eskimo occasionally could be observed to sneak over to a dead seal and give it a drink of water—just in case its soul was thirsty.

"The Eskimo is so amiable and anxious to please and be pleased that when it comes to religion I'm afraid he goes where he can get the best show," he told the group of doctors.

"Missionaries are the least popular of all white men who live and work among the Eskimos," Dr. Lawson said.

Contrary to some reports, the Hudson's Bay officials treated the natives with respect and honesty. One year after the Eskimos had traded their furs, the company found out that buying prices had increased.

The next season the Eskimos were given extra money for the previous year's furs.

The government team was well received wherever it went, he said, mainly because of the Arctic policeman's influence on the north.

"RCMP constables and sergeants are a fine type of person, usually with a little romantic blood in their veins. They like the life even though it means considerable hardship. They live about 150 miles apart and travel over the intervening territory at interv als."

Working in the western Arctic the medical team this year examined and treated 1,250 Eskimos, found them really in excellent health, though less self-reliant due to the declining caribou population. The caribou formerly was a major source of food and clothing.

"The government has research parties actually living with the caribou to see what is causing the decrease," said Dr. Lawson. "It might be a chill factor, it might be undulant fever, but no one quite knows.

"This is one of the north's most serious problems. Families that could count on 300 or 400 caribou a season now are lucky if they kill three or four."

As a result they relied more and more on the generosity of the government, whose big dilemma is to decide just how good to be to the Eskimos.

GIVEN GOOD CARE

"The northern affairs department has always kept a keen eye on them to see they don't starve," the doctor said. "Besides the baby bonus, which they don't understand but enjoy, there are the doles and old age pensions at 70.

"In many cases the Eskimo is becoming a dependent sluggard, who would rather hang about a settlement waiting for a handout than go out to hunt and seal," said Dr. Lawson.

On the other hand, Eskimo children were being educated in permanent schools at places like Aklavak, Coppermine and Cambridge Bay.

Young men were being given wireless courses and mechanical courses—for which they showed great aptitude — and many of them were holding good - paying jobs on the DEW line.

"The Eskimo who gets $300 or $400 a month may support whole families of relatives on his salary," said Dr. Lawson. "Mind you, he doesn't offer to support them but if they ask, he'll take them in.

"If the DEW line disappears, they'll be in even graver economic trouble and the government will be faced with an even bigger bill than it has now.

"Unless mineral wealth is found in the north—and at the moment it seems unlikely—then the Eskimos will have to move south now that he has tasted a better way of life."

Garden Notes

Be Cautious When Using Sprays

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Careless handling of weed-killing sprays can ruin thousands of valuable plants and years of hard work. With moderate care they can be a great aid to the gardener but should never be used on windy days. The spray may drift on the wind to flowers fruit and shrubs, which they may kill, incense you or the neighbors, in which case your duty is to replace them.

Spray on days when they are growing rapidly. During the warm weather of early summer, just after a rain is the best time. Hot dry weather or cold d a m p weather is not ideal for g o o d results.

Talk to your garden supply dealer on the right type for your particular needs, then follow directions on the package exactly.

Apply during the heat of the day when the air is still and hold the nozzle close to the ground. Tough old perennial weeds such as dandelion will need a second application a week later.

Do not use 2,4-D on clipped bent grass. If you feel you must use it on bent grass use a very fine spray and only after you have allowed the bent grass to grow several inches long.

Blue grass mixtures usually include some White Dutch clover. This is only temporarily damaged and will soon recover.

If you use your garden sprays to apply 2,4-D be sure to wash out well with a strong solution of household ammonia immediately after the work is done. Any residue on a y damage flowers, vegetables or fruit when the sprayer is used later for plant food, insecticides, or fungicides.

MAY PREVENT DAMAGE

If the weed-killing spray drifts past the intended area, or a sudden gust of wind carries it further than you intended, or y o u r neighbor seems a bit careless in handling his sprayer use y o u r hose to drench your flowers, bent grass, shrubs or vegetables. You may prevent or lessen the damage.

Now that the hardy chrysanthemums have made several inches of new growth it is time to begin a spray program for the summer. Every ten days, or two weeks spray them with a nicotine sulphate solution. Be sure to reach the underside of the leaves. This spray is useful in combating aphis, red spider, or spider mite, scale and other insects.

New combination sprays which contain malation are excellent for mums and also for most of o u r annual and perennial flowering plants.

For rose disease Black Leaf 40 has long been the accepted b u t the new all purpose sprays do a better job. A three in one spray such as Trogren will control diseases and insects. If you prefer a dust look for one which contains fermate. The most important rose insurance is regular and frequent spraying or dusting, once a week, or ten day intervals and right after a rain will keep them healthy. Dust or spray in the early morning, or evening when the air is still and the temperatures are below 90 degrees. Continue the program all through the summer up until frost.

Wear a filter or mask when spraying or dusting to protect your health.

YEAR'S FEDERAL DEFICIT $39 MILLION

No Big Tax Cuts Likely In First Fleming Budget

Expect Emphasis to Be On Anti-Slump Spending

OTTAWA (CP) — No major tax cuts in the fields of personal or corporation income tax are expected when Finance Minister Fleming presents the government's 1958-59 budget to Parliament Tuesday night.

The budget's main emphasis likely will be on spending, to shore up the economy against the recession.

A record peacetime deficit of anywhere between $600,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 appeared in prospect for the current year that ends at March 31. The previous peacetime high was one of $350,000,000 in 1953-54. The all-time high deficit was $2,528,277,125 in the war year of 1944-45.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker already is on record as saying the government will let budget deficits stand in the way of moves to combat recession and unemployment.

Mr. Fleming will start delivering his first budget speech today in the Commons shortly after 3 p.m. EDT. He gave Parliament a "rip roaring" financial statement" last Dec. 6 amending the March budget presented March 14, 1957, by former Liberal finance minister Walter Harris.

MAY HAVE TAX CUTS

Mr. Fleming's budget may include a few select tax cuts. Some excise taxes may be reduced and revisions are likely in the tax on the oil industry to cut costs of searching for and developing new oil deposits.

Tariff changes also are expected, both increases and decreases with likely emphasis on upgrading. They are expected to have some impact on the iron and steel industries and on manufacturers of pipes and tubes.

However, no immediate change is expected to result from tariff board recommendation that duties be raised on wool cloth imported from Britain. This may be a subject for negotiations at the Commonwealth trade and economic conference opening Sept. 15 in Montreal.

Against the expected record spending, there may be a slight decline in government revenues with corporations profits dropping and revenues from import duties declining because of lower shipments.

Higher spending coupled with lessened revenue will mean a borrowing that will boost the national debt above the limit the demand for credit. The national debt, which now is just over $57,000,000,000, now is above $2,500,000,000, now is about $11,000,000,000.

GLIDERS CRASH

LASHAM, England (Reuters)—Two gliders collided at 5,000 feet in the first recorded mishap of its kind yesterday. No one was hurt. One glider, a two-seater, broke in halves. The crew parachuted to safety. The other, the unmanned glider, a single-seater, landed itself safely on the airfield after losing part of a wing.

Lesage Demands Royal Inquiry Into Gas Deal

MONTMAGNY, Que. (CP) — Hon. Jean Lesage, leader of the Quebec Liberal party, Sunday night called on Premier Duplessis to institute a royal inquiry to investigate the sale of the publicly-owned Quebec Hydro gas system to the privately-owned Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

In a statement, Mr. Lesage, former federal minister of northern affairs and national resources and former member of the Commons for Montmagny - L'Islet, said:

"Under the circumstances and with my responsibility as chief of the Quebec Liberal party, I ask the premier of the province to institute a royal inquiry presided by a judge of the Superior Court to examine all the aspects of the transaction, including the participation of Union Nationel cabinet ministers.

"This affair is so important that if in two weeks Mr. Duplessis has done nothing, has evaded his responsibilities as is his well-known custom, if the inquiry is not instituted, the Liberal party will take the steps necessary to protect the taxpayers of Quebec."

Mr. Lesage said he will give more details on the Liberal party's attitude "in this affair" at a press conference tonight.

De Gaulle Soon Will Confer With Macmillan

PARIS (CP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will go to Paris this month to visit General Charles de Gaulle, the premier's office announced today.

Official sources also said Minister of State Guy Mollet will probably be sent to the United States shortly to explain the situation in France and French North African policy.

Mollet will probably also travel to Canada and Britain, the sources said.

The premier's office said the meeting between Macmillan and de Gaulle would take place on de Gaulle's birthday. The exact date will be set at Macmillan's convenience but June 27 was mentioned as likely.

PROMOTERS RISK ONLY $50,000 SAYS LE DEVOIR

Prices Rise Very Day Issue Was Launched

MONTREAL (CP) — Le Devoir says the birth of the privately-owned Quebec Natural Gas Corporation was marked by one of the most "extraordinary" market coups in Canada in recent years.

"It is akin to that of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited, whose artisans were in part the same," says the newspaper.

The statements were contained in the third of a series about what it terms a $20,000,000 market coup involving shares of the Quebec company.

In its second article Saturday the newspaper named five Quebec cabinet ministers, four legislative councillors and Premier Duplessis' executive secretary as shareholders or former shareholders in the corporation. It was formed in 1956 to take over from the publicly-owned Quebec Hydro the supplying of some $50,000 household clients in the Montreal area.

The third article, published on page one of the politically independent newspaper, says "the promoters risked only $50,000 to put their hand on a $40,000,000 enterprise, a colossal act of vast expansion because of the advent of natural gas."

RAISED MONEY

The promoters had raised $4,509,898 from June 15, 1956, to March 1, 1957, to pay off some preliminary costs such as the option to purchase the gas system, Le Devoir said. Of this amount, $4,000,000 was raised by the sale of 800,000 common shares at $10 each for a total of $8,000,000. The company had authorized issue of 1,000,000 common shares at $10 each.

Le Devoir added:

"By thus rigorously limiting the number of shares in relation to the amount of business, an enormous demand was created and the shares' market prices to rise the very day the issue was launched."

Tense Cyprus Awaits British Plan for Isle

Governor Sir Hugh Foot today lifted an all-day curfew imposed on all main Cyprus towns Sunday to stem the violence.

100,000 View Delicate Operation Performed on Heart of Girl

HALIFAX (CP) — An estimated 100,000 persons Sunday night watched a delicate operation performed on the heart of an eight-year-old girl in Canada's first live telecast from an operating room.

The surgery was to correct a condition that usually brings death before age 2. A hospital spokesman said the unnamed girl might be in good condition and can be discharged within two weeks.

The operation was televised by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. The station reported 14 phone calls. Two complained about the nature of the program but most said it ended too soon.

The surgeon described the operation as he worked. Three doctors discussed the girl's condition and questioned the surgeon through a special communication system.

The surgeon and his assistants, not named, tied off a connection between two vital blood vessels in the heart. For the moment blood supply to the body the connection must be blocked off. Normally, this turns deep blue after birth.

The condition, which develops when the connection remains open leaves the patient without energy and susceptible to infection.

The operation coincided with the opening today of the annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association.

The girl's parents waited in their daughter's hospital room during the operation. Visiting doctors viewed the surgery by closed-circuit color-television in a nearby hotel.

A spokesman for the medical association said the program was designed "to allay public fear of surgery." He said doctors hoped it would help shorten delay in seeking medical advice.

Duplessis Says Quebec Glad of Foreign Capital

BAIE COMEAU, Que. (CP)—Premier Duplessis visited here to forge ahead to come to Quebec at a spoke Saturday night at the official opening of the Canadian British Aluminium Company's new smelter here.

He told 500 persons attending a dinner marking the occasion that they should pay no attention to "some extremists" who speak out against foreign capital.

His government, he said, "is convinced American capital should be and is welcome in the province of Quebec."

The CBA smelter represented the combining of American and British capital, Mr. Duplessis said. Canada had a role to play in bringing Britain and the United States together, "and we are always glad when that happens."

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—A Canadian scientist says research indicates that children up to six years need four Salk vaccine shots instead of the standard three to provide permanent immunize against polio.

FOUR TORONTO YOUTHS DROWN IN LAKE SCUGOG

Bodies Recovered 200 Yards From Boat

PORT PERRY, Ont. (CP)—An early-morning fishing party ended in tragedy Saturday when four Toronto youths were drowned after their 15-foot aluminum boat overturned in Lake Scugog.

The victims: Michael Madden, 16, Larry O'Connor, 17, Robert Walker, 18, and Gordon Bennett, 20.

The bodies were recovered within 200 yards of the spot where their rented boat was found swamped with only its bow showing. Unused life preservers floated nearby.

One body was found trapped beneath the overturned craft while it was being towed back to shore. Another was found tangled in a life jacket.

W. P. O'Connor, father of one of the boys, said they were all good friends, keen fishermen and fished frequently together in the Port Perry area. They made their trip out of town to fish. The lake is a resort area 16 miles north of Oshawa.

John Orde, boat rental operator, said the boys rented the early Saturday to rent a boat. He gave them one with a 7½ horsepower motor and instructed them in its use.

SEEMED TO KNOW

"They told me they had run a motorboat before, but I explained how the one I had given them worked," he said. "They seemed to know what they were doing."

All four were believed to have been good swimmers. A cottage resident told police he noticed the boys fishing two hours before the boat was found and they did not appear to be in trouble.

Two-foot waves and winds of moderate velocity had been reported on the lake all day but police said conditions were safe enough for small craft if properly handled.

Mr. Orde said the boys should have been able to cling to the boat at least 10 hours. He said he issued each with a life jacket but they apparently had not been worn.

He said: "Life jackets are not a charm. They mean nothing when they are put on the bottom of the boat. People are lulled into false security when they have them but in hot weather often refuse to wear them."

Would Ban Space War if U.S. Quit Overseas Bases

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio says Russia would ban war in space on using interplanetary space for military purposes, but only if the United States gives up its overseas bases.

"The U.S.S.R. can be attacked at any minute from any one of the 250 U.S. military bases in Europe and Asia," said a commentator Sunday in a broadcast beamed to North America.

"How could the Soviet people reconcile themselves to the idea of peace in this constant threat? In their position, the American people would certainly feel the same."

Bing Crosby's Wife Is Unconcerned By Ex-Convict's Plot to Kidnap Her

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bing Crosby's wife is back in town apparently unconcerned about all the fuss over an ex-convict's plot to kidnap her 20-month-old son.

"I haven't told Bing—he's salmon fishing in Alaska," said Mrs. Crosby, who arrived Sunday night from Idaho, a beauty contest at Sun Valley.

"But even if I could reach him," she added, "what is there to tell him?"

Police said Wilburn E. Davison, 41, admits planning the plot with a partner, probably won't be prosecuted. Davison said he abandoned the plan when he learned Mrs. Crosby was pregnant.

"Davison probably is going to get life anyway because he has admitted his part in four robberies and two kidnappings with intent to commit robbery," said Detective-Sergeant Jack Morris.

The plot to kidnap Mrs. Crosby was revealed Saturday by Inspector Thad Brown, Nick Snow, 19. She told authorities in Oklahoma that Davidson and Eugene King tried to get her to help them. Miss Snow refused but allowed her to stay with Mrs. Crosby while she was a captive.

Police said officers h- and Kling gave up the planned kidnapping and decided on a robbery when they learned Mrs. Crosby was pregnant.

Crosby Sunday cut short his British Columbia fishing trip to return to Los Angeles.

He flew into Vancouver International airport from his favorite fishing grounds near the Queen Charlotte Islands. Hundreds of cheering crowds visiting the centennial air show at the airport by hiding out in a baggage shed.

Lower Revenues Higher Spending Shown In Report

Canadian Economy Took Double Beating in 1957

OTTAWA (CP)—The high-flying Canadian economy took a double beating in 1957, Finance Minister Fleming informed Parliament today.

Its speed was slowed by a drop in world demand for some key export products, killing part of an expanded industrial machine and throwing some breadwinners out of work.

And while the basically-sound economy still managed to absorb a big slice of the work force boost—providing more workers with more pay—a big chunk of the pay increase was eaten up by higher living costs.

In 1956 the rise in living standards for the average Canadian was the biggest in post-war history. In 1957, Mr. Fleming said, "slight," Mr. Fleming noted in his prepared white paper, describing 1957 as the year of "readjustment."

MORE JOBS, JOBLESS

The number of Canadians with jobs increased to 5,661,000 from 5,528,000 in 1956. Those without jobs and seeking work also rose to an annual average of 254,000 from 179,000.

The rise in unemployment was "substantial," partly because of the recession and partly because of an unusually sharp rise in the labor force. The rise in immigrants was heavy. Adding to problems was the fact that more housewives, older person and others decided to take up work outside the home.

Wages nevertheless rose, with the annual average pay climbing by $141 or four per cent to $3,534. So did consumer prices, which result, for all goods and services Canadian "the-improvement in real income for 1957 was slight compared to the advance of four per cent in 1956."

RECESSION AHEAD

The tempo eased, but there was still plenty of life in the economy. The gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—climbed to a peak $31,413,000,000 from $30,182,000,000, though the rise reflected mainly higher prices rather than increased production.

Corporation profits dropped to $2,500,000,000 from $2,902,000,000 but labor income increased to $15,855,000,000 from $14,719,000,000.

Consumer spending pushed ahead to $19,768,000,000 from $18,697,000,000. Government purchases also rose to $5,612,000,000 from $5,300,000.

Personal income — including wages, military pay, farm earnings, investment income, interest and dividends — swelled to $23,147,000,000 from $21,858,000,000.

Lack of Money Forces Board To Curtail Work

Due to shortage of funds the summer program of the Belleville Parks Board this year will be one of "meagre maintenance."

Lack of money to carry out the usual improvements and maintenance has resulted in the parks board laying off three of its six employees, it was stated by board chairman Jack Devine.

The high debenture debt of the parks board which costs approximately $9,000 a year to carry on is the crux of the parks board's financial difficulties. Revenue of the board is one mill on the city assessment, amounting to $12,000 per year. With debenture costs deducted this leaves only about $12,000 to pay labor and other costs of the board.

"It just means that this year's work will be strictly maintenance. Only the work to be done," stated Mr. Devine.

Board secretary-treasurer Orval Rollins said difficulties that the board is still paying debentures that have been refunded twice, on the horse barns, floodlights and other items at the fairgrounds.

However, it is not quite as bad as it appears. In addition to the approximately $12,000 which the parks board has after taking care of debentures, it is expected that an amount of $2,000 will be refunded by the city. The $2,500 is budgeted by council for "special projects" this year and it expects that most of this money will be available for parks work.

Police said that Mrs. Edna Barnes, R.R. 6 Picton, was northbound on Coleman Street and made a right turn onto Bridge. In doing so her car struck a car stopped for the red light, then went over the curb and crashed into the corner of the Toronto Star building. A plate glass window in the corner entrance was smashed along with its frame. The car then bounced back off the corner of the building was knocked loose and fell into the river.

Jackie Sweet demonstrates in New York an invention designed to stop a car if the driver is drunk. Release the steering wheel and the device takes over applying the emergency brake and sounding a buzzer. In addition, the driver can't start his car until he trips a complicated electronic circuit with a metal-tipped pencil.

Fall Into River Is Expensive For Picton Man

Falling into the Moira Rivers seems to be a popular pastime and although thus far the involuntary swimmers have escaped serious physical injury, the after events have proven expensive.

Late last week a Hallowy man tumbled into the river at the rear of the Thomas Tobacco Store and over the weekend a Picton man fell from the CPR bridge into the river. In both instances the men were pulled out by firemen and in both instances the men were charged with drunkenness.

Only the fast work of a young by-stander saved Mr. Picton from may tumble from the bridge and possibly drowning. The youth shoved a pole to the man who hung on until firemen arrived and rescued him from a boat.

Sukarno Tries To Crush Last Rebel Force

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno's government launched a full-scale land, sea and air attack in the North Celebes today to crush the last major stronghold of a four-month-old rebellion.

The Indonesian Navy said the invasion force landed at daybreak 20 miles from Menado, the North Celebes rebel capital. Naval gunboats and airborne units hit the beach at the east coast fishing town of Kema and began driving west across the peninsula toward Menado.

About 5,000 troops were involved in the operation, obviously aimed at linking up with commandos and army units that landed earlier in smaller numbers on the east coast seaport of Bitung and on the west coast near Menado.

The government strategy apparently was to seal off the tip of the 200-mile North Celebes peninsula for a final assault on the volcano-ringed seaport.

The navy spokesman said slight resistance was easily overcome. A large number of warships were used and reinforcements were being rushed ashore.

Melvin Roy Clyde, 38-year-old Hartington bachelor, was instantly killed about 10.30 Sunday evening when he was struck by a car as he rode his bicycle on No. 38 Highway near his home.

The accident occurred about a mile south of Hartington.

Driver of the car which struck the cyclist, George Roy Walker of Orono, told Provincial Police that he was blinded by lights as he turned out to pass another car and failed to see the cyclist.

Highway Crash North of Kaladar Kills German

A young German immigrant was fatally injured and his companion is in Belleville General Hospital with injuries said not to be critical, as result of their car going out of control on No. 41 Highway, 75 miles north of Kaladar, on Sunday afternoon.

Killed was Harold Menzel, 22, of 185 Crescent Road, Toronto. In Belleville hospital is Alfred Uhl, 22, of 30 Melbourne Ave., York township. His injuries were not believed to be serious.

The accident occurred about 4:30 Sunday afternoon two miles south of the Renfrew county line. The southbound European make auto went out of control on a curve, went off the road and rolled over.

Police have not been able to determine which of the two occupants was driving at the time of the accident.

The dead man came to Canada from Germany in February last year, while the injured man came to this country in 1956.

Provincial Police from Kaladar investigated the accident.

BEIRUT (CP)—Scattered firing echoed in western Beirut today and two explosions rocked parts of the city as Lebanon's beleaguered government awaited the arrival of Dag Hammarskjold United Nations secretary-general.

On the surface, the capital had been comparatively quiet today after a weekend of serious fighting between government and rebel forces.

The weekend fighting fizzled out at sunset Sunday when Lebanese Air Force jets flew at roof-top level over rebel areas.

Today about half the shops in the centre of the city were open and there were more people on the streets than usual.

REBELS "SUBDUED"

Information Minister Clovis Khazen, asked for the government's appraisal of the situation after the weekend fighting, said: "We have subdued the rebellion in Beirut."

Bowling Notes

The first tournament of the season on the home alleys, a mixed doubles affair was an outstanding success. Thirty - eight rinks from Kingston, Trenton, Peterborough and the home club took part. The greens were in excellent condition, the competition especially keen for so early in the season and the hospitality of a high degree. Many of the contestants brought along a picnic basket and enjoyed a picnic between games with a bridge game.

The weather was a little on the chilly side but the bowlers were happy to be out for their favorite pastime. Morley Galt and his partner, Mrs. T. McCullough were the winners of the tournament with Mrs. Grace Clapp and Claude D. Tice a close second. Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith of the home club were third three-game high, closely followed by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watkin and Mr. and Mrs. Hoard Hubbs.

The two - game high was won by William Lancaster and Miss Ruth Wilson with 1,024 while the one-game high by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stringer of Kingston. The first prizes — consisting of a beautiful nylon hunting jacket and a ladies' sweater coat donated by the Sports Centre, operated by Bruce Miller, an active member of the club and Bob Blaind. Bruce had the honor of presenting the prizes to the Kingston rink.

Orlo Smith was the chairman for the tournament and he was ably assisted by an efficient committee. Gordon Edwards conducted the draws in his usual capable manner. It was an excellent tournament and the mixed doubles tournaments appear to be very popular throughout the district this season.

Camp Borden, escaped with minor injuries.

Former Yacht Club Building Badly Damaged

TRENTON — Fire last night badly damaged the former yacht club building near the Canadian Legion Hall and on the Bay shore.

The building was given to the local firemen some years ago after the yacht club had disbanded before the frame club house had been finished. The building carried $1,000 in fire insurance and the cause of the blaze is not known.

The fire started under the plywood floor and made fairly good headway before it was noticed and the firemen called. A general alarm was rung to bring out most of the volunteers.

The firemen ran hoses from nearby hydrants rather than to take time to pump the water from the bay. They had it under control and out shortly after they arrived. However the fire had proceeded far enough to damage the building to the extent it is considered necessary to tear it down in the near future.

The yacht club was started about five years ago but has never been finished. The frame work, clapboards and roof have been put on but it was then the group called and they later turned the building over to the firemen for their use at Bain Park if they wished.

Windows and doors had also been installed but the glass had long been broken out by rock-wielding children. The plywood floor was completely destroyed but there had been no partitions put inside the new building.

Hundreds of persons followed the progress of the blaze and it was said two motorists were reported to police when they deliberately ran over the hose lines after being warned not to.

Trentonians Will Attend Sessions

TRENTON — Several members of the Trenton I.O.O.F. Lodge will be among the expected 1,000 from Ontario who will attend the Grand Lodge sessions to be held in Toronto this week at the Royal York Hotel.

Cliff Sumner of Trenton will be sitting as a member of the Grand Lodge. Mr. Sumner is the first "commer" from this district—in many years to hold an office in the Grand Lodge.

Representatives from the Trenton Lodge, who will be attending the convention, will be Oscar Burleigh. Others who will also be in attendance from the local group will be Lou Fox and James E. Thow.

Two Accidents Mar Weekend

TRENTON — Two accidents in Trenton marred the weekend with a total estimate of $750 in damages. There were no injuries.

The first accident was reported at 11:30 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Byron and Dundas Street, East. Albert Gioria of 22 Grand Ave., Toronto, told police he was proceeding along Dundas Street, east, when a car, driven by Lela Lawrence, 88A West Street, Trenton, left Byron and smashed into the side of his car, causing damage to the right front fender and door. Damage was estimated at $100. Damage to the Lawrence car was said to be to the entire front end. Estimated repairs will be $150.

Sgt. D. Bradshaw and Constable R. King of the Trenton police force investigated.

The second mishap of the weekend occurred at 3.40 p.m. Sunday on the corner of Front and Golsha Streets, according to police reports. A car being operated by Earl H. Hunter of 64 Yeomans Street, Trenton, had parked at the Webb Hamburger stand on the west side of the street and the second car, being driven by John W. Elliott, 64 Nicholas Street, Trenton, proceeding south on Front Street, smashed into the rear of it.

Damage to the Belleville car was estimated at $100 and was to the left rear corner of the car and included the bumper, fender and trunk lid. The Trenton car damage was also estimated at $100 and was to the left front fender, bumper, radiator and grille.

P.-Sgt. Walter Youmans investigated.

Air Force Day Brings 20,000 From Area to Trenton Station

TRENTON — An estimated 20,000 persons turned out Saturday to see the personnel of RCAF Station Trenton join in with the rest of Canada in celebrating Air Force Day. Twenty-two air stations across Canada took part in this open house day which is the 12th in the history of the RCAF.

The purpose of the day is to give Canadians a better understanding of the many operations that combine to make up an efficient, modern, jet-age airforce.

The program opened with a band concert by the combined bugle bands of the South Station and No. 6 Repair Depot and was followed by a welcome from the Commanding Officers, G/C R. M. Cox, DFC, AFC, CD, Commanding Officers Station Trenton; G/C T. A. Spruston, MBE, Commanding Officer No. 6 Repair Dept and S/L R. K. Trumley, CD, Commanding Officer No. 6 (T) OTU.

Shortly after 2 p.m. fire trucks of the Trenton Limits did a display of fighting a gasoline fire with "foam," the same type of extinguisher they would use in controlling a blazing aircraft.

The air display was opened when F/L John Marion brought in a Vampire F36 Sabre jet to create a sonic boom and signal the use of all the aircraft stationed at Trenton.

Planes taking part included Sabres, T-Birds and CF-100s in jet power, while propeller driven craft included North Stars, Daks, Expeditors, Harvards and the Chipmunk. During the show a group came to huge Argus anti-submarine craft of Maritime Air Command, flew over the station low and slow to give Trentonians their first look at Canada's best in submarine hunters.

Formation fly-past and aerobatics by Harvards, Chipmunk and the T-33 and Sabre flying jets swooped down over the field suddenly.

Pension Boost Shoves Fund Deep Into Red

OTTAWA (CP) — Boosting of the old age pension to $50 a month has placed the pension fund deep in the red.

Finance Minister Fleming reported in his white paper today that in the last fiscal year ended March 31 the fund showed a peak deficit of $102,400,000.

He also reported that in 1956-57 the deficit was $8,000,000 instead of the $6,000,000 previously estimated. Parliament will be asked to write off the whole amount—the $108,400,00 and the $2,000,000 hanging over from 1956-57—as a charge against the 1957-58 budget.

The pension fund has been running continually in the red ever since it was set up in 1952. It is financed by a two-per-cent tax on personal and corporation incomes and on commodity sales.

Early last year the Liberal administration boosted the monthly payment to $46 from $40, effective April 1, 1957. Progressive Conservatives increased it to $55 last Nov. 1.

WILL MAN SEE UNIVERSE CREATED?

Will man one day watch the creation of the universe?

An absurd question? Perhaps it is, yet the world of astronomers is so strange that the layman's mind, wandering through it, could make the deduction with some appearance of logic that this might one day be possible.

UNESCO reports that the mighty 200-inch Hale telescope at the Palomar Observatory has shown galaxies which are two billion light years away. The same article also reports that the observable universe is four billion years old. This means that the light which today reaches the Hale telescope started its journey through space when the universe was half as old as it is today. Perhaps the astronomer will chuckle at such a display of ignorance, but the layman may be pardoned for wondering whether, if man could devise a telescope several times as powerful as the Hale, he might be able to detect galaxies four billion light years distant, light which would have started its journey when the observable universe was being born.

Perhaps, though, this calculation does not take into consideration the fact that the universe is expanding, that celestial systems are hurtling away from each other at great speed. Do these systems eventually reach the speed of light, thus disappearing from view for ever, asks the UNESCO article. And then there was another question posed in a different article on space. Is it sterile, and is one of those clusters of stars which the astronomers detect far out in space actually our own solar system? Don't ask us how that could be possible; we just report that the possibility was raised in an article written by a person who presumably had some understanding of the subject.

Even if space is curved, though, there will always be new worlds to conquer if man ever achieves space travel. Even if man makes rockets which can travel at the speed of light, it would take him 1,500 years just to cross from one side of the smallest known galaxies to the other. How many suns are there in the heavens? More than the grains of sand on all the beaches of earth, some say expert. And that, as anybody knows who has tried to comb sand out of his hair after a day at the beach, is a whole lot of grains.

WELL DONE, LAKELAND!

Some time ago City Council voted in favor of giving a franchise to the Lakeland Natural Gas Limited to install pipelines throughout the city.

Since the company began digging up the streets and laying pipe, residents in many quarters of the city have been inconvenienced by the noise the equipment made while doing the job. However, flowers are in order for most Bellevillians, because, as far as we know, complaints against the noise are at a minimum. A larger bouquet, though, goes to the Lakeland Natural Gas Ltd. for being speedy, efficient and for trying to make as little possible, though with heavy equipment digging up the streets some noise is unavoidable.

This will not last much longer. Just as soon as the gas company fulfills its contract with the city, its equipment will move on to another centre, leaving residents here able to use natural gas.

For some time to other day we stood by the roadside watching company workmen do their jobs. We were amazed at their swiftness. On Cedar Street, for instance, the workers started tearing up the street north of Catharine Street last Wednesday morning. By Friday, workmen were almost ready to attack another street. That is fast work, when one considers all that is involved.

Without going deeply into the engineering details of pipeline laying in this city we would like to let Lakeland know that the public appreciates their efforts to do a job well and with a minimum of noise.

WRONG YARDSTICK

Magistrate W. F. B. Rogers of Toronto tried the other day to make the punishment fit the crime, but in our opinion failed miserably.

A man was charged with cutting down his neighbor's fence.

"How high was it?" the Magistrate asked.

"Fifteen feet," was the reply.

"All right, pay this man $15 or 10 days in jail," he replied.

Not the height of the tree, but the number of years which it had taken to reach this height, would be the correct yardstick. And the penalty should be a lot higher than $1 a year.

THE DRAWBACK

I'd like to be a man of fame
And have my picture in the press,
And hear the public cheer my name;
I'd like to be a great success,
But every time I think I'll try
To reach the goal so much desired,
Somehow or other alway: I
Discover that I'm very tired.

I'd like to write a novel that
Would stir the sluggish human breast;
A novel, not insipid—fat,
But one to stand the critic's test.
But every time I think I'll start
To write the book that will be
Instead of buckling down to art
I sit and yawn, then go to bed.

Stevenson Sums Up Cats

Milwaukee Journal

Cats chase butterflies, stalk birds, catch mice, sit in the sun, go courting, fight with dogs and each other, yell on the back fence at 2 a.m., claw the sofa, snitch food off the kitchen counter and are patient with children, Stevenson says.

They are alternately snooty and solicitous, lazy and active. They like to bother people who don't like cats. They are nonconformists. They're totally lawless. Generally, they enjoy life.

Most of all, they wander. Usually they come home but sometimes they don't.

Now, though, the village fathers in Shorewood have declared war on roaming cats. Owners of cats which are picked up in traps have to pay a $5 fine.

The result, and we have this from a cat, will be that Shorewood — where some say that the cats outnumber people — will grow prosperous, cat owners will be impoverished and the cats will keep on roaming.

All of which brings to mind Stevenson's classic reply to the Illinois legislature in 1949 with the intent of protecting cats. He told the legislature he wouldn't sign it. Said he: "It is the nature of cats to do a certain amount of unescorted roaming."

Consider the owner's dilemma: To escort a cat abroad on a leash is legally and practically sad and to permit it to venture forth for the exercise unattended is to find one night the cat's fangless against the nature of the beast.

"The problem of the cat vexes us all by as old as time. If we attempt to resolve it by legislation who knows but what we will be legislating against the nature of birds, as well in the age old problem dog versus cat, bird versus bird, even bird versus man.

In my opinion, local governing bodies in Illinois already have enough to do without trying to control feline delinquency."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

True gardeners, I am told, never adorn their houses with cut flowers. Those they cull out of their gardens because are not fit for arrangement indoors. About ninety-nine per cent of us obviously are not gardeners. T h e purpose of our higgledy-piggledy back yard flower beds is to provide the cheapest and cheapest flowers than the florist affords, w i t h the minimum of trouble.

The true gardener is a sort of super flower arranger. He has tended from the book. He spends not merely all last fall and winter, but years and years working out a design that fills his yard as an artist paints a picture to fill a frame. There are sorts hobbies, and lesser forms of art.

But even flower arranging is a hobby or an art. Even a child art, though I believe it to be an instinct. In our family, whenever one member who can pick a bunch of mixed flowers, stuff them into a vase and, in they are arranged. We have another member who collects costly books on flower arrangements. She prides herself on her flower arrangements, attends flower shows, joins clubs, even submits entries in contests. But it is just too bad. She never wins. They always look like the discards.

Strength for The Day

LOOK UP AND BE HAPPY

The world appreciates anything well done. Regardless of row one feels toward Jesse Owens, all when Don Larsen, in October 1956, pitched a perfect game allowing not a single player to get to first base, the whole world — was thrilled as otherwise — went wild. It had only been done once before, and never before in a world series.

A good boxer — even the most godly one — appreciates his competence. A wrestler, who really is a wrestler and not a clown pretending to kill an opponent, can get a good hand from even the most unathletic audience. So it is when Einstein, with his simple but earth-shaking mathematical equation, which twenty years later resulted in the splitting of the atom, the Wright brothers making a plane lift up be happy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

REGRET NOTHING

There are times when I wish I might become a changed and betered human being. Like about everybody, I get lonely, discouraged, and feel very inefficient. But when I start counting my blessings I have a new world of hope that comes to my vision as though it had all been planned out. I have wished that my entire life had been planned, but when I think of all that I have, I seem to realize that it was planned by am, and then it is that I shove aside all regrets and pray to the Giver of all Good to keep close to me and see that I regret nothing that has inspired me to bring happiness to others.

The further we get from those whom we love, and to our Heavenly Father. So it is that I come to realize that all is well with me, just as I am but hoping always to be a better person and to do one more helpful to others. The greatest life is that one which has contributed most to the welfare of others. Said Marcus Aurelius: "Think what you do when you do they care to please! What they do for fit! What they do for fit! How soon time will bury all! How much it has buried already!"

Regret should be for many things chasten us and refine us in heart. Love has a fragrance no less than that of the rose. All about us are influences that keep clinging to us, becoming a part of us. We actually thirst for the invigorating influence of nature, as one means of assessing the soul. I love that song's title: "Lead Kindly Light."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

June 18th., 1938

In preparation for the first oiling of the city streets, which will commence on Monday next, street sweeping was started with a horse drawn sweeper this morning in West Belleville.

Livestock buying continues to show increased strength in this section. Among the latest shipments cleared through the local office of the Dominion veterinary, Dr. C. G. Reed this week is a purchase of 60 head of Holstein dairy cattle by Harry Hall, from Stirling-nington, Vermont; from district breeders. The heaviest consignment was from Bennett Bateson of Campbellford who disposed of nine registered cattle.

A dust laying composition is being applied to country roads in selected sections. The ridge road which connects West Huntingdon and Stirling and the Frankford - Foxboro road have been treated and are now in good shape.

From our file copy at this time in 1858: The new harbour basin was opened last night by some mean person or persons and a boat load of stone was let loose in the bay.

This is an example of the enjoyable boat excursions people were happy to patronize. From our file copy at this time in 1868: The steamer Hero will run an excursion to Burn Cove on Monday. This is a delightful trip at this season of the year and as the moon will be about full the return trip will be extra enjoyable. The boat will leave Belleville at 6.30 a.m. and will call at Northport, Deseronto and Picton. Three hours will be allowed in Kingston. Return fare on excursion 75 cents; state room, if required, 50 cents, dinner 35 cents; tea 25 cents.

From our file copy at this time in 1878: The Rev. Jap Swords Are Prized

From News of Japan

Today, Japanese swords are valued and appreciated by museums, private collectors and other interested persons as a reminder of the feudal days of old and as treasured items of the nation's culture.

The special features of the Japanese sword is that it is extremely hard, yet will not break or bend. And it is because of these characteristics that the Japanese sword has won world renown among experts as representative of the high skill of Japan's steel.

At one time, attempts were made in Germany and several other countries to produce a steel similar to that of the Japanese sword but they ended in failure.

The Japanese sword which is forged by heating the iron over and over again with primitive tools is apparently immune to the process of mass production even with the help of modern science. It is established that repeated forgings produce 12,000 layers of steel on the blade.

The technique of sword making is handed down from father to few devoted swordsmiths. For their daily livelihood, these craftsmen make farm and other practical cutting instruments, but they earn their biggest money to produce at least one sword a year.

The demand is of course very small with orders being received only from museums, collectors and shrines and for imitations of fabulously costly ones.

It takes the swordmaker with three assistants anywhere from 10 days to two months to forge a single sword. Assistance is being given to these artisans by the Japanese Society for the Preservation of Artistic Swords.

Many are the legends concerning the remarkable Japanese swords, and stories have been told of how they can cut through steel and rocks. Japanese swords are also a thing of beauty. The designs on the surface of the blade are of all kinds and patterns, the most common of while others are in ripples. Still other seem to picture the scenic splendor of mountains. The beauty of the Japanese sword is also enhanced by the artistic designs on the scabbard and sword guard.

Marriageable Ages Vary

UNESCO Features

A young girl living in Ireland, Bolivia or Swaziland may legally marry at the age of fifteen; in Denmark, Czechoslovakia or Ethiopia she must wait until she is eighteen.

Boys in Burma, Chile and Spain may marry at fourteen, but in the German Federal Republic, Peru and Sweden they must wait until they are twenty-one.

The minimum age of marriage varies widely in different parts of the world. In some countries, particularly in Asia and Africa, there are no restrictions at all. Children are allowed to marry as soon as they reach the age of puberty, according to local custom or religious practice. Even in some of the more socially and economically advanced countries it is rare for persons to marry at the age of twelve or thirteen, although not less than fourteen years.

According to the U.N. study, differences exist not only between one country and another but also within certain countries with federal systems of government. In Australia, for instance, legislation in many states has found between the provinces of Canada and the states of the United States.

A number of countries, among them the USSR and Yugoslavia, require only the consent of the parties to the marriage, assuming they have reached the legal age. Young people in most of Western Europe, Latin America, the British Commonwealth and the United States may marry before the attained age with the consent of their parents or guardians. In some areas, parents or guardians of the prospective bride must give their consent but this is not required for the bridegroom. In yet others, the consent of parents or guardians is considered a major requirement for marriage.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

TONSILS SHOULDNT BE REMOVED UNLESS NECESSARY

"Dear Dr. Molner: The doctor tells us our six-year-old girl should have her tonsils removed, but she never has a sore throat. She seems in perfect health. Why should she have them removed if not absolutely necessary. — Mrs. F.A."

Although a great many readers have read my booklet on tonsils, perhaps it is time for me, in the column, to reinforce the ideas I expressed there, and perhaps explain one aspect even more emphatically.

Tonsils don't have to be removed just because they are there. Tonsils are supposed to be where they are. They are useful, being guardians against infections, up to a certain point.

Some children have large tonsils which are not necessarily infected and are not doing any harm. These need not be removed. And on the other hand, here are the reasons which, in my opinion, warrant removal of tonsils:

1—Infection. This is manifested by redness of the tonsils, with visible pockets, or red lines — structures on them or behind the tonsils. Along with this may often come a fever, swollen glands of the neck; frequent colds. It may be the cause of rheumatism.

2—The same picture — but less infection and redness established, are so hard to clear up and so potentially harmful, that I would never permit a second ear infection to start, once tonsils have been taken out. Possible damage to the ear can be extensive and permanent.

3—GROUP OF THREE

3—"Mouth breathers" often are victims of swollen adenoid tonsils. When I say "tonsils," this usually means adenoids, because adenoids are tonsils. They are part of the "tonsil ring." We are born, not with just two tonsils, but a whole group of tonsils, including the adenoids, called tonsils, etc. The common term "T & A" means "tonsil" who so often also have frequent colds runny noses, earaches.

That, to my way of thinking, tells the story. If one of these reasons is present, get rid of the tonsils. If not, keep them. If those readers who are familiar with the leaflet, it is "Don't er handling.

Trifle with Tonsils" and is obtainable by mail by any reader who will send 5 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

"Dear Dr. Molner: When I went back for my six-week checkup after my first baby, the doctor said my womb was split and he told me to come back after my next baby to have it sewed up. During the two-month period I became pregnant again, and would like to know if I could carry the baby full term without danger to myself or the baby? — Mrs. L.P."

The "split" you refer to is probably a tear in the cervix or "mouth" of the womb. This is not uncommon with a first baby. It should be repaired to prevent it from becoming a source of infection. In your case, however, this can wait and be taken care of after the second baby arrives. You should have no trouble carrying the baby full term.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is unflavored gelatin, taken before meals, fattening? I have been told it destroys certain vitamins. Also, does gelatin (plain) give off or take in oxygen? Also I have an odd nervous habit of smoking. I smoke an occasional cigaret. I smoke at least 10 a week. The doctor says I have occasional small beat in my heart because of my cigaret habit. Is this uncommon? —Mrs. E. R."

(1) No. Plain gelatin is and it does not gobble up vitamins. (2) Plants give off small amounts of oxygen. Many people get a slight reaction from cigarets, especially today. Not uncommon. (4) The extra heart beat isn't common, but occurs often enough so nobody gets excited about it — unless something else is wrong. Forget it.

* * *

Are you considering the removal of your child's tonsils? If so, write to me for a booklet I have provided them for a purpose, and this is explained in my pamphlet, "Don't Trifle with Tonsils." To receive your copy, write to me for it in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover the handling.

Brave Man Eat First Oyster

Edmonton Journal

The first person to eat an oyster has been described as one of the greatest heroes of all time. He was brave, surely was the first person to eat a snail. Today oysters and snails are the delight of gourmets in many parts of the world. In Arab lands the eye is regarded as the best part of a roasted sheep but in Europe it is rarely served, except in delicacy shops. The Japanese eat the eyes of fish, believed to have been the origin of sushi. Countless other examples could be cited.

Canadians have been accused of being less than adventurous in their eating. Many of them travelling in foreign lands have insisted on the food to which they were accustomed at home, rather than eat the strange but often delicious dishes of the country they were visiting. Is this strong predilection for familiar foods weakening?

A fad for exotic and often costly foods is achieving remarkable popularity in both Canada and the United States. In Toronto a restaurant has opened to deal exclusively in exotic foods including several dozen ways to cook the mosquito as spooky foods: in the latter category are centipede meat, toasted worms, chocolate-covered ants and grasshoppers, octopus in a sauce, kangaroo tail soup, roostercombs, fried baby rattlesnakes and roasted worms "treats." Perhaps it is all merely a symptom of these disjointed times.

Having sampled, in the interests of science, some of these gastronomical oddities, such as rattlesnake meat and toasted grasshoppers, we can state sure they will never replace in popularity such Canadian favorites as, say, a tender beefsteak, medium rare, with fresh green peas, new potatoes boiled with a sprig of mint, and the whole topped off with a piece of Saskatoon pie and ice cream.

Thirty Papers To Be Presented On Cancer

HONEY HARBOUR, Ont. (CP) Scientists, gravely closing in on the secrets of cancer, are meeting here this week to exchange the results of their research.

A few world authorities and Canadians engaged in full-time study of the disease are attending a four-day research conference sponsored by the National Cancer Institute of Canada at this Georgian Bay summer resort.

More than 30 papers will be presented.

In Toronto two United States women research scientists Sunday described how long and patient collaboration led to their discovery of an important cancer-producing virus.

Dr. Sara E. Stewart and Dr. Bernice E. Eddy of Bethesda Medical Centre, Bethesda, Md., stopped on their way to Honey Harbor.

Dr. Stewart holds the rank of surgeon in the commission corps for the U.S. public health service with a doctorate in microbiology. Dr. Eddy, a doctor's widow and the mother of two teen-age daughters, holds a doctorate in bacteriology.

Said Dr. Eddy:

"We treated monkey kidney as we had done with polio virus, making a culture out of it with material from a mouse's tumor. The animal inoculated with fluid from the tissue-culling developed multiple types of tumors."

The doctors are cautious about the next step, in which they will begin work with human tumors.

"We do not know what role in human disease our work play as yet," said Dr. Stewart.

Large Female Shepherd Dog Adopts Pup

Have you ever seen the "mother instinct" come out in a dog?

Out on the Trent Road a 125-pound female German shepherd has adopted a three - pound, two-ounce female "57 varieties" pup named Gigi.

Sheba, the big dog, arrives at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Don Harvey at regular intervals throughout the day to instruct Gigi in some of the things every well – mannered puppy should know. It is a common sight to see Sheba gently close her jaws around the frame of the pup, after the little lady gets too boisterous. Never so much as a squeak of protest is heard from Gigi. But she cools off.

Sunday Gigi decided to explore the waterfront area at the cottage. When Sheba thought the pup had edged too close to the water, she nudged the little one back. When Gigi ignored her foster mother's warning, Sheba's jaws grasped her around the middle and lifted her to safer ground.

But the shoe was on the other foot later in the day when Sheba entered the cottage, while Gigi was sleeping. The pup woke with a start and darted out, snapping at the heels of Sheba as if to say: "What do you mean by invading my privacy?" Sheba, of course, thought a mosquito had descended on her and didn't pay any attention to the little puppy.

When the two dogs play, Sheba seldom gets carried away. For a dog her size, she is very conscious of her weight and strength. She seems to know that if she stepped on Gigi she would have to find another puppy to mother.

And some folks say dogs are dumb?

Sheba is owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Martin, Trent Road.

The Belleville Arts and Crafts Club recently elected its officers for the 1958-59 season as follows: President, Earl Yateman; vice-president, Jane Sheppard; secretary, Kay Honan; treasurer, Bill Simpson; program convener, Mrs. L. Andrewes; social convener, Mrs. O. Summers; publicity convener, Mrs. T. Brown and house convener, Miss Helen Sulman.

An active and successful year concluded recently with a potluck supper at the Kiwanis Centre, at which the new officers were invested by Mr. W. VanTassel and Mr. Lloyd Doran. Last year's officers gave reports of their year's activities.

This past year has been a busy one for the various groups, with most classes being well attended. At the conclusion of the season, the craft group, held an "open house" for the purpose of displaying the work they had been doing during the year. The impressive display was an indication of the keen interest being taken in crafts in this area.

Classes and meetings will discontinue until the fall, but in the meantime many of the members will be working on their own, utilizing the knowledge they have acquired during the past year.

—Marjorie extended her thanks to the many guests present for their lovely gifts. Many gifts were also received from friends who were unable to be present.

Women's Institute

QUINTE W.I.

The June meeting of Quinte Institute was held at the Quinte Sheffield hall with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. K. Trivian, extended a welcome to all.

The theme was "Canadian Industries."

The president and Mrs. Jeffery, the treasurer, dealt with all business and correspondence. All planned to attend the tea at Carrollton on June 18th, to enter a display at Belleville fair and to send $10 to the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Archie Greatrix left many fine thoughts with her listeners from the motto, "It is not doing the things we like to do, but liking the things we have to do that makes life blessed." The speaker pointed out that by cultivating the mind and disposition to do what one thought disagreeable and hard, but after mastering it, feels happy, thereby demonstrating that it is the little and hard tasks that make life beautiful, also by forgetting and forgiving, one surely gains a blessing.

Mrs. Linsley spoke on "Salmon Fishing and Canning in British Columbia." Lambering is the No. 1 industry, agriculture second, mining third and fishing fourth. After the B.C. salmon is cleaned it is placed on a conveyor and reaches the large hopper where it gets its first inspection, then conveyed to the filling machine. 75 cans are filled per minute, carried to the weighing and sniffing machine. Here the filled cans are vacuum sealed, placed in huge cooking vates for 90 minutes, after cooling cans are labelled by an electric machine. When you buy B.C. salmon you get just p^ti and salmon, no preservatives.

Mrs. Clifford Reid and Mrs. J. Parrott sang "Friends and Neighbors."

Mrs. D. Atkins gave a well-prepared paper on industries, and what they produce in the city, such as Bakelite, Stewart-Warner, Northern Electric, Corbin Steel and many more.

This part of the program was closed with a quiz.

Wedding

THOMPSON — McKILLOP

Standards of Van Houti spires mingled with rose – colored pendules and terra formed a lovely setting in Massassaga United Church on Saturday, June 7 at 2.00 p.m. when Gwendolyn Mary McKillop, of Belleville, R. 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McKillop and the late Mrs. McKillop, became the bride of Mr. Angus Herbert Thompson, of Crookston, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Thompson. The Reverend H. H. Hillis officiated assisted by Mr. W. H. Farrow. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

The wedding music was provided by Miss Beverley Flower who accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Morley Davidson, as she sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white chantilly lace with bouffant spirt in waltz length. She wore a tulle illusion veil held by a tiara encrusted with seed pearls and her white leaves, and carried a cascade of red roses and white-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Ross Bronson, of Picton, as matron of honor, was attractively attired in white, brocaded taffeta; the bridesmaid, Miss Barbara Rinella, of Belleville R.R. 7, in yellow brocaded taffeta. Both were fashioned on princess lines in ballerina length. They wore matching silk net hats and carried nosegays of white 'mums and velvet petals matching their gowns.

Mr. Ross Bronson, of Picton, R.R. 3, attended the bridegroom, and Messrs: Ernest Reid, Belleville and Kenneth McKillop, both of Toronto, ushered the guests.

For the reception, which was held in Tobe's County Gardens, the bride's aunt, Mrs. Mary Parsons, wore a gown of periwinkle blue embroidered polished cotton with matching half gloves and corsage of pink 'mums. She was assisted by three receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Douglas Thompson, who wore dusty rose silk organza with white, picture hat and corsage of white carnations.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white lace mask, centred by a three – tier wedding cake, topped by three cowbirds and lily-of-the-valley, and clouded about the base with white tulle and sprays of baby 'mums and roses.

The bride chose for travelling to the United States, a sheath dress with matching jacket of nautical material, with navy accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will make their home at Newcastle.

Guests attended from Belleville, Madoc, Marmora, Toronto, and Alnet.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored with a personal shower at the home of Mrs. Chapman, Belleville, and at a kitchen shower held in Massassaga by friends.

Esther Lillian Dance Recital Entertaining, Clever, Colorful

"An interesting and most enjoyable evening," was among the most favorable comments as the crowd slowly made their way out of the Belleville Collegiate Auditorium last Wednesday night, where the students of the Esther Lillian Studio of Ballet had presented a delightful program of varied dances.

From the first number, "Babies Getting Up in the Morning," through the stately gavottes, minuets, gay character and national dances, to the classical ballet, pointe numbers, and the sparkling French novelties, each and every number was creditably done both in solo and group.

She asked them to look at the work done by the girls for their Dominion competition. The linen book was made by the seven and eight year olds, and will eventually go to an orphanage in Japan. The flannelgraph of the church furnishings was made by the 11 and 12 year olds. Mrs. Cherry thanked out-going executive for their faithful service for the past year.

Everyone spent a merry time for the next hour, driving all over the city looking for sickles and shoelaces, and such, and then made their way back to the "rec" where the judging took place. No. 2 team, headed by John Robertson, was awarded the prize.

"All better now, son!"
It would be difficult to count the number of times your neighbourhood druggist comes to the rescue in an emergency. Sometimes, as in Tommy's case, it's only a small cut. But more frequently, it's a case of quickly filling an important prescription when illness or accident strikes you or your family. Think back to the last time you had a prescription filled . . . or even the last time you visited your druggist to pick up some necessary item.
Aren't you glad you have a friendly, dependable druggist in your town or neighbourhood?

'Foster Homes' Topic at C.W.L. June Meeting

The need for Catholic foster homes was the urgent appeal at the St. Michael's C.W.L. meeting held last Monday evening in St. Michael's Academy.

Miss Marlene Brant, social worker with the Children's Aid, was guest speaker. She gave a clear picture of what it meant to remove a child from his own home, which is done only as a last resort.

"The best place for any child is with his or her natural parents, but when circumstances prevent this, the next best is a foster home. Even though given everything in their new surroundings, very often these children never love their foster parents, but continually look forward to the day they can be reunited with their own parents.

GOOD FOSTER HOMES

"To give a child a home is a real sacrifice, and even though sometimes not appreciated in words, will do an endless amount of good, turning out happier men and women, more useful to themselves and their community.

The good homes of people leading ordinary lives are what are needed to help these unfortunate children. Catholic foster homes are urgently needed now."

Mrs. Logan thanked Miss Brant for an interesting insight into Children's Aid work.

BERNADETTE OF LOURDES

The 36th annual convention of the C.W.L., held in Kingston, was attended by the president, who benefitted from so doing. Sister Mary Lenore was guest speaker, her topic being "Bernadette of Lourdes." Bernadette was born in Lourdes in 1844 of humble parents. At the age of 14 years she had witnessed 18 apparitions of Our Blessed Lady at the grotto. On this spot now stands a shrine, which is visited by thousands of people every year. The Blessed Lady was urging Bernadette to foster the recitation of the rosary, and even though unable to travel the miles to visit the shrine, the rosary can be said in every home each night, uniting the whole world. Bernadette was canonized in 1933.

Miss Toal, of the National Council, urged everyone to take the League Magazine, which is the mouthpiece of the organization and costs but 5 cents per month, the price of a postage stamp. Volume of circulation will keep the price down. Contact your councillor at once, as the year begins in May.

Mrs. Logan urged the executive to attend future executive and general meetings.

All regular reports were read.

Mrs. Domesico reported on the tea to be held at the rectory this month.

Mrs. R. Barrett made a motion that the C.W.L. join the Civic Action Committee, combining all C.W.L. sub-divisions in the city. This committee will look after appeals from various charitable organizations.

The taggers were thanked by Mrs. M. F. Kelley, also those who made coffee, counted money or helped in any way, as $420.26 was cleared.

Mrs. B. Burley explained about the diocesan immigrations fund which is available to be drawn on when necessary.

Mrs. Waters will be the refreshment convener for the year.

In the absence of Very Rev. L. B. Garvin, Mrs. Logan closed with prayer.

A social hour followed, with refreshments being served by Mrs. R. Barrett, Mrs. A. Koenders and Mrs. K. Soden.

Strawberry Shortcake... Two Versions

by Mary Moore

Naturally to feel properly maternal, I should be sad, for the ship bearing Pete to Europe sailed today out of Montreal.

But I'm glad, for I think it is the adventure of his lifetime, and hope he comes back brown and hard from bicycling so many thousands of miles. Danny is also enthusiastic travelling companion. And — I have peace and quiet to write to you instead of sewing on buttons and ironing shirts guaranteed not to need ironing.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Grilled Veal or Lambs' Kidneys; Hot Catsup; Boiled Imported Onions with Cheese Sauce; Baked Beans or Buttered Limas; New Cabbage Slaw, Lazy Daisy Cake; Coffeee.

So my favorite strawberry shortcake consumer is gone, but I managed to make it twice for him in the two weeks he was home, so I'm eligible to recommend:

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE: The Biscuit Part No. 1:

Two cups stirred but not sifted cake (or all - purpose) flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon each salt and cream of tartar, 2 teaspoons of sugar, 1-2 cup butter or shortening at room temperature (or half of each), 2-3 cup milk at room temperature. Sift first 5 dry ingredients together. Cut or chop in butter or shortening until crumbly. Add milk all at once and quickly stir. Turn out of bowl carefully onto greased layer cake tin — shaping it into a round with back of spoon. Smooth top and bake at 450 deg. F. about 15 minutes. Cool until just warm. With four sharp knife carefully cut into 2 layers. Choose about 20 perfect berries from a 1-quart box for decorating. Slice remainder and add to them 1-2 cup sugar. Spread these on bottom layer. Replace top layer. Cover top with 1-2 pint stiffly beaten heavy cream (I prefer it unsweetened) and decorate it with reserved whole berries. The best strawberry shortcake I know. As some of you will see, the biscuit part is the same recipe as for my Tea Biscuits Supreme.

The Biscuit Part No. 2:

(This variation calls for an egg, double-acting baking powder, less shortening and milk. Try them both during June and see which one you and your family like). Two cups sifted cake flour, 2 1-2 teaspoons of double-acting baking powder, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening, 3 tablespoons milk, 1 egg, well-beaten melted butter. Measure sifted flour add baking powder, salt and sugar and sift again. Cut in shortening. Combine milk and beaten egg and add; stir with fork until soft dough is formed. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 20 turns. Divide dough in half and roll each piece into an 8-inch circle, 1-4 inch thick. Fit one circle into a well-greased 8-inch layer pan. Brush with melted butter. Place second circle on top; brush with butter. Bake at 450 deg. F. 20 minutes. Finish with berries and cream as above.

Barbara D. — Lola should leave Mark.

Lola M. — It is too late to make my life over.

Barbara D. — For 15 years my sister has been married to a man who has given her nothing but misery. I think she would be a fool if she goes on in this way any longer — especially in view of the fact that she has no children and can support herself.

Lola married Mark when she was 18. Our parents saw at once that he was no good and would never support her properly or be a decent husband. He didn't want to have children and Lola went to work right away and has been working all these years.

Mark has taken a very antagonistic attitude toward the whole family and has drawn Lola away from us. Recently she confessed to me he has been drinking to excess and he felt she couldn't put up with it any longer, yet she doesn't want to leave him.

Lola D. — My family doesn't realize I have tried to leave Mark many times in the past few years, but I find myself always running back to him.

I really don't know why I feel so tied to him. I just feel I can't be without him in spite of the fact that he has paid and most of the love I once had for him.

I guess one reason I feel so tied is that Mark needs me so much. He is absolutely helpless about taking care of himself.

Each time I have gone away and then come back I have found him living in awful filth and there was nothing to eat in the house. I believe he would just die if I did not come back to take care of him.

The Council: Lola should recognize that the question isn't whether or not it is too late to make her life over. The question is whether she is going to try to create her life at all.

Until this time Lola has evidently been swimming with the tide. She can see there were many things wrong with her marriage from the beginning, yet she evidently did nothing to change things.

She told herself she was giving in to her husband's wishes, but we wonder whether these wishes might not really have been her own.

A woman who wants children usually doesn't give in so readily on this subject. Lola simply did as she was told.

In this way, Lola has escaped all responsibility in her own eyes for the shaping of her life. If her married life is "miserable" she can blame it on her husband. It is not as she wanted. Yet she does not state what she ever did to change it.

Undoubtedly Mark is very dependent upon Lola, but Lola refuses to acknowledge her dependence on Mark. She admits she doesn't know why she feels so tied to him. Apparently it is not love or she would not be afraid to say so.

We suspect it is the lack of anything else in her life that has any meaning. She clings merely to Mark's need of her.

We don't think leaving Mark would bring Lola any more happiness than remaining with him. What Lola needs is to try to understand what direction she wants her life to take from now on and to take upon herself the full responsibility for shaping it as she would like it to be.

It can be much fuller and happier if she is willing to bring some feeling and energy to persons and things outside herself.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S STREAMLINED INTRODUCTION-FORM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please settle a discussion about introductions. Miss A. says that when introducing a man to a woman, you should always say (for example), "Miss Lane, may I introduce Mr. Allen." Miss B. says all you need to do is mention the two names: "Miss Lane . . . Mr. Allen." — Two Readers

Today practically all introductions have been so streamlined that only the names are mentioned. And that's a real comfort. "Miss Lane, Mr. Allen" . . . that is all you have to say. Or, if you prefer, the almost-as-simple form: "Miss Lane, this is Mr. Allen." (P.S.: #1) pronounce the names distinctly; and #2) make your introductions with grace and a pleasant tone of voice.)

HUSBAND IS RIGHT, WIFE WRONG

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband (we were very recently married) insists that when we invite a woman to dine with us in a restaurant, the polite thing for him to do is to go behind her chair first to seat her and to help her with her coat, and also, as the waiter, to light her cigaret first. I think he should do these courtesies for me first. Is he right about this, or am I?

— Newlywed

Your polite husband knows what's the right thing to do. You should learn at once that your husband's first concern as host, and your first concern as hostess, should be for the comfort and welfare of your guest. It is most important that you understand this basic courtesy in every relationship that has to do with hostor-hostess and guest, whether in your home or outside your home. If you demand that your husband always give you service before your guest, people who know what's what will conclude that you either (1) don't know what's what, or (2) are narrow-minded, perhaps jealous, of your husband's correct courtesies to a guest. Watch it, lady!

Swiss Women May Get Vote By Referendum

BERNE (Reuters) — After nearly two years of parliamentary wrangling both chambers of the Swiss parliament voted Friday in favor of a referendum later this year on the question of granting Swiss women the right to vote.

But most political observers consider that Switzerland's all-male voters will reject the proposal and the matter will go back to parliament again.

Switzerland is the only country in western Europe in which women have no voting rights in general elections. Nor are they allowed to stand as deputies in parliament.

A large minority of women, particularly in the country districts, do not want the vote and a special all-woman committee was set up in Lucerne this week to launch a vigorous campaign against it.

A powerful propaganda weapon in the past has been the warning to Swiss women that if they get the vote and then vote differently from their husbands this will inevitably lead to divorce and broken homes.

Cincy Has Don Newcombe, American Loop Has New Look

NEW YORK (AP) — Cincinnati fastballer Redlegs have Newcombe and the American League has a new look today following the final-day swapfest spree shortly before the 1959 midnight trading deadline.

Newcombe, pitching ace of the Dodgers for nearly 10 years but winless, 0-6 flop in seven starts, is transplanted to Californian, sent to the Redlegs in a deal that sent righthander Johnny Klippstein, first baseman Steve Bilko and cash to Los Angeles Dodgers.

In the only other National League trade, St. Louis Cardinals sent outfielder Dick Schoefield and cash to Pittsburgh Pirates for utility infielders Gene Freese and Johnny O'Brien.

By contrast, five of the eight American League clubs had a hand in the busy late-hour dealing.

Three major trades—involving Kansas City Athletics, Cleveland Indians, New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox—followed on the heels of an earlier deal between the Athletics and Indians, had resulted in a fistful of changes.

The Athletics, who participated in two of the deals Sunday, have Preston Ward (Cleveland) at first base, Chico Carrasquel (Cleveland) third base, Roger Maris (Cleveland) right field, Harry Simpson (New York) left field and pitcher Dick Tomanek, (Cleveland) and Bob Grim (New York).

The Indians, who have only 12 of their 25 players left since Frank Lane took over as the team's general manager last November, have Vic Power (Kansas City) at first base, Billy Hunter (Kansas City) at second and Woody Held (Kansas City) in centre field.

The Yankees, completing their third deadline trade in the last three years, have pitchers Duke Maas and Virgil Trucks (both obtained with Kansas City).

GETS FIELDER, PITCHER

Detroit obtained outfielder Tito Francona and pitcher Bill Fischer from Chicago for first baseman Ray Boone and pitcher Bob Shaw.

The Yankees also brought up pitcher Zach Monroe (10-3) at Denver) to replace veteran Sal Maglie, sold to the Cardinals Monday beforander Ralph Lumenti to their Chattanooga farm in the Southern Association.

Here are some comments following the trades:

John McHale, general manager of Detroit, on the Boone and Shaw trade for Francona and Fischer: "I think it's a good deal for both sides. We needed a lefthanded hitter with some power and I believe Francona is going to be a good ball player. Our scouts always like Fischer. We need a relief pitcher and he throws a sinker ball."

BEEN AFTER BOONE

Al Lopez, White Sox manager: "We've been in quest of Boone since the winter meeting in Colorado Springs last December. Boone will supply the needed right-hand hitting power and I plan to play him at third base and bat him in the fourth position."

Bobby Bragan, Cleveland manager, on the Maris, Tomanek and Ward trade for Held and Power: "We will replace us more balance, more flexibility, better defence and greater speed."

Casey Stengel, Yankee manager: "Maas already has won a game for me (beating Boston Sunday). I don't know what has happened to Grim. His arm is sound. Our second line pitching has gone sour and needed help. Maas will replace Maglie as a spot pitcher and Trucks will replace Grim in the bullpen."

Batting — Bob Cerv, Kansas City Athletics, smashed his 17th home run, three triples and a pair of singles, and drove in five runs to boost his league-leading total to 51 as the Athletics swamped Boston Red Sox 17-6 and 9-4.

Pitching—Frank Lary and Jim Bunning, Detroit Tigers. Lary hurled a four-hitter and Bunning a five-hitter as the Tigers shut out New York Yankees 2-0 and 5-0 for a sweep of the four-game series in Yankee Stadium.

HAMILTONIAN WINS

CLINTON, Ont. (CP) — John Duke of Hamilton won the third annual Ontario table tennis tournament here Saturday for the second straight year defeating Fred Norris of Toronto. Third in the singles was John Coles of Stratford.

M. Norman, Fairways Clown Wins Ontario Open Crown

KINGSTON (CP) — Moe Norman, controversial clown of the fairways, settled down long enough Saturday to win the Ontario open golf championship, a feat he was unable to perform while an amateur. As a pro, he picked up $1,500 first-prize money in his three-round 211 score.

Norman's score on the 6,326-yard, par-70 Kingston Cataraqui golf course was three strokes better than that registered by Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, who blew sky-high with the rest of Norman's opponents in the final round of the 54-hole tournament.

Now playing out of Toronto de Havilland, Norman, former Kitchener amateur kingpin, put together rounds of 68, 69 and 73 for his one-over-par total.

Kesselring, shooting for his fifth win in the Open and the third in a row after taking it with record scores of 207 the last two years, set the early pace with blistering 65, a competitive course record. He faded in the final two rounds to a 73 and a 76. He collected $600.

WIND HIT GAME

High winds blowing across the course in gusts sent golfers' scores soaring. Only Gary Cowan, Kitchener Rockway amateur, was able to match par figures in the final round. But by that time it was too late to catch either Norman or Kesselring.

Tied for third spot at 213, eight strokes off the pace set by Norman, were Cowan, Bruce Castellair of Toronto Weston, and Windsor's Nick Weslock, all amateurs. Cowan's 74-74-70, Castaler's 72-76-71, and Weslock's 71-76-72 gave them the lead in the hunt for places on Ontario's four - man Willingdon Cup team. Results of the 54-holes in the Open and the 18-hole qualifying round of the Ontario Amateur June 25 are the basis for selecting the team.

The amateur champion automatically makes the squad even if it means the fourth man of the qualifying four, by virtue of low scores, has to drop out.

BOOSTERS' TAG DAYS

The McFarlands have been selected as Canadian representatives to the world hockey tournament being held in Prague, Czechoslovakia, next year, possibly in latter February.

The Allan Cup champions have to pay their own way. No authorized national organizations, hockey or otherwise, will foot the bills.

Some prominent men have already signified their willingness to help with the costs, stated to be some $50,000. That men amis, as the horse neighed when he looked at the cornstalks, "ain't hay, brother"

A lot of money has to be raised between now and next February. Many projects have been suggested, mostly by the prime movers in the fund-raising campaign, the McFarlands' Booster Club. This enthusiastic body is going all out in its efforts to do its share and as much is deserving of all the financial, moral and other support that can come its way.

Right now the Boosters are selling tickets on two air-travel, all-expense trips to Prague, or in lieu, one thousand dollars cash in each instance. The draw will be made at the Belleville Fair on August 14, the last day of the exhibition.

The tickets are now available from any Booster, Bill Cook's, Don Thomas', Don Stanton's and Jack Diamond's shops, as well as many other places of business, and a number of accredited salesmen. Dick Beare, Booster president and Jim Ward are in charge of the tickets and have arranged a complete district coverage for sales and with the executive are again doing a magnificent job.

It is expected a substantial sum will be raised for the Mass' Travel Fund through the medium of the sale of these tickets.

But at the moment another project is taking the limelight.

On Friday and Saturday of this week the Booster Club is staging an official Tag Day. Official, because it has the blessing of the city fathers, and Mayor Gerry Hyde.

Tags will be offered for sale starting next Friday afternoon and continuing through Saturday. Everybody will be asked to buy a tag.

The Tag Day arrangements are under the supervision of a competent committee which right now is going all out completing arrangements for the big days and are hoping a big sum of money will be donated to the cause.

But its members have a problem.

They want volunteer tag salesmen, and saleslades.

The tags cannot be sold and any money made unless someone is on a street corner, or invading offices and places of business selling the pasteboards.

Help along this line is needed, and needed badly.

How about it, some of youse guys and gals?

How about spending an hour or so Friday afternoon, on Saturday canvassing your friends for their nickels and dimes and folding money, if they are so minded?

How about spending an hour or so on a street corner offering the tags for sale. People will know what they are buying and where the proceeds are going. The Mass' thousands of friends will welcome you over them yee to Europe. The tag-selling job should be an easy one.

If you can help and want to help please get in touch with Dick Beare, "Snipe" Matthews, Win Quincy or Pat Matthews. You can reach Win at WOodland 5-2316 and Pat at WOodland 5-1368. Call them and get into the tag-selling swim.

Remember, every cent collected through these media is to the travel fund of the McFarlands. Not one cent of the fund is used for any other purpose or reason. That is the fund all the projects being undertaken by the McFarlands' ... Club, Richard Beare, president.

... a ticket, then buy a tag. Right now the tag is the most important thing on hand since there is only ... Saturday on which they can be sold.

... a ticket! Buy a Tag! Above ... Pat and Win and help see to it that the ... reed before the public in a big way come Friday ... Saturday. Get behind the Mass once again, and help ... ever hit their way is clear to Prague and the world ... championship.

Shut Out Champions 2-0,3-0 For 6 Wins in Seven Starts; Redlegs in Third Position

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The suddenly startling Detroit Tigers are the hottest team in the major leagues right now but they continue to be the enigma of the baseball world.

How can one team be so futile under one manager and so fiery-cious under another? It's certainly not that Jack Tighe was a bad manager, or that Bill Norman, who succeeded Tighe a week ago, has been waving a magic wand.

Still, the figures are there for all to see. Under Tighe, the Tigers won 21 of 49 for a .429 percentage. With Norman at the helm, they've won six of the seven, including a spectacular sweep of the four-game series from New York Yankees in Yankee Stadium.

Norman, who played only parts of two seasons for the big leagues, would be the first to say the players are mostly responsible for the Tigers' about face in the American League.

Frank Lary and Jim Bunning did the pitching for Detroit Sunday as the Tigers shut out the American League leaders 2-0 and 3-0. It wasn't the manager but Ossie Virgil, Reno Kuenn and Bill Harris who drove in the key runs in the first double shutout the Yankees have suffered in 11 years.

SPECTACULAR PLAYS

And it wasn't the manager but Charlie Maxwell, Virgil and Harris who came up with spectacular defensive plays to thwart several Yankee bids for runs.

At any rate, The Tigers, in last place a week ago, now are fifth only two games behind the second-place Boston Red Sox. The games in back of the first-place Yankees.

Boston muffed a glorious chance to close in on the Yankees as Kansas City Athletics swept the Red Sox down in a double-header 17-6 and 9-4 to leave them still seven games off the pace. Cleveland Indians took two from Washington Senators 5-3 and 4-0 and Chicago White Sox shut out Baltimore Orioles, 2-0 and 4-0.

On Saturday Detroit beat New York 5-4, Cleveland walloped Washington 10-2, Boston Kansas City 7-1 and Chicago belted Baltimore 9-1.

The largest crowd of the year at Yankee Stadium — 54,817 watched as Lary, the Baltimore Jinx, turned the Yankees back without a run. Lary, since Philadelphia's Curt Schelb and Dick Fowler hurled back-to-back shutouts May 30-31, have two pitchers been able to blank the Yankees twice in one afternoon.

Lary permitted only four singles as he defeated the Yankees for the eighth straight time this year. It was his second straight shutout and seventh victory. Bunning allowed only five singles as he pitched his first complete game, opening day. Don Larsen (5-1) and Bob Turley (4-3) were the victims.

Al Kaline hit safely in each game to extend his hitting streak to 14 games.

SPARK ATHLETICS

Bob Cery, Hector Lopez and Chico Carrasquel spearheaded the Athletics to their double triumph that moved them to within a half game of the Red Sox. Cery, who leads the league in home runs and runs batted in, walloped his 16th and 17th three triples and a pair of singles and drove in five runs to boost his RBI total to 51.

Lopez drove in four runs in the opener with a double, a triple and a sacrifice, and drove in two more in the second game with a double. Carrasquel obtained Thursday from Cleveland, had seven hits in the first game.

Vic Power, traded to Cleveland by the twin bill, hit safely in each game to extend his batting streak to 22 straight games. Duke Maas, traded to the Yankees by the distance in the nightcap for his fourth victory against five defeats.

The last White Sox moved out of last place behind pitchers Jim Wilson and Dick Donovan. Wilson fanned a minimum of 27 batters in the opener although he gave up two singles to Baltimore. Donovan allowed seven hits. The twin shutouts extended the Orioles' scoreless string to 24 and dumped them into the cellar.

Experts raised their eyebrows when Cincinnati Redlegs disposed of a good portion of their sorer for pitching last winter. Today this same pitching is largely responsible for the Reds' third-place position in the National League only 3½ games behind the league - leading Milwaukee Braves.

Harvey Haddix, who came from Philadelphia Phillies for slugger Wally Post, pitched his best game of the year for the Reds Sunday as Cincinnati swept a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs 7-0 and 4-2. The little left-hander permitted only seven hits in the opener in pitching the team's third shutout in a span of five games. The double triumph gave Birdie Tebbetts' crew 11 victories in the last 14 games.

The Braves came from behind to defeat St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 and retain their 1½-game advantage over the second-place San Francisco Giants, who defeated Philadelphia 3-1. Three Pittsburgh home runs in one inning highlighted the Pirates' 12-1 rout of the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

SATURDAY SCORES

In Saturday games, St. Louis beat Milwaukee 3-1, Philadelphia beat San Francisco 6-3, Chicago edged Cincinnati 4-3 and Los Angeles overpowered Pittsburgh 4-2.

Pete Whisenant paced the Redlegs' first-game attack Sunday against the Cubs' Taylor Phillips, losing his first after four victories. Whisenant doubled home two runs in the seventh inning and hit a three-run homer in the ninth.

Redleger Tom Acker and Johnny Klippstein halted several Cub threats in the second game after Cincinnati had scored two runs in each of the first two innings on loser Dick Drott.

Harry Hanebrink, a .180 hitting outfielder, smacked a two-run single in the seventh inning that earned the Braves their third victory over the Cardinals. Trailing 2-0, the Braves scored once against Sam Jones in the eighth and tied the score in the ninth on Johnny Logan's squeeze bunt. Then, with Eddie Mathews on the mound, Hanebrink hit his homer to give Milwaukee a 3-1 win. Mathews, Red Schoendienst, McMahon won his sixth against one defeat.

PHILLIES

At Worthington, making his first start since April 18, stopped the Phillies with eight hits as the Giants took the rubber game on the three-game series. Felipe Alou, rookie outfielder, had a single, double and triple off loser Curt Simmons, drove in one run and scored two.

Pittsburgh knocked out Don Newcombe with a six-run blast in the second inning that features home runs by Frank Thomas, Bill Mazeroski and pitcher Vernon Law.

Thomas, forced to leave in the fifth when he was hit on the hand by a pitched ball, boosted his league-leading homer total to 20 and his total of runs batted in to 61. X-rays showed no broken bones in Thomas' hand but it is expected to miss no more than a game or two. Al Lopez, Newcombe dropped his sixth without a victory.

No Limit On Reinstated Players For McFarlands Next Season Only

Play Only Exhibition Games; Other Clubs Won't Sign Pros For Year After Last Game

KITCHENER (CP) — Clubs of the Ontario and Northern Ontario Hockey Associations found a large measure of agreement on a number of radical issues at a joint meeting here Saturday.

The teams represented at the meeting were Windsor, Chatham, Kitchener-Waterloo, Sudbury and North Bay of the OHA-NOHA group, and Welland, Belleville, Kingston, Cornwall and Ottawa of the OHA eastern division. Sault Ste. Marie and Timmins were absent.

The clubs agreed not to sign reinstated professional players for 12 calendar months after the date of the players' last pro game. In addition, the clubs will no longer pay professional teams for reinstatement.

An exception on the subject of reinstated players was made for the Belleville McFarlands, Canada's representatives to the world tournament in Prague next year. The Macs will be allowed to use as many reinstated players as they like next season but can only retain two of them the following year. They will only play exhibition hockey in their own group.

MAXIMUM SALARY

The teams also came to an agreement on salaries, placing the maximum for the scheduled season at $2,200.

George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and treasurer of the OHA, will clear all of Saturday's decisions and others into a proposed all-embracing franchise for all Canada teams.

It will come up in draft form before being completed.

The two groups will continue a reciprocal waiver agreement on reclassified players and ensure Ontario teams get the first chance to sign them.

Clubs further agreed they would not pay any bonuses for players signing contracts and will not give post-dated releases to players.

Playoffs with the NOHA northern group will be continued with the east and west division champions alternating years in playing the northerners.

Next winter the OHA-NOHA winner meets the north and the first two games of the five-game series will be played in the north. In 1959-60 the east meets the north with the first two games in the north.

Leafs Take Two From Havana; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rocky Nelson, the red hot first baseman for Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, apparently has no intention of cooling off.

In leading his team-to a double triumph Sunday against Havana Sugar Kings 7-3 and 9-1, he went 4-for-7, including his 23rd home run of the season. The double victory enabled the Maple Leafs to stay within a half game of the front-running Montreal Royals, who also won two. Nelson now leads the league in batting with .368 to Bob Lennon's .341.

The Royals beat Miami Marlins 7-3 and 9-4. Rochester Red Wings beat Richmond Virginians 6-2 and 5-1 and Buffalo Bisons beat Columbus Jets 4-1 after losing 6-5.

The Royals blasted six Miami pitchers for 23 hits in the two games. In the opener, the Royals exploded for three-run clusters in the fifth and eight innings after Miami took a 2-0 lead. In the seven-inning nightcap, the Marlins again led 3-1 but the Royals sent 11 men to the plate in the fourth inning to account for six runs.

The Red Wings beat the Virginians for the seventh straight time at home with Dick Ricketts ace Cary Blaylock chalking up complete games. Bob Wiesler of Richmond walked eight men in the four innings he worked in the nightcap and four of them scored.

George Witt fanned 13 in winning the opener for the Jets. Spook Jacobs, the hero of the first game with three hits, became the goat in the second when he committed an error that opened the door to four unearned runs in the third inning.

WINS IN SHOOTING

KINGSTON (CP) — E. B. Wilson of Ottawa Sunday won both the provincial open and closed championships at the first annual Ontario outdoor Handgun championships held here. Wilson, who beat a field of 82 entrants from Ontario, Quebec and New York state, carded 1,646 points in both events at the two - day championships.

The results of the federation events will be announced some time during the week. The last race of the Quinte club will be held from Oba, Ont., a distance of 462 miles on June 28.

World Record In 440 Yards Set By Davis

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Glenn Davis of Ohio State, cracked the world record in the 440-yard dash and Irish star Ron Delany of Villanova moved a smashing double in the 880 and mile Saturday at the annual NCAA track and field meet.

Davis, who won the Olympic 400-metre hurdles flashed ahead of Eddie Southern of Texas to win the quarter-mile in 45.7 seconds, one-tenth better than the world mark set by Jim Lea in 1956 and tied by Davis this spring.

Delany, who won the Olympic 1500-metre gold medal, scored a brilliant come-from-behind victory in his two races. In the mile he set a National Collegiate Athletic Association record of 4:01.5, bettering the 4:01.7 by Wes Santee of Kansas in 1952.

An hour later he surged from last in a field of nine half-milers to win in 1:46.4.

Chuvalo Meets Miteff Tonight

TORONTO (CP) — Alex Miteff's manager planned at the boxing record of lightly regarded George Chuvalo and said: "If there's a referee who can count to 10, that's all we need."

The contest came Sunday night from Hymie «The Mink» Wallman, who sends Miteff against the unranked Toronto heavyweight tonight in a 10-round bout.

Miteff, 23-year-old Argentinian ranked fifth by the National Boxing Association, is the 2-to-1 favorite. There's little doubt the odds would be greater if it not been for sentimental money on Chuvalo.

Miteff has appeared in the ring —both as an amateur and professional—133 times more than Chuvalo. He has lost only one of these 16 pro fights and fought better boxers.

But Chuvalo, 20, is a rough customer and a heavy puncher. Few of the 13 professionals he has met have lasted long with him before the opening rounds.

He has never been hurt—only outclassed. Howard King of Reno, Nev., beat him early in his career, but the King tried to repeat the performance Chuvalo had picked up enough experience to score an easy knockout.

The best man Chuvalo has met was Bob Baker of Philadelphia. Baker had slowed down enough to slip out of the top 10 ranking heavyweight but still managed to outclass Chuvalo.

Miteff is not a classy boxer. He is a rough, crowding, mauling fighter who bores in close.

Miteff's one loss was to unranked Mike De John of Syracuse, N.Y. De John knocked him out.

Chuvalo, one of the most promising ring men here in years, probably will go for Miteff's nose. The beak was badly cut when Miteff clashed with Cuba's Nino Valdes in his last outing.

Chuvalo will be holding a weight edge of about three pounds. He is expected to weigh about 208 to Miteff's 205.

What does Chuvalo think of Miteff?

"I don't know anything about him . . . The best way to find out about a guy is to fight him."

Jim Dawe Tosses No-Hitter As Cobourg Blanks Bobcats

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Jim "Sleepy" Dawe, getting stronger as each game passes, pitched a no-hit, no-run ball game in Cobourg on Saturday night as the Cobourg Merchants downed Belleville Bobcats 10-0 in a Belleville and District softball league fixture.

Dawe faced only thirty batters over the distance and while it was not the right - hander's first no-hitter, he likely never pitched a better game.

The victory entrenched the Merchants in second place in the loop standings and almost killed the Bobcats' chances of climbing out of third. Cobourg's record now stands at six and two, both losses coming at the hands of undefeated Point Anne.

Saturday's battle started out as a tight pitchers' duel between Dawe and the Cats' southpaw Bobby Green. Green stayed the distance and hurled excellent ball and his infield fell apart and handed Cobourg eight unearned runs. Only the first two markers in the fourth frame were earned. Cobourg added two in the fifth on a pair of Bobcat errors then made a route of the remainder with six in the eighth when Belleville kicked the ball around five times for an overall total of seven miscues.

Bobcats had three men reach base, all in the first four frames. Floyd Crawford drew a walk in the first inning and died on first base; Bobby Green got to third base in the third when centre fielder McSporran dropped his hard-hit ball to centre field, Green advancing another base on a wild pitch; "Bep" Guidolin walked in the fourth but never got past first base. Dawe then retired the next 16 batters in order. He struck out 13 batters and got everyone in the lineup once except catcher Doug Boone. Coach Bob Temple was a pinch-hit strikeout victim in the seventh. He fanned the side in the sixth, nipping Clarey, Brown and Crawford.

Cobourg gave Dawe good support. Green's drive to left-centre which McSporran dropped after a long run was the closest thing to a Belleville hit. Shortstop Dick Turpin's second baseman Pete Boncardo made a couple of great plays to help preserve the no-hitter.

Bobby Green threw his second well - pitched game in succession and with a little support hurled well enough to win most games.

He was charged with nine hits but most of these came after the side should have been retired while four were infield hits. Green whiffed four and had good control, walking but five.

An infield safety by O'Brien and a walk plus base hits by Clarey and Brian Hart gave Cobourg their two earned runs in the fourth. Turpin's bunt safety with a walk, sacrifice wild pitch and Crawford's first of four errors made it 4-0.

The eighth was a nightmare as 11 Cobourg men came to the plate. Five errors, two walks and three hits, two by Dawe and one by Boncardo, made the score read 10-0. The Bobcat infield could do nothing right.

Dawe paced his team with the stick, slamming a double and single. Pete Boncardo had two singles with one each for Dick Turpin, Leo O'Brien, Burke Clarey, Scotty McSporran and Brian Hart.

SCARBOROUGH, Eng. (AP)—Mrs. Heather Brewer Segal of South Africa, Saturday defeated Mrs. Mary Hawton of Australia, 6-4, 6-4, in the finals of the women's singles of the North of England lawn tennis championships.

Stan Leonard Edges Balding

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stan Leonard shot a sizzling four-under-par 67 Saturday over what is considered his home course to win a five-match exhibition golf tour from faltering Al Balding of Toronto.

Balding came home with a par 71 on the Marine Drive course, after he and Leonard had gone into the final 18 holes with a $71 total from four games in British Columbia centres. Balding went four over par in the last five holes to ruin his chances.

They each won two of their individual matches and tied one. Leonard picked up $2,000 from a brewery company which underwrote the prize money, and Balding $1,200.

Softball Results

Booth's Radio - TV's picked up their second win in as many starts in the bantam softball league on Saturday by handing Temple's Bantam Bobcats a 15-11 defeat at CNRA Park.

It has also been announced that all games scheduled for Monday nights have been changed to Saturday morning games. Tonight's game between Temple's and Booth's will be played next Saturday morning at ten o'clock.

Temple's held early 3-0 and 7-3 leads in Saturday's game but could not hold the margin as Booth's scored seven runs in the fourth frame and three in the sixth.

Jim Ross and Dave Lewis shared the winner's mound chores, allowing ten hits, striking out 15 and walking but two. Lorne Fitzpatrick hurled for Temple's, giving up 12 hits, fanning three and passing only one.

Fred Spafford sparked the TV crew at the plate with a three-for-four and two singles. Gary Wardle and Dave Lewis each singled twice.

Rickey Coe clubbed a two-run homer, a three-run homer and a single in a losing effort. Fitzpatrick homered and tripled, Holloway also hit a round-tripper while Ken Lewis had a double and single.

82 Roadside Camping Sites Not Enough to Meet Demand

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Three years ago Ontario operated eight roadside camping sites for the small minority of the province's motorists who enjoyed vacationing in the outdoors.

Then, almost overnight, the avalanche struck.

"We still don't know how it happened," says a department of lands and forests spokesman in Toronto. "All of a sudden everybody was going camping."

That year the department's public camping sites, which provided 1,100 facilities for about 1,000 families, were crowded all summer long.

POPULARITY GROWS

By the start of the 1956 season the number of camps had been increased to 23. They were swamped by more than 1,000,000 visits.

Last year, in a crash program to get ahead of the demand, 49 entirely new camping grounds were established. Attendance promptly soared 60 per cent—to 2,000,000.

This season there is a network of 83 camps across the province. Lands and forests officials fear the number still won't be enough, even though one camp, Lake Simcoe, 40 miles north of Toronto, is being expanded to a record 800 individual camp-sites.

Nobody will venture a guess on expected attendance this year but it won't surprise anyone if it hits 3,000,000.

The sudden surge towards the outdoors has been reflected in record sales of camping equipment. Manufacturers of tents, camp stoves, portable coolers, sleeping bags, air mattresses, boats, outboard motors and the like report they've never had a better season.

REASONS FOR BOOM

What caused it all? Most provincial parks officials say it's due to traffic. Motorists are going farther afield on weekend or vacation trips and at the end of the day apart they want a quiet, controlled escape from the busy highway.

Others say it's the case of country people moving to the cities in greater numbers over the last 10 years. They've suddenly got a yen to return to the outdoors at every opportunity.

Camping equipment firms credit new camping gear which has taken much of the hard work and discomfort out of camping.

Most campers is on a family scale. A tent and sleeping gear, lantern and cooking equipment and you're set.

The average camping family prefers the provincial camp where for 75 cents a night they get a cleared site near a lake or river. Usually there are toilets, a pump supplying pure well water, firewood and safe beach facilities. Large camps have a grocery store or refreshment stand.

Nearly 90 per cent of the camp attendance is at weekends. Because of the demand for sites no camper may stay more than two weeks at a time.

Most of the present camps, which shouldn't be confused with the familiar roadside tables on Ontario highways, are in the southern sections of the province. But they'll soon be expanded rapidly into the north.

"We've got to go north," says a Toronto parks division official. "We're running out of room down here."

PROMOTERS

"The profits were made by the sharp rise in the price of shares. Certain shareholders cashed in immediately by selling, others deferred taking their profits by retaining their shares.

"A 'paper-value' of $15 a share was reached during the first few days. The quote for common shares then began a long battle over a proposed increase in gas prices contained some fluctuation on the market and turned the market price downward. To establish the approximate level of profits made by the market coup, we will take for granted that the profit on each share was $15.

HELD SHARES

"The promoters held 5,000 common shares at $10 each. The increase to $25 from $10, meant a paper profit of $75,000. They had also issued $64,986 class B shares at $2 each, which also increased to $25 each. The profit on these amounted to $1,249,000.

"It is to be noted that the promoters obtained this profit of $3,000,000 at the very moment that they took possession of the Quebec Hydro gas network and before they began to operate it. They made the profit with an investment of less than $5,000,000 and risk capital of only $50,000.

"The profits on the 800,000 common shares issued to the public at the time of the market coup April 1, 1957, amounted to $12,000,000—that is the difference between $10 and $25 a share.

"These profits were divided among the promoters, who evidently served themselves first, then passed on a little to those helped—them to sell $40,000,000 in debentures and the politicians of the Union Nationale who made the operation possible. The ordinary purchasers could obtain only crumbs from their brokers . . . . .

". . . The profits on the market coup amounted to more than $20,000,000, that is $9,000,000 on the class B shares and more than $12,000,000 on the common shares."

COMPANY HEAD COMMENTS

Col. Maurice Forget, president of the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation, executive on the Le Devoir series, was reported Saturday to have said he could not know whether Quebec government officials have been shareholders in the company.

"Like any individuals, these people may have bought shares through their brokers," he said. "I know nothing about that."

The company president who also is president of the investment firm, J. P. Forget and Forget described as "pure falsehood" the charge there was a market coup.

He said about 30 brokerage firms handled sale of corporation bonds and debentures. "The lot was sold within 24 hours, the fact most of the securities were sold in advance."

Col. Forget said the corporation got only the original sale price of the securities.

"If the price went up, afterwards, this was simply due to ordinary market fluctuations."

He said the corporation has 6,000 shareholders including investment companies, insurance companies and ordinary shareholders.

RAISED CAPITAL

He said when the company was incorporated its capital was $50,000 but when it made deposits on its purchase of Quebec Hydro gas system, it had obtained $5,000,000 from seven investment companies.

The prospectus said the company raised $4,359,898 from sale of the 549,986 class B shares to the seven investment firms.

Further financing was proposed as follows:

Sale of first mortgage bonds in Canada and the United States—$19,702,000.

Sale of subordinated debentures —$20,000,000.

Sale of 800,000 common shares —$3,000,00.

The total was given as $47,702,000.

The prospectus said the debentures and subordinated debentures were to be offered in units of one $100 debenture and four common shares.

The Montreal Trust Company was to receive for each unit purchaser two of the common shares within three days after July 15, 1957, and two more within three days after Dec. 31, 1959.

P.S. Board Selects Smart New Furniture

CAMPBELLFORD — All members were present at the June meeting of the Campbellford Public School Board, when salesmen from various furniture companies addressed the Board and showed samples.

Furniture for the new school was finally ordered from the Educational Supply Co. of Elmira. The furniture is smart in design and durable, with a lifetime guarantee. The Board was able to buy at a reasonable figure by ordering for the entire school. Teachers' desks and chairs are to be purchased from a local store.

The enrollment for kindergarten at present is so large that two half-day classes accommodate. It was decided if the enrollment held at the time of the opening of the new school, a third half-day kindergarten would be set up and the board has a well qualified kindergarten teacher in readiness to take this extra class. Two of these classes will be taught in the new school and one in the older school. At least 10 children must be enrolled for kindergarten to have a class in the new school. Volunteers are being asked for these ten.

The list of teachers for the new school, to be named Kent Public School, is as follows: principal and teacher of special class, Mr. A. E. Whitfield; kindergarten, morning, Mrs. Flossie Bennett; afternoon Mrs. Eleanor Nelson; Grade I, Mrs. Jean Werner; Grade II, Mrs. Georgina Liston; Grade III, Miss Carole MacArthur; Grade IV, Mrs. Gladys Nicolson.

Dr. D. W. Burgess reported the $5,000 legacy from the Grace Irene Payne Estate had been received and invested in a 4½% Hydro Electric, Province of Ontario bond. This bond will yield a revenue of $225, yearly and this will be used in furthering the musical education of the children

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Beyette of Peterborough spent the weekend with relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Burley and children, of Belleville spent the weekend with their parents.

Mr. Fred Stevenson of Toronto spent the weekend with friends in town.

Mr. Arthur Mack has returned from Belleville General Hospital and is convalescing at his home.

Mrs. M. Ryan is visiting at Niagara Falls, Ont., the guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Trolley.

Mrs. Sandy Harvey is visiting in Toronto with her daughters, Miss Helen Harvey, also Mr. and Mrs. John Gunsinger and Eleanor.

of Campbellford Public Schools as was laid down in the will of the donor.

Mr. E. R. Steele, chairman of propety, reported on the survey made by Mr. Cryderman and himself to decide what needed to be done in the older schools. He reported that re-painting of the classrooms is necessary or an expensive job would have to be done in a few years. This year the resurfacing of the walks in front of the school and repair and painting of washrooms and stairways will be undertaken.

Mr. Steele repoted the construction of the new building is progressing favourably. It was decided to install a 5,000 gal. storage tank instead of the 3,000 gal. tank to enable more economical buying of oil in future years.

Arrangements were made to have one person supervise at noon hours and thus relieve the teachers of a heavy task. An advertisment is being placed for a supply teacher to relieve the principal of Grade VI work this fall.

Priest Declares Eskimos Benefit From Missions

MONTREAL (CP)—Rev. Joseph-Eugene Pelletier, for seven years an Oblate Roman Catholic missionary at Cape Dorset on the southern tip of Baffin Island says that he found the Eskimo able to understand the Christian religion and morally improved by missionary teachings.

Father Pelletier was commenting on a statement by a Montreal physician who recently told a medical gathering that mid-Canada had made drastic changes in the lives and culture of the Eskimos.

The physician, Dr. Ray Lawson, veteran of 18 trips to the western Arctic, said many healthy attitudes and aspects of the old Eskimo culture had been replaced through missionary influence by less suitable modes of living.

PAGAN CUSTOMS

Father Pelletier said:

"We found that the native drum dance leads to immorality and sometimes when an Eskimo fights with another during the dance, he kills him.

"It also works up the Eskimos' emotions and may lead to prostitution. It is very pagan."

In their native state, Father Pelletier said, the Eskimos would sometimes kill girl babies if they felt there were too many girls.

However, he said too rapid civilization of the Eskimo was a bad thing and developed in him many moral defects, such as divorce, liquor abuse, sometimes prostitution and polygamy.

PC's In Manitoba Win But Lack Over-All Majority

Coalition Govt. Is Out Says New Party Leader

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Progressive Conservatives ended 43 years in Manitoba's political wilderness by winning Monday's provincial general election. But their total of 26 seats in the 57-member House left them short of an over-all majority.

Today on his 41st birthday, party leader Duff Roblin—grandson of Manitoba's last Conservative premier — awaited an announcement on the future plans of Liberal-Progressive Premier Campbell, whose party ran second with 19 seats in Canada's first provincial vote since the March 31 Diefenbaker election.

Monday night Mr. Campbell cut off questions by reporters, saying: "The election is over for today."

However, Mr. Roblin indicated his readiness to step into office: "If we can form a coalition with a government we shall accept that offer and put into effect the programme we lined in the campaign."

Final Canadian Press standings compared with the standing after the last election in 1953:

	1958	1953
Prog. Cons.	26	12
Lib.-Prog.	19	32
CCF	11	5
Social Credit	0	2
Independent	1	4
Ind.-Lib.	0	1
Lab.-Prog.	0	1
Total	57	57

NO COALITION

Both Mr. Roblin and CCF Leader Lloyd Stinson ruled out any possibility of a coalition government.

Mr. Roblin told questioners the Conservatives will not form a coalition with anyone.

Mr. Stinson said he does not favor a coalition involving his party. He suggested in a television appearance that he would favor some combination of the Conservatives and Liberals.

The result left Canada without a provincial Liberal government west of the Maritimes, where the party is in power in Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland. The Conservatives now hold four provinces, adding Manitoba to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario. Social Credit is in Alberta and British Columbia, Union Nationale has Quebec and the CCF Saskatchewan.

For Mr. Roblin, the election victory came after nine long years in politics. Although he is the grandson of Sir Rodmond Roblin, Conservative premier from 1900 to 1915, his entry into politics was the result of a challenge in 1949.

ANSWERED QUESTION

Asked at a party rally he didn't like himself the coalition set-up between Liberal-Progressives in Ottawa and Conservatives headed by Premier Campbell, he won a nomination the next week and went on to win the legislature as an Independent.

U.S. Prepared To Use Force In Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States would use military action under certain conditions to preserve Lebanon's independence.

Dulles told a press conference that the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean is watching the crisis-ridden Lebanese situation.

Fleet elements, including marines, could take appropriate action, he said. It may be necessary to enlarge this force and give it greater mobility.

Mentioning that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and a United Nations security force are in the area, Dulles said any proposal by Hammarskjold to help connection would be supported by the United States.

He added that this includes physical support.

WON'T REVEAL OTHERS

There are other conditions under which the U.S. might send help to Lebanon besides a UN appeal but he declined to go into them.

Lebanon Rebel Leaders Threaten Full-Scale War

BEIRUT (AP)—Rebel leaders voiced new threats of full-scale civil war amid reports today that an insurgent government might be set up in opposition to President Camille Chamoun's pro-Western regime.

One high Western spokesman at United Nations headquarters suggested the next 10 days will be decisive.

At the end of that time the UN should have a standing observation team in Lebanon to watch the 150 miles of mountainous borders. Chamoun charges the neighboring United Arab Republic is arming and training fighters for the insurgent opposition seeking his resignation.

DAG ON THE WAY

A vanguard of the observation team arrived last week and more members are trickling in daily. Wednesday UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold is due in Beirut to confer with the observers ordered here by the Security Council.

Today's Chuckle

When it comes to spreading gossip it seems that the female of the species is much faster than the mail.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — For the last few days, a storm centred near the south of the Gulf of St. Lawrence has maintained a strong northerly flow of cold air across Quebec and the east of Ontario. Cloud from this system has started to retreat now as the storm weakens and permits a weak high pressure area over northwestern Ontario to slip down towards the Great Lakes. . . . . .

By Wednesday the weather should be sunny throughout the province with a slow warming trend.

PRIME MINISTER SAYS CHARGE MADE 'PICAYUNE'

Opposition Claims CBC Interference

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has dismissed as "picayune" a charge that he interfered in the affairs of the CBC and influenced a television appearance by British Prime Minister Macmillan.

The charge was raised in the Commons Monday by Opposition Leader Pearson. After the prime minister replied with a denial, Paul Martin (L—Essex East) suggested Mr. Diefenbaker had not convinced the House.

Mr. Pearson charged Mr. Diefenbaker with interference in CBC affairs by saying "No," when a CBC interviewer last Friday proposed to ask visiting British MP Aneurin Bevan questions about Britain's free trade offer.

That intervention by the prime minister, said Mr. Pearson, "was an interference with the press censorship over the CBC interviewer carrying out his job."

Mr. Diefenbaker said: "I have nothing to withdraw. There was no interference with the press."

He did not make clear at any point to what his "No, no" referred.

FIRST QUESTION

He said the CBC interviewer's first proposed question had been "as to whether or not the representations or the so-called proposal advanced last September regarding free trade with the United Kingdom would be on the agenda of the Commonwealth trade conference this fall (in Montreal)."

"I said 'No, no,' and then that terminated it as far as I was concerned," said Mr. Diefenbaker. It was not clear at first whether that "No, no" had meant the free trade proposal would not be on the trade conference agenda.

But he later indicated that was not what his "No, no" referred to. No, for he said whether the proposal is discussed at the conference "is something which will be determined by the course."

Mr. Pearson said the result of Mr. Diefenbaker's "No, no" was that in the subsequent CBC interview with Mr. Macmillan—"no question regarding the free trade offer was in fact asked."

Polio Victim Saves Brother

MONTREAL (CP) — Gillian Salmon, 7, left partly paralyzed by polio, saved her three-year-old brother Anthony from drowning in the family pool at nearby St. Hubert today.

Mrs. Salmon said her brother is life preserver when he tumbled in and jumped after it, pulling him out.

Gillian then wrapped him in a blanket and trundled him home in her doll carriage.

Macmillan Postpones Cyprus Statement at NATO Request

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said today he had decided to postpone a statement on the future of Cyprus for 48 hours.

Macmillan told the House of Commons the postponement came at the request of Paul Henri Spaak, Secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Macmillan said Britain's proposed policy had been placed before NATO, whose leaders had met in Turkey and helped discussion during which our efforts to find a new basis for a solution received general recognition.

"As a result, M. Spaak, on behalf of the council, conveyed to Her Majesty's Government last (Monday night a strong request to postpone for 48 hours their parliamentary statement in the hope that the short delay would be of advantage."

Macmillan said he now planned to present the statement to Commons on Thursday.

Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the Labor party opposition, commented after the prime minister had spoken.

"We have, on many occasions in the past, urged that Cyprus should be put to the NATO organization and we are glad that this last minute step has been taken."

Macmillan said what Britain is doing for the next two days is to give the NATO council a chance "to see what help they can give in the work of conciliation."

NATO has a paramount interest in the outcome of the Cyprus problem. Britain, Greece and Turkey, allies in NATO, but their relationship has been clouded by the Cyprus dispute. Greece has gone so far as to remove Greek personnel from the NATO military centers in Izmir, Turkey.

Allan Lennox-Boyd, the colonial secretary, was asked by a Commons questioner today whether Turkish Cypriots in the Cyprus police force had failed to act against Turkish-speaking persons involved in recent anti-Greek rioting.

The Turkish police have behaved extremely well under difficult conditions and much praise is due to them," said Lennox-Boyd.

Meanwhile, reports in Athens said Greek MPs had invited the Greek and Turkish prime ministers to London for talks on the future of the Mediterranean colony. A British spokesman said, however, that he knew nothing about the reports.

New rioting and bloodshed were feared on Cyprus following announcement of the government's decision. British troops, heavily reinforced, were ordered to take "all necessary steps."

Greece and Turkey have given assurance notice of almost certain rejection of the plan.

New Purge of Titoists Seen As Nagy and Aides Executed

VIENNA (AP) — Communist Hungary has executed two leaders of the Soviet-crushed Hungarian revolt in October and November 1956 former premier Imre Nagy and defence minister Pal Maleter.

The executions of Nagy, Maleter and two lesser figures in the uprising against Communist rule plus prison sentences for the others were announced today.

Moscow radio announced it, but what looked to Vienna observers like the start of a new Kremlin purge of Titoists in Hungary, seeking some independence from Communist Yugoslavia. Western diplomats in Belgrade viewed the execution of Nagy as a direct jab Khrushchev aimed at Tito's president.

Budapest radio said Nagy and Maleter refused to make full confessions to the people's court which tried them secretly in Budapest. The dates of the trial and of the executions were not made public.

All nine were charged with "organization of a plot aimed at overthrowing the Hungarian government. Nagy also was convicted of "betraying the motherland" and guilty of "organizing a military uprising."

Budapest radio said Nagy, Maleter and Jozsef Szilagyi, described as Nagy's "chief helper" were the principal defendants. British troops, heavily reinforced, were ordered to take "all necessary steps."

Greece and Turkey have given assurance notice of almost certain rejection of the plan.

Others imprisoned were Col. Sandor Kopacsy, an aide to Maleter in the uprising; Ferenc Donath, a supporter of Nagy during the uprising; Zoltan Zakvi, a son-in-law of Nagy, and Miklos Vasarhelyi, a former editor of the Communist party paper Szabad Nep.

Kopacsy was given life imprisonment, the others five to 12 years.

Budapest Radio said Geza Losonczy, a former minister in Nagy's government, died in prison before he could be tried. This was the first announcement of his death.

Summit Parley Negotiations Wrecked by Russian Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France surveyed the situation today of their efforts to set up a summit conference through secret diplomacy.

Moscow blew them out of the water Monday by making public a letter from Soviet Premier Khrushchev denouncing Eisenhower attempt at needless foot-dragging.

The state department followed up by publishing the West's making secret proposals, hitherto kept secret.

When the smoke cleared, Diplomatic sources said that they were two months ago. Russia was dissatisfied with a Big-4 government meeting. The West was insisting on adequate preparations at lower levels first.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko started discussions in Moscow. He called in Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson of the United States, Sir Patrick Reilly of Britain and Maurice Dejean of France. He told them he was making public Premier Khrushchev's June 11 letter to their government chiefs as well as other secret material they had been discussing in Moscow.

The Soviet ambassadors in Washington, Paris and London were called home, meanwhile, for consultation.

Atomic Worker Dumps Uranium, Starts Reaction

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—An atomic plant worker dumped enriched uranium accidentally touched off a nuclear reaction today releasing some deadly atomic radiation. There was no explosion.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the worker, one of seven employees showed signs of exposure to radiation. Four other persons in the area at the time were examined but not subjected to "excessive radiation."

In a statement, the AEC said the incident apparently occurred "when an employee emptied a small container of enriched uranium into a larger container. The change in the geometry of the system apparently created a critical mass and a nuclear reaction occurred. There was no nuclear explosion."

LIBERAL LEADER SAYS SHARES SET ASIDE FOR FRIENDS

Blocks Ranged From One to 500 Shares

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial Liberal Leader Jean Lesage says he has information indicating that the syndicate which organized the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation had strict instructions to set aside blocks of shares "to protect" certain friends of Premier Duplessis' Union Nationale party.

The Liberal leader told a press conference Monday the blocks ranged from one to 500 shares. He referred to the sale of shares in Montreal Le Devoir on the sale of the publicly-owned gas system and said that "one highly-placed Quebec person had realized a profit of more than $30,000 on the selling shares which he had bought just a few weeks before."

Mr. Lesage said the Quebec Liberal commission inquiry into the sale of Quebec's natural gas distribution system to the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

"If anything two weeks in inquiry has been ordered the Liberal Party would have been the privately-owned gas company's vice-president for engineering and operations, Paul Gouin, was given a $,000 shares of corporation common stock. The quota to buy at $10 a share could be exercised between April 1, 1957, and March 31, 1958.

"If Mr. Crous had exercised his option, he was able to make an immense profit of $72,000," says Le Devoir.

The newspaper has said the birth of the privately-owned corporation was marked by what it the "most extraordinary" market coups in Canada in recent years.

Col. Maurice Forget, corporation president, has commented on the newspaper's series, said Mr. Crous was one of top "special gists" given share options for joining Quebec Natural Gas.

TO INTEREST THEM

"We hope to interest them in the company and compensate them for leaving an institution, from which we are offering less," Col. Forget said.

SIGN ATOMIC DEAL

At the same time, Japan signed a 10-year agreement with the United States in Washington. The United States will provide Japan with 27,000 kilograms of enriched uranium for atomic power reactors.

CNR Calls for Elimination Of 'Diesel Rule' in Agreement

MONTREAL (CP) — The CNR called today for elimination of the diesel rule" from its agreement with the Brotherhood Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

In a submission to a federal conciliation board the railway wants the number of firemen on freight and yard diesels would be reduced by attrition by 1965 and by 1971, even if pay rates remain unchanged.

The CNR explained that under th. diesel rule "the company is required to employ firemen on all locomotives whether they have any work to do or'not."

The three-man federal conciliation board, headed by Mr. Justice Andre Montpetit of Quebec Superior Court, opened hearings today in the contract dispute between the CNR and the firemen's union. Other members of the board are T. R. Meighen of Montreal, named by the company, and A. E. Matthews, Parry Sound, Ont., the union nominee.

The hearings are on an issue which caused a three-day firemen's strike against the CPR last year. The dispute was settled when the CPR agreed to retaining firemen now on the job while they remained with the line or promoted or retired.

The CNR contends in its case presented by Mr. McDonald that management should have the right to say if it is safe to operate when and if firemen are to be on locomotives.

The company says the diesel rule results in economic waste.

"It has the effect of tying up a very substantial labor force in an unproductive occupation, while this same labor force might be used to good advantage to contribute to the economic expansion of the country," the CNR brief says.

Withhold Report For Three Days Owing To Threat

Mother's Plea Reveals Abduction on Saturday

MONTREAL (CP) — A 2½-year-old boy was kidnapped Saturday from the home of his wealthy parents in the suburb residential district of suburban town of Mount Royal. it was disclosed today in an appeal broadcast by the grief stricken mother, Mrs. Cyril Reitman.

Also missing since Saturday is the child's nursemaid, Greta Goede, 18, hired by the family two weeks ago through a National Employment Office.

A ransom note left behind demanded $10,000 for the safe return of the child. The note said the maid was also taken by the kidnappers. The parents followed the instructions in the note and left the ransom money Monday at a designated bus terminal. It was untouched.

NEWS HELD BACK

The appeal by Mrs. Reitman, 25, in a radio broadcast was the first public disclosure of the kidnapping. Newspapers, radio stations and news agencies had complied with a police request to withhold news of the disappearance because the ransom note had said the child would be killed if police were notified.

The note, written in broken English, also said the maid would be killed. Police said the maid was a native of Cologne, Germany, and has lived in Victoria, B.C., Dawson Creek, B.C., and Toronto.

Police believe the boy, Joel, was taken from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reitman between 8:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., Saturday night while the parents were attending an opening dance at the Elm Ridge Golf Club.

NOTE IN GARAGE

When they returned home about 1:15 a.m., they had to break a rear window to enter the house. They found the boy, their only child, and the maid gone. In the adjoining garage they discovered the two-page hand - written ransom note.

Mr. Reitman, buyer for the family of Reitman's Inc., immediately called police. But before the call was completed police said they had been asked and summoned by some one who had seen the Reitmans breakfasting at their home when their ringing of the doorbell brought no answer. Montreal police later were enlisted to help with the investigation.

Eisenhower Admits He Was Given Expensive Cloth by Adams' Friend

WASHINGTON (CP) — The White House acknowledged today that industrialist Bernard Goldfine once gave President Eisenhower a supply of expensive vicuna cloth.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower gave the material to a friend. Hagerty added that Eisenhower did not remember the name of the friend.

Hagerty called a press conference just before a closed session by Sherman Adams, the president's top aide, with a top congressional committee about his relationship with Goldfine.

The press secretary discussed an article by newspaper columnist Drew Pearson which reported Eisenhower had received a vicuna coat from Goldfine. (The vicuna is a South American animal related to the camel.)

Hagerty denied the story as to the coat, but conceded the gift of cloth.

There have also been reports of a $700 vicuna coat gift to Adams from Goldfine, as well as testimony that Adams accepted more than $2,000 of hotel hospitality from his Boston friend and made contacts for him with federal agencies. Adams has denied the use of any influence in Goldfine's behalf with federal commissions.

Hagerty said Eisenhower thanked Goldfine for the material, as well as for nice things Goldfine had said about the president and his administration, in a letter.

Asked why Eisenhower accepted the material Hagerty replied: "He receives many, many gifts from people. As Hagerty read over the Pearson story point by point he interjected such comments as "that's a lie" and "that also is a lie."

Of a Pearson statement that Goldfine stocked the trunk of Adams' car with an assortment of whiskies and champagnes, Hagerty said: "Completely false."

May Use Building At Parking Lot For Health Dept.

Possibility of the concrete structure at the Pinnacle Street municipal parking lot being fitted for use by the local health department will be considered by council, following a report of the feasibility and costs of renovations.

Last night at council committee meeting there was a request from H. R. Varcoe, chairman of the board of health, asking increased office space in which to carry out the work of the health department, and the Pinnacle Street building was suggested to provide the accommodation required.

The letter indicated the present quarters of the health department at the city hall comprised only about 715 square feet, including a separate room on the second floor for the sanitary inspector. Taking out cupboard space and a separate office for the medical officer of health, the remaining space for the main office and waiting room was only about 400 square feet.

Over the past two years attendance at clinics had increased from 25 to an average of 97, resulting in long waiting on the part of mothers with babies in arms.

Annexation would further aggravate the space problem and it was stated a minimum of 2,100 square feet was essential.

THREE ALTERNATIVES

Mayor Gerald Ryde said as he could see it there were three alternatives for council. Council could do nothing; it could increase health department office space through utilization of the opportunity shop, or there was the concrete building on the parking lot.

As he could see it, the building would require heat, light, partitions and plumbing to make it suitable.

Ald. Doug. Moxam felt that renovation of the parking lot building would "run into a lot of money" for use only as a health office. He suggested the building might be also be used for other activities.

Alderman Digby felt the cost of fitting the building out as an auxiliary municipal building would be well worth looking into. As such it would be available for recreational committee functions and other municipal purposes.

"That's a fine argument," interposed Ald. C. D. Tice. " That is exactly what the people turned down at the last election."

"I'm not talking of spending $25,000," replied Ald. Digby, "only of fitting the building for auxiliary use."

It was agreed that the feasibility and cost of converting the premises be determined by a member of the city hall staff.

Alderman Jones suggested purchase by the city of the former Hydro building at the corner of Pinnacle and Victoria Street might be a good move. The cost would be more than less but renovation of the parking lot structure, he suggested.

George A. W. Taylor Ends 45 Years in Rail Service

Another local railroader who as CNR engineer has operated trains in and out of Belleville for the past 20 years, retired from the service Saturday evening.

He is George A. W. Taylor, 64 Alexander Street, who Saturday at the north station ended his colorful railroading career, began as a shop worker back in 1913 at Palmerston, Ont.

A native of England, Mr. Taylor came to Canada in 1913 and immediately went to work in the Palmerston railway shop. With the start of World War I he enlisted with the 71st Battalion, later transferring to the 54th Kootenay Battalion in England. He served until 1918 on the Western Front and at the conclusion of the hostilities returned to Canada to again take up his railroad career — this time as a fireman.

He fired until 1938 and for the past 20 years has worked as engineer. He came to Belleville in 1925.

Handling passenger trains exclusively for the past seven years, he usually worked the 'swing' shift, relieving other engineers, taking their monthly five - day leave. His runs have been between Belleville and Toronto on trains 14, 15, 17 and 6.

GEORGE A. W. TAYLOR

GARDEN IS HOBBY

For the future Mr. Taylor expects to spend much of his time in his large flower and vegetable garden where he grows most vegetables for their own use.

"I've already got my potatoes all hilled up," he said.

He also expects to take up fishing and for winter time relaxation, more leisure time on the bowling alleys.

A member of the Salvation Army he has been treasurer of the Belleville Corps since short-

New Nurses' Training Centre Lively Issue at Meeting

Difference of opinion as to the urgency for the construction of a proposed new nurses' training centre for Belleville General Hospital was seen at last night's committee meeting of city council as action was sought for the guarantee of funds required to get the project underway.

Cost of the proposed new training centre is estimated at about $177,000 with the cost to the city estimated at $92,000.

Alderman Effie McCabe, city representative on the hospital board, broached the subject asking for action on the part of council.

Councillors generally agreed that the centre is necessary, the only fly in the ointment being the method of financing the city estimate of $92,000 should be asked to contribute before the project was started.

Mrs. McCabe felt that the ahead should be given immediately to allow the matter to be brought before the municipal board as soon as possible. On the other hand Mayor Gerald Ryde did not think much time would be lost in starting as little action could be expected from the municipal body during the summer holiday period.

City Manager Drury Denyes said a request from the city to the county for financial assistance might meet with a favorable response.

Ald. Doug Moxam said the hospital board had planned a training centre 52 feet by 123 feet. After viewing the present accomodation for nurses' classes he was "100 per cent in favor of the new centre."

Mrs. McCabe noted that many applications from would-be nurses would have to be turned down because of lack of classroom space.

Alderman Dr. James Forrester agreed that the training centre was needed but he did not agree to the building's immediate urgency claiming that other items at the hospital were more urgent.

Even if the new training centre were built, the hospital did not have dormitory space for more student nurses," he said.

Mayor Ryde said that 40 per cent of the patients in the hospital were from the county it was unanimously agreed that Hastings should be approached for financial assistance.

It was pointed out by Mrs. McCabe that instructional facilities at the hospital were entirely inadequate for a hospital the size of Belleville General.

"No public school would put up with the type of accomodation of nurses' classes at the hospital," she said.

Deseronto Clerk Submits Her Resignation

DESERONTO, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Laura Ross Monday submitted her resignation as town clerk and treasurer. It was deferred to a closed council meeting tonight.

Mrs. Ross said she is resigning because of "unwarranted personal secutism and criticism which leads me to believe I do not have support of council."

Mayor Harry Sweetnam said it was being operated as a speed trap and called this town a "black name."

The issue has caused two successive mayors and two councillors to resign.

Old-Time Printer From Los Angeles Visits Office

An interesting visitor to the editorial room of the Ontario Intelligencer today was Lewis G. Cannniff of Los Angeles, California. Mr. Cannniff is an oldtime printer and at one time worked on the old Belleville city. Although 84 years of age, Mr. Cannniff is hale and hearty and thoroughly enjoying his visit to this city and district. While he lived in this city, he was a member of the old Fifteenth Regiment and wears a ring with the crest of the Regiment on it. He served under the late Col. W. N. Ponton.

After leaving Belleville he worked on Colorado Springs "Telegraph" in the advertising room and then moved on to Los Angeles where he worked on Examiner and News before his retirement. A sister Mrs. Lila Hovey, now 80, lives in South Pasadena, California.

Mr. Cannniff stated he could see many changes for the better since he left but remembers many of the old landmarks of the city.

New Structure To Be Built on Present Site

Erection of sidewalk barricades preparatory to demolition of the local Toronto-Dominion Bank building is currently underway.

Bank headquarters have arranged for the razing of the present structure and erection of a new bank building on the same premises. The present building will be completely razed and an entirely new structure built.

The new building will be 38 by 72 feet, two storeys in height and will rise 35 feet above the sidewalk. The second storey of the structure will be used for office space.

It is understood that all local labor will be used in the demolition of the present bank building and in the construction of the new one. Cost of the new building is estimated at $114,000. The building permit covering the construction was taken out in February.

WITHHOLD REPORT

The ransom note said in part: "Now the time is coming to take your boy war. We want 10,000 ten tausend in cash 200 50S. If you don't live the money to use we will kill your son right now. "Your father and sometink to is us many years ago. Now have sometink to do to you."

The note then gave instructions on where the money was to be left in a women's washroom at the Dorchester Street terminal of the Provincial Transport Company.

"We expect the money on Monday after 11 a.m., o'clock," said the note.

"Don't call police or radio. The first time we see Montrick we will kill you boy and we don't care for the money. Perhaps a woman will pick up the money. If the police catch the woman your son is to be killed.

"P.S. We expecht nobody in house and we first women here to collect. We have to take her, too. She will be killed to. Maby we will kill her after our business. She is too smart. Perhaps she can pick up the money.

"Do not mark the money."

There was no signature or identification mark on the note.

The parents left the ransom money at the last terminal but no one appeared to collect it. By coincidence a large police van used to transport prisoners, broke down directly in front of the bus terminal at 11:30 a.m. Monday, about the time the kidnapper or kidnappers were believed ready to collect.

It was decided early today to wait for the morning mail and then, if no communication came from the kidnappers, to give all possible publicity to the kidnapping in the hope that some one might be able to provide information that would help police.

Inspector William Fitzpatrick, assistant chief of detectives, called newspapers and news agencies and told them that Mrs. Reitman was to make a radio appeal at noon to plead for the return of her child.

The appeal was to be the first public acquaintance of the kidnapping.

FLOWERS, SHRUBS DAMAGED

TRENTON — Vandals did severe damage to flowers, shrubbery and trees in the Fraser Park last night it was reported today. For some unknown reason the culprits had apparently wandered around the park pulling out newly-planted flowers, breaking others off and stripping leaves of the trees and bushes. The incident has been reported to the town police and it is under investigation. The Parks Board members and gardeners Bart Boers have not made plans as yet for restoring the plants. The flowers from their greenhouses have all been used and they feel they may have to thin out other beds to fill in the many gaps now in the large centre display as well as along the sidewalk beds.

MAYOR OPENS STUDIO

Mayor Ross Burtt officially opened the new studios of Radio Station CJOY, on the fifth floor of Nova Scotia Building. The station took over their new quarters from broadcast facilities in the Trenton Memorial Building last night. Mayor Burtt officiated for the good work they have carried out in the past in helping the community.

PULL OVER BUILDING

Town firemen yesterday enlisted the help of the Public Works department to pull over the old garage building, which was badly damaged in a fire Sunday morning. The building had first to and one wall badly burned and had taken on a dangerous list to the north side of the bay. The firemen, who own the building, decided it was dangerous and would have to be taken down. They called up Trenton Service Ltd., Adelsey and asked for the help of his men. The town bulldozer along with Foreman Bill Gidman, Nelson Wellman, Charles Scaletta and Bob Wells arrived and pulled the building down and away from the water line to enable the firemen to get as much of the lumber as possible. The old yacht club was just behind the Canadian Legion building and next to the bath park.

ONLY SLIGHT DAMAGE

One accident was reported by police yesterday and property damage amounted to an estimated $50. A truck owned and driven by Christopher Lee of 68 Herman Street, Trenton was reported to have been backing in off Quinte Street to the rear of Eaton's Order Office when it struck the corner of the roof of house number 48 Quinte Street. The building is owned by William Ireland of Marmora Street. No damage was reported to the vehicle. Constable Dave Lapp of the Trenton Police Force investigated the mishap.

Manager Now Qualified to Operate Plant

TRENTON — Len Gaudette, Community Gardens manager, received his Department of Labor Refrigeration Operator's certificate at the weekend. Mr. Gaudette attended the Guelph Agricultural College two weeks ago taking the refrigeration operators course and wrote the Department of Labor examination. With qualifying as a refrigeration operator Mr. Gaudette becomes the fourteenth holder of this honor out of a total of two hundred arena managers and assistants in Ontario. The certificate will not require the Community Gardens to hire an engineer which the Department of Labor is in enforce in all arenas using artificial ice.

Mr. Gaudette also holds the arena managers certificate and the Recreation Directors certificate.

"The savings from not hiring an engineer," Mr. Gaudette "will enable us to use this money on other building interests."

The Community Gardens Board feel confident in Gaudette's ability due to his efforts in qualifying in all phases of the arena business.

Police Sergeant Tells Rotarians About Safety

TRENTON — Sgt. Gordon J. Steenburg of the Trenton police department, spoke on traffic safety and the work the police do in this line at last night's meeting of the Rotary Club held in Hotel Gilbert.

Sgt. Steenburg was introduced by Trenton Police Chief Jack Taylor and was thanked by Cec. Simpson.

The police sergeant told the Rotarians of his work of taking safety lectures to all public school students during the year. He outlined the procedure followed, type of literature used and passed around to the Rotarians the new type of manual used in this work. He explained that the cost of these manuals had been paid by several Trenton firms.

He pointed out that the school principals, teachers and police can only go so far in educating children of safe measures and only with the support of the parents in setting an example for their youngsters can a definite gain be made.

EYE EXAMINE

In this he referred to the mother or father taking chances, the going through an orange light, walking across the street against a red light or crossing between intersections if there is no lane for pedestrians. What the parents do, so do the children because in their eyes "mum and dad" can do no wrong and they follow their example for them.

Sgt. Steenburg also drew to the attention of the meeting the highway safety program which will be launched by the Trenton police department.

Constable Manin read the police have at their station which, by colored pins, they can tell at a glance where the accidents are the most accident prone. There are areas also studied by police and they concentrate on these places.

Main said streets where accidents are high are also studied by the police with a view to recommending to the town's recommendations are made to the town's department of public works. In some cases it has also been found more signs are needed and in others there are too many signs and the latter tend to confuse motorists.

The sergeant also spoke on the possibilities of Trenton of having a traffic training clinic formed this fall at which high school students, teenaged drivers, traffic violators who appear in court and any others who are interested may attend.

Sgt. Steenburg was recently appointed Trenton Safety Officer and since then has conducted a number of preventative methods in traffic control.

Up to the present time, the sergeant said, lack of classroom facilities and money have hampered the setting up of a safety clinic in Trenton, but various fields are being explored to bring it into being.

E. L. McIlwain, principal of the Trenton High School, has been giving his full support in this as has Chief of Police Jack Taylor.

Stolen Car Quickly Recovered By Alert Night Officers

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Tuesday, June 17, 1958 3

TRENTON — The value of having an alert police department during the wee hours of the morning was proven at about 1 a.m. today when policemen in the patrolling cruiser apprehended a car theft suspect who had him in the town jail less than five minutes after the car was reported stolen.

In this particular case there may have been a little luck involved, but it is only one of the many times it happens during the year, and most certainly a testimonial to the protective blanket Chief Jack Taylor and his men have thrown over the town when its citizens sleep.

At 12.50 a.m. this writer was standing in the police station when Constable Russell King picked up the ringing phone. It was an emergency call from T. Quibell, 129 Front Street, who reported his car had been just stolen and he had seen it being driven out of the driveway of his home.

Constable King grabbed the radio phone in the detached cruiser which was out patrolling the north end residential and business. The police in the cruiser, Constables Bruce Manin and Ken Hall, immediately proceeded to be on Front Street at the Quibell home. They received the call when they noted the stolen car coming towards them with the lights out and just heading towards Highway 33.

Constable Manin turned the cruiser around while Constable Manin informed the station they had apprehended the car, that all happened in less than a minute.

Two minutes later and they had the stolen car stopped on the highway near the intersection of Wooler Road and Murray St., and Peter Valyear under arrest.

Within another minutes Valyear was in jail and the stolen car was brought to the station, the driver, Constable Manin, in this, while Constable Westrall brought in the prisoner.

Sgt. Steenburg has recently attended a Safety Officers course and since then has conducted a number of preventative methods in traffic control.

Up to the present time, the sergeant said, lack of classroom facilities and money have hampered the setting up of a safety clinic in Trenton, but various fields are being explored to bring it into being.

E. L. McIlwain, principal of the Trenton High School, has been giving his full support in this as has Chief of Police Jack Taylor.

In the two minutes it took to apprehend the driver of the stolen car a chase at a fairly high speed was involved.

When the suspect saw the police cruiser coming towards him and then turn around he knew he was spotted and "really poured on the coal" driving dangerously and still without any lights. He was out on the shoulder of the road several times and once nearly hit a hydro pole but he was no match for the driving skill of the police officers and when he saw he could not get away pulled over to the side of the road and stopped, leaned over with his head on the steering wheel in defeat and let the policemen arrest him.

A suitable ending to the episode could be that this morning Mr. Quibell drove to work in his car instead of making a trip to his insurance agent's office to lay a claim under his car theft policy.

With thanks to the Trenton Police Department and their alertness during the night hours.

For Peter Valyear it could mean a term in prison. Today he will stand before Magistrate T. Y. Wills the same as he did only last Thursday when he was found guilty of theft.

Then he had been placed on four year's suspended sentence and bound over to keep the peace. Before being sentenced Valyear had issued a plea asking that he be allowed to return to a life of hard as an oiler on a ship.

After the magistrate had given the sentence he told Valyear, "This has been your chance. If you get into trouble again it will be harder on you."

A WISE DECISION

Premier Leslie Frost has announced that the province will not consider entering the natural gas distribution field, under a system similar to that by which the HEPC distributes electricity.

We think Premier Frost is right.

Among the reasons which he gave for this decision was the fact that gas is a form of fuel and that publicly owned and operated gas distribution systems would be competing with fuel dealers who have been in business for a long time, marketing coal, oil and other forms of fuel.

There is much to be said for this argument, but perhaps not quite as much as some would assume. In the same way, electricity is a form of fuel, and although too expensive at present for the heating of buildings it is already competing with coal and oil in several fields.

There is, however, another reason why the distribution of gas should not be treated in the same manner as the distribution of electricity, and this appears to us unanswerable. It is that, with Hydro, the HEPC controls the whole operation, from the manufacture of power right through the distribution to local commissions and, through these supervised commissions, to the sale to the ultimate consumer. True, it purchases some power from private companies outside the province, but not enough to alter the accuracy of the statement that it is, in all charge of supplying Ontario residents with the electricity they use and thus can be rightfully held responsible for all phases of the supply.

With natural gas, though, the province would have no direct control over the cost of the gas itself, nor over the cost of bringing it from the Alberta fields to the border of the province.

If the Trans-Canada Pipeline were publicly owned, a good case could be made out for an Ontario Natural Gas Commission. Since the pipeline is privately owned, the province is well advised to steer clear of any connection with the business, aside from that control exercised by public utility commissions. We assume over-all, public utilities, particularly those in which some phases, at least, are monopolies.

As far as municipal distribution of gas is concerned, Premier Frost points out that municipalities are free to act as they see fit. It seems to us that where manufactured gas has been provided by municipally owned distribution systems, a good case may exist for continuing this policy of operation as a public utility. In other municipalities the same conditions which make the decision taken by Premier Frost a sound one would appear to apply, with perhaps even greater force, to the municipal field and should lead them to take a similar decision against entry into the gas distribution field.

HORSE AND BUGGY DAYS

Remember the days when a fairly frequent type of accident was the collision of a car with a horse and buggy? This type of accident frequently resulted in fatalities. Generally it occurred at night and, as often as not, lack of any lights, or inadequate lights, on the buggy was a factor.

A collision between a car and a horse and buggy would be unusual these days. In 1957, when 76,302 highway accidents were reported in Ontario, only 58 consisted of a collision between a motor vehicle and a horse-drawn vehicle. Probably few, perhaps none, of these collisions involved a horse and buggy.

These are cold statistics, but they may bring back memories for some readers. We hope few of these memories involve the recollection of such youthful irresponsibility as that which comes to the writer's mind. The year was 1933, or thereabouts, and the vehicle was a model-T Ford, homeward bound on a 120-mile trip from London, Ont., where a University of Western Ontario rugby game had been the attraction. Some eighty miles from home, the lights went out. Flashlights were produced, but made a poor substitute. Nevertheless, the car continued to probe its way through the night — on the wrong side of the road whenever the driver could distinguish enough of it to make a choice. "Get over on your own side," the occupants wailed. The driver did not deign to reply, just kept hunting for the left-hand ditch. Finally, after some twenty miles, a buggy, travelling in the same direction, suddenly flashed by on the right of the car. "See?" grunted the driver, and groped the rest of the way home in silence. We have yet to figure out why he was convinced that the front end of a horse is more easily discernible than the rear end of a buggy.

IDEALS

I rather be poor to the end of my days
And fail in the markets of trade than lower my standards and strive in the ways
That money is frequently made.

I'd rather keep lofty the ideals I hold
And dwell on in poverty's glow
Than viciously barter for greenbacks and gold
The white of my unspotted plume.

For thousands make money whose hands are blood-red,
And thousands grow wealthy in ways
That are tainted by vice; but a sin, be it said,
Is a sin though a fortune it pays.

Fence Worries Eased

By John Gould in the Christian Science Monitor

Something there is that does not mend a fence as much as it used to, and I am glad. The great change in the bovine category has left me free of fence worries, but there was a time for some years now there has been no demand on me to take the odd pail of skimmed milk out in the spring mud to mend a fence. Now was then every-body had cattle, including us, and fences had to be kept up. Spring mud, cow pastures, cow restrictions, and reglementation have had their effect, and hardly anybody keeps a cow unless he can keep a lot of them.

I got to thinking about fences this week when I had to peel a few saplings to fix my grape arbor. Peeling fence posts was a tedious chore, and by spring almost any farm would have a cord of them peeled and pointed, and ready. You'd have more if you had a new fence in mind.

Pointing them was a two-man job if you had two men. One sawed the post up on the block, turning it a bit after each swipe, and the other would split the log. The first stood there and swung the ax until the poles were all pointed, and then the lightest one added them up and held them and laid them down again, and that would be a machine for hours on end. A good man, with a sharp ax and a slow stroke, could point posts so they looked as if a machine had done it, too.

Then you'd load the posts on the drag, along with the patent fence stretcher, a couple of rolls of wire, the pail of staples and hammer, and off you would go and take you to work. There would be downed trees across the old fence, wires taken down by hunters, poles that had given up and sometimes whole stretches laid flat by the snow. You had to get the entire fence back in order before the grass was green and the cows got on it.

Perhaps nobody ever pauses to think of ancient legislative decisions without end have been assimilated by the unconscious of the whole continents sometimes for possible small use to-day—which consists sometimes of pushing small steel rods in front of you and suspending a single wire on insulators. The animals respect the invisible command of the low voltage and keep its bounds. This is interesting, for one thing. Until June a six-foot fence of woven wire, with a barbed wire at the top, with an electric fence.

However, once there was a man who, most jurists, a thoughtful judge on a dignified bench, ruled that a "reticent" judging, during a long and tedious litigation over how strong a fence must be, was not within the harmony and argument, and handed down the famous decision that a fence, in addition to other established qualities, must be strong enough for a man to lean on. Leaning oi fences, he held, was an integral part of the American heritage, an unpleasable right the courts are pledged to protect and perfect.

The electric fence, I submit, does not qualify in this respect, and therefore is illegal and un-American. The man who takes down a fence seriously, and wonders about leaning on electric wires, will find they are not lawfully made.

Another interesting decision had to do with the width of a fence. Apparently a certain dimension is presumed, and that although the line between two properties is supposed to be the property lines, the fence that denotes it has an allowance. This allowance must be made for same.

This sounds like so much legalistic hairsplitting, but you realize that the court was adjudicating the curious contrivance known as a "Virginia Fence." This was a post and rail barrier previously invented in a state where labor was more prevalent than land. Thus, from the rail-fence mother, which had to be cut and shaped. And the three zig-zagged rails from rail to rail number, which had to be cut and shaped. And the fence zig-zagged in such a manner that Yankee ship captains, when they had to tack into the wind for days without making any mileage, entered the similar zigzagging in their heads and made Virginia fence all day.

Anyway, somebody built a Virginia fence on the line, and the neighbor raised the good question of how much land you need to dedicate to a Virginia fence line. The judges allowed that a Virginia fence which staggered over the feet of the line was the fact and the law, of no greater legal width than a strand of wire. It might look wider, but it was not so in the eyes of the court.

How wide a fence you can therefore erect is left for future deliberations, but probably the question will never come up. Certainly the Yankee stone wall has substance, too, and we must presume differentiation.

* * *

Back in the forgotten days of early days, the extent of fences was automatic To settle all the varied questions that arose when the country was first being settled and fenced, legislative deliberations were set at rest and courts at tedious hours. Each man simply went ahead and built the fence into a farmer's urgencies until we got poems about it, and songs and even pithy sayings. All leading, it seems, up to the need of fences having been detestable and nobody sharpens posts any more.

Oh, it is fun, but not as we used to in the spring, slapping in a fresh post here and there, hoping to get the pin done before the hay ran out Chunking an iron bar to drive a hole and ream a hole, and then standing on the bottom rail to get a whack the post into place with a fence maul.

There is a peculiar knack to drawing a wire taut, and then there is a peculiar knack that requires about thirteen staple heads. But the job could be done with fingers, and you were wise to put it to believe it. And it might be, if the fence was never cared much for mending fences, and all the people in it wanted flaking the grape arbor.

Will Eggs Get Zippers?

Hamilton Spectator

Every so often people are startled to hear of major developments in fields they themselves have been specializing or cultivated for years. In our case, they were horticulture and zoology.

From Cornell University's experimental station at Geneva, N.Y., has come the prediction that it soon may be possible to buy eggs with zippers in them. They are experimenting with "zippers," a type of plastic yard-dash or free-spender season of the word, but meaning plastic strip with steps about some abnormal variation from the parent stock.

We had about finished wondering whether or not there would be a market for zippered apples sold at central market before parking was even built over it, when that item from Manhattan, Kansas, rousted us up again.

It was even more radical: In Manhattan, Kansas, the Wheat Kansas City informed a farm feed conference that by feeding hens with a vitamin-enriched formula it would be possible for them to lay eggs with shell coatings and zip-open shells.

This offered tremendous scope for imagination, in the case of soft-boiled eggs it should open easy to zip them open to see if they're done. If not the zipper could be closed and the egg dropped back into the saucepan. Even the boiling step would be to equip the hens themselves with zippers. We would be glad to call that a boon, when a per that Yankee ship captains, a glory that will live, perhaps forever!

There is always more satisfaction in the doing of difficult things, for they keep leading us into still more difficult things and that is the way we grow! The big man takes up no more space than the little man, but imparts more into it — of thoughts, skill and enjoyment.

There is always a challenge that the skilled worker has before him. He is never satisfied with himself. The doer of difficult things is always glad to face such a challenge.

Many years ago I stopped often on my way to work to view a job of construction on a big skyscraper in New York, but what impressed me was the fact that under the name of the firm doing the job was listed "Builder of difficult foundations." How many do you meet each day who are hunting for the "difficult" jobs?

Police capture alleged gunmen. Police Sergeant Arthur Booth and Constable William Jose do good work early this morning when they arrested two men in suspicious circumstances. They observed a car to make the turn coming from the east at Front and Dundas Streets. They each boarded a side of the car and at the point of revolvers took the men into custody. The car was well armed and carried ninety pounds of ammunition. They are wanted, it is said, for alleged robbery in Montreal and police officers are on the way here to take the men to Montreal. A report from Deseronto that gas had been stolen from a filling station there by breaking it open led to the arrest here.
